TERRA ALTA

LIBRARY

Terra Alta Police Chief T.R. Queen presented an illustrated "Hug-A-Tree" safety program to children at the Terra Alta Public Library recently. Along with a filmstrip narrated by the chief, Penny Bolyard prepared and presented each child with a coloring book that reinforced the safety theme.

The children's story hour is 10 a.m. each Wednesday morning, and will continue through the month of September. Last month's volunteers were Jane Sickler, Mary Hart, Linda Powell, Marcia Hauser, Kendra Durst, and Laurie Noland.

The library's fall book sale is set for Monday, Nov. 5, and will continue for two weeks or until all books have been sold. Several new books will be for sale, along with hundreds of other used books that have been donated from the public or culled from the library's shelves.

Two memorial books were recently presented to the library in memory of John Powers Taylor. Pearl Harbor, by Gordon Prange, and The Wild Blue, by Stephen Ambrose, were donated by Andrew and Phyllis Snelson. A third memorial book, At the Back of the North Wind, by George MacDonald, was presented in memory of William Stresky by Greg and Rose Messenger.

Other persons who have recently donated reading material are Albert Ossman, Jim McConnell, Milton Crum, Margarete Sypolt, Eve Rafferty, Marion Clutter, Patti Anderson, Sarah Kirk, Cosette Harmon, and Crystal White.

Miss Wisenburg, Mr. Friend United In Oakland Ceremony

Christina Marie Wisenburg and Corey Benjamin Friend were married Saturday, July 28, by the Rev. David Paul. The outdoor ceremony was in Oakland at the home of the groom's grandmother, Helen Carroll. The bride is the daughter of Shirley Wisenburg, Keyser, W.Va., and Ronald Wisenburg, Cumberland. The groom's parents are Larry and Becky Friend, Oakland.

Serving as the maid of honor was Tammy Robrecht, friend of the bride. The bridesmaids were Nicole Growden and Sara Stinespring, friends of the bride, and Darian Wisenburg, niece of the bride.

Serving as best man for his brother was Tyler Friend. Groomsmen were Brent Glover, Chris Heslep and Brandon Mitchum, friends of the groom, and Raymond Wisenburg, nephew of the bride.

Flower girls were Haylee Price and Courtney Beard, nieces of the bride. Lake and Beck Sherrard, cousins of the groom, were ring bearers.

Floral arrangements were created by the groom's aunt, Ann Sherrard. Chris Dodson, friend of the couple, provided the music for the ceremony. Carolyn Corley, a family friend, was the photographer.

A reception and a buffet dinner followed the ceremony. The three-tiered wedding cake was baked and served by the groom's mother. A wedding cake pinata was constructed by the bride and groom for the children to enjoy.

The groom's grandmother also hosted the rehearsal on the previous evening, which was preceded by a dinner and followed by a banana split and ice cream sundae bar.

The Friends, who honeymooned in the Blue Ridge Mountains of Virginia, reside in Morgantown, W.Va., where they are both studying engineering at West Virginia University.

Meeting To Focus On Early Amish Mennonite Settlers Of The Forks

The history of the Amish and Mennonite churches in the Forks area (Gabel Berg) of Garrett County is the focus of the Casselman River Area Amish and Mennonite Historians this year. A historical meeting with that focus, sponsored by the historians, is scheduled for September 14 and 15 at the Cherry Glade Mennonite Church near Accident.

The Forks is south of Grantsville in the headwaters of the Casselman River, south of the fork where the North Branch and the South Branch of the Casselman flow together. The postal addresses of the area are Grantsville, Bittinger, and Accident.

Amish Mennonites settled in the area as early as 1837 and in the following decades. The settlement was an extension of the Casselman River Amish Mennonite community which had formed in the late 1700s from Meyersdale, Pa., south to the area of Summit Mills, Salisbury, and Springs in Pennsylvania, and Grantsville in Maryland. Some early Amish Mennonite settlers in the Forks were immigrants recently arrived in Baltimore from Germany, who found land more readily available in that area than in the earlier settled regions of the Casselman Valley.

Family names of Amish Mennonite early settlers in the Forks, with approximate date of arrival in parentheses, are Beachy (1837), Yoder (1847), Orendorf (1855), Schrock (1860s), Ash (1858), Bender (1869), Beitzel (1870), Selders (1880), Brenneman (1880s), and Opel (1887). The Beitzel and Opel families were Lutheran upon arrival in America, with one or more members of their families joining the Amish Mennonite church.

Lutherans settled in the Forks area, forming a church as early as 1822. Lutherans, along with the Amish Mennonites and Brethren, formed a community consisting largely of these three German-speaking denominations. The Amish Mennonites represent the historical background of the present-day Cherry Glade Mennonite Church. A Mennonite church, known today as Glade Mennonite Church, was formed early in the 20th century.

The Friday evening and Saturday forenoon sessions of this historical meeting include the following presentations: Alva Tice of McGaheysville, Va., "From Europe to America"; Dan Beiler of Bittinger, "Early Settlers Impersonated" (a dramatic presentation); Mayard Beitzel of Allensville, Pa., "By the Sweat of Your Brow"; Leora Yaste, Bittinger, "The Bonds in the Community"; David L. Miller, Irwin, Ohio, "The History of the Churches in the Forks"; and Paul H. Yoder, "The Message of the Cemeteries."

A bus tour of historical sites is offered on Saturday afternoon.

The meeting will begin Friday at 7 p.m. The final session on Saturday is followed at noon by a lunch offered at the church and a bus tour scheduled for 1:15 p.m. The Cherry Glade Church is located along Accident-Bittinger Road, four miles east of Accident.

A program flier is available by writing or calling the Casselman Historians, P.O. Box 591, Grantsville, MD 21536; telephone 301-245-4326; e-mail, christior@juno.com.

GBI Arrests Two In Connection With Burglaries

The Garrett Bureau of Investigation arrested two Oakland men in connection with a rash of burglaries that took place in the Oakland area this summer. After receiving a tip through the Garrett County Crime Solvers organization, GBI officers arrested Donald Warren, 44, and Thomas Thorne, 20.

The arrests followed a consented search of Warren's apartment, which reportedly revealed a quantity of stolen property. The items were recovered and identified as those stolen from various locations.

The men were each charged with three counts each of second degree burglary, two counts felony theft, three counts of misdemeanor theft, and four counts of malicious destruction of property.

The charges all stem from burglary incidents at the following places and dates: Lucas Garage in Kitzmiller on Aug. 19, Old Mill Restaurant in Gorman on July 26, a storage trailer parked at the Treasure Island lot on July 12, and at the David Stockett residence in McHenry in late July or early August.

Warren was also charged with one count of burglary and misdemeanor theft in

THAT AMAZING MAIZE — Corn bread, corn pudding, corn chips, corn dogs, and grits are just a few of the products of the pretty ears pictured here, which were grown at the DeBerry farm in Oakland. Growers throughout the county are still selling the staple, although time is running out on sweet corn. Fresh ears can be found every Wednesday and Saturday at the Fresh Mountain Produce Pavilion in Oakland, as well as at numerous local farms. Garrett Countians know fresh corn when they taste it, and there's no better place to buy it than here on the mountaintop, where we live in hominy. (Ouch!)

GCCAC Offering Assistance With Heating Bills

Garrett County Community Action Committee Inc.'s Office of Home Energy Programs (formerly Maryland Assistance Program) is now accepting applications for heating assistance, as well as for the state's new electrical assistance program.

Persons may obtain applications at the local office, located in Oakland along Center Street.

Payments for electric bill assistance will be distributed on a weekly basis by the state, according to Linda Green, program director. The heating assistance money will not be issued until late November or early December. These payments will be made by the local home energy programs office.

Information about eligibility requirements and special office hours at locations throughout Garrett County may be obtained by calling GCCAC at 301-334-9431 or 1-888-877-8403.

Salem Employee Charged By GBI With Child Abuse

A staff member at the Salem Children's Trust in Grantsville has been charged by the Garrett Bureau of Investigation (GBI) for alleged child abuse. Randy Lee Beal, 25, Grantsville, reportedly turned himself in to police on Aug. 30 following a GBI investigation of an incident that occurred at the children's home on Aug. 14.

According to the GBI report, Beal was employed at Salem in a capacity that involved supervising the children there. He apparently became involved in a physical altercation on Aug. 14 with a 14-year-old male resident. The defendant is accused of throwing the juvenile to the ground and placing him in a restraining hold. The altercation injured the teenager's face and broke his eyeglasses, according to the report.

The GBI report also states that Beal was not acting in his own defense, nor in the defense of another, when he assaulted the boy.

Beal was released on a $5,000 unsecured bond following appearance before a District Court commissioner.

Local Writer/Producer Earns Emmy For Images Of Maryland

Glenn Tolbert, McHenry, has received an Emmy Award for his part in the making of Maryland Public Television's Images of Maryland 1900-2000 program, which celebrated the photography of Garrett County's Leo Beachy and five other renowned Maryland photographers. Tolbert wrote the entire program and produced two of the six segments. The show earned two additional Emmys in photography and editing.

The hour-long program, which aired in March, reflected a century of Maryland living as captured by six outstanding photographers: Leo Beachy, A. Aubrey Bodine, Marion Warren, Irving Phillips Sr., Roger Miller, and Middleton Evans. Making its debut in time for Maryland Day, the program was complemented by a student essay and photography contest, a web site, and numerous screenings in local communities throughout the state.

Tolbert was involved with the program from the beginning, having actually first suggested to Producer Adele Rush at MPT a program focused just on the work of Beachy. About a year after he had made the pitch for such a program, Rush obtained backing for Images of Maryland. As producer, she contacted Tolbert and gave him the go-ahead to start work.

"Glenn is an extremely talented television writer," Rush said in an interview yesterday. "I knew when this project came down that Glenn was the one to do it."

Originally, he was only planning to write the Beachy segment, but after Rush read his work, she asked him to pen the entire show. She said the writing in Images of Maryland "made the program."

"Glenn is very adept at creating a mood. He doesn't rush his television scripts as so many writers do, so they're gentle," Rush said, "with lots of pauses and spaces. This gave viewers time to absorb the photographs. The words didn't compete with the images."

Both Rush and Tolbert commended the work of Frank Leung, the videographer for the show, and editor Steve Smith.

"When you're doing a television production, these three roles are key," Rush said. "And these three worked together well to create a beautiful program."

In addition to writing the script, Tolbert produced the Beachy and Bodine segments. The program features short commentaries by local individuals, who spoke about the impact and value of the former Grantsville

TOLBERT WINS AN EMMY — A distinguished Emmy Award will now adorn the wall of McHenry resident Glenn Tolbert, who won the recognition for writing Maryland Public Television's Images of Maryland 1900-2000. He heard about the achievement some months ago, but received the actual trophy pictured just recently. While the project alone was extremely important to Tolbert from the beginning, he said the Emmy has added "a lot of fun" to the entire experience. See story.

Oakland's Main Street Program Obtains Grant

The Maryland Department of Housing and Community Development (DHCD) has awarded a $5,000 Main Street Improvement Grant to the Oakland Main Street Program to help the local community cover the costs of two downtown projects. Oakland is one of 10 Main Street towns in Maryland.

The money will repay a $3,500 bill incurred with the purchase of decorative banners in the downtown area, as well as $1,500 toward the annual Little Yough Concert Series. The banner project was matched with $7,900 in local funds, and the concert series was matched with $12,000 in cash and in-kind services.

The DHCD works with partners to revitalize communities, encourage homeownership, expand affordable housing opportunities, and enhance the state's historic sites and traditions, according to a spokesperson for the department. Main Street Maryland is part of DHCD's Division of Neighborhood Revitalization.

St. Mary's Man Pleads Guilty In Fatal Car Crash

A St. Mary's County man entered a guilty plea to a charge of vehicular homicide during a Garrett County District Court hearing yesterday, and is awaiting the results of pre-sentencing investigation (PSI) ordered by the judge.

David Charles Norris, 23, Tall Timber, pleaded guilty to homicide by motor vehicle while under the influence of alcohol. The charge of driving while intoxicated and/or under the influence of alcohol was merged into that conviction, while two related citations, reckless driving and driving in excess of reasonable and prudent speed, were dismissed, according to state's attorney Lisa Thayer Welch. After accepting the guilty plea, visiting judge Paul J. Stakem ordered a PSI report be conducted, and Norris was freed on bond pending the sentencing hearing.

Norris was charged by Maryland State Police last November following a fatal motor vehicle accident along Green Glade Road that claimed the life of James George Hollis III, 22, also of St. Mary's County. Hollis had been living in Frostburg and in the Sky Valley area of Deep Creek Lake while attending Frostburg State University and completing his student teaching requirements in the Garrett County school system.

During the accident investigation, it was determined that Norris had been traveling north on Green Glade Road when he entered a curve and lost control of his 1989 Ford Bronco because of excessive speed. Norris failed to negotiate the curve and ran off of the road, striking a group of mailboxes and a tree. Hollis was pronounced dead at the scene by forensic investigator Jeff Hinebaugh of the Maryland Medical Examiner's Office.

Busy Holiday Weekend For State Police

The McHenry barrack of the Maryland State Police recently released its Labor Day Weekend Report for Aug. 31 to Sept. 3.

MSP reportedly made 10 adult criminal arrests, four of which were for CDS and one for a handgun violation. In addition to responding to five motor vehicle collisions, one of which was alcohol related, the state police also made five DWI/DUI arrests, issued 243 citations, gave 249 warnings, and assisted eight motorists whose vehicles were disabled during the holiday weekend.

All Urged To Take Part In "His, Her" Cancer Awareness Months

The American Cancer Society, Garrett County Health Department, Garrett Memorial Hospital Wellness, and the University of Maryland Statewide Health Network will be celebrating "his and her" health months in September and October to increase the awareness of prostate and breast cancer, as well as the importance of early detection.

Beginning this month and carrying though October, organizers plan to inundate the Garrett County community with an awareness campaign. A variety of activities are planned to educate and encourage men and women to get annual screening exams. The campaign will target the entire community, including restaurants, physician offices, worksites, pharmacies, beauty shops, and churches.

According to a campaign spokesperson, a tool kit and awareness guide have been developed and will be offered to participating community agencies and businesses. The materials include posters, educational materials, and other items. They are designed to support and guide the participating agencies, businesses, and organizations on how they can help spread the early detection message throughout September and October.

"Our goal is to cover the county with a consistent message that will raise awareness of the importance of annual screening," said Vickie Mazer, regional coordinator for the University of Maryland Statewide Health Network. "The groups that are involved in this campaign are working together to leverage our resources to reach people where they work, play, and worship. We are hoping the rest of the community joins in and uses the materials we developed to help us promote this message."

Individuals and organizations that join the campaign will be provided materials and technical assistance free of charge, Mazer said. Themes have been designated for September and October and will be used throughout each month. September's Prostate Cancer Awareness Month theme is "Get checked. It could save your life."

Women will also be targeted with the early detection message through the October theme of "Fall into a good habit. Have your annual mammogram."

Also planned as part of the awareness campaign is a "Sign Up To Save Lives" program, in which all businesses, restaurants, and churches will be asked to put the targeted health theme on their outside signs or kiosks during the weeks of September 10-14 and October 15-19. "Everyone reads the messages on the outside signs of restaurants and churches," said Cindy Kutchman, RN for the Garrett County Health Department Cancer Education and Screening Program. "We are hoping this resource helps provide broad coverage and consis-

MSP Arrest Five Men For Possible CDS

Five out-of-county men were recently arrested in unrelated cases by Maryland State Police on charges of possession of marijuana and drug paraphernalia.

On Friday, Aug. 31, two Morgantown, W.Va., men, William Milford Gail III, 42, and Eric Benjamin Johnson, 23, were stopped by MSP while driving in the eastbound lane of I-68 near exit 24 for seatbelt violations. A driver's license check through the MVA revealed that the passenger, Johnson, was in possession of a revoked license. A search of the men's 1990 Ford Escort by Cpl. J. LeMay reportedly revealed three baggies of marijuana end several pipes.

Both suspects were charged with possession of marijuana and drug paraphernalia, processed at Barrack W, and taken before a court commissioner, according to MSP reports.

In another case, on Monday, Sept. 3, Jonas C. Beverlin, and William A. Baker, both 18 and from New Martinsville, W.Va., were driving in the westbound lane of I-68 near the nine-mile marker when they were stopped for speeding. Upon approaching the men's 1991 Honda, the MSP officer reportedly detected the smell of burnt marijuana. A search of the vehicle revealed the suspected marijuana and a smoking device, according to the investigating officer's report.

Both suspects were charged for possession of marijuana and drug paraphernalia and taken before a court commissioner.

On Wednesday, Sept. 5, Donald Eugene Carr, 33, of Cumberland was southbound on Rt. 219 near Foster Road when he was stopped by TFC M. Clapper for a traffic violation. A search of the vehicle reportedly revealed suspected marijuana and drug paraphernalia. According to an MSP report, Carr was charged with driving while intoxicated and driving under the influence, possession of marijuana, and possession of drug paraphernalia. He was incarcerated pending a bond hearing.

EYM Engaged In Unique Coffee Relief Project

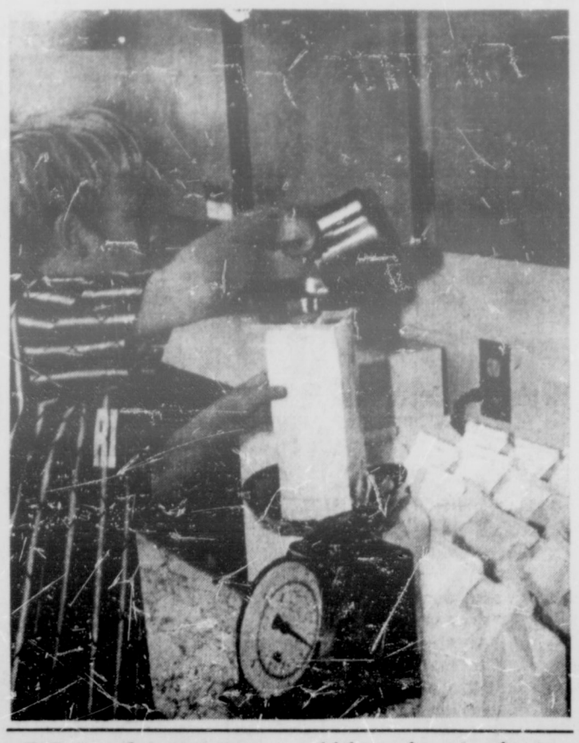
As international coffee prices remain at an all-time low, families in Nicaragua and other coffee-producing nations are suffering the effects of joblessness and hunger. The situation is reportedly dire, and members of the Ecumenical Youth Ministry are trying to help. They are engaged in "Coffee Connection Premium Blend," through which local individuals may purchase one-pound bags of coffee to benefit the families in need.

The outlook is bleak, with families already nearly starving and losing their homes, according to world reports. EYM is receiving the "shade-grown" coffee from a mission worker in Nicaragua who is connected to St. Matthew's Episcopal Church. As part of EYM's mission to help when possible, the organization has contracted with a coffee cooperative in Nicaragua to import 200 pounds of shade-grown coffee.

According to an EYM informational brochure, the shade-grown coffee is "one of the most environmentally sustainable methods of growing coffee, producing a smooth blend without the excessive use of fertilizers or pesticides."

The "fair trade coffee" program will guarantee growers pricing standards that will sustain the workers' livable wages, according to the information. Money raised in this effort will directly benefit the growers and workers in Nicaragua.

To reserve orders of the coffee, persons may contact St. Matthew's Episcopal Church at 301-334-2510. Callers are reminded to leave their names, addresses, and phone numbers.



EYM SELLING COFFEE TO HELP GROWERS — What may appear at first as a strange endeavor, the Ecumenical Youth Ministry is in the coffee business. The project is actually fulfilling the organization's mission to "help where they can," because each bag of coffee sold helps a Nicaraguan family in need. With an all-time low in international coffee prices, coffee workers in Nicaragua are suffering. See story. Bags of the shade-grown, smooth coffee can be purchased from the EYM by calling St. Matthew's Church at 301-334-2510. Pictured above are EYM volunteers (from left) Laura Hinebaugh, Catherine Donaldson (with back to camera), and Molly McGowan as they prepare the one-pound bags. Pictured at right doing his part is Mason Dick.

Truck Overturns In Ditch; Driver Cited For DWI

A driver who wrecked his pickup truck Sunday morning was charged with driving while intoxicated by the Garrett County Sheriff's Office.

Phillip Andrew Och, 32, Rockville, was operating a 1989 Isuzu truck west on Glendale Road when he apparently lost control of the vehicle in a turn. The truck crossed the eastbound lane and then overturned in a ditch.

In addition to DWI, Och was cited for failure to control speed to avoid an accident. The wreck occurred at about 11:30 a.m., according to the police report.

Education Board Sets Date For Sept. Meeting

The Garrett County Board of Education will hold its regular monthly meeting on Tuesday, Sept. 11, in the board room located on the third floor of the administrative office building. The education board office is located at 40 South Second Street, Oakland.

The closed session will be held from 4:05 to 5:30 p.m. The open portion of the meeting will immediately follow. Time is set aside at 4 p.m. and 7 p.m. for public comment and participation on any school-related topic.

The public is invited to attend any or all of the open meeting.

Married Couple Arrested After Violence Incident

A married couple involved in a domestic altercation were arrested by deputies of the Garrett County Sheriff's Office this week. Officers responded to the 2300 block of Hutton Road on Sept. 3 at approximately 10:30 p.m. to the home of Rogetta M., 29, and David R. Reckart, 37. The married couple had allegedly been involved in a physical altercation that caused injury to both of them.

Both defendants were arrested, each charged with one count of second degree assault. The police report indicated that alcohol was a factor in the incident.

GC Habitat For Humanity Marks Sept. Observance

Each September, Garrett County Habitat for Humanity takes part in a month-long global effort to highlight Habitat's mission in small communities throughout the world. Habitat's International Day of Prayer and Action will be observed on Sunday, Sept. 16, as churches local and worldwide have been asked by the organization's directors to pray for this ministry, which seeks to wipe out substandard housing.

In Garrett County all individuals and organizations that support Habitat each year with fund-raising and building projects are thanked by the local chapter. "In our community this effort can be seen in the dedication of one house and the completion of another." This demonstrates the process that enables a family to move from a substandard dwelling to an affordable home to be proud of. All Habitat houses are simple, but they represent a giant, complicated leap forward.

Garrett County's 40th Habitat house will be dedicated this Sunday, Sept. 9, at 3 p.m. at 104 East Pennington St., Oakland. Refreshments will be served at the Sisler family home, where volunteers, donors, and friends will gather with the new owners for a time of thanksgiving and sharing.

When volunteers work the week of Sept. 10-15 in Bloomington to complete Garrett County's 41st Habitat house, they will be honoring Habitat's International Building on Faith Week. Groups from many backgrounds will complete the Bever family home.

All members of the community are invited to participate in these projects and forthcoming works of the Garrett County, national, and international chapters of Habitat for Humanity, the spokesperson concluded.

State Police Log Weekend DWI Arrests

Two individuals were arrested on driving while intoxicated (DWI) charges this week, as reported by the Maryland State Police.

John Paul McNealey, 42, Severna Park, was stopped by Tfc. Clapper on Rt. 219 south of Glendale Road on Aug. 31 at 12:24 a.m. The driver was cited for DWI as well as failure to drive right of center and negligent driving, according to the report.

On Sept. 1, Clapper stopped Joshua McBride Spiker, 24, McHenry, for various traffic violations. He was charged with DWI, failure to drive right of center, and negligent driving. The arrest occurred at 3 a.m.

Spiker was released on his own recognizance, the report noted.

Two Arrested By GCSO On DWI Charges

Two individuals in separate incidents were charged with DWI (driving while intoxicated) this week by the Garrett County Sheriff's Office.

Sheriff's deputies made a traffic stop on Sept. 1 at approximately 1 a.m. at the intersection of Alder and Fourth streets in Oakland. Debra Kay DelSignore, 45, Frostburg, was arrested and charged with DWI and failure to drive right of center.

The second DWI arrest reported this week took place following a traffic stop on Sept. 2 at approximately 2:30 a.m. at the BFS on Oak Street in Oakland. Chad Linwood Bryan, 35, Millville, W.Va., was placed under arrest after field sobriety tests were not performed to the deputies' satisfaction, according to the report.

Bryan was charged with DWI, failure to drive right of center, driving on an expired license, and failure to display registration on demand.

MSP Respond To Many Holiday Traffic Accidents

The McHenry barrack of the Maryland State Police responded to numerous unrelated traffic accidents that sent several persons to local hospitals during the Labor Day weekend.

A 6:25 a.m. accident on Friday, Aug. 31, sent one person to the hospital. Jerry Tichnell, 50, of Swanton was reportedly southbound in his 1974 Mack flatbed log truck on Rt. 495 near Green Glade Road. The truck was hit by a northbound 1998 Dodge Neon, driven by Kelly Beachy, when Tichnell failed to yield the right of way and crossed the northbound lane, while attempting to turn left onto a private driveway.

Beachy, 41, also of Swanton, was transported to Garrett Memorial Hospital by Southern Rescue Squad. She was treated and later released. Tichnell, who was not injured in the mishap, was charged with failure to yield the right of way while making a left turn, according to Maryland State Police reports.

Deer Park Community Volunteer Fire Department also responded to the accident.

Two people were transported to Cumberland Memorial Hospital Friday, following a 5:38 p.m. accident. Joseph Francis Smith Jr., 37, of Ridley Park, Pa., was traveling westbound on Rt. 40 near Keyser's Ridge Road when he reportedly lost control of his 1999 Chevy Lumina and struck a guardrail located on the north side of the roadway. The vehicle then overturned several times before coming to rest down the embankment.

A passenger, Christine Theresa Smith, 51, also of Ridley Park, was trapped in the vehicle and had to be extricated by Grantsville Volunteer Fire Department. She and Smith were transported to the hospital by Northern Rescue. Joseph Smith was treated and released. Christine Smith was admitted and later discharged, according to a spokesperson for the hospital.

Joseph Smith was charged with failure to control speed to avoid a collision, driving with unsafe tires, and driving with expired tags, according to state police reports. The report noted that the vehicle's worn tires and rain contributed to the accident.

A traffic accident on Sunday, Sept. 2, at 10:57 p.m. on Lake Shore Drive sent two persons to Garrett Memorial Hospital. George Edward Stevenson Jr., 40, of Greensburg, Pa., was reportedly traveling north at a high rate of speed. While rounding a curve, the passenger side of Stevenson's 2000 Ford F-150 truck became airborne, and he lost control. The vehicle then traveled off the right side of the roadway, struck several trees, and overturned.

Passengers in the truck, Jeff Marconyak, 24, of Monessen, Pa., and a 13-year-old male from Greensburg, Pa., were transported to the hospital by Southern Rescue Squad, where they were treated for minor injuries and later released. Stevenson refused medical treatment at the scene of the accident.

Stevenson was charged with driving at a speed greater than reasonable/prudent, negligent driving, and driving while intoxicated/driving under the influence. He was placed under arrest for DWI/DUI and transported to the Garrett County jail, pending a bond hearing, according to police reports.

Northern Rescue Squad and Deep Creek Volunteer Fire Department also responded to the accident.

MSP also reported that on Monday, Sept. 3, two persons were transported to Cumberland Memorial Hospital following a 3:19 p.m. accident. Gilbert Bowman, 62, of Swanton was reportedly northbound on Bittinger Road in his 2001 Chevrolet Silverado and was attempting to making a left turn onto Dung Hill Road, when his truck was struck on the passenger side by a 1995 Ford F-150 truck, driven by Douglas Warnick, 37, of Grantsville.

Bowman and his passenger, Larry Shoemaker, 44, also of Swanton, were flown to the hospital by Maryland State Police Tooper 5. As of Wednesday afternoon, Bowman was listed as stable, and Shoemaker was in serious condition, according to a spokesperson for the hospital.

Charges in the accident are pending. Northern Rescue and Bittinger and Grantsville volunteer fire departments also responded to the mishap.

A motorcycle accident at 5:06 p.m. on Monday also sent William Virgil Miller, Sr., 44, of Grantsville to Cumberland Memorial Hospital. Miller was riding his 1983 Suzuki westbound on Maple Grove Road. Miller reportedly tried to brake while entering a right-hand curve on a hill crest and lost control of the motorcycle. The vehicle skidded on its side, traveled off the roadway, and struck an embankment, according to the MSP report.

No charges were filedd. Miller was transported to the hospital by Salisbury Ambulance. As of Wednesday afternoon, he was listed in serious condition, according to a spokesperson for the hospital.

WORK IS PROGRESSING on the replica of the front porch of the Deer Park Hotel in downtown Oakland, with the above drawing of the project by Robert Shaffer providing a good idea of how it will look when completed. The work is being sponsored by the Garrett County Historical Society. Below is an actual photo of the long-gone Deer Park Hotel porch, complete with a cupola at the top center. According to Robert Boal, president of the society, it is hoped that the cupola will also added to the roof of the porch replica at some time in the not-too-distant future, provided sufficient funds are raised to finance it. The society is currently selling tickets for its fall dinner, this year titled the B&O Dining Car Dinner, set for Thursday, Sept. 27, at Will O' the Wisp. Persons wishing to make a tax-deductible contribution to the society may send their checks to P.O. Box 28, Oakland. Materials for the porch project were donated by O.C. Cluss, new owner of Beachy Lumber Company.

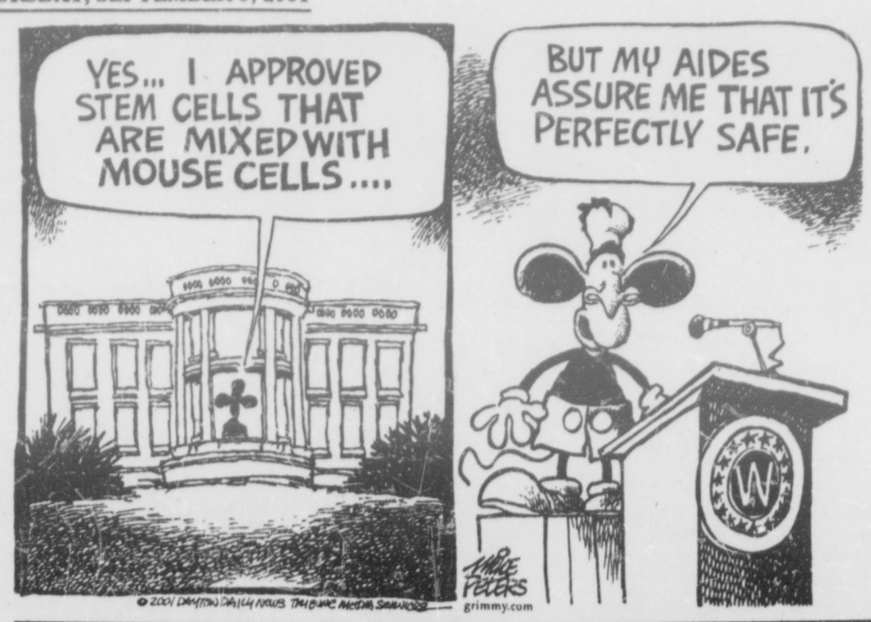
Filling a Gap...

Preliminary plans, or at least discussions, are under way concerning the replacement of the Garrett County jail. The current facility in the courthouse annex is often overcrowded and is significantly inadequate in terms of ancillary spaces needed to properly house inmates. The very thought of replacing the jail also sparks excitement about the possibility of eventually razing the present courthouse annex and replacing the beautiful grass/lawn that was once in front of the original, attractive courthouse.

We envision a new retention facility that houses not only the sheriff's office and jail, but also some greatly needed spaces and staff to attend to those apprehended persons, as well as current inmates, who suffer from mental illness, alcoholism, and/or some other form of drug addiction.

The fact of the matter is, the great majority of any group of jail inmates suffers from one or more of the aforementioned problems. Every single law enforcement official will confirm this, with alcohol abuse being the most common. However, our county is woefully lacking in being able to appropriately deal with these people, at least at the time of arrest. There is really no good place for a police officer to transport a person who violates the law and is in a drunken or drugged state. The hospital emergency room would certainly prefer not to have them delivered there, unless they have injuries that need to be treated. The present jail has no good facility and no in-house counselors to handle them. The Finan Center in Cumberland is sometimes available, but that facility is also not designed to deal with inebriated persons, plus one has the cost and inconvenience of transportation.

The level of pain, heartache, death, and destruction caused by addiction and mental illness is tremendous in Garrett County. Most persons who are so afflicted are not criminals by nature. They have simply lost control, and desperately need treatment far more than they need jail time. There are a number of worthy local agencies/organizations that are working hard to provide treatment and support (Garrett County Lighthouse, Addiction Services, Alcoholics Anonymous, etc.), but there are still some huge gaps. A new jail, properly equipped with adequate space and trained professionals, would help fill one of those gaps.



Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

Since there is talk about a new jail, could anything be done to tear the jail down and have our beautiful courthouse back?

Our historical center and the train station are so nice.

Please, commissioners, see what can be done for our courthouse! We live in a nice, beautiful town! Do other people need to write, or what can we, the people, do?

Thanks,
Joann Schrock

To the Editor:

I wanted to express to you how very glad I am to see that there are now Accident items in your newspaper. I am from Accident, and as a child growing up, that was the first item that was read in the paper. Now that I live in Ohio and subscribe to the paper, I was surprised and very pleased that the Accident area is back in the swing of things. Keep up the good work.

Sincerely,
Shirley A. Sisler

To the Editor:

Thanks to all the volunteers who worked to organize the soccer camp held at Southern High School August 6-10. My 14-year-old son Matt attended the camp and benefited greatly from it. He found it to be a very good preparation for the soccer try-outs at his high school.

All of the players made him feel welcome, and each day he had high praise for the campers. He was not made to feel like an "outsider." This speaks well of your athletes and all of the coaches and adults who supervise them.

Please extend my thanks to all involved with providing this worthwhile experience.

Sincerely,

To the Editor:

Last week's paper had a picture on the front page of a school bus, and it was stated that the people who didn't stop when the red flashing lights were on were breaking the law. Apparently some people don't know the law, since the car by Wal-Mart Thursday didn't stop when the bus was stopped and the red lights were on and flashing with the stop sign out. It did not mean anything to you. Well, it does to me. What would you have done if a child were crossing the street when you did not stop? Say "sorry" and keep going? Wrong. I stopped and reported you to the city police. I hope they find you and give you what you deserve.

Thank you,
Sandy Tasker

To the Editor:

I just wanted to write to express my appreciation to the OB staff of the Garrett County Memorial Hospital. The doctors, nurses, and aides work long, hard hours all the time, and I'm sure that they don't hear "thank you" enough.

I delivered a beautiful baby girl on August 22, and I can't say enough about the fine care we were given! All of the staff in the maternity ward were so kind and cheerful, and always ready to help. I would like to say a special thank-you to Dr. Savopoulos, Bev, Sheila, and Shannon, who had to put up with me the most — you guys are great!

This county is so blessed to have such dedicated, loving people to serve in this way. Thanks again for blessing little Olivia and me with your care. You've all touched our lives!

God Bless,
Debbie Weeks

To the Editor:

Henry Louis Mencken has been one of my all-time heroes since before I cast aside my ultra-liberal upbringing and began to view the world as it truly is. I was the youngest of four sons in a loving family where all of the voting adults voted at least four times for Franklin Delano Roosevelt: the anti-Christ of Capitalism and the free enterprise system that had so clearly made our one-of-a-kind country the envy of the world.

I was college educated and 49 years old before I managed to break the chains that bind and began to think for myself politically. I had always been proud that H.L. Mencken was, or had been, an editor of the largest newspaper in my native state. But now I look at what my state has become: a charter member in the 3M states of radical liberalism, socialism, really — Massachusetts, Maryland, and Minnesota. Since I recently turned 70, you can see there were a lot of votes cast, in my family alone, for a man who did more to destroy the American Constitution, and the representative republic it created, than any other single individual.

But then, I still have Mencken to cling to, even though his former newspaper subsequently helped turn my native state into a socialist satellite of "leftist-ism."

Listen to the words of Mencken, and tell me I'm wrong.

H.L. Mencken on Government:

"The government consists of a gang of men exactly like you and me. They have, taking one with the other, no special talent for the business of government; they have only the talent for getting and holding office.

"Their principle device to that end is to search out groups who pant and pine for something they can't get and to promise to get it to them. Nine times out of ten that promise is worth nothing. The tenth time is made good by looting A to satisfy B.

"In other words, government is a broker in pillage — and every election is sort of an advance auction sale of stolen goods."

I do believe, however, if Mencken were alive today he would acknowledge the solid contributions Jesse Helms has made in the past 30 years to the republic they both loved, and tried so valiantly to defend from leftist despoilers.

Cordially,
Ronald R. Rowan

To the Editor:

As many of you know, Grantsville is in dire need of a new library building. The federal government understands this need and is working to provide $300,000 in funding. The Garrett County commissioners understand this need, but have yet to make a commitment. Delegate George Edwards and Senator John Hafer understand the need and have asked for support from the state government, but Governor Parris Glendening does not yet understand the vitality of this library to Northern Garrett County. Therefore, residents of northern Garrett County need to write to Governor Glendening and express to him the need for a new Grantsville library, as well as what the new library will mean to the community.

Some points to consider in stressing the need for a new library in Grantsville are:

- The current Grantsville library does not meet National Library standards nor is it handicapped accessible.
- Based on the population, there should be eight public computer workstations — currently there is 1. Adding more computers to the present library is not possible because of the wiring in the building, as the last upgrade occurred in 1968. Users experience outages and computer slowdowns because of the wiring, and fire safety issues are a constant concern. Even if the wiring were to be updated, more computers could not be added as there is a lack of space.
- In order to serve the population, the building should be between 3,500 and 5,000 square feet — the current building is 845 square feet.
- The library should contain 20,000 volumes to meet the needs of the service area — it contains approximately 8,000 volumes and is overcrowded.

It is time for the Maryland government to step in and help a community that has been helping itself. We have demonstrated that we want this library by raising $160,000. Now we need to tell the governor of our need for this library. Letters can be mailed to Governor Parris Glendening, State House, Annapolis, MD 21401, or faxed to 410-974-3275, and e-mails can be sent to governor@gov.state.md.us. Your support in this matter is greatly appreciated.

Thank you,

To the Editor:

I would like to inform the motorists of this county why it is illegal to pass on the right. About three weeks ago, I witnessed a near accident in the lake area. A group of pedestrians was attempting to cross very busy Rt. 219 (it was the last evening of the fair). A very polite driver in the southbound lane stopped to yield the right of way to the pedestrians (unfortunately, none of the northbound traffic did the same). After the northbound traffic had passed, the pedestrians then crossed 219, with the same Good Samaritan still waiting in the southbound lane. Unfortunately, an impatient driver behind the stopped van decided to speed around the van, nearly hitting the pedestrians, who had almost finished crossing.

You see, the law prohibiting passing on the shoulder is designed to protect pedestrians, bicyclists, etc. I will never understand why the three law enforcement agencies allow people to do this. I think this passing on the shoulder has gone far enough. The police must start enforcing the law by handing out tickets, and now. If not, there will be someone killed. The question is not if, but when.

I am urging our law enforcement to enforce this law. Every time someone goes around on the right, an accident is possible or a life is in jeopardy.

I am also urging the motorists of this area to learn some patience. It only takes a few seconds to stop and wait for the vehicle ahead of you to turn left — It will not throw you too much off schedule to obey the law and wait. What is more important, getting to work, Wal-Mart, home, etc., quicker, or ensuring that everyone is safe? I would hope the safety of everyone else is more important.

About a year ago, our commissioners requested that special bicycle lanes be built on roads throughout Garrett County. While that would be a great idea for several county roads with high bike traffic, it is redundant for the state roads, because they already have one — the shoulder.

I would also like to remind the motorists that it is state law to have your headlights on whenever windshield wipers are needed, and in adverse weather such as fog, snow, etc. This law also needs enforced.

Finally, I would like to state that a bear hunt in Maryland is unnecessary. The number of bears doesn't justify a hunt. If there were a thousand or more, I would have no problem with a hunt; but we have only about 225; one or two seasons and you will have eliminated, 90% of them. There are only about 200 bears in Preston County (July 11 Morgantown Dominion Post). In the areas just north of Maryland in Fayette, Somerset, and Westmoreland counties, there are only 22 bears per 100 square miles (MD has 27 bears per 100 sq. miles), meaning that if the same area in western Maryland would be transported to western Pa., there would be only 185 bears! The 225 estimate is accurate; the only reason it seems bigger is because many people are seeing the same bear, and people are seeing the same bear more than once. A hunt is not necessary for the bears; it is for other animals however. A better solution for the bear "problem" is to simply relocate them to other areas in Maryland.

Respectfully submitted,
Lester Lewis

CHICKEN IN THE POT

By the first light of day with hatchet in hand, I entered the chicken house and grasped a rooster securely by his legs. He squawked briefly, and then went still. I laid his head between the nails on the log block. I aimed, and brought down the hatchet on his neck. There was one last gurgling squawk, and then silence. I laid the body on the grass, and held it to prevent that wild dance of a chicken with its head cut off, in order to avoid bruising.

Fourteen times I went to the chicken house that morning until the corpses of 12 roosters and two old hens lay on the ground in a line. By seven o'clock I smelled like nothing but blood. I commenced plucking. By 10 o'clock I smelled like nothing but feathers.

A day's butchering on the farm was not an unusual thing 50 years ago. Twenty years before that, it was a common thing. With the industrialized raising and butchering of chickens today, it is hard to imagine the expensive delicacy chicken was in the 20s. Herbert Hoover campaigned for re-election in 1932 on the slogan "A chicken in every pot."

Anyone who has killed and dressed a chicken understands what a bold promise that was. As with any butchering, the worst part of butchering a chicken comes first, and is quickly over. Killing comes easier with practice, but to a healthy person it never becomes pleasurable. Once the killing is over, one is no longer working from a living thing, one is working toward food.

I spent a peaceful day in my yard and kitchen plucking and then gutting chickens. The processing of them took more time that week. The bulk of the chicken I precooked in the pressure steamer before pressure canning the deboned meat. Some of the leg quarters I froze. Then there were bones and skin which I pressure cooked again to produce that rich broth which will serve as the basis for many different dishes this coming winter.

Nothing was wasted. The feathers will be added to others I have been saving. There might just be enough now for a feather pillow. If not this time, then the next time there will be. The remnants of the chickens went to the compost pile, where they will become rich fertilizer for the garden.

Besides all the food put by for the future, there was also the fresh delicacy of the livers, which I sauteed in butter with some sherry, and enjoyed on toasted bread from a loaf made by my mother. It was a dish I ate with relish. Butchering day should always be marked with some immediate delight in the work at hand.

On the second shelf of the pantry stand 14 quarts of meat, and eight quarts and six pints of broth. There are the eight leg quarters in the freezer and a pot of chicken corn soup in the refrigerator. That is a prospect of some mighty good eating.

Home butchering is not easy. It is also not economical in the strict dollars-and-cents meaning of that word. It is basic. The fundamentals of life are too easily lost. One of the most fundamental connections is that in order for one thing to live another thing must die.

Even for the vegetarians (or their more radical cousins, vegans and fructarians) the bug that would have eaten its supper has to die so that the vegetarian can eat his supper. A lot of killing goes on in order to produce a veggie burger.

That fundamental connection is not only lost in the grocery store, it is also, very substantially, lost on the farm. Life is compartmentalized so that the person who raises the chicken never sees the person who kills the chicken. Neither of them sees the persons who sell, cook, and eat the chickens. If the chicken is consumed in the motor vehicle, where meals increasingly are eaten, then there is a complete disjunction of the principals who participate in creating and eating the food "chicken."

I have raised, killed, cooked, and eaten the one and same chicken. That is no small accomplishment in our day.

It is not necessary to reconnect all of the steps in order to reconnect some of them. That seems obvious enough when said, but it is a kind of re-connection we have too little of. To cook the chicken we eat, to know the butcher who cuts up the chicken which we buy, to know the farmer who raises the chicken and who, perhaps, has killed and dressed it for us are all ways that the re-connections of life can be renewed.

We can all touch bottom, and re-establish fundamentals in our lives, that is, if we will.

resident's artistry. Tolbert and the production team utilized new digital camera technology that resulted in extremely high resolution of the photographs, many of which featured Garrett County children in the early part of the 1900s. Tolbert also used a technique to juxtapose some of Beachy's landscape pictures with scenes of those locations as they are today.

"One of the best things about the show and the awards is the fact that we have been able to put some very important Garrett County history in a place of high visibility," Tolbert said. He expressed gratitude to the Garrett County Arts Council for its help in the project.

"When I first discovered Leo Beachy's work, I was so excited and fascinated by it that I wanted to bring it to a wider audience," Tolbert said. "The arts council gave me a grant to prepare a nice package to present to MPT, which eventually led to the Images project. I really appreciate the arts council's support and vision."

Tolbert has been involved in the television writing and producing field for decades. He is the creator of MPT's Outdoors Maryland program, and was the series producer of Sea Power, an internationally released six-part program that explored how the world's oceans have affected humankind throughout history. He also produced After the Warming, a documentary about the possible effects of global warming that featured host James Burke.

Tolbert is employed by Garrett Community Action in the micro-enterprise office, and is the manager of Oakland's Main Street program. He and his wife, Sherry Frantz, live in McHenry.

In addition to the awareness campaign, the four sponsoring agencies are also cooperating to provide a prostate cancer screening in September and a breast cancer survivor celebration in October. More details of these events will be released soon. The campaign begins this week and is to carry on throughout October.

Letters and tool kits are being distributed this week. While numerous area places of work, play, and worship are being contacted, others interested in participating are encouraged to call and register for the campaign and ask questions about how they can help. "STOP RUNNING RED LIGHTS — Start Saving Lives," is the theme of Maryland's "Stop on Red Week" which continues through tomorrow. The state campaign is part of a nationwide effort to reduce the more than one million motor vehicle collisions occurring annually at traffic signals, which injure over 500,000 people and kill over 1,000 victims each year. The local observance was marked with a public awareness event yesterday afternoon at the old Treasure Island store parking lot, where a number of agencies dedicated to public safety were on hand to demonstrate equipment and procedures. Among those were, shown standing at the table, highway safety coordinator Diane Lee of the Maryland State Highway Administration (MDSHA), who is holding her 1-year-old son Patrick, and Oakland Police Department chief John Sines. Lined up with their respective emergency vehicles, from the left, are cardiac rescue technician Sam Moon of the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad; K.C. Keith, MDSHA District 6 safety engineer; Maryland State Police Lt. Randy Resh, commander of the McHenry barrack; Sgt. W.C. Thomas of the Maryland Department of Natural Resources State Forest and Park Service; Cpt. Larry Gnegy of the Garrett County Sheriff's Office; and GCSO Dfc. Chris Helbig. Not pictured are Art Refosco and Barbara Shaffer of the Garrett County Board of Education's Office of Transportation. Hanging in the background are the stoplights at the intersection of Maryland Highway and Weber Road, a local crossing known as a hotspot of motor vehicle accidents, fender-benders and worse.

Man Cited For DWI, Property Destruction

The Maryland State Police logged an arrest this week involving property destruction and driving while intoxicated (DWI). A North Carolina man was charged with the offenses on Sept. 1.

According to the report, Cpl. J. LeMay responded to a Main Street address in Grantsville at approximately 11:15 p.m. in reference to a destruction of property involving a dark colored truck that apparently was driven twice through a yard. A witness to the crime directed the officer to the Grantsville Corner Market, where a black Ford F-350 was located.

An investigation revealed that the driver allegedly drove maliciously through the victim's yard twice and then fled the scene. Daniel Rowland, 23, Hobbsville, N.C., was identified as the driver of the truck, and he was charged with DWI and malicious destruction of property.

The defendant was taken to the Garrett County jail, where he was held on $8,000 full bond, according to the report.

Local Student Is Accepted By Modeling School

By virtue of her success in a competition held in Baltimore on Saturday, a local student has been accepted to attend Barbizon Modeling School.

Megan Soult, daughter of Wayne and Melissa Soult, Mtn. Lake Park, was one of about 100 girls who auditioned for the school. She will attend Barbizon for the next six months to receive professional training in runway, photo, and television modeling. After completing her training, she will work out of the Baltimore, Washington, D.C., and New York areas for Barbizon.

She will also have an opportunity to win a four-year college scholarship valued up to $100,000 offered by Barbizon for up to three years after she graduates from high school.

Megan is a sixth grade student at Southern Middle School. She has a sister, Bethany, and a brother, Anthony.

Tree Seedlings Available From DNR At Cost

The John S. Ayton State Forest Tree Nursery of the Maryland Department of Natural Resources Forest Service is offering seedlings, at cost, to individuals and organizations wishing to plant trees on a minimum of 1/4 acre of land. The sale of these seedlings is one of the ways that DNR's Forest Service works to help individuals and organizations invest in the future, according to a spokesperson.

Individuals with 1/4 acre or more are encouraged to plant trees as stream buffers, windbreaks, to improve wildlife habitat, and erosion control. Neighbors can get together to plant 1/4 acre along their property lines, and communities are encouraged to plant seedlings in parks and other common areas. Seedlings are offered for sale in minimum quantities of 100 seedlings. Conifers may be ordered in multiples of 50, and hardwood seedlings in multiples of 100.

In order to encourage the planting of riparian buffers in Maryland, the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service is offering seedlings at no cost to private landowners with qualifying buffers. The landowner must have a forest plan for the riparian area that the landowner wants to reforest. The riparian buffer is generally limited to the 100-year floodplain or to the crest of the hill in steep valleys. Those planning to plant more than one acre may be eligible for one of the many incentive programs offered by the state or federal government.

Persons interested in planting trees next spring should contact the local DNR Forest Service office at Mt. Nebo at 301-334-3296 for guidance in planning planting, because proper site preparation is extremely important, the spokesperson said. Seedling orders will be taken until Feb. 28, but seedlings are sold on a first-come, first-serve basis, so early orders are encouraged.

Landowners or groups interested in purchasing seedlings for planting this coming spring can also place their order by contacting the Ayton Forest Tree Nursery at 1-800-TREES-MD (1-800-873-3763). The nursery's catalog can be viewed on-line at www.dnr.state.md.us/forests/nursery.

Both GLAF And Music At Penn Alps To Present Guitarist William Feasley

Music at Penn Alps and the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival (GLAF) will present classical guitarist William Feasley in two separate programs on Sept. 15 and 16.

He will appear at the Great Hall in Grantsville on Saturday, Sept. 15, at 7:30 p.m. for a third time after a previous performance in 1999. Feasley's performance will be the concluding event of the 2001 series at Penn Alps. He will perform contemporary works and traditional tunes.

For information about ticket prices, persons may contact Penn Alps Restaurant and Crafts Shop at 301-895-5985. Tickets will be available at the door. There are no reserved seats. Ticket holders should arrive no later than 7:20 p.m. to guarantee seating.

The GLAF concert will be held at Will O' the Wisp on Sunday, Sept. 16, at 4:30 p.m. The program, "Echoes of Goya," is a multimedia presentation of the life of the famous painter Francisco De Goya and his impact on several generations of composers.

Tickets for the GLAF show are $10 for adults, $4 for GCC students, and $2 for youth 18 years and younger. Following the concert, dinner will be available for an additional $10 for all ages. For tickets and further information, persons may call the GLAF office at 301-387-3082.

Feasley is rapidly becoming recognized as one of today's top classical guitarists, according to a GLAF spokesperson. The first guitarist to be awarded the Peabody Conservatory's Artist Diploma, Feasley has since been the recipient of numerous prizes and awards, including a gold medal in the 1987 Pan Hellenic Guitar Competition in Athens, the 1990 and 1995 Baltimore Chamber Music Award, and a 1996 Governor's Citation for Outstanding Achievements in the Arts in Maryland.

"He is gifted with a dominating technique and a sharp intellect," stated a critic of Guitar Review magazine. Greece's NEA newspaper lauded Feasley as a virtuoso. "He has an incredibly high level of technique, and the ability to perform a piece in the mood in which it was composed. The sound of his guitar is warm, sweet, and full of musical truth," the reviewer wrote.

Selected to play for Andres Segovia at the master's last class at the University of Southern California in 1986, he was later featured on the CBS special Eulogy of Segovia.

St. Mark's To Host Pair Of Organ Recitals

St. Mark's Lutheran Church, 6 S. Second Street in Oakland, will host two organ recitals early this fall. The first will be held Friday, Sept. 14, beginning at 7:30 p.m. Joseph Lowe, organist and choir director at St. Paul's Episcopal Church in Key West, Fla., will perform on the Allen organ.

Lowe performed in Garrett County in the fall of 2000 as part of both the Music at Penn Alps series and the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival. When he was in the area for those performances, he also shared his composition and keyboard skills at St. Mark's at a worship service.

This recital is funded in part by the Garrett County Arts Council and the Maryland State Arts Council. No admission fee will be charged to attend the recital; however, a free-will offering will be received. A reception will follow.

The eighth annual Autumn Glory Organ Recital will be held at St. Mark's on Friday, Oct. 12, beginning at 7 p.m. The guest recitalist will once again be Dr. Geoffrey Simon from Rockville.

In addition to his performances during the Autumn Glory Festival, Dr. Simon has both accompanied and sung with the Garrett Choral Society. He will provide a variety of sacred and secular selections for organ on his program.

This recital is also funded in part by the Garrett County and Maryland State arts councils. While no admission fee will be charged, a free-will offering will be received to help defray the costs of the recital. A reception will follow this recital also.

The congregation welcomes the public to attend both of these recitals.

SKETCHES BY MOLLY VICK are currently on display at the Garrett County Arts Council Gallery in Oakland. The exhibit is titled "Glimpses of a Changing Culture" and features drawings of individuals she has encountered at livestock auctions in Garrett and Preston counties. Also on display are two paintings depicting the local Amish lifestyle. A reception for Vick is slated for Saturday, Sept. 8, from 7 until 9 p.m. at the Gallery. More information may be obtained by calling the arts council at 301-334-6580.

Bauer To Teach Drawing Class

The Garrett County Arts Council will present a one-day workshop in drawing and composition by Ken Bauer at the Gallery along Alder Street in Oakland on Saturday, Sept. 29, from 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Class size is limited to seven participants, and prior registration is required.

Participants will explore techniques and principles of drawing in a small group setting and will work toward developing and improving their own compositions.

"This is guaranteed to be an intense and vigorous day of study and practice," said Bauer.

Bauer previously taught a primitive pottery workshop at Chapel Hill, N.C., and local drawing classes at Garrett Community College and at his former Lake Ford studio. His original pencil drawings have been selected for exhibition in public and private collections in New York, Washington, Baltimore, San Bernardino, Pittsburgh, and elsewhere, including Oakland.

"Drawing is like a meditation on the lines, rhythm, patterns, and spaces created by the light and the shadow," said Bauer. "The artist is like a blind person groping in the darkness, who must listen in order to see."

Bauer's workshop titled "See Feel Draw" requires "some prior experience" and is suitable for adults only. Participants must bring their own drawing supplies and materials. Registration fee is $25 per person, and the registration deadline is Sept. 22.

Additional enrollment information, including complete materials list, is available by calling the Garrett County Arts Council at 301-334-6580.

English Troupe Set To Perform Romeo & Juliet

William Shakespeare's classic tale of star-crossed love, Romeo and Juliet, will be performed by the Cambridge University American Stage Tour at Frostburg State University on Friday, Sept. 14, at 8 p.m. in the Performing Arts Center's F. Perry Smith Studio Theatre.

This performance, which is open to the public, marks the sixth year that the student actors from England's prestigious Cambridge University have returned to FSU.

Shakespeare's famous tale of young love and ancient hatred is set amidst the palaces and piazzas of courtly medieval Italy. The ancient feud between the powerful Montague and Capulet families divides the city of Verona and intensifies when passion arises between young Romeo Montague and Juliet Capulet. According to an FSU press release, "the comic and spectacular aspects of the play are as fundamental to the story as the tragedy and rich poetry. A unique edition of the text and an original live score help to bridge the gap between Shakespeare's era and the present, rendering this production painful, beautiful, funny, and resonant with a modern audience."

Cambridge University American State Tour (CAST), the university's newest dramatic society, was founded with the goal of staging an annual, top quality theatrical tour of the United States. Student troupes from Cambridge have entertained audiences since 1855, with former members including such famed actors as Emma Thompson, John Cleese, and David Frost.

For ticket information, persons may call the FSU Box Office at 301-687-4145. Tickets for Friday night's performance are $7 for adults and $3 for students.

For general information on this and other outreach programs at FSU, individuals may call 301-685-3163.

The two-day North Preston Farmers Club Fall Festival is set for Friday, Sept. 14, from noon to 9 p.m., and Saturday, Sept. 15, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., on the club's grounds located just north of Bruceton Mills. The third annual Fall Festival is a family-oriented event that celebrates the agricultural heritage of Preston County with demonstrations, competitions, and food.

A variety events are slated to take place during the festival. Among the activities will be an apple butter boil, horse-drawn hayrides, demonstrations of pottery-making, chainsaw artistry, quilting, weaving, candle-making, hand-spinning, and painting. Antique tractors will be on display as well.

Scheduled competitions include an ATV-garden tractor pull that will begin at 11 a.m. Saturday, with open registration commencing one hour earlier. The class divisions are 750-lb. stock, 950-lb. super stock, 1100-lb. modified stock. Prizes will be awarded. Contestants will also be accepted for a crosscut sawing competition, with prizes awarded also.

Children's offerings include a sheep shearing demonstration, a petting zoo, a "pet" wooly worm race, and visits from Smokey Bear and Eddy Eagle, who will be highlighting the importance of outdoor safety and nature conservation.

Formed in the early 1900s, the nonprofit North Preston Farmers Club mission continues to carry out its mission of "nurturing a sense of community, and promoting responsibility for nurturing the land." To reach the Fall Festival from Garrett County, travelers may take Interstate 68 west to exit 23 at Bruceton Mills. Take Route 26 north for 4.2 miles, then turn left on Salem Road. Signs will provide directions from that point. Additional information is available on the Internet at www.northprestonfarmersclub.homestead.com.

TA Poker Run Benefits Town Police Dept.

A group of Terra Alta citizens organized a "poker run" recently that raised over $500 for the town's police department, which will be used to purchase equipment needed for the town's two police officers. Fifteen bikes and 21 participants made the nearly 70 mile trek.

Terra Alta VFW Post 578 was the start and end point, with stops along the route that included the Village Cafe & Pub in Terra Alta, the Buffalo Creek Bar along Rt. 50 at Macumber, the Knucklehead Saloon near Masontown, and Your Tavern at Manown. Upon returning to the VFW the riders shared a spaghetti and meatball meal, several raffles were held, and a mystery auction took place. Jay and Carrie Cook of Ink by Night Tattoos were on hand to demonstrate their tattoo artistry.

The following sponsors donated food, door prizes, and auction items—Morgan's Foodland, Kay's Korner, Naylor's Hardware, Ink by Night Tattoos, Advanced Auto Parts, Terra Alta Foodland, Smiley's Fun Zone, Radio Shack, Denny's, Advantage Florist, Pizza Hut, Wal-Mart, McDonald's, Fox's in Oakland, Fox's in Kingwood, Bud's Packaged Liquors, Browning's Foodland, WKMM Radio, Mt. Top Glass, In the Skin Tattoos, Rosebud Foodland, and B&B Harley-Davidson of Clarksburg and Lasobek Harley-Davidson of Fairmont.

"I'd especially like to thank the staff and management of the Terra Alta VFW Post 578 and Tim and Trina Fultz," Terra Alta police chief T.R. Queen said. "Without the VFW and the Fultzes participation this event would never have taken place. We would [have had] only enough [money] for one new [bulletproof] vest. We are going to prioritize our needs for basic equipment, and hope we can get [additional] money for a [second] vest from another source. We recently applied for federal grant funding, but were turned down due to the large volume of requests that the Governor's Committee on Crime received."

JEEPERS CREEPERS

Rated R - Running Time: 1:27 - Released 8/31/01

Note to self: never get in a road rage battle against a large, rusty 1950s vintage truck with a demonic-sounding horn and no driver. This is the way the horror starts for two college-age siblings in Victor Salva's Jeepers Creepers, a flawed but suitably chilling slasher movie whose script (also by Salva) blends blood, mystery, mysticism, and a touch of humor with the inevitable complement of red herrings. With a refreshing simplicity of premise and good performances by its two main players, it alternates between moments of sheer terror and ridiculously cheesy effects, taking a great beginning and moving inevitably toward a rather standard and vaguely disappointing final product.

We first meet Trish (Gina Philips) and her brother Darius (Justin Long) as they are driving home from school along a lonely stretch of highway, bickering about everything from the slowness of local drivers to the irritating qualities of each other's personalities. But when they are viciously pursued by a nondescript old truck which almost runs them off the road, they are united in fear. Then they witness something that really bugs them: the driver of the truck stops at an old church and dumps what appear to be shrouded bodies down a large pipe in the ground. When he leaves, they investigate and find a number of corpses stored in what appears to be the church's basement. Horrified, they contact the local authorities, but this only gets them a reserved place located squarely in the killer's sights.

This film starts out very well, with Philips and Long handling the only two speaking parts for the first half hour. The scenes on the road and at the church are freaky and chilling, but when other characters start getting involved, things begin to deteriorate. First there's a psychic (Patricia Belcher) who attempts to help the couple with bizarre rantings about old hit songs. Then there's an old woman (Eileen Brennan), whose insistence on sitting in the dark is just slightly less creepy than the number of cats she owns. (I mean, the smell alone would kill you.) Finally there's the killer himself, who seems to get more silly every time we see him. I like the "crazed inbred local malcontent in the Jed Clampett hat" premise much more than what he actually turns out to be.

Even with its faults, Jeepers Creepers is slightly more effective than its only competitor so far in the 2001 horror season, Alejandro Amenábar's beautifully stylistic yawnfest The Others. The work of Jeepers's two main players usually counterbalances the schlock, edging it just above the mediocre level for its genre. ★★★½

AMERICAN OUTLAWS

Rated PG-13 - Running Time: 1:40 - Released 8/17/01

The impression made by Les Mayfield's wild west melodrama American Outlaws on the average moviegoer may depend on several factors. If you like pretty scenery and pretty people, you've never seen a western before, and you've never heard of Jesse James, you might think it's great. But it's so full of trite stereotypes and western clichés, and so devoid of good acting, it's hard to sit through without breaking out in derisive laughter. Written by Roderick Taylor and John Rogers, this film attempts to pay homage to the James/Younger gang and romanticize their train-robbing exploits during the latter 19th century, but it's so laughably derivative, it's more like a self-consciously serious version of Blazing Saddles without the Blacks and Jews.

After a Civil War battle scene (which turns out to be the most original, if not believable, scene of the movie) lets us know of their amazing skill as marksmen and the scope of their incorrigibly lovable scampy behavior, the players who will make up the James/Younger gang head home to the cornfields of Missouri. Brothers Jesse and Frank James (Colin Farrell, Gabriel Macht) and their cousins, Cole and Bob Younger (Scott Caan, Will McCormack), return just in time to discover that the nasty and powerful owner of the Rock Northern Railroad, Thaddeus Rains (Harris Yulin), is using strongarm tactics to take over the town. After his primary agents [executive toady Rollin Parker (Terry O'Quinn) and moustache-curling detective Allan Pinkerton (Timothy Dalton, doing his best Sean Connery impression)] burn down the James' home with their deeply religious mother (Kathy Bates) in it, Jesse decides to declare all-out war against Rains and his railroad. This scene is a particularly excellent indicator of the film's melodramatic style, when Bates, her face blackened by the burns, utters the dying words, "The dear Lord's a bit shorter than I reckoned." Ggggaaaak. Excuse me.

Joined by a few other members and supported by Jesse's too-hot-for-the-period girlfriend Zee (Ali Larter), the boys rob Rock Nothern trains, rob banks where the railroad's money is stored, blow up various sections of track, and give to local charities. This causes their approval rating to soar among the locals while Pinkerton snarls menacingly about getting inside the mind of his brilliant but devious foe. Meanwhile we are treated to a subplot involving the gang's constant bickering about who's in charge and whose pictures look best in the "Wanted" posters.

Although nicely filmed, director Mayfield (whose eclectic list of credits includes kids' fantasy Flubber and zany cop comedy Blue Streak) does not hesitate to pack his movie with every western trick in the book, from breakaway furniture to collapsing water towers to main street gunfights where bullets zing back and forth across the dusty roadway and watering troughs spring leaks. It is a veritable showcase of western clichés, both textual and cinematic, with ample amounts of cheesy sentiment and the occasional groan-inducing joke thrown in. The acting is generally styleless (especially in the case of Farrell) or overwrought (Dalton), with the possible exception of Gabriel Macht, who imbues elder brother Frank James with an easygoing charm, but up against his affected fellow cast members, he's almost out of place. Overall, Mayfield's first attempt at the western looks good but shoots itself in the foot. ★★½

Northern Girls Drop Soccer Opener To Bishop Walsh

It was a disappointing season opener for the Northern High School girls' soccer team last night, as the Huskies and new coach Lynn Lais were handed a 6-1 defeat by visiting Bishop Walsh, once again picked to be one of the area's most outstanding teams.

Karen Knight was the major nemesis for the Huskies, as she recorded a hat trick for the Spartans.

The Huskies took a 1-0 lead when Rachel Bruch scored an unassisted goal in the first half. But from there on it was all Bishop Walsh, as Knight scored three times, and Shera Rowan, Rachel Carpenter, and Caitlin Owens each added one.

Carpenter also had two assists, while Allison Earnest, Jennifer Tola, and Rowan were credited with one apiece.

The Spartans finished with a lopsided advantage in shots on goal, 17-6, and led in corner kicks, 4-1.

Husky goalkeepers Randi Beiler and Ashley Warnick combined for 13 saves, and Kelli Amoroso turned away five shots in goal for BW.

It was the second win in three starts for Bishop Walsh.

The Huskies will get little rest, as they are scheduled to play at Beall this evening.

Southern Girls Blank Alco In Campaign Opener, 4-0

With most of the members of a 10-1 team from last year back on the field this season, the Southern High School girls' soccer team opened its season with a bang last night by shutting out Allegany, 4-0, in a Western Maryland Interscholastic League contest.

Sophomore striker Sabrina Scheffel had two goals and an assist in the contest, which was also the season opener for the Campers.

Jenny Hickman drew first blood for the Rams when she put the ball into the net off a feed from Scheffel with 19:25 remaining in the first half.

Kristen Oxford doubled the Rams' lead with 8:15 remaining when she took a drop pass from Brittany Naylor and blasted a shot from over 30 yards out, with the ball going just under the cross bar and over the outstretched hands of Alco keeper Bethany Sindy.

Scheffel scored her first goal, unassisted, with 22 minutes remaining in the match, and then struck again with 14 minutes remaining off an assist by Megan Burner.

Even though the numbers of saves and corner kicks were fairly even, the Rams dominated most of the match, keeping the ball in the Campers' half of the field for about three-quarters of the match.

Sophomore keeper Alasha Rush made her starting debut by turning away 11 Allegany shots, while Sindy recorded 13 saves for the Campers. The Rams held a 2-1 edge in corner kicks and finished with a 17-11 advantage in shots on goal.

The Rams will face a major test this Saturday when they host Bishop Walsh at 7:30 p.m. The match will be the third of the day on the SHS athletic field, as the boys' junior varsity and varsity will play at 4 p.m. and 5:30 p.m., respectively.

Runnin' Rams To Open Season This Saturday

The cross country teams of Southern High School will open their 2001 campaigns this Saturday by competing in the Interstate Classic at Clear Spring High School.

The Southern girls' squad, coached by Louis Newcomb, which finished fourth in the state 1A championships last season, returns a strong nucleus of runners, including junior Missy Durst, who was the individual state runner-up last year. Another All-State runner back is sophomore Natalie Domenick, plus Stephanie DiSimone, Melissa Flanagan, and Emily Cosner.

Others expected to be in the starting line-up this Saturday are Lisa Wade, Holly Sauder, Kelly Wade, Amanda Sisler, and Elizabeth Everett.

Newcomb says that the obvious strength of his team is the return of five state championship runners, plus five others with considerable experience.

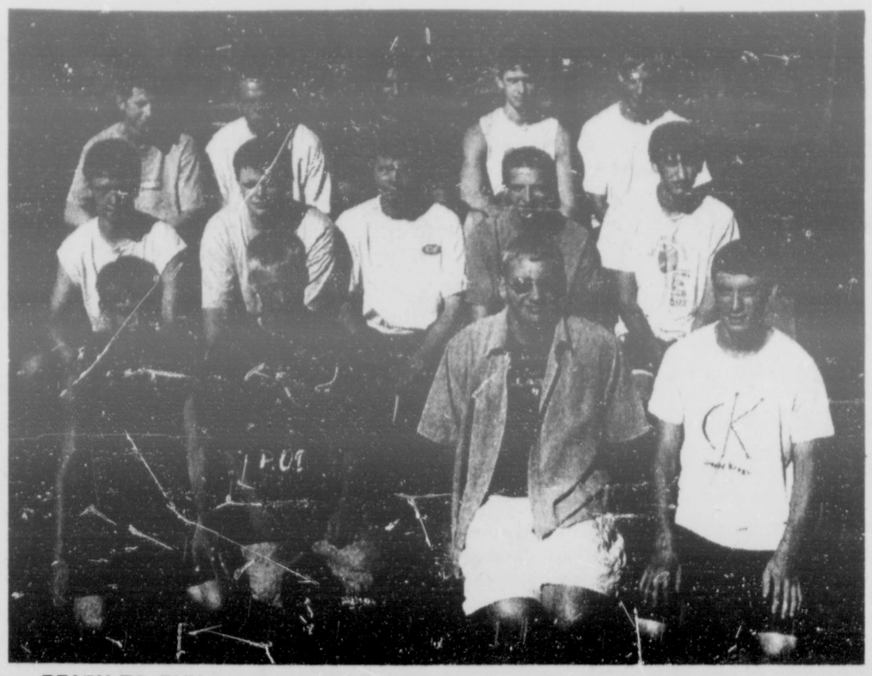
"Our weakness is a lack of depth," he said. "We have only 12 girls, so we have to try to keep everyone healthy. If we do that, then I think we can really compete for another state title."

Coach Carl Booth, head of the boys' program, said that his goals include improvement from last season and qualifying for the state meet.

"We have had more talent in the past, but this team has the best work ethic I've seen in at least three years," Booth said.

Among the top returners this season are co-captains Matt Frederick and Tom Crozier, Chad Cerrito, Kyle Conroy, and Jared Reckart. Other probable starters include Nathan Rodeheaver, Wes Thomas, and Jason Weeks.

Booth, like Newcomb, is also concerned about a lack of depth.



READY TO RUN are the cross country teams of Southern High School, the most successful athletic program in the history of the school in terms of the garnering of state championships. The boys' program is coached by Carl Booth, and the girls are coached by Louis Newcomb. Both teams will open their 2001 seasons this Saturday at an invitational meet hosted by Clear Spring. Pictured above, from left, first row, are: Levi Filsinger, Brad Lilly, Emmett Michael, and Nathan Rodeheaver. In the second row are: Jason Weeks, Jared Reckart, Tom Crozier, Brian Crabtree, and Wes Thomas. In the third row are: Kyle Conroy, Skyler Bolden, Chad Cerrito, Craig Conroy, and Matt Frederick. Members of the girls' team (plus one young mascot) pictured below are, front row, from left: Amanda Sisler, Lisa Wade, Zach Shay, Holly Sauder, and Natalie Domenick. In the second row are: Elizabeth Everett, Melissa Flanagan, Emily Cosner, Stephanie DiSimone, and Missy Durst. Not present for the photo was Kelly Wade. See story for pre-season details.

Booth and the Rams have five state titles to their credit, while the SHS girls have won three with Newcomb as head coach.

The Rams' first home meet at the Broadford Park course will be next Tuesday at 4:30 p.m.

Husky Golfers Jump Back Into Winning Ways

Northern High School's varsity golf team rebounded from a season opening loss two weeks ago to take both of its matches this week and up its record to 2-1. Results of a third match scheduled for yesterday afternoon were not available.

Northern followed low-medalist Mark Bergstrom's 39 to victory last Thursday at the Maplehurst Country Club in Frostburg. The Huskies carded a team score of 172, while Beall had a 179 and Moorefield brought up the rear with a 200.

Mike Bergstrom led the Husky charge Tuesday at Rocky Gap, carding a low-medal 42 to spark NHS to a first-place 179. Petersburg was runner-up with a 197, Moorefield's 198 was good for third, and Fort Hill was fourth with a 200. Mark Bergstrom shot a 44, tying him for second-low score with Moorefield's Mike Methias.

Northern was scheduled to take part in a three-way yesterday at Polish Pines versus Frankfort and Keyser. Those results will appear in next week's paper.

The Huskies have a long respite through most of this week. NHS is not slated to hit the links again until Wednesday at the Preston Country Club against the always-tough host Knights. A Thursday quadrangular follows at the Oakland Golf Club, as Northern takes to the greens against Moorefield, Union, and arch-rival host Southern.

SHS Duffers Take Third At Preston; Down Host Beall

The Southern High School varsity golf team split its two outings this week, taking third place in last Thursday's quadrangular match at the Preston Country Club, then rebounding to conquer Beall at the Oakland Golf Club Tuesday afternoon.

West Fairmont took top honors with a team score of 157 Thursday, followed by host Preston's 161, SHS's 175, and Grafton's 198. West Fairmont's Rush James took low-medalist honors with a 36, while the Rams' Travis Friend recorded a team-low 42.

Tuesday's home scenery proved to be a tonic for Southern, as the Rams stroked their way to a 172-180 win over Beall. SHS's Matt Skidmore was low medalist with a 40, and teammate Nathan Swartzentruber carded a 42. Beall's low scorer was Mike Kasecamp, also with a 42. The match was originally slated to be a three-way affair, but Union canceled on account of illness.

Southern is set to travel to Beall for a rematch this afternoon, then return home Tuesday to host Westmar and Keyser, which always fields a strong team. The week closes out with a Thursday quadrangular on the Oakland links, as Union, Moorefield, and arch-rival Northern pay a visit to the Rams' confines.

SHS head coach Jeff Friend's comprehensive analysis of how the Southern golf season is shaping up will appear along with the Rams' team photo in next week's sports pages.

NHS Counts On Winning Tradition To Continue With Option Trickery

The Northern High School varsity football program has built a winning tradition over the past several years that has spilled out of the Cove to draw the attention of the entire state. With an undefeated regular season two years ago, and a run into the Maryland Class 1A semifinals last season, head coach Phil Carr and his Huskies know that other teams will be gunning even harder than usual to knock them off each time they step onto the field; but the NHS skipper is taking it all in stride.

"We want to have another winning season, and make a third straight playoff appearance," Carr commented. "We're not looking to change a lot of things. We've got a good thing going and we just want to keep it up." Disguised behind the coach's calm demeanor, however, is a will to win and a strong confidence in the fundamentals he and his coaching staff teach and constantly reinforce with their players to keep that winning tradition on track.

NHS gets its first test Saturday at Smithsburg, in a 7 p.m. match-up that kicks off the first of three straight road outings. The Huskies return to the rabid confines of their "Dog Pound" for their home opener on Friday, Sept. 28, when the Turkeyfoot Rams pay a visit.

Sept. 28	Turkeyfoot	Home
Oct. 5	Allegany	Home

Northern lost only six seniors from last year's 9-3 (overall) squad, a seemingly small number from a program that drew nearly 60 players this year. Those losses will be noticed immediately by longtime Husky faithful, as stalwarts Mark Wolf, Toby Gilpin, Bill Rodeheaver, Brandon Kamp, Jeremy Frazee, and Rob Dozier all graduated last spring. "Sometimes when you lose only six players, you feel good," said Carr. "But when you lose six like we did, there can be a dropoff. I don't know if we can completely fill their shoes, but we'll try."

NHS is making some changes to fill those shoes. Senior Trey Brenneman (6-1, 220), last year's starting quarterback, has been moved to a halfback position alongside fellow senior HB Josh Swandol (6-2, 205), where both runners' size can be utilized in what could be a punishing running game. "It's good to have two horses like Trey and Josh in the backfield," remarked Carr. "We thought at the start of the scrimmages that one of them would end up on the line, but they work so well together that we feel confident they'll complement each other's running."

Stepping up behind center to run the Huskies' option offense will be junior QB Aaron Mitchell (6-1, 165), who "gives us the kind of threat we had a couple of years ago with Adam Brenneman, when we went undefeated," remarked Carr. "Aaron can run, has a nice arm, and throws a tight spiral. He had a lot of tackles last year playing safety, so he's not afraid to put his shoulder down and run through a tackle when he has to." Pre-season scrimmage observers have already been commenting on Mitchell's deftness with the ball, as several excellent fakes resulted in long Husky touchdown runs.

"When it's running right, our option forces the defense to make triple reads in a very short time on every play. Not many defenses are up to matching wits with that kind of deception," the coach observed. Backing up Mitchell as second-string QB will be sophomore Andrew Frantz (6-3, 165), who has experience running the option offense from his junior varsity work last season.

Senior fullback Cheston Bachtel (6-0, 175) is not the biggest fullback in world, but the Huskies' fast-paced option offense will make use his speed to get out in front of the ballcarriers. Bachtel also "runs real good in traffic," Carr stated. "Cheston has those rubbery type of legs that look funny when he runs, but they allow him to weave through some tight spots." Juniors Lee Yoder (5-6, 175) and Dan Ganoe (5-4, 150) will also see time at fullback.

As always, Carr is counting on an undersized offensive line to use speed and brains to open holes for the running game. "We're small across the line again this year, but that's nothing new. Our guys play bigger than they are, and they are students of the game who know how to use angles and leverage to their advantage against larger defenders," he said.

Three full-time starters, senior center Joel Resh (5-9, 180), senior tackle Bryan Lenhart (5-8, 195), and junior guard Tom Menges (6-2, 274), will anchor the Husky line. Joining them will be junior tackle John Beachy (6-0, 200), part-time starter last year, and senior tackle Kris Knox (5-6, 170), who earned a varsity letter last season. Split out at the ends will be seniors Kellen Baumgardner (6-0, 170) and Pete Stein (5-7, 140).

"I think we'll be okay on the line," predicted Carr. "The center and right side is strong in experience with three returning starters, and we've got returning lettermen on the left side."

Complementing Northern's powerhouse offense in years past has been the Huskies' "Gravedigger" defense, one of the region's best. Defensive guru Frank Ewing, back this year after sustaining a sideline leg injury at Westmar during Week 8 last season, is readying his troops for battle. Anxiously awaiting those results, Carr said, "At the moment our defense is a little behind our offense, but it's coming along quickly. We'll be running a 5-3 scheme, with Trey taking the signals from the sideline."

As opponents have come to know all too well, the Huskies' defense likes to rely on hustle and hard hitting. A swarming linebacker corps is key to those efforts, and this year's wrecking crew is composed of middle linebacker Brenneman, who will be flanked by Resh at strongside linebacker and the gritty Yoder, an undersized but punishing tackler in the tradition of Mark Wolf, at the weakside.

The defensive front is centered around noseguard Menges and tackles Lenhart and Beachy, each of whom did an excellent job plug-

Coach Gregg Instructs Rams To "Play Hard, Have Fun"

It was a minority of Southern High School fans who believed that the Rams would emerge from the 2000 season with a winning record (6-4), as a rather young squad was facing probably the most difficult schedule in the history of the program. But Coach Fred Gregg, who returned as head coach just last season, and his team proved the majority wrong on a week by week basis, even after taking a 33-0 bashing from Keyser in the opener.

Few believed they would beat Musselman; they did so convincingly, 35-6. Not many believed they could defeat Allegany; they did so, 7-0. Most of the odds makers favored once-defeated county rival Northern in the final game of the season; but the Rams also won that contest with ease, 30-6.

The 2001 schedule which will be kicked off this Friday night at home against undefeated Keyser (2-0) is every bit as difficult as last year's. But with six offensive starters, all seniors, and four senior defensive starters back, most enthusiasts are not as quick to count the Rams out this season.

"Playing hard and having fun are really the only two things that we are asking of our players," said Gregg, who was also head coach of the Rams from 1991 to 1993. "Winning, of course, is always the goal, but playing hard and having fun are fundamental keys to winning."

The Rams' numbers are down a bit, with just over 60 players out this year. But a dozen of those are seniors, most with a lot of experience.

"All 12 of our seniors are pretty good players," Gregg said. "But as usual, we really can't afford injuries. We don't have much depth at any position."

The senior starters back on offense include: guards Brad Palmer (6-3, 219) and Nick Gangler (5-9, 166), center Regis Marucci (6-0, 240), tight end Ryan Upole (6-3, 213), fullback Joel Helbig (6-3, 210), and tailback Steve Skipper (5-10, 175), who rushed for 527 yards and four touchdowns last season.

Other probable starters are senior Tobi Stoner (6-1, 177) or junior Ricky Curry (5-7, 152) at quarterback; senior Bryson Meyers (6-4, 180) at tight end; senior Chad Panther (5-10, 160) at slot; juniors Nathan Fitzwater (6-3, 192), Bart Shaffer (5-9, 250), and Geoff Tressler (5-9, 170), plus sophomore Chris Bennett (6-0, 205), at line positions; and junior Jay Tressler (5-9, 180) in the backfield.

Key offensive personnel who were lost to graduation include quarterback Josh Sharon and the team's leading rusher, Jeremy Hayhurst (818 yards, 5.3 per carry).

Gregg believes that his offense will have a few more weapons than last year's squad. "We were pretty much limited to grinding it out on the ground last year," he said. "But I think we have a few more options this year so we can be a little more diversified."

The Ram defensive unit of last season allowed a touchdown or less in half of the games, and most of the top tacklers from that group are back, including senior linemen Palmer and Upole, and seniors Helbig and Skipper at linebacker spots. Palmer recorded 81 tackles, including 33 solos, last year, while Helbig accounted for 60 stops, including 20 solo.

Others expected to see playing time on defense include Meyers, Geoff and Jay Tressler, and sophomore Billy Schmidl (6-1, 185) at linebacker spots; Fitzwater, Shaffer, Bennett, and junior Zack Savage (6-3, 250) at line positions; and Stoner, Curry, Panther, and sophomore Zack Uphold (5-10, 154) in the secondary.

Panther will handle the punting chores, and Stoner will be the primary placekicker.

Southern High School Varsity Football Schedule

Date	Opponent	Loc.
Sept. 7	Keyser	Home
Sept. 14	Beall	Away
Sept. 21	Grafton	Home
Sept. 28	Allegany	Away
Oct. 5	Preston	Home
Oct. 12	Martinsburg	Home
Oct. 19	Hampshire	Home
Oct. 26	Tucker Co.	Away
Nov. 2	Fort Hill	Home
Nov. 9	Northern	Away

The aforementioned schedule is the same as last season's, with the exception of the addition of Beall. Five of the 10 opponents earned post-season tournament berths last year, and three of the teams won at least nine games, including Keyser, Fort Hill, and Martinsburg.

Keyser will come to Oakland Friday night with impressive victories already recorded against Tucker County (43-0) and Jefferson (28-7). The Golden Tornados are being led offensively by their senior quarterback, Troy Ravenscroft (6-1, 175), who passed for two touchdowns and rushed for one last week against Jefferson, and junior running back Justin Denmark (6-0, 175), who recorded 156 yards on just 12 carries last week. Junior receiver Rusty Clay (6-2, 190) hauled in five of Ravenscroft's passes against Jefferson for 158 yards, and freshman fullback M.J. Twyman (6-0, 200) added 53 yards on six carries.

Anchoring the Keyser defense are senior linebackers Mike Amtower (6-1, 210) and Nathan Biser (6-2, 210), and senior lineman Sam Helman (6-0, 235). Amtower recorded 14 tackles, Biser had 11, and Helman finished with 10 against Jefferson, while junior defensive back Erick Adames (5-8, 150) had six tackles and two interceptions.

The kickoff for Friday's game at the Southern High athletic field is set for 7:30 p.m. It will be the first of six home games for the Rams.

Maddawg Squads Decimate Hawks In Home Debut

The Northern Maddawg Pee Wee Football League teams hosted the Ridgeley Hawks Saturday in their season home opener at Northern High School. Each of the Maddawg squads turned in fine performances to up the program's record to 2-1, as the C Team ran off to a 32-0 shutout triumph and the combined A&B squads took a 34-19 win under the lights.

The C team got off to a 25-0 first half tally as the Maddawgs' offensive line chewed up and down the field. First half rushing touchdowns were recorded by quarterback Jesse Lapp and running backs Kameron Kamp, Austin Tombley, and Matthew Grady, who also added an extra point.

The Maddawgs went with a new backfield line-up in the second half, and the results were much the same. The home team mounted a drive for another touchdown carried in by Kyle Rosenberger, as Alex Baker followed with the extra point for the final 32-point victory.

The Maddawgs' C Team defense shut out its opponent for the second time this season with some hard-hitting play. Alex Baker forced a fumble in the first half, and Austin Tombley recovered a fumble in the second half.

The Maddawg A&B teams' 15-point victory under the lights wasn't quite as commanding, but was convincing nonetheless as a 40-plus point effort was well within their reach. First quarter B Team play was highlighted by rushing touchdowns by Trevor Tombley and Josh Duckworth, who added an extra point after his score.

The A Team took the field in the second quarter and drove the ball down the field behind an impressive effort in the trenches by the offensive line going. Andrew Ganoe eventually carried the ball in for a touchdown, which was followed by a Blair Silbaugh carry for the extra point.

Both Maddawg defensive units turned in hustling performances to hold the Hawks to 19 points on the night, and Duckworth picked off a Ridgeley pass attempt in the third quarter to give his B squad teammates an extra boost. The B team offense lit up the scoreboard with rushing touchdowns by Duckworth and Nick Graham, and Tombley's extra point.

The A Team put its second-string offense on the field, and the backup players rose to the occasion by moving the ball down to the Hawks' one yard line before being forced to give it away on downs. The A Team defense came out and pushed the Hawks back into the own endzone, where the Ridgeley quarterback was tackled for a safety.

The Northern Maddawgs will host the Saints in a 6:30 p.m. battle this Saturday at Northern High School.

Ridgeley Proves Uphill Climb For Northern Steelers

The Northern Steelers' Division I and II squads both dropped their contests at Ridgeley Saturday in Cumberland Area Youth Football League action. The Division I Steelers were downed 20-7, to drop to an 0-2 mark, while the Division II squad succumbed 7-0 as a fourth-quarter Ram touchdown pass broke a scoreless deadlock. The Division II Steelers record falls to 1-1.

Ridgeley took the first points of the Division I contest on a 43-yard touchdown run, but the extra point failed. Northern snagged the lead when Chris Spiker rumbled 36 yards for a touchdown and then snagged a Corey Carr pass for the extra point.

The Steelers led by a 7-6 margin through a scoreless second quarter, but Ridgeley turned the tide for good in the second half. Ram scoring runs of 30 yards in the third quarter and 12 yards in the final stanza, along with a successful extra-point kick, left Northern on the short end of the 20-7 score.

Along with Spiker, Northern's Anthony Lewis and Eric Diehl turned in outstanding performances.

The Steelers' Division II unit mounted a valiant effort with the Rams in a hard-fought battle, and the combatants entered the fourth quarter with the score knotted at 0-all. Ridgeley broke the deadlock, and downed the Steelers, by connecting on a 20-yard touchdown pass in the closing minutes. The Rams added an extra-point run to the touchdown tally.

Northern's Casey Kamp, Jeff Wylan, and Matt Mason were noted for their hustling efforts.

Deer Bow Season Opens Sept. 15

The 2001-2002 Maryland deer bowhunting season is set to open on Saturday, Sept. 15, according to the Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR). Maryland has four deer management regions, with separate bag limits for each region. Garrett County is located entirely within Region A, and complete bag limits and bow hunting regulations with this year's regional specifications can be found at the DNR web site at www.dnr.state.md.us/huntersguide.

Bow hunters collectively spent more than 518,000 days pursuing Maryland's native white-tailed deer and the exotic sika deer last year. The state's estimated 37,000 deer archery enthusiasts spend an average of 14 days per season tracking deer. Bow hunters took 17,911 white-tailed deer and 330 sika deer during last year's archery season. The top five counties for total bow harvest in Maryland last year were Garrett (1,727), Baltimore (1,717), Frederick (1,552), Washington (1,466), and Allegany (1,287).

ROARING KNOB
by Donna Butler

Gary Dalton of Morgantown, W.Va., showed up at Roaring Knob Raceway Park to race. And race he did, taking top honors in the Ken Nicholson and Sons Late Model feature. Mel's Truck Service Trophy Night would see three more first-time winners, along with two repeaters.

Jeff Ferguson sat on the pole, and took control at the drop of the green. Dalton settled into second, as sixth starter Jeff Thomas worked his way forward. By lap 10, Thomas had gotten by Gary Tonkery and Tim Senic for third. From there, over the next six trips around the mountaintop oval, a torrid three-way battle for the point ensued. Scattered cautions kept the field tight, and Dalton took the lead from Ferguson on lap 16, as Thomas spun and went to the tail. Dalton and Ferguson dueled to the finish, with Dalton first to view the checkered, followed by Ferguson, Tonkery, Senic, and Dave Yowler Chris Smith, Neal Paugh, Billy Eash, Shane Quattro, and Dwane Shultz filled out the top 10. There were 5 cautions in the event.

John Cogar of Fairmont, W.Va., scored win number five in the VitaLink-Q-Col Classic Lites division. Cogar battled the Hay boys, Eric and Mike, over the entire distance. Mike Hay would claim the runner-up spot, followed by Eric Hay and Perry Peters. Bob Bolin overcame difficulties in his heat race to finish fifth after starting 12th. The little buzzers put on their usual fine show, with only one yellow thrown.

The "Farmington Fireball," John Redshaw, grabbed the reins and wired the field in the Country Charm Hot Stock division. Scott "The Ace" Spade laid claim to the second spot, followed by Joe Thomas, Steve Huggins, and Jim Bendishaw. Four cautions were thrown.

ging holes last season. Swandol and Bachtel will be out on the ends of the line, and will work with cornerbacks Stein and sophomore Derrell Smith (5-10, 145) to contain the corners and turn runners back inside. Baumgardner and senior Ethan DeVore (6-0, 170) are hot on Smith's heels for a starting spot, according to Carr. Frantz will roam the secondary at free safety.

"The core of our defense will be pretty solid because of our experience, but we have new kids on the corners and at safety," commented Carr. "I think we'll be quick on defense, but we won't be the quickest in the world."

The kicking responsibilities will fall to DeVore at punter and Brenneman at place kicker.

Saturday's visit to Smithsburg renews a playoff rivalry from early last decade, when the two schools split a pair of playoff battles. "We'll have a pretty even match-up Saturday; it will be a good test of where we are early in the season," the NHS coach stated. "They have a lot of experienced seniors, and are used to playing bigger schools in the Monocacy Valley League. We've got our work cut out for us."

Smithsburg will put a bigger line across from the Huskies' front, but their speed is the same as Northern's. The opponents run a Pro-I offense, and Carr said the player to watch is their big fullback, who plows straight ahead when he has the ball. That will likely put Menges, Lenhart, and Resh to work early and often, according to the coach.

Husky faithfuls planning to make the trip will want to take Interstate 68 east to Hancock, then take I-70 east past Hagerstown to the Boonesboro/Smithsburg exit. Take the signs to Smithsburg, which is a 15 minute drive off the interstate. The school is on the southern end of the town.

AREA RESIDENT TAKES U.S. CROWN — Nick Waite, a senior at Preston County High School, took first place in the 18-and Under Junior Division of the National Mountain Bike Championships held last month in Mount Snow, Vt. Waite dominated a field of 93 riders in his division to earn the winner's Stars and Stripes jersey. After riding with the leaders for the first two 7-mile laps, Waite took advantage of an Australian rider's flat tire and made his move to the front on the third and final lap, laying claim not only to the championship race but also the race series for 2001. Described by observers as perhaps "America's best hope for a medal in cross-country riding at the upcoming World Mountain Bike Championships," Waite has already begun high-altitude training at the Vail, Colo., site where his world title race will take place on Friday, Sept. 14. He resides in Aurora, W.Va, with his parents, Alice Fleischman and Bill Waite. Another area resident, 17-year-old Holly Kuhn of Red House, earned a spot on the U.S. Junior Women's Downhill Team, which will also be competing in the Vail World Championships.

Sailboat Racing

On Deep Creek Lake

THE LAST MAD BLAST OF SAILBOAT RACING AT DEEP CREEK...ALMOST
by Dan Muss

The Commodore's Regatta is the last event of the regulation season. The race commanders for this event are the commodores of the two Deep Creek yacht clubs, Mo Willey from Deer Haven and Dave Bertsch from Turkey Neck. It consists of a total of five races, two each on Saturday and Sunday and one on Monday, Labor Day. Actually there is one more informal race called the Magellan Race. More on that later.

The weather forecast for the weekend was good, with clearing skies by Saturday afternoon, and that's what happened. But the winds were light all weekend until Monday and, while Monday was a beautiful sailing day, the breeze got very light at times.

The interesting story last weekend was what the youngsters did. The team of Meredith Dodd, 15 years old, with her sister Ashley, 14 years old, as crew, swept the Flying Scot B Fleet. They came in first for the Commodore's Regatta, first in the July-August Series, and were the fleet champions for the entire season. Both Meredith and Ashley are graduates of the Deep Creek Sailing School, and Meredith spent this past summer teaching sailing at our school as a junior instructor.

And they weren't the only kids out there. Ryan Schubert, 12 years old, with John Frank crewing, came in third in the Flying Scot B Fleet for the Commodore's Regatta. Scott Parry, 11 years old, was sailing a 'Scot in the B Fleet of that regatta with his grandfather, Tom Scannell, crewing. Lucy Kammer was at the helm of a 'Scot with her parents crewing. Then there's Brian Spinnenweber winning the Laser B Fleet of the Commodore's Regatta and Lucy Kammer winning the Laser B in the July-August Series. I am very proud of these youngsters; they are the future of sailboat racing on Deep Creek Lake.

In the last race on Monday I was approaching the leeward mark with Elster on the inside. She asked for room, and I acknowledged, but then two A Fleet boats came in and I failed to give enough room for all three boats. There was some bumping, which was my fault, so I did my penalty turns and finished last.

At the awards ceremony there was a special recognition of the heroism that Jeanette Dodd showed in helping right the Vandalls' sailboat after a capsize. She then got Frank back into his boat by having him stand on her shoulders while she was under water.

About six weeks ago Keith Spinnenweber was out sailing when his boat was demolished by a speeding motorboat, and Keith was almost demolished too. He was lucky to have survived with broken bones in his hand and foot. Two weeks ago Keith was back in a Laser with a cast still on his hand. Keith won this regatta without a cast, but with a brand new Laser. What a remarkable recovery.

You can find out more about everything in the Deep Creek sailing scene by logging onto www.SailDeepCreek.com.

The Magellan Race is scheduled for 11 a.m. Saturday, Sept. 8, at the Turkey Neck Yacht Club. All sailboats are welcome. The local chapter of the "Flat-Earth Society," which believes that south of the Glendale Bridge is the only known part of the world, instituted this race; everywhere else is terra incognito. So this is a "race around the world"... the known part, at least. It's a marathon around all the marks, and then we eat lunch!

RACE RESULTS

RAMS STYMIED BY ALCO IN DEBUT — The Southern High School varsity volleyball team went down to a 3-1 defeat at the hands of Allegany last night in the season opener for both squads. The Campers topped the Rams by scores of 15-7 and 15-11 before Southern struck back with a 15-12 win, but Alco took the final game 15-8. These photos capture some of the action. The Rams' defense is highlighted at the left, as sophomore Alexis Storey (#22) and senior Erin Frantz (#10) go high to block a Camper's spike attempt. At the right, senior Hoill Harris (#14) goes to the floor to launch the ball toward the SHS rear line. Also visible, from the left, are junior Jessica Sharon (#4), freshman Julia Bosley (#14), junior Erika Steyer (#3), and junior Stephanie Niner (#13). Harris turned in three ace serves for the Rams, and junior teammate Kristen Rollman (not pictured) went a perfect 20 for 20 from the service line. The Allegany junior varsity unit swept the SHS jayvees in a hard-fought series by scores of 19-15, 15-12, and 16-14. Southern is idle until Wednesday, when the Northern Huskies pay a 7 p.m. visit to Oakland, with JV play commencing one hour earlier. The Rams travel to Bishop Walsh the following evening.

HUSKY NETTERS READY FOR IGLOO OPENER — The Northern High School varsity volleyball squad kicks off the 2001 season Monday night at home against perennial powerhouse Allegany. Head coach Linda Wengerd's Huskies are counting on a front line of strong hitters and a hustling defense to key a Class 1A Region playoff run. The varsity unit is pictured above. Kneeling from the left are Kristin Hoffman, Tabitha Beitzel, Cortney Resh, Molly Wolf, and Marybeth Hershberger. Standing are Jolene Brenneman, Amanda Frantz, Christie Flockhart, Nicole Sisler, Heather Lander, Brandi Wagner, and Jodi Fratz. "We have some excellent returning seniors in Flockhart, Brenneman, and Sisler," Wengerd commented. "Our players work very well together, and we have some strong hitters and an excellent defense. We'll be relying on the strength of our hitters to overpower our opponents." The junior varsity unit, coached by Gale Keller, is shown below. Seated, from left, are Sonya Broadwater and Lauren Wiley. Kneeling are Laura Benedict, Erin Festerman, Kristi Garlitz, Yesha Patel, and Nicole Kovach. Standing are Melissa Patterson, Tiffany Swiger, Valene Snyder, Nicole Doerr, and Jamie Livengood. Not available for photo was JV player Jamye Miller.

LAKERS OPEN SEASON WEDNESDAY — The Garrett Community College volleyball team is slated to open its 2001 season at arch-rival Allegany College of Maryland on Wednesday, with several new faces on the floor and on the bench. First-year Lakers head coach Susan Snyder and assistant coach Kim Trickett, both alumnae of Southern High School's volleyball program, make their GCC coaching debuts this year. Kneeling from the left are Lauren Stillwagon, Amber Stewart, Jessica DeWitt, and Mimi Harvey, and standing are Trickett, Laura Johnson, Keri Niner, Marianne Unger, Charlene Reeves, Ashlee Spady, and Snyder. Not available for the photo was Laker player Bonnie Riley. Coach Snyder, who also played for the Lakers before transferring to Frostburg State University, is banking GCC's prospects on the experience of her returning players, especially Stillwagon, Harvey, and Niner. "Teamwork is what we're emphasizing," Garrett's skipper said. "The players and coaches are getting to know one another, and we're looking forward to a successful season." Snyder replaces longtime Laker coach Margaret Quinn, who retired after last season.

Civic Club Of Oakland Earns Safety Grant

For its community safety project called "Safety Smart Seniors," the GFWC Civic Club of Oakland was given a Safety Sense Grant from the General Federation of Women's Clubs. Funding for this GFWC program is being made available through the Allstate Foundation.

The local project was initiated with a survey of Civic Club members, as well as members of FCE/Homemakers clubs, regarding major safety concerns. Falling, fire, and driving hazards were among the top three, according to Bobby Andersen, special projects chairperson. When the major concerns were determined, Andersen called upon the Deer Park Community Volunteer Fire Department to assist in developing a safety brochure for seniors.

Deer Park citizens and the Civic Club had worked together before to produce the "Fire Smart Kids" brochure that is still being distributed to young children throughout the county.

In addition to the brochure for seniors, a series of safety programs were scheduled. Mike Voelkel from Garrett Orthopedic Physical Therapy and Rehab (GO PT) presented a program in August on how to avoid falls and improve balance. Other safety concerns will be addressed throughout the year.

The club also gave a donation to the Cumberland Firefighters' Local #1715 for its Operation Firesafe House project. The firesafe house is equipped with video cameras to monitor activities, a non-toxic smoke generator, a thermostatically controlled hot door, and a phone line, all with the purpose of teaching children how to call 911 in the event of an emergency.

CIVIC CLUB FOCUSES ON FIRE SAFETY — The GFWC Civic Club of Oakland recently received a Safety Sense Grant from the General Federation of Women's Clubs for the local organization's focus on fire safety for both seniors and children. In addition to developing a safety brochure for seniors, the Civic Club also gave a donation to the Firesafe House in Allegany County. See story. Bobby Andersen, special projects chairperson for the club, is pictured above as she presents a check to Ken McKenzie, chairman of the Firesafe House, and Chuck Koelker, Union president. Pictured below as they display the brochure are (standing) Anna Forrester, club president, and Andersen; and seated, Jean Schrider, vice president, and Doris Gaskill, club member.

The unit is mobile, Andersen said, which makes it a more available source of fire safety education for adults, youth, and seniors.

Andersen said the GFWC received hundreds of applications from clubs across the country in competition for the safety grant.

"The Civic Club of Oakland is very proud that 'Safety Smart Seniors' was selected," Andersen said. "We would like to thank the Allstate Foundation and GFWC for making it all possible."

Civic Club members hope to see the project grow, Andersen said. Plans include working with the Cumberland firefighters to bring Firesafe House to Garrett County schools and senior centers.

Persons who would like more information on the Operation Firesafe House may contact Ken McKenzie at 301-729-2064 or 301-546-5539.

The Pioneer Club, which features Bible stories, songs, and games for children in the second through sixth grades, will meet each Wednesday from 6:45 to 8 p.m. from September into May.

Ashby Selected For Natl. Young Leaders Program

Michael Ashby of Accident has been selected to attend the National Young Leaders Conference (NYLC), which will take place from Oct. 16 to 21 in Washington, D.C. The Northern High School senior will be among 350 participants in the six-day leadership development event. Students selected for the NYLC have demonstrated leadership potential and scholastic merit.

The NYLC theme is "The Leaders of Tomorrow Meeting the Leaders of Today." Participants will have the opportunity to interact with key leaders and newsmakers from the three branches of government, the media, and the diplomatic corps.

Highlights of the program will include welcoming remarks from the floor of the U.S. House of Representatives and a panel discussion with prominent journalists at the National Press Club. Ashby will also meet with U.S. senators and a representative or a staff member to discuss important issues facing the nation.

"The National Young Leaders Conference provides an opportunity for students like Michael Ashby to distinguish themselves as tomorrow's leaders," said Michael Lasday, executive director of the Congressional Youth Leadership Council (CYLC), the organization that sponsors the NYLC. "Scholars not only gain knowledge and experience in the nation's capital, they leave with a sense of accomplishment and an increased ability to face the challenges of the future."

Ashby will also participate in a number of leadership skill-building activities. Role-play activities include "If I Were President," during which students act as the president and his Cabinet members as they respond to an international crisis. "Testing the Constitution" gives participants the opportunity to examine and discuss actual Supreme Court cases. The NYLC culminates with a "Model Congress," during which students assume the roles of U.S. representatives and debate, amend, and vote on proposed legislation.

The CYLC is a nonprofit, nonpartisan educational organization. Founded in 1985, it is committed to fostering and inspiring young people to achieve their full leadership potential. Over 425 members of the U.S. Congress join this commitment by serving on the CYLC Honorary Congressional Board of Advisors. Approximately 7,000 youth from across the nation annually participate in one of the 20 sessions of the NYLC.

HYPNOSIS CAN BE VERY DANGEROUS

Never permit yourself to be hypnotized by anyone but a physician or a dentist, who sometimes may use hypnotism as an anesthetic for childbirth, surgery or easing of anxiety or pain. Avoid hypnotists who use it for entertainment. Hypnotism is not a toy.

For in unskilled direction, a reaction may result leaving one with mental disturbances, nausea, with some such cases reported serious enough to need psychiatric treatment or hospitalization. Amateur hypnotists are dangerous.

As our children return to the classroom this fall, we are increasingly aware of dangers to them that most of us have not had to consider in previous years. Children seriously or lethally harming other children is an unprecedented challenge in our society. How can we protect our youth in what has previously been considered a safe and structured environment?

We must pray for the safety and peace of mind of our youngsters. It is important to ask God to work in the hearts and minds of those who shape the moral standards of our nation and the teachers who guide our children. We must make time to talk with our children and listen when they talk to us, for molding young spirits is not accomplished quickly. Lastly, and most importantly, it is imperative that we set the proper example for our youth.

Worship together regularly as a family. Ask your son or daughter to invite a friend to worship. Remember, we are determining the future of our society...for better or for worse.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS
BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

ONLY FIVE LOAVES AND TWO FISH

Sept. 9, 2001

Background Scripture:
Matthew 8:23-27; 14:14-21.
Devotional Reading:
John 6:28-40.

As I write these words, I am sitting in the waiting room of a hospital where my wife, Valere, is taking a stress test to see what is happening with her heart since a "silent heart attack" sometime in the last 12 to 15 months. I am praying that the results of the test will be more encouraging than the one she had last fall. I know that praying does not give me the assurance that my prayers will be answered in the way in which I ask.

So, as I wait, pray and write, I ponder Matthew 8:23-27. The boat of Jesus' disciples is about to be swamped by a great storm on the Sea of Galilee, but Jesus is asleep. I can identify with them when they wake him and shout, "Save Lord; we are perishing" (8:25b). I can also hear in my ears the response with which he awakes: "Why are you afraid, O men of little faith?" I, too, am a man whose faith is often too "little."

When the seas of life are relatively calm, I can speak of the power of prayer with great confidence. But when those seas rage and boil, as sometimes they do, I often find myself in the same boat with the disciples who are certain that they are perishing. Yet, if the disciples had not awakened Jesus, he would not have had the opportunity to ask them—and us—"Why are you afraid?"

Little Faith

It is an important question. Much of our fear, I believe, is based upon the impression that God may not hear and/or respond to our prayer. He may hear sometimes, some people and some requests, but in our hearts we fear that he may not respond this time, to this person, and on this request. That fear, Jesus says, is because we are people of "little faith." We believe in God but we perhaps do not trust God to help us.

God's promise to us is not to save us from our perils—although he often does that as well—but that he will save us in our perils. God did not save Jesus from a cross, but he saved him on the cross, saved him in making him victorious over the cross. That is the same assurance he gives us: he will be with us in our crisis and bring us through to the other side if we accept what he offers us. So, whether God grants us our prayer's desire or whether he gives us the strength to do without it, God is with us in our trial and trouble.

Christian discipleship is not about avoiding crosses, but being victorious over them.

In this particular incident—the great storm—Jesus rose and rebuked the winds and the sea; and there was great calm" (8:26). The "great calm" can be ours whether we escape the storm or weather it and see it through; Jesus can still storms within and storms without.

Having Enough

Another reason for our fear is that we think we

TV PIPELINE

Brenneman was arresting on Blue

By Taylor Michaels
©TVData Features Syndicate

Amy Brenneman

Q: What did Amy Brenneman do before Judging Amy? I don't recall hearing of her before this show. –Clyde Buntting, Burton, Mich.

A: A graduate of Harvard, the stage-trained Brenneman made her TV series debut in the short-lived 1992 CBS drama Middle Ages, but really captured viewers and critics with her performance as Officer Janice Licalsi in NYPD Blue, a role that brought her two Emmy nominations.

She also has starred in the films Casper; Bye Bye, Love; Fear; A.T.F;. and Your Friends & Neighbors, among others.

Q: Has the show Cleopatra 2525 been canceled, or will it return later this season? –Leigh Osborne, Castlewood, Va.

A: Cleo was canceled due to lackluster ratings. Star Gina Torres, who won an ALMA Award for her portrayal of Hel, has joined the cast of Lifetime's Any Day Now.

Q: I understand Jessica Alba of Dark Angel is engaged to marry one of her co-stars. My husband insists that at one time she was married to Billy Bob Thornton. Please help me. –"Soooo right" in Green Bay, Wis.

A: Alba, 20, is indeed engaged to her Angel co-star Michael Weatherly. She has no romantic history with Thornton. Your husband clearly has confused Alba with Angelina Jolie, 26, another exotic beauty who currently is Mrs. Thornton. For the record, that marriage is Jolie's second and Thornton's fifth.

Q: I recently saw Susan Hayward in With a Song in My Heart, and in one scene, I thought I recognized a very young Robert Wagner as a shellshocked GI she was singing to. Was that him? They didn't show the end credits. –D. Wylie, Sarasota, Fla.

A: Good catch! Yes, Song (1952) was Wagner's fifth feature film role.

Q: I hope a lot of readers gave you some richly deserved grief for your idiotic suggestion that Margaret and Tucker Carlson of CNN are married. Check your facts in the future, you moron! –L.K. via e-mail.

A: For the record, the erroneous information you read here came directly from CNN, even after TVPipeline called a second time to re-confirm.

"We apologize for the information you received from CNN concerning the relationship between Margaret Carlson and Tucker Carlson," responds CNN publicist Kelly Keane, who looked into the matter. "As you know, they are not married. They are not even related."

As always, thanks to all readers who took the time to write and point out this error to us.

In Focus

Reba McEntire has long ruled the country music charts. This year, she wowed Broadway in Annie Get Your Gun. Now she stars in Reba, airing on The WB Network Friday, Sept. 14.

In her new sitcom, McEntire plays a soccer mom whose life is not quite as perfect as it seems.

Her character's husband, a gynecologist, is having an affair with a hygienist, who is pregnant. The 17-year-old daughter is also with child, making for an interesting baby boom.

Minor Guilty Of Firearms Charge

An Oakland man was charged and sentenced in Garrett County Circuit Court last Thursday, Aug. 30, for possession of a regulated firearm by a person under the age of 21.

Scott David Collins, 18, was indicted by the March 2001 term of the Grand Jury, who heard from an officer with the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force that an informant had reported that Collins was attempting to sell an assault rifle, representing it to be an automatic weapon. Officers with the Allegany County Narcotics Task Force were then introduced to Collins, who sold the rifle to them for $100. Later testing of the rifle revealed it was a semi-automatic weapon that is, by model alone, a regulated firearm.

Although Collins was only 17 at the time the crime was committed, state law required that he be prosecuted as an adult for this crime.

Collins pleaded guilty in court to the charge of underage possession of a regulated firearm. A second charge for selling the weapon without waiting the mandatory seven days after an application was completed by the purchaser was dismissed upon his plea. Judge James Sherbin sentenced Collins to one year in the Garrett County jail and imposed a fine of $300. The judge suspended eleven months of the sentence, but placed Collins on supervised probation following his release from the local jail.

In another unrelated case heard in circuit court last week, Kenneth Thomas Wiley, 55, Grantsville, pleaded guilty to a second-degree assault charge. Wiley was charged by sheriff's deputies who responded to a reported assault at the residence of Wiley's girlfriend. Upon receiving a statement from the victim and observing scratches to her arms, Wiley was arrested.

During the investigation, officers also reportedly found that Wiley had been drinking earlier in the evening, and that he had driven to the residence. Wiley was, subsequently, also charged with driving while intoxicated. At the hearing last Thursday, however, Welch dismissed the DWI charge stating "There is insufficient evidence to prove Wiley was intoxicated at the time he drove. There was a significant period between the time he was reported driving and the time the officers later determined he was intoxicated at the residence."

Judge Sherbin sentenced Wiley to one year in the Garrett County Jail, but suspended the sentence and placed Wiley on supervised probation.

In other circuit court news, State's Attorney Lisa Thayer Welch dismissed a marijuana possession charge against Krsna Das Twigg, 21, of Oakland. Twigg was arrested by sheriff's deputies last September after his vehicle was observed in the parking lot of a local business during non-business hours. Welch cited a lack of probable cause for the officer to have stopped the vehicle and the inevitable suppression of the marijuana as the reasons for not going forward with the case.

DIABETES SUPPORT GROUP FORMING -- A group of local individuals are working to form a Garrett County Diabetes Support Group. The support group meetings will be held on the second Tuesday of each month from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. at the Mary Browning Senior Center in Oakland. The September meeting will be on Tuesday, Sept. 11, and will include open discussion, recipe sharing, and a survey to see what subjects would be of most interest to the public for future meetings. All recipes brought to share should include nutrition facts. The meetings are open to the public, and there are no fees to join. Some of the topics planned for future meetings are travel, holiday meal planning, diabetic foot care, juvenile (type 1) diabetes, obtaining diabetes supplies and working with insurance companies, and the latest medical advances in treatments and cures. For more information, persons may call Beverly Carvell at the Garrett County Extension Office, 301-334-6960, or Lillie Beckman at 301-533-3000. Pictured seated are Kathy Skipper (left) and Lillie Beckman. Standing are Mary Shreve and Esri George.

Jennings ELCA Women Convene

Women of the ELCA, Zion Lutheran Church, Jennings, held their meeting in the church on August 30.

The study began a new series, "Teach Us To Pray: A Study of the Lord's Prayer." Leota Baker led the first session, Calling Out To God, which focused on the biblical basis for prayer, and led the group members to deepen their understanding of the introduction to the Lord's Prayer and Martin Luther's explanation as taught in the Small Catechism.

Devotions opened with the hymn "All Depends on Our Possessing," and the study concluded with the group praying the Prayer of St. Francis of Assissi.

Judy Stanton presided over the business meeting.

A thank-you letter was received from Our Savior's Lutheran Church in Box Elder, Mont., upon receipt of a package of clothing sent by Zion's unit for the church's clothing give-away to the Rocky Boy Native Americans.

Nine dozen washcloths were received in the recent "Shower for Kane," and have been sent to the Lutheran Home at Kane, Pa.

The quarterly offering was sent to the American Bible Society for the Bible-A-Month ministry.

Northern Garrett GOP Club Meets

The Northern Garrett County Republican Women's Club met last Tuesday, Aug. 28, at the Hill Top Inn in Grantsville. A talk on diabetes was given, along with the regular business meeting.

The guest speaker for the event was Robin Bissell, M.D., of Grantsville, who was introduced by Carolyn Ganoe, club president. Dr. Bissel's topic was the effects of diabetes on the heart, feet, eyes, kidneys, and blood vessels, and how the disease can be controlled.

The organization also recognized Cleda Baker's 89th birthday, and noted that she has never missed an opportunity to vote since becoming a registered voter at age 18. The group also noted that Baker has always voted Republican. The women celebrated the event by singing "Happy Birthday" and serving cake and ice cream.

Minutes from the last meeting were read by Lois Rowe, and the treasurer's report was given by Louise McKenzie. The club president reported that the fall convention would be held in Columbia in October. She also indicated that a name had been submitted by the club for the "My Teacher" award.

The August fruit basket was won by Twila Mae Fike, who was present for the meeting. The proceeds from the chances on the basket netted $26. Lillian Crowe, Mary Durst, Connie Burdock, and Ganoe will bring the September basket to the next meeting.

Also in attendance for the meeting were Stella Edwards, Gloria Neheim, Mildred Husselbaugh, Zeola Robeson, Brenda Butscher, and Mary Hebb.

The next club meeting is set for Tuesday, Sept. 25.

Q. My father saved my old toy Kidillac-model pedal car. It is almost as good as new. Can you give me any information about it?

A. Your father did you a big favor. The Kidillac pedal car is probably the most famous ever made. It was introduced in 1956 by Garton Toy Co. of Sheboygan, Wis., and was produced for several years. General Motors, which makes Cadillacs, approved Garton's production of the toy car. Garton, founded in 1887, made tricycles, scooters, wagons, pedal cars and other riding toys until 1973. A Kidillac in top condition can sell for more than $1,000.

Why Should I Crate My Dog?

Q. What's all this talk about putting dogs in crates? When I was young, no one put their puppies into cages. Why is everyone recommending it now?

A. That's a good question — and the answer is just as valid.

When I was a girl, none of my pets were placed in crates, either. Our dogs (and cats) had a big backyard to play in and a couple miles of orange groves behind that to roam around in. We had only a few neighbors, and they let their dogs roam, as well.

Of course, that was then. My childhood home is no longer an idyllic country retreat. The orange groves have been replaced by subdivisions, with lots so small that houses are pressed as close together as apartments. The fact is, there are more pet owners out there and fewer spaces for pets to roam. A rambling, happy-go-lucky pooch, minimally trained and rarely supervised, is sure to cause concern throughout the neighborhood.

That's why properly training your dog — housebreaking and basic commands — is more important today than ever before. The crate is part of this training.

Crating is not a new idea: Professional trainers have used them for many years, with great success.

The idea behind the crate is that it plays up to a dog's inherent instincts. When used correctly, your pet sees the crate as its den, a protected hideaway where it can escape training, scolding, crowds of visitors, teasing children, and so on.

The crate provides a more structured environment for your dog: At bedtime, it goes into its crate for the night. When it must be left alone, it goes into the crate for a few hours (no more than four, at first, and never more than eight). Each time it is let out, the dog is taken for a walk. Sticking to this regimen helps create a confident, happier pet that is easier to train and socialize.

The crate should never be used to punish a dog. In fact, "punishment" is one of my least favorite words to use around pets. "Correction" is a better definition, and correction is not accomplished by tossing your puppy into its crate every time it makes a mistake.

Sorry to get preachy, but I've seen the crate misused, and the results are never good. I've seen pet owners use their crates properly as well, and without fail their dogs are far better behaved.

So, even though I knew nothing of crates as a child — even if I had, I would have had the same doubts that you do — I recommend them as a training aid. Just be sure to pick up a book or two on puppy training along with the crate, and incorporate patience and love into the training regimen. You'll have great results.

BBBS Lunch Buddy Program Is Successful; New Mentors Needed

Because of the success of the Garrett County Big Brothers Big Sisters (BBBS) first year pilot programs at Dennett Road and Accident Elementary schools, the school-based mentoring program is being expanded to Broad Ford Elementary School, according to a BBBS spokesperson.

In the Lunch Buddy program, volunteers are matched with elementary school children who will benefit from some extra adult attention and encouragement. The volunteers come to school one day per week to share lunch, conversation, and other activities with their Little Lunch Buddies.

Recent studies have shown mentoring to be a highly effective tool in addressing the needs of youth, the spokesperson said. Initial results from the Lunch Buddy program are considered impressive by the local organizers. In a survey conducted at the end of the school year with the teachers, they reported that of the children involved in the program, 74% improved in self-confidence, 54% improved in academic performance, 61% improved in attitude toward school, 59% showed greater trust toward their teachers, 58% had better relationships with adults, and 51% had better relationships with peers.

The Lunch Buddy program enables BBBS to serve more children more completely in Garrett County, as the structure and timing of the school-based match meetings offer an appealing option for mentors who might not be able to serve in the traditional community-based match program. The one-hour per week meeting at the school includes eating lunch together, playing games, reading, playing on the playground, doing schoolwork, or selecting one of the other activities found in the "lunch buddy box," located at each school.

Volunteers surveyed at the end of the pilot year all indicated that they had enjoyed meeting with their child, and felt a sense of accomplishment and fulfillment. One Big Lunch Buddy, Elizabeth Harrison, requested that her lunch buddy commitment be converted to a community-based match so that she and her "buddy" Misty could get together more often, outside the school setting and year-round.

At the conclusion of the school year, picnics were held at Accident and Dennett Road elementary schools, where the pilot programs took place. Each Lunch Buddy was presented with a picture of his or her match, plus a BBBS insulated lunch bag.

Those offering their help in the success of the program included Accident Elementary principal Sandy Nesline and counselor Kay Fresh; Dennett Road principal Gary Galloway and counselor Tim Watson; BBBS board member Ed Hill and BBBS county coordinator JoAnn Fletcher; and caseworkers Rae Ellen Finn and Betsy Herpel.

Herpel was hired to be the Lunch Buddy caseworker late in the school year, a position to which she returns this fall.

Big Lunch Buddies for the 2001-2002 school year are: Sandy Bell, Robin Bittinger, Jennifer Broadwater, Larry Bruch, Pat Copeland, Debbie and Maury Feinstein, Ed Hill, Scott Johnson, Kathy Kessler, Larry Nesline, Camille Spurr, and Tammy Stewart. New Lunch Buddies are Ann Hill, Matt Novak, and Lisa Thayer Welch. More Lunch Buddies are being sought, as the goal is to serve 40 children this year.

Grants to help fund the pilot year were provided by Garrett County Partnership for Children and Families and Big Brothers Big Sisters of America. Donations were received from several community groups and individuals.

A murder mystery event is being planned to be performed during Autumn Glory as a fund-raiser for the program. Volunteers will be needed to act in the "whodunit," as well as to help with other functions surrounding the shows. To learn more about this fund-raiser, or for more information about volunteering for the Lunch Buddy or the Big Brothers Big Sister community-based program, persons may call the local office at 301-334-3591 or 800-400-0735.

GCC Trustees Elect New Officers

ROB MICHAEL

by Joan Crawford

"It's all in the family" is what might be said of the Garrett Community College board of trustees that will continue to be led by graduates of the college, with the recent change of officers. Rob W. Michael has succeeded Douglas L. Sites as chairperson of the board, and George Tichnell has become vice chairperson. All three men graduated from GCC.

Michael, owner of Rob Michael Insurance Agency in Oakland, entered GCC as a freshman in 1972 when the campus contained three buildings and about 150 students were enrolled. He soon became a campus leader, being elected as vice president, then as president of the Student Government Association. Since that time, he has served the college in every dimension—as a founder and first president of the GCC Alumni Association, as a member of the GCC Foundation Board, as adjunct instructor, and then as a member of the board of trustees appointed in 1992.

He now finds it interesting to reflect on his years of affiliation with the college and takes pride in the growth and development GCC has experienced since he was a student. "This is a wonderful time for GCC," he said. "Good programs provide great opportunities for students in the community. GCC is now recognized throughout the country, and even internationally. The good leadership we have is paying off in huge dividends."

Michael remembers the feeling of "family" in the campus environment when he was a student, and he thinks it is still there. "GCC has come a long way," he stated, "with many accomplishments due to hard work and dedication of the administration, faculty and staff, but it is still a family."

Beyond the college, Michael has been a leader in community affairs, having served as a member of the Garrett County Memorial Hospital board of governors, vice president of Greater Oakland Business Association, chairman of town of Oakland Zoning Board of Appeals, board of directors of Target, member of the board of the Garrett County/Deep Creek Lake Promotion Council, and as a coach for youth league baseball and basketball. He currently chairs the Garrett County Civil Service Board.

A graduate of Davis and Elkins College in West Virginia with a dual major in management/marketing and economics, he has received various industry awards, including member of the State Farm Ambassadors Club, Regional Council vice president, and National Life Underwriters Producer Award. He was the first state farm agent in Maryland to hold a securities license and is a requested keynote speaker for various insurance seminars. Michael lives in Oakland with his wife Barbara, son Emmett and daughter Bailey.

Tichnell, who was appointed to the GCC board of trustees in 2000, is vice president of operations for the Western Maryland Region of Mettiki Coal. After graduating from GCC in 1976 he entered directly into industry and has held several operational and managerial positions during his 24 years of service with Mettiki. He has extensive experience in operations, engineering, construction management, public and government relations, human resources, contract negotiations, land management and environmental affairs.

Tichnell is currently responsible for managing the mining operations of Mettiki Coal, Garrett County Coal, and Mettiki Coal of West Virginia, including mine planning, scheduling, marketing, budgeting, and business development. He has completed numerous industry seminars and training programs, and he holds electrical certifications with the West Virginia Department of Energy and the U.S. Department of Labor. Tichnell lives in Oakland with his wife Barbara and sons George Jr. and Jeffrey.

The third member of the GCC "family," Doug Sites, is employed by Gress Equipment Company of Accident. Following his 1995 graduation from GCC, where he was vice president of the Student Government Association, he completed a bachelor's degree in business administration at Frostburg State University. He was appointed to the GCC board of trustees in 1991 and served as vice chairperson from 1993 until 1998, when he succeeded Charles "Bus" Bender as chairperson. He will continue to serve on the board. Sites is married to the former Donna Nutter, also a GCC graduate and member of the GCC Foundation board of directors.

Notes from Bittinger

by Joan Sussman

How in the world can I do this column this Tuesday morning after a busy Labor Day weekend? I want to go to the "Back To School Night" at Accident Elementary School this evening to meet Accident's new principal, Sheila Miller. Sheila replaces Bittinger's own Sandy Nesline after she took a leave of absence because of her bad back, which is too bad to keep up with her hectic job running the show at Accident. She is quite confident that Sheila can handle the job.

Actually I do know Sheila, as first of all she is the daughter of Oren and Fanny Bender, pastor at Cherry Glade Mennonite Church. She also was a star student in my class at Garrett Community College during the mid-late 1980s. She was in my class during the period when I took my infant daughter Claire along to work at the college. I can still remember Sheila cheering up cranky baby Claire by making a buzzing noise with her lips. So she has one important characteristic of a good educator, a sense of humor and ability to have fun with the little ones. She is responsible, well organized, and intelligent.

I also know Mere's fifth grade teacher this year, as she also was a top student of mine. Just a few years ago she had my Caitlin in her class. Caitlin adored her as much as I did when she was my student and she was Angela Bittinger. Caity was among her class when she was expecting her first baby. She returns to her job pretty soon for a delighted new mother, but she is probably used to juggling motherhood and her job.

Mere's teacher, Christine Ashby, has returned after she became a mother last winter. Both of Mere's teachers have two beautiful little baby girls. I hope they bring them along tonight for the "Back To School Night." When a new baby appears at school activities, he/she always draws a big crowd of baby-crazed mothers. You have to fight to get a chance to get a close look at the newcomer. It is just like when I used to take my new babies to the college and they drew an unruly crowd of female students clamoring to get a chance to hold the baby.

For a long time my siblings and I always got a hoard of "cityslicker" big kids who became our Labor Day extended family. Even though we did not plan any big thing this Labor Day weekend, some of the closest members of the clan still showed up. Since the farm life is upset and in a state of flux, the main place to pitch the tents and camp out was at cousin Courtney's new home in the Cove. He also hosted the Saturday evening party. My girls and I went there with Courtney's mother, Helen Englar of Westminster, and her sister, Aunt Dot Quaintance, now living with her son and family in upstate New York. Both Helen and Dot were here to give a dose of loving care to their brother Dale, who is on another break from his hospitalizations, and of course to visit with other family members around their home base, the farm I now live on.

Dale was a recent guest at Jim Glotfelty's family picnic. Jim has some heart problems, which go up and down, but at present are more or less stable. Dale brought along to the birthday party of his sister-in-law, Ruth DiPaolo, a dozen ears of Jimmy's fresh sweet corn.

Helen, Dot, and I were early home-goers from the Saturday evening festivities at Courtney's and we enjoyed one of the best scenic wonders of our home country. The summer mists that rise above the many wetlands and glade after a hot day turned into a quite cool evening, especially lovely on a night with a full moon that lit them in silvery shimmer. We checked out the scene at the Glade on Mosser Road where the Glotfelty original homestead was located, and then we cut over on Foy Road to the bottom of Negro Mountain. But undoubtedly the best was looking down along Peat Moss Road. It is always a stunning sight, which I have enjoyed since I was a young child.

Even with our sightseeing side trips we still beat my girls home, since they refused to leave as early as we did and rode home with their cousins, the Bass family or the Rodney Glotfelty family. They were held spellbound by a ghost storytelling around a big bonfire, especially one that was told by their Great Aunt Dot about when her grandfather Brenneman was dying. The family gathered in the kitchen and they heard ghost music from the big old cookstove just at the same time he passed away.

The younger generation just adore the "big kids" from the city that they only see just one or two times a year. They love to show off and chat with interesting and lovely adults like Mary Francis, who is an ICU nurse from Philadelphia, Matt Burkhart, who is a computer whiz kid from Frederick, and Jim Fey, the National Geographic employee from Washington, D.C., and of course they dragged poor "Snake Jim" on the annual snake walk/hunt. This year's most exciting find was a tiny bright orange frog.

After their late night Saturday, they were eager to go up to Aunt Carol Bass's traditional egg burritos breakfast on Sunday morning. Then back to the Basses for Sunday dinner, which was quite a production, with the kitchen filled with three or four adults cooking and a big gang of junior helpers, followed by another cool evening of rousing conversations. It really is astonishing how the warm days turn into really cool evenings as soon as the sun sets.

We were back at the "party center," the Bass home, on Sunday evening for a pasta dinner produced by Chef Mary Francis and helpers. My girls insisted that I drop them off there Tuesday morning to catch their bus so they can say another goodbye to the "big kids from the city." Since they do not have any children themselves, they always are intrigued with our kids giving them their full attention and talking about different worlds. They were impressed by how well behaved and smart and helpful our kids were.

Last night I heard a pack of coyotes back of the Peat Bog. Barry heard the same thing as he slept out at Courtney's. Barry and his "better half," Lisa Sheirer, stopped by here this morning, and they were quite impressed by the gang of goldfinches that were very busy at our thistle seed feeder. My front window was just a blur of yellow-greenish birds. I believe there were at least a few young ones. It is hard to tell the females from their young. Either way, the daddy bright yellow ones dominated the feeders.

It is frightening how fast the trees are turning color and how the last few hard rain showers have made many fall off. Will we get any real fall this year, or will we just have a long gray rainy season until the snow starts flying in early November?

The Poholsky family held their annual garage sale during the Labor Day weekend. While I shopped, Sally picked some of her yellow snapdragons for my dolls and scribbled a couple news items on a scrap of paper which I am just now trying to decipher. It is a little unclear in some detail, but I am going to try to make it out the best I can.

Lenny's daughter, Pam Poholsky of Murraysville, Pa., was a recent weekend guest of Lenny, Sally, and Torrey Poholsky. In other news from the Beachy clan, Dave and Nancy Beachy of McHenry were Labor Day holiday weekend guests of Brent, Kelly, and Wyatt Beachy, and the newest member of the family, Teagan Beachy, at their new home in Grand Rapids, Mich.

A work party was held on Labor Day Monday to plant some mums, wash windows, and generally prepare the education building for the reopening of Sunday school on Sunday, Sept. 16, at 9 a.m. Those present also enjoyed a covered dish picnic. Among the willing workers were Susan and Jim Liller, Bob and Margie Brenneman, Jacki Warne, the Hadys, Doris Knox, Rita Knox, the Simpsons, and Nancy Garlitz. I forget who I saw lounging under the maple trees during the lunch break when I had to swing by that part of Bittinger to collect another copy of the flyer for the program at Cherry Glade Church on September 14-15 on the history of the early Amish and Mennonite settlers around the Bittinger area known as "The Fork."

Many present Bittinger families are rooted in that wave of settlers, including the Yoders, Benders, Beitzels, Bielers, Brennemans, and Orendorfs. I was surprised to learn from Aunt Helen that some of the Brennemans were Lutherans, as well as the Glotfelty and Buckel/Buckle family. In any case, our area was a mixture of various reformed sects from the Swiss-German area, which included Amish, Mennonite, Lutheran, and Brethren. Members of one family had members of various denominations. The program is part of the annual meeting of Casselman area Amish and Men-

Horse Liniment Eases Arthritis Pain

OCALA, FL -- An ingredient derived from hot peppers that decreases inflammation in racehorse's legs, is now recognized as safe and effective for human use. The ingredient has been formulated into a product called ARTH-Rx™ and comes in a strength designed for humans. Researchers are excited and say the formula can relieve arthritis pain for millions.

Developed by the Phillips Gulf Corporation, ARTH-Rx is a breakthrough in the treatment of painful disorders ranging from minor aches and pains to more serious conditions such as arthritis, bursitis, rheumatism, tendonitis, backache and more.

Although the mechanism by which ARTH-Rx works to relieve pain is not totally clear, scientists suggest that pain is relieved because ARTH-Rx intercepts the messenger substance that sends pain signals to the brain.

ARTH-Rx is available in a convenient roll-on applicator without a prescription. According to a spokesperson for the company, due to the overwhelming demand for ARTH-Rx, supplies are sometimes limited. ARTH-Rx can also be ordered by calling 1-800-729-8446. © 2000 PGC

Powell Completes Weatherization Program Courses

Rodney Powell, a staff member of the Weatherization Department of Garrett County Community Action, is the first GCCAC employee to successfully complete all the state required weatherization classes and training. Powell received five days of training, and passed an exam, on each of the following topics: Home Energy Auditing, Combustion Analysis and Retrofit Gas, Visual Assessment Course, Combustion Analysis and Retrofit Oil, Introduction to Residential Heating Systems, Diagnostic Approaches to Weatherization, and Weatherization Tactics I and II.

Powell, who has been employed with the local Weatherization Department for three years, "is a real asset to the program, and has received many positive comments from the homeowners whom he has helped," according to GCCAC housing administrative assistant and weatherization coordinator Brenda Roszell.

The Community Action Weatherization Program is designed to help income eligible families and elderly reduce their heating costs, improve the integrity of their homes and reduce health risks posed by inadequate heating systems. "Because of the long winters, Garrett County residents spend a lot of time indoors, especially the elderly, and the quality of the indoor environment has a definite impact on their health and well-being," Roszell said.

For information about the Weatherization Program, persons may call GCCAC's Weatherization Department 301-334-9431, ext. 147.

SEPTEMBER "FORGET-ME-NOT" MONTH — The Garrett County Commissioners in their weekly public meeting this Tuesday proclaimed September as "Forget-Me-Not" Month in commemoration of veterans. During the month, members of Chapter 29 of the Disabled American Veterans (DAV) and their auxiliary unit (DAVA) will be at various businesses throughout the county distributing simulated forget-me-not flowers for donations. In the proclamation, the commissioners noted that the forget-me-nots were "reminders of the lasting debt of gratitude to all who have valiantly fought to protect our freedoms." All proceeds from the flowers will benefit local veterans and their families. Shown in the photo above are members of the DAV and DAVA receiving the proclamation from the commissioners. In the first row, left to right, are Charles (Mac) McCrum, adjutant and treasurer; Cecil Uphold, commander; Commissioner Fred Holliday; Lee Steyer, sergeant-at-arms; Lena Uphold, commander of auxiliary; Clara Gauer, past commander of auxiliary; Ralph McPhail, chaplain. In the second row, left to right, are Wayne Stewart, judge advocate; (partially hidden) Bill Meyers, sr. vice commander; Gerald Sanders, jr. vice commander; Commissioner Ernest Gregg; Bushrod K. Hardesty, member; Wilda Sanders, jr. vice commander of auxiliary; and Commissioner Wendell Beltzel.

nonite historians, starting on Friday evening with a business meeting at 7 p.m., followed with worship and dinner speakers. Saturday's program will feature speakers, including Paul Yoder of Grantsville, my next door neighbor Danny Bieler, Leora Yaste, and others, who will cover various aspects of the early history of our area. Lunch will be served.

Then a bus tour will cover notable historical sites in the "Fork Area," including old cemeteries, the original Cherry Glade Amish Church, and possibly our farm, which was an early home of a Yoder family, and a tiny cemetery with just a few old fieldstone grave stones that marked the graves of seven children who died in one early epidemic during the mid-seventeenth century. Boarding will be at 1:15 p.m. at Cherry Glade Mennonite Church, and the tour will run until about 3:15 p.m. The fee will be $15. For more information, call Cherry Glade Church at 301-245-4250.

A somewhat related item — On Saturday afternoon I enjoyed a brief visit from Molly Vick of McLean, Va., who also has a mountaintop home near Aurora, W.Va., with her was her friend from that neck of the woods, Jean Whitehair, who came to look at my nature dolls and remind me about Molly's upcoming art show at the Gallery on Alder Street, Oakland, this coming Saturday evening, Sept. 8, from 7 to 9 p.m. Molly's favorite subject for her art is the farmer and other country folk who attend the livestock auctions in our area. Molly loved to go to the auctions and draw the people, including many Amish and Mennonite folk. The historians who gather at Cherry Glade should also check out her art. I must say it is an odd subject for a former ballet dancer. She danced in New York for several years and now runs a dance school in Northern Virginia and spends most of her weekends at her family homeplace on that mountaintop near Aurora. It is too bad that her opening is the same weekend as the historian meeting, but I am sure they could get the Gallery to open for them.

A series of Bible study meetings began last night and will continue on Wednesdays at 6 p.m. in the education building of Emmanuel Lutheran Church. Of course, when you read this you have already missed the first one. Sorry about that. By the way, Pastor Pat and her family are on vacation September 4-11.

I was too busy to find out about other news around the "Fork Areas."

I guess we have at least one bear on our farm. A friend of my mother who scouts deer saw one running up from the woods toward the barn. So far no one in my family has sighted it. Although I believe they wouldn't bother people unless you bother them, I am not sure enough to bet my daughters' lives on that belief. If one of my girls wants to walk cross-county to her friends' home, I think from now on I will send along our nice big black dog, Boo.

Last weekend my aunts embarked on a major elderberry pie binge. Aunt Dot said she really craved that kind of pie when she lived in New Mexico. We never tried to mail a jar of berries to her. So Helen and Dot hit the fence rows and the woods to find as many elderberries as possible that the birds had not already gotten. They reported to me they saw a whole bunch of bear signs in the skunk cabbage along the creek. As I write this paragraph, Mere wants to walk over to Hannah's house, so along with Boo she is off and now I will wait for her phone call that she arrived safely. Of course, instead of Boo following her, she is scratching to get back in the house.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Myers and Mr. and Mrs. Donald Brand, all of Morgantown, W.Va., were Thursday visitors of Russell and Dorothy Teets.

Mrs. Nora Breighner and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Halle and son Bobby, Cresaptown, were recent visitors of the Teetses. They also visited Ferne Beachy the same day.

Mike and Peggy Biggs were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs Russell Teets, along with Mike and Judy Simpson, and Laura and David Taylor.

Betty and Ellis Sacra, Partlow, Va., visited with Ruth DiPaolo over the Labor Day holiday. Loretta Opel and Ginny Hesson visited on Saturday and Sunday nights.

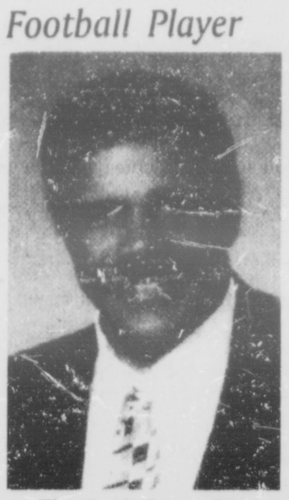
Loch Lynn Church To Host Former Football Player



The Loch Lynn Church of God is helping sponsor a series of local appearances by evangelist and former professional football player Joe Jackson the weekend of Friday through Sunday, Sept. 14-16. Jackson will share his anti-drug and alcohol ministry with students at Southern Middle School Friday morning during a 10 a.m. assembly, which will be followed by a 2 p.m. appearance that afternoon at Southern High School.

An "All Area Football Rally" is set for 6 p.m. Saturday at the Loch Lynn Church of God. Football players of all ages, and their families, are encouraged to attend the rally, as Jackson will tailor his evangelistic message to a football theme. Jackson will lead each of the three Sunday worship services at the Loch Lynn Church of God the following day, at 8 a.m., 11 a.m., and 6 p.m.

Jackson was an NFL defensive end with the Minnesota Vikings and New York Jets. A member of the Vikings' famed "Purple People Eaters" defensive line, he finished second in quarterback sacks as a rookie, and helped Minnesota to an appearance in Super Bowl XI. An ordained minister, Jackson serves as president of Athletes International Ministries of Phoenix, Ariz., which sponsors a music ministry, school assemblies, and a prison outreach.

The Loch Lynn Church of God is located along First Avenue, and the pastors are Revs. Ivan and Cindy Ackerman. For further information on Joe Jackson's local schedule, persons may call 301-3341237 or 301-259-2277.

Racing The Clock, Congress Gears Up For Farm Bill Debate

If all goes as planned, this month will see the start of a serious farm policy debate in Washington, one in which all the major players finally take the field. The result could be a replacement for the 1996 "Freedom to Farm" measure, a year earlier than required by law.

Throughout most of this year, the House Agriculture Committee has dominated the debate, holding hearings early in the year and then producing a farm bill before Congress left for the August recess. The committee action fulfilled panel Chairman Larry Combest's (R-Texas) pledge to complete a measure in time for fall consideration, a feat many in Washington doubted could be done.

As a result, the committee plan is tentatively scheduled for consideration by the full House the week of Sept. 10. Rep. Charlie Stenholm (D-Texas), the Agriculture Committee's lead Democrat who co-authored the measure with Combest, said he hopes the House approves the measure by the end of September.

Stenholm also said Congress must approve a new farm bill by year's end. Otherwise, he said, congressional concern over the evaporating budget surplus could erode the funds available for the farm bill if the legislation is still being debated next year.

The American Farm Bureau Federation supports the House Agriculture Committee bill. AFBF President Bob Stallman said it was "balanced and equitable," given the budget guidelines it had to follow. Farm Bureau has contended that farmers need more than the $7-$8 billion a year allocated for farm spending by the federal budget plan, but has acknowledged that budget restrictions make that difficult. Stallman said Farm Bureau wants a new bill this year.

Until recently, none of the other major players — the Senate Agriculture Committee and the Bush administration — shared Combest's and Stenholm's urgency. It was understandable, given both the normal transition period for a new administration and the mid-year game of musical chairs triggered by the Democrats' takeover of the Senate.

If part of Combest's mission was to get the attention of his Senate counterparts, he succeeded. Senate Agriculture Committee Chairman Tom Harkin (D-Iowa) and Sen. Richard Lugar (R-Ind.), Harkin's predecessor and now the committee's ranking member, said two weeks ago they will work together to write a farm bill next month.

In doing so, however, Harkin and Lugar made it clear they prefer a sharply different measure than the House committee bill. Both criticized the bill for making commodity-based payments similar to the 1996 law, with some adjustments.

Harkin, as the author of the proposed Conservation Security Act, advocates a greater emphasis on conservation as the basis for making payments to farmers. He hasn't yet spelled out how much he would like to shift from the commodity-based payments endorsed by the House panel to conservation programs. In addition to conservation, he said last week he would like the farm bill to include a new income-support system, provisions to encourage farm-grown energy production, and new rural development initiatives.

The task in the Senate may be complicated by what happened with the emergency farm assistance package signed into law last week by President Bush. The Senate voted for a $7.4 billion measure, nearly $2 billion more than the House. But Senate leaders, under deadline pressure and veto threats from the administration, had to accept the House version. Senate leaders have vowed to provide $2 billion more in farm aid, and that could slow work on the long-term farm bill this fall.

The speeded-up farm bill timetable is really a race against anticipated bad news on the budget surplus front. This week the Congressional Budget Office released a "budget outlook" that shows the budget surplus has shrunk. Last week, however, the Bush administration made an accounting change in the Social Security program that would increase the surplus by $4 billion. The divergent views about the surplus could mean a new fight in Congress over all spending, which wouldn't help the farm bill's sprint to the finish line this year.

Technically, the $73 billion in additional farm spending allocated to a new farm bill is safe from tinkering, triggered by revised budget projections. In reality, it may be difficult to protect politically.

Perhaps the biggest unknown factor is the Bush administration. USDA officials have yet to weigh in on any of the numerous farm policy proposals floated this year. USDA had said it would release a "statement of principles" regarding the farm bill this summer; September is now the target date.

THE RESERVE GRAND CHAMPION MARKET LAMB was owned and sold by Nathan Glass, son of W. Mark Glass and Suzanne R. Estock. Downpours Fail To Hamper Corn Harvest In Md.

With the exception of a few scattered thunderstorms, last week was relatively dry. Maryland farmers spent an average of 5.7 days on field work such as harvesting corn for grain and silage. Corn harvesting began last week with 4 percent of the corn crop harvested for grain, 2 percent behind last year, and 1 percent behind the five-year average; 18 percent is harvested for silage, 4 percent behind last year and 5 percent behind the average. Corn is in mostly good condition, with 15 percent rated in excellent condition, 54 percent good, 20 percent fair, 8 percent poor, and 3 percent very poor.

Fruit harvest continues with 22 percent of the apples harvested, matching last year and 2 percent ahead of the five-year average. Apples are rated 74 percent in good condition, 22 percent fair, 2 percent poor, and 2 percent very poor. The peach harvest is nearly complete with 90 percent harvested, 3 percent ahead of last year and 2 percent behind the average.

Topsoil and subsoil moisture are mostly at adequate levels. Topsoil moisture is rated 8 percent surplus, 73 percent adequate, 16 percent short, and 3 percent very short. Subsoil moisture is now 2 percent surplus, 75 percent adequate, 15 percent short, and 8 percent very short.

Harvesting Corn Silage

Corn harvested for silage yields about one-third more feed nutrients per acre than corn harvested for grain. Corn in the full-dent stage produces 50% more feed than in the milk stage and 100% more feed than in the silking stage. Corn harvested in the milk or silking stage can result in poorer-quality silage because of its high moisture content.

One of the most important steps in producing quality corn silage is to harvest at the proper moisture for your operation. This moisture level depends on the type of structure in which the crop is to be stored. Desired moisture levels for different structures are as follows: for sealed airtight silos, 60-65%; for upright silos, 63-68%; and for trench silos, 65-70%. Ideally, moisture levels in the silage should be monitored at harvesting to prevent harvesting the crop outside the desired range. If moisture testing is not feasible, then you can estimate crop moisture by the stage of crop development.

As kernels start to dent, a separation between kernel starch and milk can be seen. The firm starch is deposited in the crown (outer) area of the kernel, and the milk occupies the basal area of the kernel. A whitish line appears, separating the two areas. As the crop matures, this kernel milk line moves down the kernel, and whole plant moisture declines. When the milk line reaches the base of the kernel, a black layer forms and the crop is physiologically mature.

Recent research has shown the kernel milk line to be a rough indicator of corn silage moisture levels. On the average, silage moisture levels will be about 70% at full dent, when the milk line first appears, and will fall to 60% at physiological maturity (black layer). There often is considerable variation between years, however, and when conditions have been particularly dry or wet for several weeks prior to harvest, the moisture can be as much as 5 percentage units different from that predicted by the milk line. When this line reaches the midpoint of the kernel (half milk line), silage yields reach a maximum and the crop moisture level should be near 65%. At this point, the stover part of the plant has good digestibility, and the moisture is at the desired level for storage in airtight silos.

If the corn is to be stored in bunker or upright silos, a higher moisture level and a slightly earlier harvest (one-third milk line) are recommended. By monitoring the progression of the milk line, you can predict harvest time. Do not delay silage harvest beyond the black layer point because the silage gets too dry, the kernels tend to harden, and the digestibility of the stover declines rapidly.

The desired chopping length for corn silage is 3/8- to 3/4-inch long. The optimum particle size will depend on the ration and the amount of processing following harvest. High corn silage rations, for example, require a coarser chop. Corn silage also can be processed to crack the kernels during harvest or at the silo. This allows corn to be chopped at a longer theoretical length and still be packed effectively. Processing also can be effective at reducing kernel passage that occurs when the kernels in the silage are hard, and can reduce sorting by cows in the feedbunk. Some studies have indicated a milk response when silage is processed, but the conditions that result in a response still are not well known.

If you harvest silage without a processor when crop moisture is lower than desired, consider chopping finer than normal to promote good packing and minimize air pockets in the silage.

Start Planning Weed Control Strategies Now!

Now is the time to grab your field history book and head into the fields to record the type and severity of the weeds. Identifying the weed population is the most important step in planning your weed control program for next season. For example, if you have a medium to high population of pigweed or lambsquarters, you can pretty well bet that they will be a potential huge problem next year. A mature pigweed will drop an average of 130,000 seeds. Knowing what weeds you will be dealing with is certainly an economic plus.

West Nile Virus Equine Vaccine Gains Approval

A new vaccine to protect horses from the West Nile virus is being distributed to veterinarians in Maryland and other states. Fort Dodge Animal Health, a division of American Home Products Corporations, developed and is marketing the vaccine following its approval by the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service (APHIS) West Nile viral encephalitis (WNV), like Eastern equine encephalomyelitis (EEE), is spread by mosquitoes from infected birds to humans, horses, and various species of birds.

A conditional license was issued at the beginning of last month by the USDA-APHIS Center for Veterinary Biologics for an equine WNV vaccine. The vaccine is a killed virus product that initially has a one-year license. Conditional licensing means that the product has been shown to be safe, pure, and have a reasonable expectation of efficacy in preventing illness caused by WNV. Because use of this vaccine is restricted to veterinarians, horse owners should contact their veterinarian to find out more about its availability and use. The manufacturer of the vaccine recommends giving two intramuscular doses of 1 milliliter each, 3 to 6 weeks apart.

"The West Nile virus vaccine for horses is very new and may be in limited supply for now, but we expect most equine veterinarians will acquire enough vaccine for their clients," said state veterinarian Dr. Roger Olson, who has authorized use of the vaccine in Maryland. "More animals recover from WNV than from EEE, but many do not. Some die and others are humanely destroyed because of permanent brain or spinal cord damage."

Although the probability is low for horses to contract West Nile virus, it is spreading rapidly east of the Mississippi River, and owners should consider asking their veterinarian about having horses, ponies, or mules vaccinated, Olson added.

Maryland horse owners should be alert for any of the following symptoms in their animals: apprehension, depression, listlessness, trembling, head shaking, lower lip or tongue paralysis, lack of coordination or staggering, weakness of hind legs, paralysis, or sudden death. If any of these symptoms are observed, a veterinarian should be contacted immediately.

The most recent confirmed diagnosis of West Nile virus or EEE in a Maryland horse was in 1996 on the lower Eastern Shore. The last human EEE case in the state was in 1989, and resulted in death. For information regarding EEE or WNV, persons may call the Garrett County State Animal Health Laboratory, which is located along Oakland Sang Run Road, at 301-334-2185, or Olson at 410-841-5810.

REVISED ELIGIBILITY FOR THE 1998 CROP LOSS DISASTER ASSISTANCE PROGRAM MULTI-YEAR BENEFITS

The Agricultural Risk Protection Act of 2000 retroactively revised the eligibility requirements for the multi-year benefits under the 1998 Crop Loss Disaster Program (CLDAP). Producers that otherwise would have qualified for the 1998 CLDAP multi-year benefit, in the absence of legal restructuring of their farming operation, or that may have operated under multiple entities in the years of 1994 through 1998, may now be eligible.

Eligible producers include those that either previously filed an application and did not meet the eligibility requirements; now meet the eligibility requirements, but did not previously file an application; or received a payment for single-year losses and did not initially qualify for multi-year benefit but now qualify for multi-year benefits under the revised eligibility requirements. Any producer that was eligible for a payment under multi-year CLDAP, even though a payment may not have been received, is ineligible to receive additional payment under this provision.

Applicants must have either received an indemnity, 1994 ad hoc crop disaster assistance, or NAP payment as an individual as a member of a joint operation or entity in at least 3 of 5 years from 1994 through 1998.

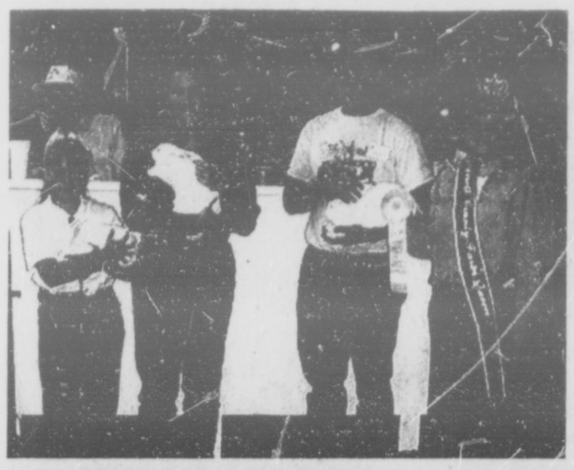
Information on the farming operations contributing to the loss calculations must include: Form CCC-502, Farm Operating Plan for Payment Eligibility Review; Form CCC-501A, Members Information (if applicable); Form AD-1026, Highly Erodible Land and Wetland Conservation Compliance; and Form CCC-548, Disaster Assistance Gross Revenue Certification Statement.

Applications must be filed on Form CCC-540MY and submit the following supporting documentation: actual records of crop insurance indemnities by years specified, applicable CCC-502 and related forms, copies of 1998 CLDAP applications previously submitted by the applicant and the entities or joint operations used for qualifications, and record of 1998 CLDAP benefits previously approved for applicant and the entities or joint operations used for qualification.

The applicant is responsible for completing the application packet and sending it to the following address: USDA/Farm Service Agency, Room 3643 STOP 0517, 1400 Independence Avenue SW, Washington, DC 20250-0517 (Designate "Multi-Year Revised Eligibility Determination Request).

The completed application must be received at the above address by close of business on September 14, 2001.

Interested producers may visit the Preston County Farm Service Agency to obtain the necessary forms and records to include in the application packet. The office is located in the Corner Mall of the Kingwood Plaza, telephone 304-329-1923.



THE RESERVE CHAMPION RABBITS (pen of three) were owned and sold by Amanda Beitzel, daughter of Steve and Jenny Beitzel. Criss Kepple Sweitzer of Elswert, Janes, and Sweitzer purchased the pen for $130. Amanda is a member of the Grantsville 4-H Club. "I am just thrilled to be back at Friendsville, because I see a lot of familiar faces and will enjoy rekindling relationships," stated Holly. "This school has done an excellent job in previous years and the staff works very well together."

She doesn't see any major changes that need to be made in the near future. "If there are to be any changes made, the staff will also be involved to look at ways to make things even better."

Beginners are encouraged to come and learn. Donations will be accepted to defray the cost of the music. The use of the 1880s-era barn is being donated by Puzzley Run to promote renewed interest in old-fashioned square dancing.

The Bietschehof Farm can be reached by traveling along old Route 40 (National Highway) east from Keysers Ridge or west from Grantsville, to the top of Negro Mountain. At the summit, turn north onto Zehner Road, then take the first left onto Hetrick Road, then take the first left onto the farm's lane. Despite Teacher Shortage Fears, Most State Schools Fully Staffed

by Kristyn Peck
Capital News Service

WASHINGTON - Maryland schools have filled almost all of the 8,100 teacher vacancies they faced for the 2001-2002 school year and most school systems are beginning the year fully staffed, the Maryland State Department of Education reported.

As of Friday, there were just over 200 unfilled teaching slots in the state, the department reported, compared to 553 vacancies at the same time last year.

"There is much less of a teacher shortage than before," said Assistant State Superintendent Ron Peiffer. "A lot of people began recruiting early."

School personnel officials also attributed the success of their recruiting this year to higher teacher salaries, new incentives to lure teachers back into the field, and innovative recruiting techniques, like Internet sites.

Sharyn Doyle, supervisor of teacher personnel at Anne Arundel County Schools, points to the Teacher Initiative Program, which was created by the state to boost starting-teacher salaries after officials saw that many prospective teachers were leaving college and going into higher-paying industries.

"One of the things that helped us recruit is that teachers' salaries were increased by 6 percent last year and 5 percent this year," said William Ekey, director of secondary education at Harford County Public Schools.

Doyle also said that Internet recruiting sites, such as Teachers-Teachers.com, helped Anne Arundel County screen certified teacher candidates. Peiffer said the state is aiming to recruit more entry-level teachers, rather than luring away older teachers who are that much closer to retirement already. He also said the state has put a renewed emphasis on keeping its homegrown teachers: Of the 2,500 persons who graduated from state universities with teaching certifications, 1,500 work in Maryland schools, he said.

State school systems routinely hired 3,000 to 4,000 teachers a year in the past, but the number has doubled in recent years, said Peiffer. He attributes the increased demand to higher enrollment from the "baby boom echo" and the increasing number of teachers reaching retirement age.

Enrollment in elementary schools peaked in the early 1990s, as children of baby boomers started enrolling in school, Peiffer said. As those children have grown up, the bulge in the school population has shifted up to middle schools and high schools. At the same time, many teachers from the baby boom generation are approaching retirement.

In Maryland, teachers can retire after 30 years without penalty, and the state has begun to provide incentives for them to stay on board. The Retired/Rehired Teacher/Principal program allows retired teachers to return to schools without any effect on their retirement funds.

While that program has helped schools in recruiting, Peiffer noted that it only delays the inevitable.

In Garrett County, the number of vacancies was projected to be 17 this year, but there are no current vacancies left, according to the CNS report.

DONATION PROCEDURES CHANGE AT CHRISTIAN CROSSING — This past weekend's front porch accumulation of donated items, many of which aren't suitable for use, has made it necessary for Loch Lynn's Christian Crossing Thrift Shop to take a firm stand against leaving items when the shop is closed. While the shop apologizes for any inconvenience this policy may cause to people wishing to donate items, a spokesperson said that it has become necessary to install surveillance cameras and to ask the court commissioner to file a littering charge to anyone who leaves items when the shop is closed. Shop hours are Tuesdays from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m., Thursdays from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. and 5 p.m. to 7 p.m., and the first and third Saturdays of each month from 9 a.m to noon. Persons unable to drop off donated items during those hours can call the shop at 301-334-6339 to make special arrangements. Christian Crossing Thrift Shop is located along First Avenue in Loch Lynn, just west of Paul Street.

Small Business Dev. Center Sets Evening Courses

Several courses of interest to prospective entrepreneurs have been scheduled over coming weeks by the Small Business Development Center at Garrett Community College. Each of the courses will meet on selected evenings at the college's McHenry campus. For more information, or to register, persons may call 301-387-3089 or 301-387-3080.

An eight-hour course featuring QuickBooks will be held Mondays and Wednesdays, Sept. 10-19, from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. Topics to be covered include charting accounts and account types, reconciling bank statements, setting up the company, managing accounts receivable and cash sales, using QuickBooks lists, setting preferences, printing checks, and basic and advanced payroll features.

"Introduction to Accounting" is designed to assist small-business owners and managers in understanding the basics of accounting. PUBLIC NOTICE

The Deep Creek Watershed Board of Zoning Appeals will conduct a public hearing on Thursday, September 20, 2001, starting at 7:30 p.m. in the County Commissioners' Meeting Room, Second Floor, Courthouse Annex, Oakland. The Board will review the following docketed cases:

1. VR-490 & SE-313 - an application submitted by Jacobs Petroleum Products, Inc., for a Special Exception permit to consturct self-storage units. The application is also requesting a Variance to constrict the units at a setback of 30 feet from the rear property line. The property is located at 25227 Garrett Highway (zoned TC). Note: This application is continued from the board's 7/19/01 docket.

2. VR-494 - an application submitted by Daniel F. Yellott on behalf of Patricia N. Goldberg for a Variance to allow a recently constructed deck to remain at a zero set-back from the rear property line instead of the required 5 feet. The property is located at 1138 Thousand Acres Road (zoned LR).

3. INTP-13 - an application submitted by Christopher Perez for an interpretation involving the definition of "deck" versus "terrace." The Zoning Admnistrator has interpreted that a structure Mr. Perez has contructed is a "deck" that is subject to a five-foot setback requirement. Mr. Perez seeks a reversal of this interpretation to categorize it as a "terrace" that is not subject to a setback. The property is located at 48 Stone Tavern Lane (zoned LR).

4. VR-496 - an application submitted by Karen F. Myers for a Variance from the parking requirements of the Ordinance. Specifically, Mrs. Myers is requesting a Variance to provide 74 parking spaces instead of the required 89 for hte Long & Foster and Mountaineer Log & Siding properties. The properties are located at 23789 and 23813 Garrett Highway (zoned TC).

5. VR-497 - an application submitted by Karen F. Myers for a Variance to reconfigure 2-½ lots containing a total of 100 feet of frontage into two (2) fifty-foot lots. The property is located at 20590 and 20598 Garrett Highway (zoned TC).

ITCA TOY ROAD SHOW - This weekend will be a good time for area residents to check their attics, basements, and garages for old toys which just might be worth at least a small fortune. The International Toy Collectors Association will have professionals stationed at the Best Western Braddock Motor Inn in LaVale who will give free appraisals and make offers to purchase antique toys. The Mickey Mouse on a motorcycle toy pictured above left was purchased by an ITCA collector for $12,000, and the Popeye and Bluto "Funny Fire Fighters" piece pictured at right fetched $3,000. Associates will be on hand from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m. today, Friday, and Saturday, Sept. 6-8, to purchase toys such as robots, space toys, tin wind-ups, Barbie dolls and accessories, cast iron toys, pedal cars, battery-operated toys, race cars, Tonka trucks, Smith Miller toys, toy trains, mechanical banks, vintage musical instruments, and others. A team of collectors will also be on hand to purchase jewelry, coins, watches, and clocks. Persons planning to bring toys for appraisal are advised to not attempt to clean toys that have been stored for long periods of time, as this may destroy the originality of the finish and decrease the value. Those desiring more information may telephone the association at 217-636-8012.

Census Says Maryland Remains One Of Wealthiest States In The USA

by Robyn Lamb
Capital News Service

WASHINGTON - Maryland had one of the lowest poverty rates in the country and one of the highest median household incomes in 1998, according to poverty estimates released Friday by the Census Bureau.

The Census Bureau estimated that 8.8 percent of Maryland residents lived in poverty in 1998, much lower than the national average of 12.7 percent for the same year. Only Connecticut and New Hampshire had lower poverty rates, though census experts cautioned against ranking states' estimated fig-ures.

Maryland also had one of the highest median household incomes in the country at $47,492, well above the national median of $38,885.

State officials hailed the report, but advocates for the poor warned that the numbers may not reflect the reality of many people in Maryland who struggle financially.

"The poverty standard probably doesn't represent a household and its ability to live in any kind of adequacy," said Lynda Meade, director of social concerns for Catholic Charities. She said the federal standards of poverty do not reflect how people live from day to day. "There is nothing built into the federal poverty standard to reflect the cost of child care or the skyrocketing cost of rent," she said.

The poverty standard differs from household to household, depending upon the size of the family. For 1998, the poverty threshold for a family of three was $13,003.

"Families can barely survive at the poverty line," Meade said. That is why many state programs grant assistance to families who earn up to even three times the poverty standard, she said.

Steve Hill of the Maryland Budget and Tax Policy Institute said that while the numbers overall are good, there are concentrated pockets of people throughout Maryland who live in poverty.

"The far west of the state, the Eastern Shore, and large segments of Baltimore City have extraordinarily high rates of poverty and very low incomes," he said.

The Census Bureau produced the estimates by combining results from its March 1999 Current Population Survey with records on Supplemental Security Income recipients, federal income tax returns and the 1990 Census figures. The estimates are used in administering federal programs.

"Poverty is low. Maryland is a wealthy state," said Mark Goldstein of the Maryland Department of Planning.

He said the state's estimated poverty rate in 1998 was much lower than the rate in 1993, when the state's economy was still recovering from the recession. The 1993 poverty rate was 10.2 percent in Maryland, compared to 8.8 percent in 1998.

Goldstein said the 1998 number reflects a growing state economy that has started to meet and exceed national standards.

Glendale Church Sets Homecoming

The annual homecoming event of the Glendale Assembly of God Church is set for this Sunday, Sept. 9, beginning with the 10 a.m. worship service. A lunch will be served following the morning service, and an afternoon service will get under way at 1:30 p.m.

The gospel music group Saved By Grace of Capon Bridge, W.Va., will perform during both services.

The church is located along Glendale Road between Garrett Highway and Bittinger Road. For further information persons may call Stanley Miller at 301-245-4443.

Bloodmobile Nets 100 Units During Grantsville Visit

The American Red Cross bloodmobile collected a total of 100 units of blood during a visit to the Grantsville fire hall on August 27. There were 116 persons who responded to the visit, with 16 of those donors deferred for various reasons.

Giving his 104th unit of blood and thus becoming a 13-gallon donor at the visit was Edward Geis. Edwin Peachy reached three gallons, David Brenneman became a two-gallon donor, and Jonathan Oester completed one gallon.

Local volunteers were: Mary Opel, Ellen Yoder, and Ella Tice, registration; Missy Fazenbaker and Chrystal Beitzel, walkers; Fannie Beachy, Donna Fiscus, and Ruth Horning, canteen; and Lela Bender, coordinator.

Slight Decline Noted In County SAT Test Scores

The Garrett County Board of Education recently released the SAT and ACT results for the class of 2001 at the recent board meeting, and it was noted that the SAT scores were slightly lower than last year, but remained above the 1995 results.

The average verbal score for last year's senior class was 494, and the average math score was 504, with about 45% of Garrett County seniors participating in the testing. Local scores were slightly below the state averages of 508 verbal and 510 math, as well as the national averages of 506 verbal and 514 math.

According to Pat Mullinix, coordinator of research, evaluation and information, the ACT results were slightly better than the state and national average. The ACT was taken by only 8% of the senior class and 10% of seniors statewide.

Mullinix cited several factors that may indicate why the county's averages are below the state and national averages. She said that more SAT takers in the nation are the children of college graduates. Only 37% of the Garrett County students reported parents having a 4-year degree, compared to 58% in the state and 55% nationally.

She added that the level of family income in the county for SAT takers is also lower. Approximately 30% of Garrett County SAT takers reported family annual income below $30,000, compared to only 18% in this group statewide and 22% nationally.

Mullinix said that the SAT prep class was not used as much last year. "We are exploring different times and ways to encourage students to take this class," she said. "Another factor this year was the date

Board Displays Items, Approves School Positions

At the recent Garrett County Board of Education meeting several appointments were named, and the board announced several items that will be displayed for the public.

Michael "Tom" Woods, who is currently the assistant principal at Southern High School, has been named principal effective Sept. 24. He has been a teacher and coach at Southern for many years, and is a graduate of Glenville State College and has his master's degree in educational administration and supervision from Frostburg State University.

Woods replaces Lynn Bell, who was recently named as the director of secondary education for Garrett County schools.

Patrick Damon returns to Garrett County after teaching two years in Hampshire County in West Virginia as a teacher in Southern Middle School.

The board also approved the appointment of Jennifer Schroyer as a part-time cafeteria worker at Northern High School.

Sandra Nesline, former principal of Accident Elementary School, and who was on medical leave, has retired.

Several items will be on display for public viewing at the board of education ad-

SMALL MIRACLES — A multitude of monarch butterflies, shown here (look closely), found a place to gather this week at the John Tasker residence in Deer Park. Ruth Lucas, Tasker's sister who also lives at the house, said the flock lit on locust trees last week. Hundreds of the striking creatures, transformed from the milkweed-fed green, yellow, and black-striped caterpillars, settled together in the evenings and flitted about during the day. Eerily enough, they left en masse on Tuesday morning, disappearing into the southern horizon. Perhaps they sensed the dread in the air, felt by us all as the world changed in minutes. But the monarch butterfly is indeed a symbol of hope, of rebirth, of miracles. As we face the tragedies wrought by the events of Sept. 11, 2001, perhaps the sight of an orange and black miracle skimming the air will remind us of the mystery of life, not only of its fragility, but of its astounding and perpetual resilience.

Some Disaster Appeals May Be Fraudulent

The Office of the Secretary of State is cautioning Marylanders about fraudulent appeals for money which may result from the terrorist attacks in New York City and Washington, D.C. "Marylanders need to be cautious and follow a few simple steps to help them differentiate between legitimate and fraudulent solicitations," stated a spokesperson for the office.

The following tips are provided for Marylanders who want to ensure that their desire to help the rescue efforts and the victims and their families is not taken advantage of by illegal actions:

- Be wary of requests for immediate funds. The need for financial resources will continue for weeks and months.
- Be cautious about appeals that are strictly conditional and do not include information on what the charity will do to assist the rescue efforts or help the victims and their families.
- Ask how much of your donation will be used to provide assistance to the victims and the rescue efforts and how much will be used for administrative and fund-raising expenses.
- Ask if the organization is registered with the Maryland Secretary of State.
- Unless you are familiar with an organization, call the Charitable Giving Information Program's toll-free line at 1-800-825-4510 (Maryland only) to verify the charity and its solicitation.

By calling the toll-free telephone number, individuals may also request copies of the Secretary of State's "Giving Wisely" brochure, which contains such information as questions to ask when solicited, examples of deceptive practices, and an explanation of one's rights as a donor. Additionally, the Office of the Secretary of State has financial information on over 5,300 registered charities available on its web site at http://www.sos.state.md.us.

W.Va. Man Exonerated Of Drug Charges

A West Virginia man who appeared in Garrett County District Court on drug charges recently was exonerated at the conclusion of the hearing.

Derrick Westly Shaffer, 22, Ripley, was deemed not guilty by Judge Ralph Burnett on charges of possession of marijuana and drug paraphernalia. Shaffer was arrested in May by Maryland State Police troopers after a vehicle he was riding in was stopped along Interstate 68, and a search uncovered drugs that were hidden in the car and additional drugs that another passenger was carrying. The vehicle's driver was determined through a computer check to be wanted on an Ohio arrest warrant, and he was found to be carrying a gun.

Although no drugs were found in Shaffer's possession, when a smoking pipe bearing suspected burnt marijuana reside that h[illegible] been found in the car was not claimed by any of the three occupants, he was charged as a suspect. Shaffer testified in court that the pipe did not belong to him.

A not-guilty verdict was recorded in the sexual assault accusation case of Bryan Eugene [illegible]aul, 34, Frostburg (GC[illegible] after the alleged victim refused to testify against him in court. Garrett [illegible]ureau Investigation detectives arrested Paul

Lunch Prices To Increase As Of October 1

At the recent monthly meeting of the Garrett County Board of Education the board approved the request to increase the price of school lunches by five cents as of October 1.

According to Scott Germain, food and nutrition service program manager, the last increase in the price of a meal was in September 1997. "We did not have a good year financially last year, and this is a good way to correct that problem," Germain said. This increase is being made in anticipation of increasing labor and food costs during this school year and the ongoing need to replace aging food service equipment in the county, he added.

During the 2000-2001 school year, the county replaced approximately $65,000 worth of equipment in the kitchens and approximately the same amount will need to be replaced over the next several years. Germain added that this minimal increase will result in approximately $11,000 of additional revenue to the program based on the 118,661 paid meals served during the 2000-2001 school year.

The daily lunch prices for middle and high school students will increase to $1.55 per day, and for elementary school students the cost will be $1.40 per day. The price of reduced lunch will remain unchanged at 40 cents for all eligible stu-

Personal Stories Sought

The national media is doing a thorough job of providing hour-to-hour, minute-to-minute coverage of this week's terrorist attacks on New York City and Washington, D.C. However, the news staff of The Republican would like to publish accounts of local persons who have friends and relatives who were directly or indirectly involved in these incidents. These would particularly include persons who are employed at either the Pentagon or World Trade Center, or who may live near those sites and have a story to tell.

We request that this information be submitted to our newsroom, preferably in writing, via e-mail (newsroom@therepublicannews.com), fax (301-334-5904), or "snail mail" (P.O. Box 326, Oakland, MD 21550). Information may also be conveyed via telephone if kept brief. We will publish as many of these accounts as possible over the next two weeks.

Commissioners Accept Intake Program Grant

The Garrett County Commissioners in their weekly public meeting on Tuesday, Sept. 11, discussed a request to accept a grant that would extend juvenile justice services after peak working hours in the county.

Harry Grove, a supervisor for the Maryland Department of Juvenile Justice in Allegany and Garrett counties, asked the commissioners to accept a grant that would implement a program in the county called Night Intake. He said that the program would create "coverage and linkage" between the commissioners, law enforcement officers, social services, and his department when dealing with juvenile justice issues.

Grove explained that the grant would pay for two part-time juvenile justice officers who would answer calls concerning youth such as delinquency, supervision, and risk assessment during evenings, weekends, and holidays when his department is closed and other local agencies have to handle these cases. The night intake officers would be on the county payroll, but they would be paid through the grant. Approximately $13,000 has been allocated for the rest of this year and $20,000 for next year.

Grove pointed out that the program could reduce some of the manpower burden placed on local officials who have to respond to juvenile problems after his department is closed. He also noted that a similar program had been "effective" in Washington and Allegany counties for about 10 years.

The commissioners indicated, however, they would accept the program only if it were self-sufficient. When Commissioner Wendell Beitzel asked Grove if he could guarantee that it would not cost the county any additional monies, Grove replied, "Absolutely." The commissioners accepted the grant based on their

Local Native Gives Eyewitness Account Of Twin Towers Collapse

Editor's Note: The following was written yesterday by Matthew R. Sincell, a native of Mtn. Lake Park who moved to Weehawken, N.J., this past Sunday, just two days before Tuesday's terrorist attack on the World Trade Center Twin Towers in New York City. Sincell's apartment is located along the Hudson River just across from the island of Manhattan, which gave him a good vantage point from which to witness the results of the most horrific attack ever committed on U.S. soil, allegedly by foreign perpetrators. It is hoped that some of his photographs will be available for publishing in next week's issue.

A new drone of a fighter plane still turns heads to the sky and sends ice through the veins of anyone who witnessed the attack just yesterday on New York City. Though I moved just two days ago to Weehawken, New Jersey, I will never forget how in an instant all of the strangers around me and the terrified people running through the streets of New York became forever linked together.

Matt Sincell

I woke up around 7 o'clock in the morning on September 11, 2001, with a load on my shoulders that seemed all too overwhelming. Where to begin? Just having moved to New Jersey the day before, I had plenty to think about... setting up the phone line, gas line, electric line, and all of the other things that come along with moving to a new place. Over a cup of coffee in my new dining room, I began to realize that if I tackled it all one bite at a time, things would be okay. I tried several times to call the phone company on my cell phone, my only means of communication. Try after try failed, and I began to get a little bit panicked. I decided to walk just across the street to a beautiful park on the edge of the Hudson River to see if the reception might be a little bit clearer.

As I approached the park, across from which is the breathtaking, panoramic view of Manhattan, I noticed just a handful of people gathered at the park, looking toward the southern end of the island. As I got closer, I heard a few nervous people talking about the two planes that had crashed into the towers. I looked down the river to see the Twin Towers smoking. I was able to piece together the fragmented conversation enough to realize that it had been two passenger planes that collided with the towers. I ran back to my apartment to grab my camera, and I realized I didn't have any film. Just a few blocks away was a shopping center, so it was only a matter of minutes before I returned with a loaded camera.

By this time a significant crowd had gathered in the park. Columns of smoke poured out of the towers as I stood there, froz[illegible] with some sort of emotion. I don't SHOW YOUR SUPPORT — While most Garrett Countians can only watch the rescue efforts feverishly under way in New York and Washington, D.C., one small gesture can be made by all to express grief and support of those suffering the consequences of Tuesday's terrorist attacks. The leaders of the nation are encouraging Americans to display their United States flags at their homes, businesses, and schools. We in turn ask the residents of the mountaintop to do likewise.

Commissioners Briefed On Safety Plan Tuesday In Wake Of Attacks

The Garrett County Commissioners heard reports on precautionary measures to protect local dams from terrorist attacks and an update on the condition of county bridges in their weekly public meeting on Tuesday, Sept. 11.

Engineer Dwight Emory of the county roads department reported that the State Highway Administration had been contacted Tuesday afternoon by the State Emergency Management Services following the plane crashes into the Pentagon in Washington, D.C., and World Trade Center in New York, N.Y. The SHA was reportedly asked to set up barrels on the roads leading to dams at Jennings Randolph Lake and Savage River to limit traffic flow, and thus, perhaps, reduce any possible terrorist attack to the dams.

The Maryland State Police and DNR were scheduled to increase their patrols of the roads leading to the dams as well. Emory reported that the SHA office at Keysers Ridge would remain open 24 hours until any perceived danger had past.

He also gave the commissioners a report that rated the conditions of county bridges on a scale from 0 to 100. Any bridge with a rating under 50 could be eligible for federal funding for repairs or replacement. The county engineer noted that the roads department was "making a dent" on the list of repairs

Commissioners Discuss SHA's Tour Of Roads

The Garrett County Commissioners in their weekly public meeting held on Tuesday, Sept. 11, discussed the State Highway Administration's annual tour of area roads.

Department of Planning and Zoning director John Nelson reported to the commissioners that the secretary of the SHA would make his annual tour of area roads next Friday. Nelson and the commissioners reviewed the following list of potential projects and concerns to be presented to the SHA secretary:

1. Funding for the next phase of the U.S. Rt. 219 Oakland bypass.
2. Evaluation of the SHA takeover of Sand Flat, Glendale, and New Germany roads.
3. Continue evaluation of and improvements to the existing U.S. Rt. 219 Corridor throughout the county, including the Accident bypass.
4. Check on the status of the sidewalk between Southern High School and Mtn. Lake Park.
5. Bicycle lane identification in the lake area.
6. Proposed signals on U.S. 219 at Glendale and Mosser roads should be full signals during seasonal use.
7. A right turning lane on Mosser Road at U.S. 219 should be installed.

Swanton Man Killed When ATV Overturns

Thirty-nine-year-old Charles Matthew Wilson of Swanton was killed Sunday in the area of Jennings Randolph Lake when his all-terrain vehicle apparently overturned on a steep embankment and rolled to the bottom of the hill, according to the Garrett Bureau of Investigation.

Wilson's body was located by friends and family members at approximately 6:42 p.m., at the bottom of a steep hill located in a wooded area approximately 1.4 miles off Chestnut Grove Road, and just over a mile north of the lake. The frequent ATV rider had been missing since 9 a.m. after he had gone out for a solo ride and failed to return. His ATV had flipped 28 feet up the slope as he was attempting to drive up to the crest, a preliminary GBI investigation revealed. There was nothing suspicious about the single vehicle accident and no charges are pending, GBI detective Clark Warnick said.

Wilson was pronounced dead at the scene by the state medical examiner, and the body was taken to a state lab for an autopsy. Personnel from the Tri-Towns Ambulance Service, the Bloomington and Oakland volunteer fire departments, and the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad also responded, along with members of the GBI, Garrett County Sheriff's Office, Natural Resources Police, and the Maryland State Police.

Woman Charged In Friendsville Road Collision

A Friendsville woman was charged after a Saturday morning two-vehicle collision on Friendsville Road that slightly injured a passenger in the second vehicle, according to the Maryland State Police.

At approximately 9:40 a.m. Annetta Enlow, 30, was driving a 1995 Chevrolet 3500 pickup truck north on Friendsville Rd. north of Bishoff Road. As Enlow was attempting to make a lefthand turn she pulled into the path of an oncoming 1999 Ford Escort operated by Lori Ann Wilson, 23, Friendsville. The vehicles collided, and Wilson's passenger, 78-year-old Edna M. Sines, also of Friendsville, sustained minor injuries.

The Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad transported Sines to Garrett County Memorial Hospital, where she was treated and released. The Friendville Volunteer Fire Department assisted at the scene.

State troopers charged Enlow, who had pulled out from behind a farm tractor that she was following at the time of the collision, with failure to yield right of way to oncoming traffic.

In other state police news, an Accident man was injured and a McHenry juvenile charged in a Tuesday afternoon accident on Rock Lodge Road.

At approximately 2:10 p.m. Kenneth Beitzel, 49, Accident, entered northbound Rock Lodge Road just north of Mosser Road just before his 1994 Dodge Spirit was struck by a southbound 1987 Chevrolet S-10 operated by a 17-year-old juvenile. The juvenile driver had locked up the truck's brakes just prior to the collision, and the Chevrolet skidded into Beitzel's car.

Beitzel was transported by Northern Rescue to Cumberland Memorial Hospital, where he was treated and released. The Bittinger Volunteer Fire Department also assisted at the scene. The juvenile driver was charged with failure to control speed to avoid a collision.

A Friday morning crash in Grantsville injured two local residents, both of whom were transported by Northern Rescue to Cumberland Memorial, where they were treated and released. No charges were filed by state police.

Rose Lee Folk, 63, Grantsville, was traveling eastbound on Main Street at 8:12 a.m. when she made a southbound turn onto Livengood Lane. Folk's line of sight was reportedly obstructed by some high shrubbery on the corner, and her 1993 Oldsmobile Cutlass struck a 1985 Mack trash truck that was parked along the roadside completing a trash collection.

Folk and Richard Wayne Wildesen Jr., 24, Swanton, a trash truck crew member who was collecting trash at the time of the collision, were both injured slightly.

A Tuesday evening four-wheeler accident south of Oakland was investigated by state police, who did not provide any details. The mishap occur along in the 3800 block of Underwood Road at approximately 5:23 p.m., according to the county's Emergency Management office, which reported that one unnamed patient was transported to Garrett Memorial by the Southern Rescue Squad. The Oakland Volunteer Fire Department also responded to the accident scene.

Oakland Mishap Slightly Injures Terra Alta Man

A West Virginia man sustained minor injuries in a single-vehicle accident Saturday morning on Oakland's western end, according to the Oakland Police Department.

Charles Lawrence Johnson, 43, Terra Alta, was traveling east on Liberty Street near Roosevelt Boulevard when he lost control of his car shortly before 8 a.m., apparently because of a muscle spasm in his neck. Johnson lost control of his 2001 Subaru Impreza sedan, which traveled across the road, stuck a telephone pole on the west side of Liberty St., and came to rest on top of a fire hydrant. The telephone pole was reportedly snapped in two.

Emergency personnel from the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad transported Johnson to Garrett County Memorial Hospital, where he was treated and released. The Oakland Volunteer Fire Department also responded to the scene. No charges were filed against Johnson, who was deemed not at fault in the mishap.

In other Oakland PD news, John Paul Buchko, 36, Washington, D.C., was arrested for driving while intoxicated.

Inmate's Term Extended By Four Years For Jail Assault

A Garrett County jail inmate was sentenced to an additional 50 months in jail during a Garrett County District Court hearing on charges stemming from a jailhouse incident that included an assault on a Garrett County sheriff's deputy.

Jason Matthew Leichliter, 21, Uniontown, Pa., pleaded guilty to second degree assault on a sworn jail staff member and malicious destruction of property in connection with the April fracas. Already serving time on a previous conviction, Leichliter went out of control in a cellblock, smashing a television set and knocking over tables and bookcases. As a uniformed deputy tried to subdue Leichliter by ordering him to lie down before being handcuffed, he punched the deputy in the face.

If he serves the full term of his sentences, which were ordered to be served consecutively, Leichliter will not be released from jail until early 2007.

In other district court news, Edward Charles Linkswiler, 22, Keyser, W.Va., pleaded guilty to a possession of marijuana charge and was handed a six-month sentence, four months of which were suspended, fined $500, and was placed on two years of supervised probation. Linkswiler's March arrest came after Garrett County Narcotics Task Force officers working with a search warrant located five bags of marijuana, numerous smoking devices and smoking pipes, and $900 cash in the North Branch Avenue residence he shared with Amy Lynn Phillips. Additional charges of possession of marijuana with intent to distribute and possession of drug paraphernalia were not prosecuted by the state's attorney's office.

Phillips, 31, was sentenced to a month in jail, fined $500, and placed on two years' supervised probation after she pleaded guilty to marijuana possession stemming from the same search. She faced additional charges of possession with intent to distribute, possession of paraphernalia, and second degree assault, each of which was not prosecuted. The assault charge was filed after Phillips slammed her front door as a detective was attempting to inform her of the search warrant, striking him in the face.

Scott William Dale Kelley, 19, Oakland, pleaded guilty to misdemeanor theft and second degree assault, and was handed a 40-day sentence, while a resisting arrest charge was not prosecuted. Kelley's June arrest by Oakland police officers came after he was stopped while carrying a parking meter coin collection box full of coins. While being interviewed at police headquarters in connection with a string of thefts from 10 Oakland parking meters, Kelley reportedly grew unruly and pushed a police officer.

Joseph Ray Wymer, 24, Grantsville, pleaded guilty to possession of ketamine, a veterinary prescription drug, and received a 180-day sentence and 18 months' supervised probation from visiting judge Thomas Lohm. Maryland State Police troopers arrested Wymer after an April traffic stop, when three packets of ketamine were found in his car along with one bag of suspected marijuana, a suspected marijuana cigarette, and a smoking pipe. Additional charges of possession of marijuana and drug paraphernalia were not prosecuted.

Keri Allison Strubin, 20, also of Grantsville, who was riding in Wymer's car at the time of his arrest, was handed a stet ruling on identical charges of possession of ketamine, marijuana, and drug paraphernalia. Judge Lohm presided.

After pleading guilty to marijuana possession and a variety of traffic-related offenses, Jack Allen Hornby, 49, Loch Lynn, was handed a 30-day suspended sentence, a $450 fine, and one year of unsupervised probation. Deputies arrested Hornby in April after he walked away from the scene of a single-vehicle Hutton Road accident that occurred when his vehicle hit a telephone pole.

Apprehended on foot a short time later, Hornby was found to be carrying a bag of marijuana. In addition to the drug plea, Judge Burnett accepted Hornby's guilty pleas to negligent driving, failure to drive right of center, and failure to remain at the scene of an accident. An additional driving while intoxicated (DWI) charge was not prosecuted.

Four occupants of a vehicle stopped in February by state troopers were handed $155 fines and 180 days of supervised probation apiece by Judge Lohm after each pleaded guilty to marijuana possession. The driver, Bennett Douglas Gurin, 21, and two of his passengers, Joshua James Noles, 23, and Erin Lynn Sprague, 20, all of Frederick, and a third passenger, David James Grossnickle, were charged after several bags, boxes, and small containers of marijuana were found in their vehicle.

Justin Russell Rinker, 19, Oakland, pleaded guilty to operating an off-road vehicle on CSX property and was fined $155 by Judge Burnett. Oakland police officers charged Rinker in June after he brought a train to a dead stop while riding his ATV on a set of railroad tracks in Oakland.

Judge Burnett handed a stet ruling to Troy Allen Ashby, 31, Terra Alta, W.Va., on charges stemming from an alleged deliberately botched home improvement project off Mayhew Inn Road. Ashby's May arrest by sheriff's deputies came after he was accused of felony theft, acting as a contractor without a license, selling home improvement services without a license, and failure to perform in accord with a signed contract. The alleged victim claimed a loss of over $10,000 attributable to Ashby's activities.

Tonya Lynn Guthrie, 20, Mtn. Lake Park, faced second degree assault and disturbing the peace charges, which were placed on the stet docket. Sheriff's deputies arrested Guthrie in June after she reportedly pushed another woman during an argument as deputies were speaking to the pair.

Darren Neil Nezelrod, 35, Oakland, received a stet ruling on a second degree assault charge filed when sheriff's deputies arrested him in June for allegedly pushing his stepdaughter over and bruising her leg during a domestic incident.

John Samuel Peterson, 20, was not prosecuted on charges of possession of counterfeit drugs with intent to distribute as PCP and LSD, and possession of marijuana and drug paraphernalia. Those charges stemmed from his July arrest by Narcotics Task Force detectives after a search of an Oakland residence where he was located uncovered approximately 60 individually wrapped pieces of cardboard packaged in an apparent attempt to be passed off as a controlled dangerous substance.

Additional charges of possession of marijuana and drug paraphernalia Peterson faced stemming from a separate incident were also not prosecuted. Those charges were filed by state police in March after a search of his car uncovered a bag of suspected marijuana and a smoking pipe.

Adam E. Smith, 21, Oakland was not prosecuted on charges of possession of counterfeit drugs with intent to distribute as PCP and LSD. Smith was among several persons, along with Peterson, who was arrested by Narcotics Task Force detectives after the same July search of that Oakland residence.

Shawn Aaron Stemple, 21, Aurora, W.Va., was not prosecuted on fourth degree burglary, a charge filed by GBI detectives after an investigation of an April burglary along Garrett Road.

Michael Gerald Casteel, 20, Bruceton Mills, W.Va., was not prosecuted on a charge of unlawful taking of a motor vehicle. Casteel had been arrested by state troopers after he was discovered driving an acquaintance's car in Florida one week after it was reported missing from Grantsville.

Stacy Lynn Boone, 19, Terra Alta, W.Va., was not prosecuted on two second degree assault charges and one misdemeanor theft charge stemming from his April arrest by Oakland police officers for allegedly assaulting James Bryant Thomas, 30, Oakland, on two separate occasions and, in a third incident, reportedly taking some items from Thomas's home. Thomas, in turn, was not prosecuted on a second degree assault charge stemming from one of the alleged assault incidents involving Boone.

DWIs/DUIs

Several driving while intoxicated (DWI) and driving while under the influence of alcohol and/or drugs (DUI) cases were heard by Judge Burnett recently.

Desiree Hollace Spady, 20, Md., pleaded guilty to DWI and was handed a probation before judgment (PBJ), a $355 fine, a 30-day suspended sentence, one year of supervised probation, and 40 hours of community service.

Scott Harrison Meyers, 27, Md., pleaded guilty to DUI and was handed a PBJ, a $355 fine, a 30-day suspended sentence, one year of supervised probation, and 40 hours of community service.

Crystal Marie Ford, 22, Md., pleaded guilty to DWI and was handed a PBJ, a $355 fine, and one year of unsupervised probation.

Danny Robert Phillips, 43, Pa., was deemed not guilty of a DWI charge by Judge Burnett.

Two Youth Hurt In ATV, Bike Accidents

Two young people were injured in separate accidents involving a 4-wheeler and a dirt bike recently, according to Garrett County sheriff's deputies.

Jeffrey Scott Smith, 11, Accident, was operating a 1993 Kawasaki 4-wheeler on private property near Limpopo Lane, McHenry, when the vehicle went into a ditch, struck a rock, and upset.

Smith was transported by private vehicle to Garrett County Memorial Hospital (GCMH), where he was treated and released.

In a separate incident on Friday, Lowell Richard Bittinger, 17, Oakland, was injured when the dirt bike he was operating on a race track flipped when he was reportedly trying to land a jump.

Bittinger was treated and later released from GCMH.

Several people were arrested for driving while intoxicated (DWI) recently by deputies.

Deputies made a traffic stop along Maryland Highway on Saturday around 1:30 a.m. which resulted in the arrest of an Aurora, W.Va., man.

Dennis Harold Loughrie, 42, was arrested and charged with DWI and failure to drive right of center.

He was later released on his own recognizance.

An Oakland man was also arrested for the same charges around 6:30 p.m.

Deputies stopped James Kenneth Shaffer, 78, on Hutton Road and charged him with DWI and failure to drive right of center.

He was later released.

Vincent Lee Bordeau, 42, Oakland, was also arrested by deputies for DWI and driving on a suspended license.

Republicans And Democrats Agree, For Now, To Save State's Surplus

by Bobby White
Capital News Service

ANNAPOLIS - Republicans and Democrats agree, for now, that Maryland's $153 million in the newfound budget surplus should remain in the bank. But this cooperation is likely to be short lived, with battles over the state's surplus, which mushroomed to nearly $1 billion last week, expected by the time the General Assembly convenes in January.

"This is still a hold-your-breath and cross-your-fingers budget year," said Senate Minority Leader Martin Madden, R-Howard.

Madden said legislators should wait and see how fiscal 2002 plays out and spend only where necessary. He and others in the Legislature want to avoid the kind of shortfalls plaguing other states. Virginia's budget for fiscal 2001 is short $52 million, according to the National Conference of State Legislators. Sixteen other states are facing shortfalls this fiscal year.

"This is the same situation we faced 10 years ago when we were slow to notice the economic slump other states faced and proceeded to spend when we shouldn't have," said Madden.

Madden was referring to when then-Gov. William Donald Schaefer was forced to slash more than $500 million in funds from numerous government programs. Madden said he hopes legislators learned from their history.

The federal government is also feeling the pinch. The sluggish U.S. economy has reduced the projected federal budget surplus for fiscal year 2001, with the Congressional Budget Office projecting it as $122 billion less than May estimates.

Gov. Parris N. Glendening remains confident Maryland will withstand the domino effect of a national lackluster economy. Michelle Byrnie, Glendening's spokesperson, said because of investments in basic needs like education and employment, the state will pull through the troubled economic times.

"While it is time to be fiscally cautious, the surplus reduces the need for cutbacks," she said.

By the time January rolls around, lawmakers will be eyeing the budget surplus for many projects. Probably the most significant and high-profile draw on the extra cash is the new prescription drug program for seniors, which began July 1. In its first two months, the program enrolled 20,000 patients and legislators expect the program to soon reach its maximum 30,000. Some legislators are considering expanding it beyond that.

Senate President Thomas V. Mike Miller Jr., D-Calvert, said programs like prescription drugs coupled with the state of the economy will force legislators to prioritize.

"We are very fortunate, unlike our sister states, to be in good economic standing, which also dictates we husband our resources very wisely in anticipation of any upcoming economic swings," said Miller.

Sen. Barbara Hoffman, D-Baltimore, chairwoman of the Budget and Taxation Committee, also belongs to the fiscal conservative group. She urged caution in funding programs with a source of funds that could soon dry up. She said the current strategy of depositing surplus money in one-time investments is a good one.

The surplus, Hoffman said, is a throwback to last year and does not reflect current or future economic numbers. Hoffman said while there are numerous programs that could well use the money, making early suggestions about where the surplus should go would be ill-advised.

"Some in the public think we have this money," she said, "but they do not realize it might not be here next year."

TWO SCHOOLS COMPETE AND EAT RIGHT — Sept. 9 through 15 is National 5-A-Day Week, which is a nationwide nutrition campaign to encourage Americans to eat five or more servings of fruits and vegetables each day for better health. The program is sponsored by the National Cancer Institute, and the Community Health and Outreach program of the Garrett County Health Department is promoting 5-A-Day through a competition between students at Bloomington and Crellin Elementary schools. Students in Mrs. Street's class at Bloomington and students of Mrs. Stephens' and Mrs. Dewitt's at Crellin are striving to eat at least 5 servings of fruits and vegetables each day. The school that has the most students eating five or more fruits and vegetables each day during 5-A-Day week will receive nutrition/exercise related books for the school library. The students of Mrs. Street's class are in the above photo, and the students in Mrs. Stephens' and Mrs. Dewitt's classes are in the bottom photo.

Reshuffling Our Priorities...

Horrific, unbelievable, barbaric, surreal... These are among the many adjectives that have been used repeatedly over the last 48 hours or so since the terrorist acts of war were committed against our nation Tuesday morning. And it's true, words simply do not exist to adequately describe those acts, or the feelings that were experienced by every American on the morning of September 11, 2001.

With those attacks came perhaps the most massive, most immediate shifting of priorities for every single citizen of this nation. Practically everything else in our lives suddenly became so trivial, so unimportant. Daily routines in every office, every worksite, and every household came to an abrupt halt as the details of these massacres were described and witnessed via the media. In our case, the task of publishing this week's issue of The Republican quickly became so insignificant. There has not been such an all-encompassing, nationwide wave of nausea, fear, and anger probably since December 7, 1941. While the death toll is still unknown, it is probable that there has not been a more deadly day in our history since the Battle of Antietam nearly 150 years ago.

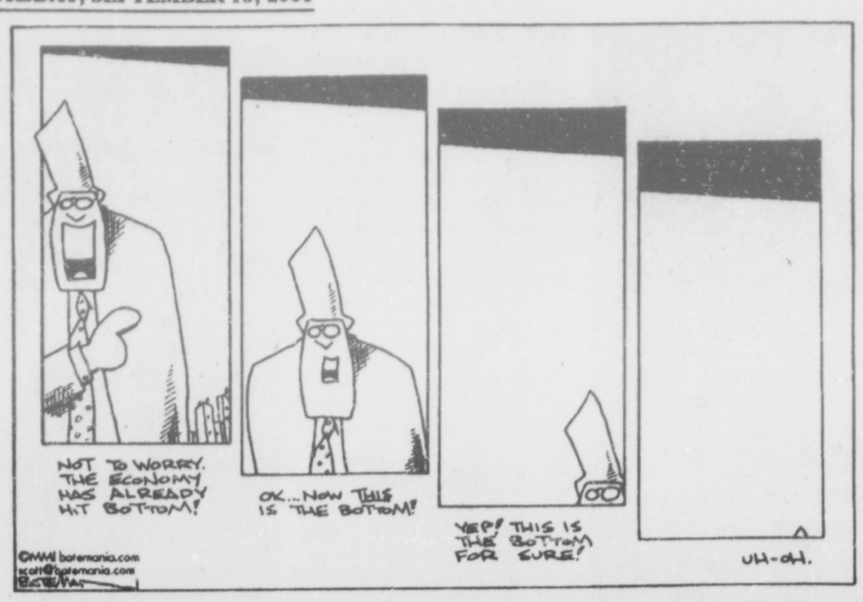
Out of every tragedy, though, no matter how horrible, comes much good, not the least of which is this reshuffling of our priorities, which reminds us once again as to what in this life is really important. We are cleansed, in a sense, literally stripped of the scores of other issues and concerns that so occupy our lives, but in fact really aren't that important.

When the information of the attack began to pour into our office, all who work here, particularly the mothers, wanted absolutely nothing else but to hear from, check on, and if possible, be with their children. Nothing else mattered. The message here, then, is that the only things in life that really do matter, that truly do last, are our relationships — our relationships with family members and friends, and our relationship with our creator, however conceived.

This reshuffling of our priorities will also instill a sometimes seemingly forgotten sense of patriotism, particularly in the minds of our younger generation, which will result in an overall strengthening of our nation in every respect.

The only words of caution we share are that we must be patient and prudent in employing whatever form of retaliation that will most certainly be leveled against the perpetrators of this attack. While our gut reaction is to unleash a horrendous attack on somebody as soon as possible, the killing of masses of other innocent men, women, and children in other nations would, frankly, make us no better than those who have violated us. We also desperately hope that acts of prejudice and aggression are not carried out against innocent visitors and/or fellow American citizens who happen to be natives of other nations.

We continue to believe that goodness is the rule and not the exception with the great majority of human beings. Most people just want to be happy, and live their lives in peace. It takes only a tiny percentage to bring such calamity, and it is that percentage that we must hunt down and, for the good of all humankind, eliminate, one way or another.



Letters to the Editor

Editor's note: The following e-mail communication from Fr. Rick Spencer was received by The Republican Tuesday evening in response to a query concerning his status. Former pastor of St. Peter's and Immaculate Conception Catholic churches, Spencer is currently assigned to the Pentagon, where the major serves as one of the Army's highest-ranking chaplains. Thanks—I am OK—now begins the death notifications. Please pray.

Fraternally, frs

To the Editor:

The terrorist attack on the World Trade Towers, the Pentagon, and the White House on Sept. 11 should be an alert to the price we pay for silence and neutrality.

Where have our elected political leaders been? A hint — fighting among themselves has given the terrorists clear sailing.

A solution — start replacement of every incumbent with those giving God, country, and family first consideration.

How? Send a stamped, self-addressed long envelope and a contribution of your choice to: Clean Up America Inc., 1400 Johnson Ave., 2B Blake Center, Bridgeport, WV 26330.

Thanks,

To the Editor:

On behalf of those affected by the September 11 terrorist attack on our country, as well as the sick and injured throughout the country, American Red Cross Blood Services thanks individuals and organizations which have stepped forward to donate blood and provide sites for the public to donate blood.

We have, indeed, been overwhelmed by the outpouring of public support to help those injured in this tragedy. We apologize to those who have endured long waiting lines to donate, and ask for your patience as our collections staff work quickly and carefully to assist you, and process your donations in a safe, high-quality manner.

Please be assured that we value your desire to help, and are actively working to schedule donor opportunities throughout our 100-county service area so that everyone who wants to donate blood can do so in the days and weeks ahead.

With a disaster of this magnitude, blood collection activities may be disrupted in the affected areas for some time, so your blood donations are needed in the long term as well as the short term. In addition, in our blood region alone, at least 1,050 units of blood must be collected each weekday to meet the needs of sick and injured patients at more than 110 hospitals in Kentucky, Maryland, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Virginia, and West Virginia.

During the coming days of the crisis period, we may even find it necessary to curtail the number of blood donations accepted at our various collection sites as daily collection needs are met. Again, we value your participation and ask that you return to donate at Red Cross bloodmobiles scheduled in the future. Every two seconds someone needs blood; this need exists 24 hours a day, 365 days a year. Together, we can save a life...every day of the year.

Sincerely,
Thomas S. Angle

To the Editor:

Cyber porn has reached perverted levels beyond all imagination — worse than Sodom and Gomorrah could ever have been. Children can see tons of free samples by just answering yes to "Are you 18?" on the screen.

It's like putting beer machines on every street corner. No one to check IDs. No one to enforce the law. Just a sign that says you must be 18 to buy. It's crazy.

Internet providers are guilty of gross negligence. At the very least they are violating anti-display laws. Parents should try to sue the providers under the Victims of Pornography Act passed by Congress a few years ago. It was lawsuits that brought the tobacco industry to its knees. Football games can be blacked out in different cities. Why couldn't the Internet be blocked out so as not to transgress the different community standards of porn?

The issue is not individual rights. But it is the rights of the communities to prevent the breeding of Ted Bundys who will walk their streets and stalk innocent victims and pollute their tranquil environment.

We have the drug and alcohol agency. Why can't we have a communications decency agency? The states could create an elected "office of obscenity" judge. His mandate would be the community standards of porn for that state. He could be given powers to issue orders, levy fines, etc.

Should Congress rewrite the 1st amendment in simple 3rd-grade English so that even a Supreme Court judge could interpret it?

Pull out of the stock market, decent folks. America is due for a wake-up call.

To the Editor:

Thank you, Editor, for your editorial (6 Sept.) "Filing a Gap." It is long overdue and needs the sincere concerted attention of the power structure with their many shovels poised to dig not only the jail inmates but the elderly, the handicapped, and all the mentally ill out of the deep black hole they have been consigned to in Garrett County for so very long.

Being one of those handicapped elderly persons who has been in real trouble for over a year, I sure know the depth of that "black hole!"

I know who cares and who acts in the reality of daily living. I know who pretends to care.

How can we wake up the pretend people — agencies, individuals, and power structure people at all levels — to the real needs at practical levels of the needs of these many people? Simple cleaning of a home to enable elderly persons to maintain themselves in their own home is a health and social service issue. Awards and pictures and seminars or delivered meals don't fill that bill. Who cares? Who has done anything about the real issues in the past years? When will they? Will posing with their shovels do it?

As a practical reality participant for many years in Garrett County, I do not agree with your list of worthy local agencies/organizations working hard to provide treatment and support for the many issues involved in all these problems. If so, some would have gone much further in attempting to really solve the problems! Building new structures without the necessary trained professionals and the knowledge and desire to fill the actual needs of the affected people is worthless, and we do have that in Garrett County too much.

It helps the realtors, but not necessarily the needs of the troubled people! Placing elderly, sick people in nursing homes who don't need to be there and selling their homes is not the answer, when all they need is a little ancillary help in their homes. Have some agencies lost their perspective in search of awards and or personal aims?

You never mentioned Mountain Top Mental Health Associates or the Health Department in your list of worthy agencies, and they are the two top agencies (practical reality agencies in Garrett County) trying very hard to address actual needs of all ages and types of residents in our country, not just a selected few, or for impressive numbers.

As you well know, many of the jail inmates would and should not be there, if we had the proper care and services these troubled people need and many have needed for so many years.

With all the new construction all the time, all over the county, for all these years, never an addictions halfway house or a three person 24-hr., supervised home for our mentally ill. We send them out of our county.

A Christian community? I have had many needs in the past year. So many wonderful people are and have helped me. I am deeply grateful!

I can't praise Garrett County Home Health and Friendsville Family Medical Center personnel enough! They are real, practical, reality-based, highly qualified people who treat you like the human being you are!

This is my opinion.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Louise V. Harvey

View From My Window

by Jeffrey Wilson

PERENNIAL IN THE GARDEN OF PROJECTS

During the next quarter century, the oldest part of my house will have its 200th birthday. My Grandfather Wilson bought this place in the late '30s, and I have lived here since August 1, 1984. The closer the time line comes to the present, the more precise the dates become. For the 17 years of my tenure here the house has been a work in progress.

A perennial in my garden of projects are bookcases. Some of them are shelves built into the house, and others are movable bookcases. I have just completed work on one of each.

Since 1992 when I had 900 square feet added to the house, I have become familiar with various clear finishes (urethanes, varnishes, and oils). For the first time this summer, I have worked with a stain. The idea of staining new wood to look aged offends my sensibilities, and that is the only kind of use I could have had for it up 'til now.

The built-in bookcase is a former doorway that was enclosed on one side. Two tiny rooms had become one fair sized room, thus making one door redundant. I left the trim in the hallway, however, for symmetry, with the other doors opening into that same hall. A friend suggested using the now defunct doorway as the frame for a bookcase. In order to do that, new wood had to be coordinated with old.

For the bookcase not to remind the viewer of a zebra, the new wood had to be made to match the old. There was a circumstance for which the use of stain seemed fitting. I was doubtful how true such a match could be. A clerk at a specialty paint store boasted about the owner's ability to choose a stain. "You'd be surprised!" she said, and she was right. He chose a stain that made a brand new piece of pine look just like the century-old wood I took to him to match.

Now another 15 linear feet of shelving are installed into the old doorway. Books that have spent a year stacked on the floor have a more dignified home. The small portable bookcase (three shelves totaling nine or ten linear feet) came out of the shop at the old home place. It was a piece of furniture I took solely for its potential utility. It looked as if it had spent 20 years or more in a shop where anything might have been set in it or on it.

I think I have a knack of taking things that other people would throw away and turning them into something useful and, at least, not ugly. This little bookcase is just such a project. It needed some minor repairs (they have to be minor for me to undertake them). The wood in it isn't fine, though I think it had originally been a sturdy little bookcase.

There was plenty of the stain left, so I applied it to the bookcase, giving it a richer and more uniform appearance. Then it got a coat of satin finish polyurethane, followed by wood putty. Two more coats of polyurethane brought to completion the metamorphosis of this long-neglected piece of furniture.

As usual, these two projects pointed out some gaps in my fixer-upper skills. I learned that liquid sandpaper removes stain extremely well. Unfortunately, I had not intended to remove the stain.

The art of choosing the right kind of wood filler still eludes me. The putty that works so well for narrow, deep gouges is not appropriate at all for filling a broad but shallower wound to the wood. It simply does not harden in the way that is necessary. Other fillers that I have tried will set up too quickly, making them extremely difficult to use.

And I still occasionally forget to put a block of wood onto wood before applying a hammer. The small bookcase has some lovely, quarter-sized indentations on one side. Such mistakes are easier to bear when one began with a piece of junk than they would be on a finer piece of furniture.

I am continuing my work with the clear finishes on new wood I never got around to completing. There is also the trim in the hallway which I stripped more than a year ago, but did not find time to refinish. There is some trim in the newest part of the house that after nine years needs another coat or two of polyurethane to brighten it up.

The window of time for this work is fairly brief. No doubt, I shall not achieve all that I have planned. There is, however, more accomplished than had been done before. Very often in life, progress must serve as the prize when completion remains elusive.

SAT Scores

the test was given. It conflicted with Autumn Glory." She also added that many seniors took the test while they were juniors and let that score stand.

Most colleges look for a score of 500 or higher on each the verbal and math sections of the SAT and a combined score of more than 1,000. The colleges that require the ACT generally look for a score of 20 or higher on each of the subject area tests and an overall composite score above 20.

"We are not so much worried, but thoughtful about these test scores," said Dr. Brenda McCartney, assistant superintendent. "The background of our students is much different than it was a few years ago."

The next SAT test will be held Saturday, Oct. 13. There will also be an additional test given on Saturday, Nov. 3, at Garrett Community College. The registration deadline for that test is Sept. 28, and the late registration deadline is the first week of October.

These materials will be on display weekdays between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. through Tuesday, Oct. 9.

to bridges on the list that had ratings in the 20s and 30s. Commissioner Wendell Beitzel asked Emory to prioritize the bridges with ratings in the teens so that repair costs for some of them could be included in next year's budget.

Emory reported that federal funding for the Third Street replacement bridge in Oakland had been approved. The funding would pay for 80% of the projected $1.2 million project. The commissioners indicated that Oakland, county, and CSX officials now need to meet to discuss the next steps in the project and to find ways to fund the remaining 20% of its cost.

"All schools are moving forward," Germain said. "The participation (in paid lunches) in the first week has increased from the first week of school last year," Germain said.

Madeleine Collins, president of the board of education, said a lot of positive changes have been made in the food service program. "We don't want to sacrifice quality," she added.

Dr. Wendell Teets, superintendent, said that the school lunches are "still the best bargain, cost wise, for a lunch or breakfast in the county."

Eyewitness Account

know if it was shock or if it was terror, or a combination of every emotion...a sensory overload. Planes circled overhead, speculations floated in the air, and the towers burned like an angry volcano. A man beside me offered me a pair of binoculars and pointed across the river to 42nd Street and Times Square. There I saw thousands of New Yorkers scrambling and fighting to get on to the ferry service that ran to New Jersey.

Torn from the binoculars by a unified gasp from the crowd in the park, I turned toward the towers to see one of the giants collapse to the ground. A wall of smoke coursed through the streets surrounding the base of the tower, and muffled the screams of those trapped in the massive cloud. I realized at that moment that many of the people buried alive had to be the rescue workers who ran to the scene only moments before. I stood there, helplessly, along with the rest of my neighbors, not willing to believe what I was seeing. The world watched the television in horror. I watched from only a few miles away. It didn't really matter where you were at the time, whether in California, or right on Manhattan, there wasn't a damn thing anybody could do but watch. Time stopped. I began talking with a man about what was happening, trading speculations, and thoughts. A terrorist attack...think of the dead...why did this happen? Hearing each other's voices was a way to verify that what we were seeing was reality and not some terrible nightmare.

It was cut short by another slowly rising gasp of the people around me. The top of the second tower shifted a little bit, like the moment before a roller coaster car tumbles down the big drop. Camera ready this time, I shot only a few pictures before I literally could not bring the camera to my eye. I was paralyzed with horror. The second tower collapsed like a pillar of salt, again burying rescue workers, and people fleeing the area. Fleeing to where, I wondered. When you get into Manhattan, the only place to go is straight up. All of those millions of people in all of the buildings could not possibly fit in the narrow streets. Even the ferries stopped running because the panicking crowds trampled each other in desperate attempts to get off of the island. All of the bridges and roadways to and from the island were cut off for fear of another attack. The people on Manhattan were trapped there, indefinitely.

Overcome with emotion, I just sat there on the grass with my head in my hands, cheeks moist with tears I didn't even realize I was shedding. All of those people. All of those mothers and fathers and friends and possibly children, for there was an elementary school nearby, and at the time I didn't know if they were in danger or not. They all got up this morning, had breakfast, kissed their sons and daughters goodbye, and went to work. The luckier ones were able to get out of the buildings before they collapsed. The luckiest ones perhaps called in sick or overslept.

There was silence around me. Nobody could say anything. People prayed beside me. People looked toward the sky wondering when the next hijacked plane would hit. People sobbed uncontrollably. Children skipped around, not understanding what all of the fuss was about. In a way we were all like children in our wide-eyed disbelief. Nobody could do anything but stand with mouths agape, and look at the place where the mighty towers stood...now only gaps in the familiar skyline, like holes where teeth were gruesomely ripped out. Smoke still puffed and billowed, mushrooming above the destruction like the pictures I had seen of nuclear bombs. Just up the river, the Empire State Building looked on sadly, as if it too had lost a part of its family. Looking around any other direction but southward, one would have assumed it was a perfect day. The sun was shining and there was a slight breeze.

I couldn't take any more of it. I walked toward my apartment because it was the only thing I could force myself to do. The lady who lives on the first floor of my apartment rushed out and told me that people had been trying to get in touch with me. I knew that the phones were down, which didn't stop me from trying over and over again anyway. Finally my dad got through to me, and I let him know I was fine.

I didn't know what to do with myself. I would go back and forth, up and down the river, trying to figure out some way I could get over there and help. I felt so useless there on the safe, western shore of the river. I stood at the top of the steps leading down to the ferry. New Yorkers by the hundreds climbed the stairs, only to reach the top, panting, not knowing where in the world to go, but thankful they were no longer on the island. Parents on cell phones and at payphones frantically called the schools wondering if their children were okay and also how they could possibly pick them up from school.

Eventually a sense of order washed over the city and the momentum shifted. Instead of running, people maintained control and thought of every possible way to help from donating blood to offering water to the rescue personnel. I was reminded how tragedy of such magnitude brings humanity together. In just one and a half hours the two towers had collapsed. And moments later, rescue efforts had begun and there was a mass held outside of a church on the south end of Manhattan. "...this is not a time for hate. We must pray that those responsible for this will be brought to justice...." were the words of the Cardinal from outside a church just blocks away from the scene. "We must pray for those still trapped and those families who have lost loved ones." It is estimated that over 200 firefighters and 80 police men and women are still among the missing persons.

For the rest of the day, people milled about along the edge of the river, alternately shaking their heads and glancing back at the still burning fire, unable to fathom what happened that morning. The death toll has not been accounted for and may not be for many days, but as the mayor of New York City said, "...surely it is more than any of us can bear." I think every New Yorker went to bed that night hoping to wake up and, over a usual morning coffee, talk about the awful dream they had last night.

On this, the morning after, I have not yet ventured over to the park to look across the river. There is a lot to clean up, and still many survivors trapped in the rubble. No access to the island is possible, short of swimming, and I'm not sure I want to go over there yet. A temporary morgue has been set up just south of where I am to accept the bodies of the victims of this horrible massacre because there is no room on Manhattan. Occasionally I hear a siren and hope with all of my heart that it is transporting another survivor.

It truly puts things into perspective. Lots of what-ifs. What if I had gone into Manhattan early that morning like I was planning to do? What if my parents worked on Wall Street? What if my friends were doing temp work there just as the planes hit? A million questions to which I may never know the answers. It does make my worries of moving to a new place, setting up a life, and finding a job completely disappear. I could be dealing with much more right now. I'm lucky.

I am afraid that a war has begun, one that will reshape the world as we know it. From the cowards who committed such a heinous crime to the sweat and tears of the exhausted rescue workers, one is able to see the extremes of humanity juxtaposed. We will all get through this, I'm sure, and things will change. Throughout history certain events have rocked the world and shaken humanity enough to remind us of the frailty of human life and the necessity to defend it with every ounce of strength we can muster.

State Takes Steps Toward Normalcy After Tuesday's Terrorist Attacks

Capital News Service

ANNAPOLIS - Maryland tried, but couldn't quite get back to normal Wednesday, one day after terrorists destroyed the World Trade Center towers in New York and heavily damaged the Pentagon. The state was still under the state of emergency declared by Gov. Parris N. Glendening after Tuesdays events, but government offices were open for business Wednesday.

Citizens cast about for ways to cope and to show their support for their country. Throughout the state, American flags of all sizes sprouted along roadways and on cars. Some accompanied messages spelled out on signs. Others hung silently at half-staff.

Following the president's lead, Glendening ordered all flags to be flown at half-staff until sunset Sunday.

Prayer services were assembled and well attended at churches, temples and synagogues.

"We're in this with all our brothers and sisters of all faiths," said Pastor G. Oravec of Evangelical Lutheran Church in Frederick, where a special open service was arranged for Wednesday night by about 12 local churches. Several Garrett County churches have held prayer services, and more are slated. "It's important that we are seen praying together," Oravec said.

The state sent what aid that it could. National Guard units and special search and rescue teams joined others in recovery efforts at the Pentagon. Medical resources bound for New York set out just before 4 p.m. Wednesday aboard the hospital ship USS Comfort docked in Baltimore. The ship has 250 beds, and after a supply stop in New Jersey, will carry 730 medical staff to New York to aid in the recovery, said Marge Holtz, director of Public Affairs for the U.S. Navy's Military Sealift Command.

Maryland transportation slowly gained regularity throughout the day with all Metro rail stations open by 3 p.m. At the Baltimore-Washington International Airport, which like every U.S. airport was ordered closed by the Federal Aviation Administration following the jetliner attacks, workers began revamping safety protocols Wednesday. The airport remained closed awaiting word from the Maryland Department of Transportation, airport spokeswoman April Thompson said.

The airport will immediately eliminate curbside check-in, per just announced FAA regulations, Thompson said.

Schools, too, attempted to put a degree of normalcy back into lives of the state's children. All but four Maryland public school districts — St. Mary's, Prince George's, Anne Arundel and Montgomery County — were open Wednesday after most school systems in central Maryland cancelled classes Tuesday afternoon. Local districts retained authority to close schools under the governor's 48-hour state of emergency.

"The most important thing we can do for children at this time is to provide stability and normalcy," said John O'Rourke, Howard County Public Schools superintendent.

School districts will offer grief-counseling services to children in each school and some districts will send letters to parents with tips on how to discuss the attacks with their children.

Retailers also felt the ripple effect. By midmorning Tuesday, numerous shopping malls had closed, said Tom Saquella, president of the Maryland Retailers Association. Business is not expected to bounce back for three or four days, Saquella said. "No question retailers suffered, but that pales in comparison to lives lost."

Grandparents More Likely To Be Head Multi-Generational Homes in Maryland

by Jennifer Dorroh
Capital News Service

WASHINGTON - About 5 percent of Maryland households are multigenerational, and many of those families consist of grandparents who have taken in their children and grandchildren, according to new data from the Census Bureau. The number of multigenerational families in Maryland is slightly higher than the national average of about 4 percent.

While this is the first time the Census has tabulated these numbers, demographers say the number of multi-generational households has been growing. And while there have always been grandparents living with parents and children, the reasons have changed.

"Research points to increases in drug abuse, child abuse, teen and non-marital births, divorce, and AIDS, and changes in the welfare laws that have presented families with new crises," said Lynne Casper, a statistician, author, and former census official.

In Maryland, almost two out of three multi-generational households consisted of a child and grandchild

Bluesman K.J. James To Perform At Frostburg St.

Noted bluesman K.J. James will bring his music to Frostburg State University on Friday, Sept. 21. Performing live at the Loft in the Lane University Center at 8 p.m., James will accompany himself on acoustic guitar. The show is free and open to the public.

Acclaimed as a champion of classic country blues, James was one of the opening artists at the Woodstock '99 Festival. "His powerful baritone, combined with forceful footwork, fluid finger-picking, and some wicked bass lines, gives his music a sound of its own, while staying true to the acoustic blues tradition of Blind Lemon Jefferson. He can make his guitar resonate like an empty oil drum or ring like a country dinner bell," stated an FSU spokesperson.

With a repertoire of 500-plus songs, James performs at more than 200 shows a year at colleges, clubs, coffeehouses, and festivals throughout the U.S. His sense of harmony, dexterity, and sense of humor earned him two nominations for Campus Entertainer of the Year. Fellow blues greats John Jackson, John Hammond, John Cephas, and Phil Wiggins have expressed respect for his artistry. He has recorded with the Salt City Blues Project on Blue Wave Records.

"Playing the blues is much more than a job; it's a calling," James says. "My mission is to keep alive the true spirit of this popular national treasure."

GLAF To Present Final Concert Of The Season

Garrett Lakes Arts Festival (GLAF) will present its final concert of the 2001 season with a performance by the Chamber Orchestra Kremlin. Although this is GLAF's final concert for the year, it is the Chamber Orchestra Kremlin's first concert of its 2001 American tour.

Chamber Orchestra Kremlin is an 18-string orchestra, led by founder and conductor Misha Rachlevsky. It has earned national and international recognition as one of Russia's leading ensembles. In the fall of 1991, Swiss recording company Claves approached Rachlevsky with an offer to record discs of Russian music, and immediately concurred with his suggestion to realize the project with Russian musicians.

Then, Rachlevsky founded Chamber Orchestra Kremlin, an ensemble composed of young musicians in Moscow. The enthusiasm that greeted the orchestra's initial performances in the recording studio and on the concert stages in Russia and abroad led to this formation's establishment as a full-time ensemble.

Chamber Orchestra Kremlin has rapidly earned a place in the saturated and highly competitive international performing scene and maintains an active touring schedule.

The concert will feature "Horizons," a work of by Jon Bauman, professor of music at Frostburg State University. Other works include Divertimento in D major, K. 136, by W.A Mozart; Suite for Strings, by Leos Janacek, and Serenade for Strings, Op. 48, by Piotr Ilyich Tchaikovsky.

The September 22 concert is sponsored by the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce. Sponsor partners are David and Irene Eyer, F&M Bank, Total Biz Fulfillment and Hobby House Press, Doug and Rebecca McClive, Will O' the Wisp, and Wisp Resort.

Season sponsors of Garrett Lakes Arts Festival are SprengerLang Foundation, Coldwell Banker Deep Creek Realty, and Deep Creek Mountain Resort. The concert is funded in part by grants from the Garrett County Arts Council and the Maryland State Arts Council.

The performance, sponsored by the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce, will be held on Saturday, Sept. 22 at 8:00 p.m. at the Garrett Community College auditorium. Tickets are $15 for adults, $4 for GCC students, and $2 for youth, 18 years and younger. Persons may call the GLAF office at 301-387-3082 to order tickets.

Guitar Virtuoso Edgar Cruz To Perform at FSU

The sounds of the acoustic guitar will fill Frostburg State University's Lane University Center on Friday, Sept. 28, when Edgar Cruz performs live at the Loft. The concert, which is free and open to the public, is set for 9:30 p.m.

With a repertoire of more than 400 songs, Cruz is known for playing requests during his performances. His playlist encompasses classical, pop, rock, Latin, international, standards and easy listening, including such classics as "Bohemian Rhapsody," "Tequila," "Pipeline" and "Sabre Dance."

Born and reared in Oklahoma City, Cruz grew up with the sounds of Latin mariachi music under the inspiration of his father Manuel. After obtaining a bachelor's degree in music from Oklahoma City University in 1986, he embarked on a full-time career performing, arranging, publishing, recording, distributing, and marketing his music internationally.

"Edgar Cruz is a wizard. How else can one explain how he captures the sounds of an entire band and reduces them to a single guitar?" said John Schroder, publisher of Fingerstyle Guitar magazine.

For more information, persons may call the Lane University Center Information Desk at 301-687-4411.

Frostburg State University Theatre Announces 2001-2002 Season

Frostburg State's University Theatre has scheduled four mainstage productions for its 2001-2002 season.

The beloved classic The Wizard of Oz will open the season on Friday, Oct. 5, at 8 p.m. in the FSU Performing Arts Center's Drama Theatre. Additional evening performances are slated for October 6, 11, 12, and 13 at 8 p.m. Because of this production's popularity, two Saturday matinees have been scheduled at 2 p.m. on October 6 and 13.

Originally adapted from the hit MGM movie for the Royal Shakespeare Company, this stage version includes the movie hits "Follow the Yellow Brick Road," "We're Off to See The Wizard," "Ding, Dong, the Witch is Dead," and "Over the Rainbow."

The season's second show, Shakespeare's classic comedy Love's Labours Lost is "filled with delight, doggerel, duplicity, lighthearted satire, and a plethora of puns as the Bard pokes fun at intellectual pretension in this story of love conquering all," stated an FSU spokesperson.Performances are scheduled in the PAC Drama Theatre at 8 p.m. for November 16, 17, 29, and 30, and December 1. A matinee is set for Saturday, Nov. 17, at 2 p.m.

The story focuses on a group of strong-willed young men who pledge to renounce women. As they meet and are captivated by four young women, the men ultimately re-examine their decision. "The play's cheerfully unrealistic atmosphere of games and festive play yields, at the last, to a more serious conclusion as the characters consider the age-old question: What should the relationship be between study, work, and the life of the mind and love, play, and the life of the emotions?" the spokesperson said.

Spring will bring contemporary drama to FSU with Breath Boom by Cumberland native and former FSU student Kia Corthron, "who has created a vivid world, believable and eye-opening, a place worthy of a dramatic visit where nobody would want to live, but many must," the spokesperson said. The play will open Friday, March 1, at 8 p.m. in the PAC F. Perry Smith Studio Theatre, with subsequent evening performances set for March 2, 7, 8, and 9. A matinee is set for Saturday, March 2, at 2 p.m.

This play is based on Corthron's extensive research on the lives of young women and street violence. The plot revolves around Prix, a female gang member from New York, who escapes from her hardened life with dreams of creating the perfect fireworks display. Corthron presents an accurate look at this life and includes the tough and often poetic language used by the individuals who experience it. The New York Times called the play a "strong piece of writing from a gifted playwright."

Concluding the season will be the contemporary Fuddy Meers by playwright David Lindsay-Abaire, which will open Friday, April 19, at 8 p.m. in the F. Perry Smith Studio Theatre. Evening performances are aiso set for April 20, 25, 26, and 27, and a Saturday matinee is scheduled for April 20 at 2 p.m.

Lindsay-Abaire explores an unusual type of amnesia through the experiences of Claire, who loses her memory whenever she goes to sleep. One morning, like all mornings, Claire's husband explains her condition and gives her a book filled with essential information on her life. When a man in a ski mask enters her house and claims to be her brother coming to rescue her, Claire starts a strange journey to find her past and forgotten life. Her adventure brings her into contact with several outrageous characters, including a dim-witted thug, a claustrophobic policewoman, and a crude hand puppet. "Claire's virtual roller-coaster ride as an amnesiac in search of her fractured life is hilarious, yet disturbing and poignant," the spokesperson said.

More information about and reservations for all University Theatre productions can be obtained by calling 301-687-4145 between 1 and 5 p.m., Monday through Friday. Season discount cards are available for $21, a value that allows cardholders to attend The Wizard of Oz for free (normally $10 for non-students). Tickets for the remaining individual performances are $7 for non-students. Student tickets are $3 for all performances.

Massenkoff Russian Folk Festival To Perform At Frostburg State

The Massenkoff Russian Folk Festival will appear at Frostburg State University on Saturday, Sept. 29, to open the 2001-2002 Cultural Events Series and celebrate Parents' Weekend. The performance is set for 8:30 p.m. in the Cordts Center Main Arena.

Starring world celebrated singer Nikolai Massenkoff and featuring a balalaika ensemble and soloists, plus the Russian Souvenir Dancers, this show expresses the Russian spirit in song and dance. The performance offers audiences a glimpse of Russian history and traditions.

"Massenkoff's resonant bass voice, the musicians' virtuosity, and the graceful movements of the colorfully clad dancers have mesmerized audiences in seven countries and 38 states," stated an FSU spokesperson. The show has appeared with the Boston Symphony Orchestra and at a variety of venues, including Carnegie Hall, Las Vegas, the Epcot Center, and the recent Olympics in Korea. Massenkoff has shared the stage with such stars as Liberace, Jerry Lewis, Bob Hope, Glen Campbell, and Ray Charles.

"Massenkoff has an astonishing voice and charisma," says the Chautauquan Daily of New York. He developed his unique vocal style as a child in a Russian Orthodox orphanage.

Dinner theatre specials are available prior to the performance at one of the following dinner theatre partner restaurants: Fratelli's Italian Restaurant, Giuseppe's Italian Restaurant, JB's Steak Cellar, Leone's Italian Restaurant and Larry's Blues Cellar at Deep Creek Lake, and Oxford House and can be purchased through the CES Box Office. Auditions Set For BBBS Murder Mystery Benefit

Open auditions have been scheduled for this Saturday, Sept. 15, from 10 a.m. to noon and 1 to 3 p.m. in the fellowship hall of St. Paul's United Methodist Church, Oakland, for an upcoming "murder mystery" theater fund-raiser for the Garrett County chapter of Big Brothers Big Sisters.

No prior acting experience is necessary to audition, according to local BBBS coordinator JoAnn Fletcher, a veteran of a number of such performances throughout the tri-state area, who will produce and direct the four productions. "The show(s) to be performed will be determined by availability of actors, and two to three rehearsals will probably be all that is necessary per script."

Plays will be chosen from a list that includes Jewel of the Potomac, a circus murder mystery written by Fletcher, Murder at the Deer Park Hotel, during which a wedding goes awry, Cries Along the B&O, with a train theme, The Class of '47, complete with an Andrews-style singing group, Murder in the Cast, which is based on the musical Oliver!, and Aces High, which has a high-states poker game setting. The shows selected to be performed will be determined by availability of actors.

The murder mysteries will be staged during the Autumn Glory Festival, and will be presented Thursday through Saturday, Oct. 11-13, (with two Saturday performances) at St. Peter's Catholic Church fellowship hall in Oakland.

For more information, or if a special audition time is required, persons may call Fletcher at 301-334-3590 or 800-400-0735.

Bauman Work To Be Performed By Orchestra Kremlin

"Horizons," a composition by Frostburg State University music professor Dr. Jon Bauman, will be performed by the Chamber Orchestra Kremlin on Saturday, Sept. 22, as part of the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival (GLAF). This concert is scheduled for 8 p.m. at Garrett Community College.

Besides "Horizons," which was commissioned by the Downers Grove, Ill., High School Orchestras, the orchestra will perform a Mozart Divertimento, the Janacek Suite for Strings, and Tchaikovsky's Serenade for Strings.

Music composed by Dr. Bauman has been performed in Europe and across the United States. Last year, his Duo for Violin and Cello was selected for performance at the Alfeo Gigli Festival in Italy. His Adagio for Oorchestra was recorded by the Slovak Radio Orchestra for the Master Musicians Collective compact disc series.

The Chamber Orchestra Kremlin, founded and led by Conductor Misha Rachlevsky, has earned national and international recognition as one of Russia's leading ensembles. The orchestra was founded in 1991, when the Swiss recording company Claves approached Rachlevsky with an offer to record discs of Russian classical music. The conductor gathered some of the finest young musicians in Moscow to form the 18-member string ensemble, which maintains an active schedule touring Russia and abroad, and recording.

For concert tickets and more information, persons may call GLAF at 301-387-3082 or visit the web site at www.artsandenter tainment.org.

who were living in the grandparents' home. Most of the rest were families in which grandparents lived in their child's home with the child and grandchild.

Demographers said that Americans tend not to live in multi-generational households when they can afford not to. Factors such as housing costs and immigration may also affect the number of multi-generational households, census officials said. Often, parents with low incomes move in with their own parents for financial reasons.

"In our program, many parents live with their own parent in order to provide good housing and the things they want for their children," said Barbara Smith, director of Emily Price Jones Head Start in Baltimore, which provides early childhood education and social services to poor families.

Experts said there is a growing trend toward grandparents taking responsibility for the care of their grandchildren. The census bureau estimates that 42,000 to 60,000 Maryland grandparents care for their grandchildren.

Such arrangements can be a drain on grandparents, and a movement is shaping up to give them support. More than 30 caregiver support groups meet in Maryland, and the state Department of Aging publishes a guide for relatives caring for children.

"There are benefits when children and older people interact," said Susan London Russell, the Department of Aging's intergenerational specialist. "Elders have a lot of wisdom to give children. They boost the children's self-esteem. And the interaction gives older, retired adults a sense of purpose," she said. "The opportunity to help a child in need makes the senior feel like he's doing something meaningful."

Of Maryland's almost 2 million households, 88,923 families, or 4.5 percent, included a grandparent, child, and grandchild. Maryland is close to the national average because it mirrors the nation demographically, experts said.

"With its urban-rural split, Maryland is a microcosm of the country," said John Haaga of the Population Reference Bureau.

Child advocate William O'Hare said the percentage of multi-generational households in Maryland was probably the average of two extremes.

"Maryland is one of the wealthiest states in the country, but there are significant pockets of poverty in places like Baltimore and the Eastern Shore," said O'Hare, the Maryland Kids Count Coordinator at the Annie E. Casey Foundation.

Hawaii had the highest proportion of multi-generational families, at 8.2 percent, while North Dakota had the lowest proportion, with 1.1 percent.

Rams Edged By Keyser In Season Opener, 16-12

The 2001 football campaign of the Southern High School varsity football team opened with about as much excitement as fans could stand last Friday night, as the Rams held the lead against Keyser until there were just 34 seconds left on the clock, fell behind at that point, and still almost won the contest, as a pass from Tobi Stoner to Bryson Meyers at the goal line on the final play of the game was nearly one-handed by Meyers, but fell incomplete. After holding a 12-0 advantage until the final minute of the third quarter, the Rams were edged, 16-12.

The Golden Tornados came to Oakland with two big victories already under their belts, while the Rams were taking the field for the first time this season. Despite that fact, and despite the fact that the Southern ranks were also laced with considerable inexperience at the varsity level, the Rams basically dominated the game for the first three quarters.

Among the inexperienced players were Meyers and Stoner, who are seniors, but who were both playing their first varsity football game, along with kicker and defensive back Chad Panther, who was a soccer player in the fall until this year.

Running back Steve Skipper put the first points on the board for the Rams, as he scored a touchdown on a four-yard run in the first quarter. Panther's kick for the extra point was no good.

Southern took its 12-0 lead when Skipper scored in the second quarter, this time on a 13-yard run. The conversion pass was caught short of the goal line.

The Tornados, who had recorded victories over Tucker County and Jefferson the previous two Fridays, finally got on the board late in the third period when Justin Denmark scored on a two-yard run. Wes Rinard booted the extra point to make it 12-7.

The Keyser touchdown was set up when a defender stripped the ball away from Southern fullback Joel Helbig and returned it deep into Ram territory.

Then with just 2:34 left in the game, the Rams were held deep in their own territory. Coach Fred Gregg and staff decided to give up a safety by directing Stoner to take the snap on fourth down, fake a pass, and then run around in the end zone to take as much time off the clock as possible. Stoner was able to elude tacklers for 15 seconds before being dropped, giving Keyser the two-point safety and cutting the Rams' lead to 12-9.

The Rams then kicked off from their own 20 and Keyser took possession near mid-field. The Southern defense held the visitors on the first two plays, but Keyser quarterback Troy Ravenscroft completed a long pass to put the ball inside the Rams' five. Ravenscroft subsequently scored on a one-yard keeper with just 34 seconds left, and Rinard kicked the extra point to give Keyser the 16-12 lead.

The ball went out of bounds on the ensuing kickoff, giving the Rams possession at their own 35 with 34 seconds to play. Stoner and the rest of the offense marched to the Keyser 30, setting up the final pass attempt to Meyers as the gun sounded.

Skipper finished with 115 yards of rushing on 25 attempts, while Stoner went 4-for-11 in passing for 95 yards. Ravenscroft was 5-for-8 through the air for 106 yards.

Panther attempted a 32-yard field goal that was short of the uprights.

"WE CAN STILL WIN THIS THING," Coach Fred Gregg told his Southern Rams Friday night when they trailed undefeated Keyser with just 34 seconds to play, and win they almost did, as they took the kickoff and marched all the way to the goal line, but saw the game end when Bryson Meyers' spectacular attempt to haul in a 30-yard pass from Tobi Stoner was just an inch above his outstretched hand. The Rams held a 12-0 lead until the final moments of the third quarter when the heavily favored Tornados began a 16-point rally to record their third win. The Rams' effective ground game was led by Steve Skipper, who is pictured below gaining real estate around the right end. The Rams will go after their first win this Friday at Beall.

Defensively, the Rams were paced by Brad Palmer with 16 tackles, and Helbig with 14.

"We were very pleased with how hard our kids played and their poise under tremendous pressure," stated Coach Gregg. "But this was certainly a hard one to lose. We controlled the game for just under three quarters, and then made a few mistakes. You just can't make mistakes against a good team."

Gregg said that the solid play of the inexperienced personnel (Meyers, Stoner, Panther, et al) on the Ram squad is thanks in a big part to their "home environment and upbringing."

"These boys come from solid families, and they are also good athletes who excel in many sports," he said. "They are not football experienced, but they have good athletic experience, and they know how to stay cool when things get hot."

Gregg said that the Rams did not sustain any additional major injuries in the contest, but that Chris Bennett and Billy Schmidl remain out of the line-up for this week's game. Lineman Nick Gangler, who broke his wrist recently in practice, will be back, however.

The next opponent for the Rams has not been on the regular schedule for a number of years, as the Southern-Beall match-up finally returned to the slate this season after many years of absence. The Mountaineers lost their opener last week to a much-improved Berkeley Springs squad.

Coach Gregg's primary concern in terms of defense is Beall's use of the wishbone.

"It's often tough for your defenders to find the ball when facing the wishbone," he said. "They use a lot of motion, they can run the option, and they can throw the ball. Plus, we just don't see the wishbone much. Northern uses a similar formation, but that's it. No one else is using it."

The Beall offense is led by their senior quarterback Nick Durst (6-0, 170) and senior running back Ryan Harper (6-0, 190).

"Durst is a real threat, both as a runner and a passer," Gregg said, "and Harper is a tough, hard runner both inside and out, who can run right over you."

The Mountaineers' 4-3 monster defensive unit, which operates also in a 5-2 set, is spearheaded by senior lineman Chad Emerick (5-10, 220) and junior linebacker Zack Sloan (5-10, 185).

"Another concern of ours is whether or not our kids will go into the game with the same intensity and emotion as they did last week, which is tough to do after losing such a heartbreaker," Gregg said. "Plus we missed a practice on Tuesday (because of the early closure of schools).

"But, we're anxious to play and to renew our rivalry with Beall after a long time," he said.

Friday's kickoff at Beall is set for 7:30 p.m.

SHS Jayvees Fall To Huskies, Then To Lions

The junior varsity football team of Southern High School dropped its first two games of the 2001 season this past week, falling to county rival Northern, 16-6, in Oakland last Thursday and being blanked by Tucker County, 12-0, on Monday, also at home. (See separate story for details Southern-Northern game.)

The game against Tucker County remained scoreless until the fourth quarter, when the Lions tallied a pair of touchdowns to earn the win.

Jay Wooder hauled in a nine-yard touchdown pass from J.D. Arnold to give Tucker a 6-0 lead with about nine minutes left in the game. The conversion attempt failed.

Then with less than two minutes remaining, Roy Tate scampered 27 yards from scrimmage for a second Lion touchdown. The conversion attempt was again no good.

Pacing the Ram rushing effort was Chad Evert, who recorded 49 yards on 13 carries. The Tucker defense held Southern to a total of 65 yards of offense, while the Lion offensive unit amassed 250 yards.

The Rams will attempt to get into the win column next Monday at Keyser.

Ram Freshmen Open With 28-0 Win Over Beall

The freshman football team of Southern High School scored a touchdown in each of the four quarters and coasted to a 28-0 victory over host Beall in the season opener for both teams, played last Thursday on the Mountaineers' field in Frostburg.

Tyler Graham capped a drive with a two-yard touchdown run, and Mike Schmidl ran successfully for the conversion to give the Rams an 8-0 lead in the first quarter.

A 20-yard touchdown run by Schmidl in the second quarter put the Rams up 14-0, as the run for the conversion failed.

Schmidl scored another six-pointer on a 12-yard carry in the third period. The conversion run failed, leaving the Rams with a 20-0 advantage.

Southern's Doug Uphole broke loose for a 50-yard touchdown run in the final stanza, and also ran for the two-point conversion, to conclude the scoring for the evening.

Schmidl finished with 92 yards of rushing to go with his 14 points, while Uphold was right behind with 85 yards. Much of their success was because of the blocking of fullback Darwin Bennett, who also had 31 of his own yards rushing. Schmidl and Chris Miller were also cited by Coach Greg Tressler for their outstanding defensive play.

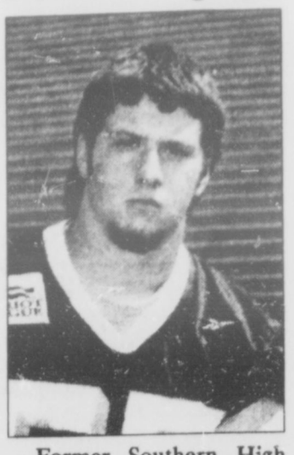
Unger Starting For Holy Cross Football Squad



Former Southern High School football standout Robert Unger has earned a starting berth with the NCAA Division I football program at the College of Holy Cross, Worcester, Mass. The junior history major is attending the college on a full academic/athletic scholarship.

Unger (6-2, 260) beat out a returning starter who weighed 400 pounds for the Crusaders' nose guard position. Holy Cross debuted last weekend with a 33-7 home victory over Georgetown, and is scheduled to host Harvard this Saturday. The Crusaders are picked to battle arch-rival Lehigh for the Patriot Conference title this season.

"Robert was always extremely focused, both academically and athletically," said Jay Stewart, his former defensive line coach at Southern. "He built himself up quickly through hard work in the weight room and in the Rams' wrestling program, but even more importantly, he was committed to excellence in his studies as well as his athletics. He's a very well rounded young man."

Following his 1999 graduation from Southern High, Unger completed one year of study at Potomac State College, Keyser, W.Va., where he was a member of Sigma Phi Omega honor fraternity and the last Catamount football team to take the field. He achieved a 4.0 grade point average at PSC.

Unger is the son of Barbara and Ronald Unger of Mtn. Lake Park.

Huskies Nipped By Smithsburg In Final Five Minutes, 26-13

"We dominated everything but the scoreboard," is how a disappointed Northern High School varsity football coach Phil Carr summed up Saturday's 26-13 season-opening loss at Smithsburg. The Husky skipper's observation is right on the mark, for NHS outperformed its hosts in a number of categories, but the final five minutes of the contest proved fatal as Smithsburg scored 19 points to come from a six-point deficit to take the win.

Northern controlled the first three quarters of the game. Smithsburg had opened the scoring at the three-minute mark of the first quarter as a one-yard touchdown run, followed by an extra-point kick, gave the hosts a 7-0 lead. The undaunted Huskies struck back five minutes later when fullback Cheston Bachtel capped a scoring drive by carrying the ball into the endzone from six yards out. A failed extra-point kick attempt left the score at 7-6.

A defensive struggle ensued over the next two quarters, which included some missed opportunities on the Huskies' part. Northern had the ball inside Smithsburg's 10-yard line twice in the second quarter, but failed to dent the goal line on either ocassion.

With a first down and goal situation at the nine yard line, NHS suffered two consecutive missed hand-offs, then on third and goal from the nine a running play to the outside was shut down because of a missed blocking assignment. The six yard loss resulted in a fourth and goal from 15 yards out, and because placekicker Trey Brenneman has been nursing an injured kicking toe, NHS elected to go for the touchdown. Smithsburg picked off the pass attempt in the endzone and returned it to the 10 yard line to quash what had appeared to be a golden NHS opportunity.

The second disappointment came right on the heels of the first. Northern's defense held Smithsburg to one first down before forcing the hosts to punt from deep within their own territory. NHS marched down to claim a first and goal on the eight yard line, but a holding penalty on second down pushed the ball back 15 yards. The Huskies collected themselves and managed to work their way back down to the five yard line where, on fourth and goal, they elected to throw a short pass into the endzone that went off the outstretched fingertips of the receiver. The teams went into the halftime locker room with the Huskies still down 7-6, but confident they could move the ball.

A defensive struggle ensued through the third quarter as both defenses played hard-hitting football. NHS finally broke the silence in the fourth quarter when, on a second and long bootleg play, quarterback Aaron Mitchell broke free from a defensive lineman's grasp long enough to hit split end Derrell Smith with a 25-yard strike to put the ball on Smithsburg's two yard line. Halfback Brenneman plunged in on the very next play to give Northern the lead, then he connected on the extra-point kick to make the score NHS 13-Smithsburg 7.

"At that point we felt we had grabbed the momentum, and were in a good position to go for the kill," Carr recounted. The coach's premonition appeared to come true shortly after the touchdown, as Northern's defense forced a turnover. On third and five, Smithsburg attempted a pass that ws tipped into the air by outside linebacker Joel Resh, and cornerback Elliott Perfetti made an outstanding play to dive and nab the ball before it fell to the ground.

With a first and 10 on the 50, Northern's outlook seemed to be growing brighter by the minute; however, on the first play of the drive, a fine nine yard run by Bachtel ended in disaster when Smithsburg stripped the ball and pounced on the fumble. Smithsburg took over on its own 41, and drove to NHS's eight yard line with the help of a 33-yard run that included several missed tackles. "We just weren't aggressive enough to bring the runner down," Carr said. Smithsburg scored on an ensuing eight yard running play, but Northern's special team came through to block the kick and leave the score knotted at 13-all with the clock ticking away.

The Huskies' offense then mounted a drive to Smithsburg's 36, but a series of penalties forced a punt. On the second play of their possession, with just 31 seconds on the clock, the hosts showed pass by lining up three receivers on one side; however, when the ball was snapped they ran an off-tackle play in the other direction. The surprise caught NHS slightly off guard, but the defense recovered enough to get four shots at bringing the runner down; they missed each of the four tackles, however, and the Smithsburg speedster was able to tear down the sideline for a 70-yard touchdown run. A successful point-after kick gave Smithsburg a 20-13 lead. NHS attempted a last-gasp long distance pass, but Smithsburg intercepted the bomb and ran it through a demoralized Husky defense with no time on the clock to make the score 26-13.

"This one hurt," Carr commented. "We have no one to blame but ourselves. We gave it away with our mistakes and poor tackling; we'll be working hard in those areas this week in practice. We had 20 total first downs to their 15, and we gained over 250 yards on the ground, ordinarily those numbers mean you have a good shot at winning. Smithsburg had 313 rushing yards, but if you take away that 70-yard run at the end our numbers are almost identical.

"We're going to change some things this week, and go back to last year's defensive alignment. Lee Yoder will move up from the linebacker spot to play stand-up noseguard, which he did real well last season, and that should help us plug up the holes that can open when you only have a three-man front. We'll pair Trey and Joel at linebacker, and bring in Ethan DeVore at free safety.

"Everyone's got to work on the fundamentals of hard hitting and sure tackling, and if we do, we'll be fine. The kids are dissapointed in the loss, and if the players are mad, you can expect they'll put in the effort to improve."

Northern will try to get into the win column tomorrow night at Mapletown (Pa.) in a 7:30 p.m. contest. The 1-1 Maples pulled off an upset in their season opener, but were beaten badly by a much bigger school in Game 2. "Mapletown has 17 starters back from last year," said Carr, "so you know they have experience. We have a shot at winning, as usual our opponent is bigger than us on paper, but if we play bigger and use our speed we have a shot at winning. It should be a good game."

NHS fans making the trek to tomorrow night's game should take Interstate 68 west to the first Morgantown exit, then follow Route 119 to Point Marion, Pa. Turn left at the first stoplight in Point Marion, cross the Monogahela River, take the first right immediately after crossing the bridge, and follow that road to the school, which will be on the left. Allow 20 minutes from Point Marion to reach Mapletown High.

NHS Jayvees Take Wins Over SHS, Berkeley

Northern's junior varsity football team stands at 2-0 after a 16-6 win at SHS on Thursday, Sept. 6, and a 28-6 drubbing of visiting Berkeley Springs Monday.

Key to the Huskies' win over Southern was an outstanding defensive effort, and touchdown runs by Mike Wolf and Corey Fike. Corey Bosley carried a touchdown in for the Rams.

NHS was paced to victory over Berkeley Springs by four touchdowns, three scored by Robert Stark. Fike and Stark scored on runs, Stark hit Eric Johnson for a scoring pass, and Stark capped his outstanding night by returning an interception for his third TD. The Huskies' swarming defense also recorded two interceptions by Ian Woodden, and one by Eric Garlitz.

The NHS jayvees are idle until Monday, Sept. 24, when they host Bishop Walsh in a 7 p.m. match-up.

Maddawgs Split With Visiting Saints At NHS

The Northern Maddawgs Pee Wee Football League teams hosted the Saints Saturday at Northern High School, and the Maddawgs C unit won 24-6, while the combined Maddawgs A&B squads lost 34-20.

The C team's offensive unit scored three touchdowns on its first three possessions by pounding the ball up the middle in a relentless ground assault. Kameron Kamp scored on a 30-yard touchdown run on the Maddawgs' first possession, then Alex Baker scampered 11 yards for a score on the second possession. Baker struck again on the first play of the second half when he rumbled 55 yards to make the score 24-0 Northern.

The Maddawgs' defense hammered at the Saints' runners as Austin Tombley forced a fumble, which was recovered by Josh Mason. The defense allowed only three first downs and one touchdown through the contest, as Northern upped its record to 3-1.

The Maddawgs B team opened the first quarter of the A&B battle on the wrong foot by turning the ball over to the Saints, who went on to score a touchdown and an extra point to take an early 7-0 lead. The B team offense got a boost after the defense forced a fumble that was recovered by Jacob Bosley. Josh Duckworth capped the ensuing scoring drive with a touchdown run, and Trevor Tombley carried in the extra point to tie the score. The Saints answered with a touchdown near the end of the stanza.

The Maddawgs A team opened the second quarter by driving deep into Saints territory before fumbling the ball away. A hard-fought Northern defensive effort followed, with the Maddawgs forcing the Saints' offense to give the ball up on downs at the Maddawgs' five-yard line.

The highlight of the third quarter was a B team score by Josh Duckworth, who struck with a rushing touchdown.

The Maddawgs A team jumped out to an impressive 65-yard scoring drive to open fourth quarter. Blair Silbaugh capped the drive by rushing for the touchdown, and Garrett Gulledge carried in the extra point to pull Northern to with seven points, 27-20. It was all Saints the rest of the way, however, as the visitors scored again to take the final 34-20 lead.

The Maddawgs travel to Allegany High School for a 9:30 a.m. battle with the Hunters this Saturday.

Southern Girls Edge BW In Battle Of Area's Best

A goal by Kristen Oxford with just 5:36 remaining in the match gave the Southern High School girls' varsity soccer team a big 3-2 victory over Bishop Walsh Saturday evening on the SHS athletic field. It was the second win in as many starts for Coach Ron Petrella and the Rams.

Four of the game's five goals were scored within a nine-minute span in the first half. After about 25 minutes of scoreless play, the Spartans took a 1-0 advantage when Karen Knight scored a goal off an assist by Erica Gilles at the 15:31 mark.

Southern's Megan Burner knotted the score at 1-1 with a goal off a feed by Brittany Naylor with 10:36 remaining.

Bishop Walsh regained the lead when Knight struck again, this time unassisted, with 7:12 left in the half, but Burner responded less than a minute later (6:14) with a goal off another assist by Naylor.

Just when it appeared the contest may have to go into overtime, with nearly 35 minutes of the second half expired and the score still tied at 2-2, Oxford put the ball into the net off an assist by Burner with 5:36 left on the clock.

The Rams finished with a 13-7 advantage in shots on goal. Southern's sophomore goalkeeper Alasha Rush was credited with 12 saves, while BW's Kelli Amoroso stopped 10 shots by the Rams.

Southern was scheduled to play at Frankfort on Tuesday, but that match was postponed because of the terrorist attack on the United States. The Rams will play this Friday and Saturday in the Area Tournament. They will host Fort Hill on Friday and Northern on Saturday, with those matches slated to get under way at 7:30 and 5:30 p.m., respectively.

Southern will entertain Beall on Monday and travel to Fort Hill next Wednesday, with both of those kickoffs set for 7:30 p.m.

GROVES MAKES FIRST KNOB VISIT COUNT
by Donna Butler

Plenty of cars made for an action-filled evening Saturday at Roaring Knob Raceway Park. Dave Groves took the laurels in the Late Model division, and Marcus Defreitas won the Sportsman Sprints. Hot Stocker John Redshaw claimed number six and Bob Bolin made it five wins in five Classic Lites. Other repeaters were Mike Lewis in the Modified 4-Cylinders, Danny Leonard in the Stock 4-Cylinders, and AMRA Mod pilot Ron Parrish.

Morgantown, W.Va.'s, Groves sat on the pole for the Ken Nicholson and Sons Late Model feature. Groves led from flag to flag, but plenty of shuffling throughout the field kept the action lively.

Groves could not build a commanding lead, as 10 caution periods throughout the race kept the field bunched up. Third starter Gary Dalton chipped away at Groves's lead, pulling even at one point but never able to complete the pass. Fifth starter Jeff Ferguson then got his shot at the leader. Dalton drove deep into the turns, but on the twelfth circuit, Ferguson got in just a little deeper in 3 and 4 to take second. Ferguson and Groves duked it out over the final 13 trips around the mountain top oval, and Groves came out on top, with Ferguson in the runner-up spot. Lynn Geisler took the third position from Dalton on lap 23 and held on. Dalton and Mel Minnick took fourth and fifth, respectively.

The Caney Valley Sport and Marine AMRA Modifieds were out in full force. Charles Cochran started

Northern Girls Topped By Beall In Second Half

After a scoreless tie at halftime, the Northern High School girls' soccer team gave up three goals in the second half to fall to host Beall, 3-0, last Thursday. It was the second loss in two starts for the Huskies.

Erin Moulden wasted no time in the second half of action breaking the tie, as she put an unassisted goal into the net just 1:06 into the half.

The score remained 1-0 most of the rest of the match, but Beall tacked on two late scores, both also unassisted, in the last six minutes of action. Whitney Wilson scored with 5:54 left, and Moulden recorded her second goal of the night with just 59 ticks left on the clock.

Beall finished with a lopsided 16-7 advantage in shots on goal, and led 4-1 in corner shots. Ashley Warnick and Randi Beiler combined for nine saves in goal for the Huskies, while Krista Blank had two saves for the Mountaineers.

It was the season-opener for Beall.

The Northern junior varsity was edged by a 2-1 margin in the preliminary match. Angie Mills and Robyn Miller each scored a goal for the Beall jayvees, while Brittany Melbourne recorded the Huskies' lone goal.

Northern will return to action this Friday and Saturday in the Area Tournament, to be hosted by Southern. The Huskies will meet Bishop Walsh on Friday at 5:30 p.m., and face Southern on Saturday in a 5:30 p.m. contest.

The Huskies, coached by Lynn Lais, will host Meyersdale next Wednesday, with that kickoff set for 4 p.m.

RAMS TOPPED BY SPARTANS - After opening their season last Thursday with a convincing 7-1 victory over Petersburg, the Southern High School boys' varsity soccer team tasted defeat on Saturday at home when they were topped by undefeated Bishop Walsh, 4-1. In the photo at left, Southern's Riff Browning (#6) battles with a Spartan for possession. Above, freshman defender Tray Rives prepares to blast the ball out of Ram territory. At right is teammate Bobby Burton. The Rams will play Petersburg again this Saturday at home. Photos by John McEwen.

Ram Booters Crush Vikings Before Falling To Spartans

It was a five-goal, two-assist night for Southern High School's D.R. Parsons last Thursday evening, as the Rams crushed host Petersburg, 7-1, to open their 2001 soccer season with a lopsided victory. However, the Rams' saw their record evened at 1-1 Saturday evening when they were topped by visiting Bishop Walsh, 4-1.

Parsons recorded the first of his five goals just one minute into the first quarter against Petersburg, as he put the ball unassisted past the Viking keeper.

Adam Miller made it 2-0 at the 16:50 mark of the second quarter when he scored off a feed by Parsons. Less than four minutes later, Parsons scored again, this time off an assist by Riff Browning, to make it 3-0. Miller struck gold again with 4:45 left in the half when he scored off an assist by Parsons.

Parsons added two more goals within two minutes in the third quarter, scoring off assists by Bryan Schwalm and Matthew Burner at the 5:00 and 3:00 marks, giving the Rams a commanding 6-0 advantage.

Parsons, assisted again by Miller, struck for the fifth time with 17:30 to play in the fourth period.

The Vikings avoided a shutout when Sebastian Indacochea scored off a feed by Aaron Berg with just 4:30 left in the match.

The Rams finished with a commanding 31-15 advantage in shots on goal and a 5-4 edge in corner kicks. Chris Menker had seven saves in goal for Southern, and Ben Fout stopped 13 shots for the Vikings, who saw their record slip to 3-2.

The level of competition for the Rams was elevated significantly on Saturday when undefeated Bishop Walsh, led by senior striker Eric Perlozzo, came to do battle at the SHS athletic field. Perlozzo scored all four of his teams goals, two of which were unassisted and one of which was on a penalty kick.

Perlozzo scored off an assist by Sean Lindner with 29:23 remaining in the second half to put the Spartans on top for good.

He added an unassisted goal less than two minutes later (27:27), and gave his team a 3-0 halftime lead with a successful penalty kick at the 4:06 mark of the first half.

Perlozzo and company maintained the momentum right into the second half, as he scored another unassisted goal just 1:55 into the action.

The Rams tightened up defensively and held the Spartans scoreless the rest of the way, but remained unable to generate much offense. They avoided a shutout when Adam Miller scored on a penalty kick with 20:38 to play.

BW (4-0) led by modest margins in both shots on goal (14-12) and corner kicks (8-5), and both goalkeepers, Southern's Menker and BW's Jay Sulek, were credited with 10 saves apiece.

The junior varsity clash ended in a 2-2 tie, with Carl Hillen recording both goals for the Ram jayvees, and Sizer and Miller each netting one for the Spartans.

The Rams will be back in action this Saturday at home against Petersburg, and will travel to Keyser next Tuesday.

Huskies Handed 5-1, 2-0 Defeats By Fort Hill, Alco

The young 2001 soccer season has been a struggle so far for the Northern High School boys' varsity, which dropped its first two matches of the year this past week, falling to Fort Hill last Thursday, 5-1, at Greenway Avenue Stadium in Cumberland and being blanked by host Allegany on the same field Saturday, 2-0. The matches were part of the Big Four Tournament.

The only goal scored by the Huskies in the pair of contests was off a direct kick by Shawn Fike late in the first half against Fort Hill.

Teammate Matt Burnett hit an unassisted goal about 14 minutes later to make it 2-0, and Patrick Grove put the Sentinels up 3-0 with a goal off an assist by Repac with 12:54 left in the half.

Fike's goal off the direct kick was recorded at the 5:12 mark.

Repac upped Fort Hill's lead to 4-1 with another unassisted goal at the 35:23 mark of the second half, and Daniel Wood put the ball in the net off a Repac pass just four minutes later to conclude the scoring for the evening.

Fort Hill dominated play, finishing with a 25-6 advantage in shots on goal and a 7-5 edge in corner kicks. Greg Bender had 20 saves in goal for Northern, while Jack Sullivan and Steve Stone each earned two stops for the Sentinels.

The Northern junior varsity was edged in a preliminary contest, 2-1, with Travis Null and Adam Lonigro scoring for the Sentinel jayvees, and Scott Pusateri recording the Huskies' goal.

Martin fed a pass to T.J. McCullough, who scored to make it 2-0 with 12:21 left in the match.

The Campers finished with a 10-0 advantage in corner kicks and led in shots on goal by a 19-7 margin. Justin Schellhaus had six saves for Allegany, while Bender recorded 11 stops in goal for the Huskies.

The win upped the Campers' season mark to 2-0.

Northern was to have met Fort Hill again Tuesday, but the match was postponed, as were all area sports events that evening. The Huskies will travel to Westmar next Tuesday and entertain Beall next Thursday, with the junior varsity matches slated to begin at 6 p.m. and the varsity contests to kick off at 7:30.

from the pole, but at the drop of the green, Vic Vandergrift, coming from third on the grid, led the charge into turn 1. After four cautions in the first two laps sent Ray Perkins and Clifton Cochran pitside, something broke under Vandergrift's machine. Ron Parrish of Fairmont, W.Va., inherited the lead and never looked back en route to win his second at the raceway. Charles Cochran furnished second, followed by Ron Delano Jr., Wayne Jordan, and Donnie Witt.

Seven yellows sent six damaged cars pitside in the VitaLink-QCOL Classic Lites. When the smoke cleared, Bob Bolin had taken his fifth, making the pass for the point on the final turn of the final circuit. Mike Hay came in second, with Eric Hay, Lynn Knepper, and Jeff Barclay completing the top five.

John Redshaw, the "Farmington Fireball," was a man on a mission. Redshaw took a difficult win in the Country Charm Hot Stocks, battling runner-up Scott Spade over the entire distance. Scott Herring, Chuck Capanna, and Jim Byers followed. Four cautions were thrown in the event.

Mike Lewis of Oakland took the lead on lap 4 of the Fort Necessity Garage Modified 4-Cylinder event, and made it stick for the win. Tom Simpson, Wyatt Pifer, Charles White, and Jason Boncoski followed. There were three cautions in the event.

"Dangerous" Danny Leonard continued his dominance of the Fort Necessity Garage 4-Cylinder Stocks. The Dunbar, Pa., driver wired the field. Following Leonard at the stripe were Marty Spade, Floyd Carey, Bob Miller, and Dane Burnworth.

Marcus Defreitas of New Market won his first in the Sportsman Sprints. Tim Robertson followed, along with Vince Berardinelli, Rob Felix, and Craig Shaw.

There will be no auto racing at Roaring Knob this Saturday, Sept. 15, as the motorcross season finale is scheduled for that date. The King of the Knob Spectacular is slated for Sept. 21 and 22. More details are on the way.

Roaring Knob Raceway Park is located two miles west of the Youghiogheny Lake, just off Route 40 along Fearer Road. For more information, persons may call the raceway office at 724-329-0306

Trophies were awarded to the various winners of the tournament, which was played on the Oakland course on August 1. Certificates were presented to all of those who completed the program.

According to Warren, the program included Wednesday morning play days, which commenced June 20, as well as a rules and etiquette seminar, a parent-child tournament, and the junior championship. This was the first year for the program.

"I was pleased with the interest level and attendance of the children and their families," Warren said. "We could not have had such a great year without the help of the parents and volunteers who did the driving and scoring for the kids. This will be an annual program which we plan to improve each year."

Husky Duffers Place Second In Two Matches

Northern High School's varsity golf team played the role of bridesmaid to West Virginia brides twice in recent outings, as the Huskies came in second to host Keyser in a Wednesday, Sept. 5, quadrangular outing, and were the runner-up again yesterday to host Preston in a dual match. Despite missing the top rung of the ladder on both occasions, Northern still maintains an excellent 8-4 record heading into a four-way match this afternoon in Oakland.

The Polish Pines quad (results of which were not available last week) saw Keyser's 153 take the win. NHS was second with a 162, Westmar shot a 173, and Frankfort brought up the rear with a 176. Keyser's Adam Pritts took low-medalist honors with a 37, just ahead of the Huskies' Kenny Wampler with a 38. Two other Golden Tornado duffers also carded 38s. NHS senior Mark Bergstrom and teammate Mike Bergstrom, just a freshman, both recorded scores of 41.

Northern stumbled yesterday at the Kingwood Country Club as the Knights bested the Huskies 161-189 over nine holes. Preston followed Zach Street's 38, good for low medal, and Ryan Alexander's 39 to victory, while NHS's Mark Bergstrom shot a 43.

The Huskies hope to redeem themselves today at the Oakland Golf Club as they take part in 4 p.m. quadrangular hosted by arch-rival Southern, with Moorefield and Union rounding out the field. The match will serve as a warm-up for Monday's 1 p.m. tee-off of the WMIL Tournament on the same course. NHS will host Keyser, Union, and Allegany Wednesday in a 4 p.m. quad at the Wisp Golf Resort.

Snyder Named New Garrett Netter Coach

Garrett County native Susan Snyder has begun her first season as the new head coach of the Garrett Community College volleyball team. She succeeds longtime Lakers coach Margaret Quinn, who retired last year.

A 1982 graduate of Southern High School, Snyder played varsity volleyball under then Rams' head coach Helen Rostosky, plus girls' basketball and softball. She studied at GCC for two years, where she majored in health and physical education, and played volleyball under then Lakers coach Mike Friend. She also played on the GCC women's basketball team.

Snyder received her bachelor of science degree in health and physical education from Frostburg State University in 1990, and earned a second degree from the physical therapy assistant program of Allegany College of Maryland in 2000.

After serving as assistant volleyball coach at Governor Thomas Johnson High School in Frederick for one year, Snyder returned to Southern High, where she was assistant volleyball coach for three years before serving as head volleyball and girls' tennis coach for another three years. She has also held the post of assistant coach for the women's basketball programs at GCC and Potomac State College in Keyser, W.Va., for one year each.

Snyder still takes to the volleyball court herself in her spare time, as she has been a playing member of the Mountain Top Volleyball League for 15 years and the Cumberland Volleyball League for four years. She is employed as a physical therapy assistant for Garrett Rehab Services.

Women Golfers Take Part In Two Tourneys

Members of the Women's Golf Association met on Thursday, Aug. 30, for the Criers Tournament with four holes thrown out, six and nine on the front and 14 and 16 on the back. Full handicap was given in each flight, with Janice Metheny winning low gross in the Championship Flight by carding 65, while Annis Colaw claimed low net with 55. In the First Flight, Fran Bell's 73 won low gross and Bobbie Seward's 56 won low net. Karon Schnably claimed low gross in the Second Flight, carding 89, and Betsy Polce held low net with 65. The Third Flight winner was Helen Nordeck with low gross of 92, while Debbie Weissgerber and Jane Frawley tied for low net with 63.

CHAMPIONSHIP TOURNAMENT

The association's Championship Tournament ended Thursday, Sept. 6, with Janice Metheny winning in the First Flight for club champion and Pat Filsinger coming in as runner-up. In the Second Flight, Kazuko Hamill was the winner, with Fran Bell runner-up. Flight Three's Diane Winter claimed top honors, with Carolyn Deverse runner-up, and Helen Nordeck won championship of the Fourth Flight, while Vickie Regnier finished as runner-up.

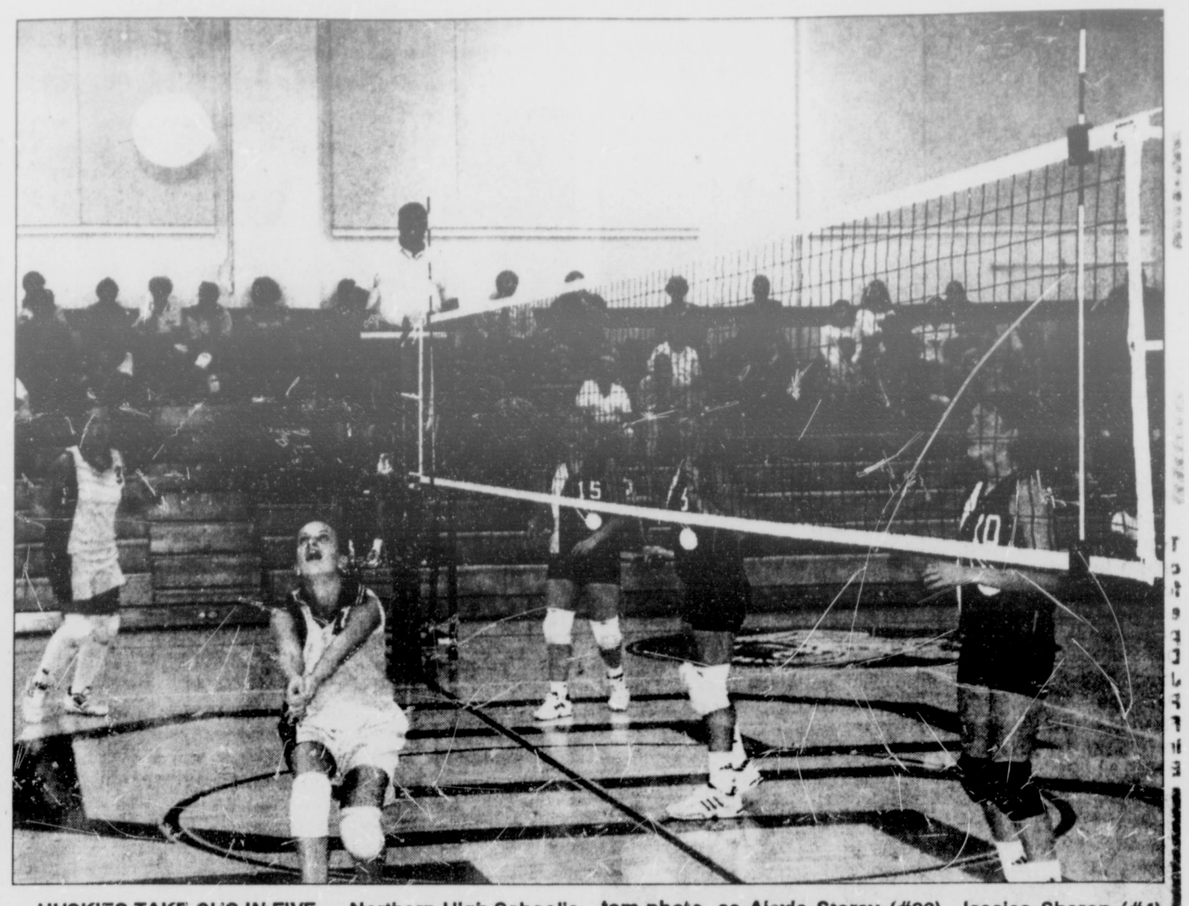
Southern Golfers Take Two Triangulars On Road Links

Two road trips resulted in victories for the Southern High School varsity golf team this week, as the streaking Rams topped triangulars at Frostburg this past Thursday and at Cumberland yesterday to up their record to 8-2. Southern's duffers showed they may have ice water in their veins, for they won the first match by just two strokes and the second by only three strokes.

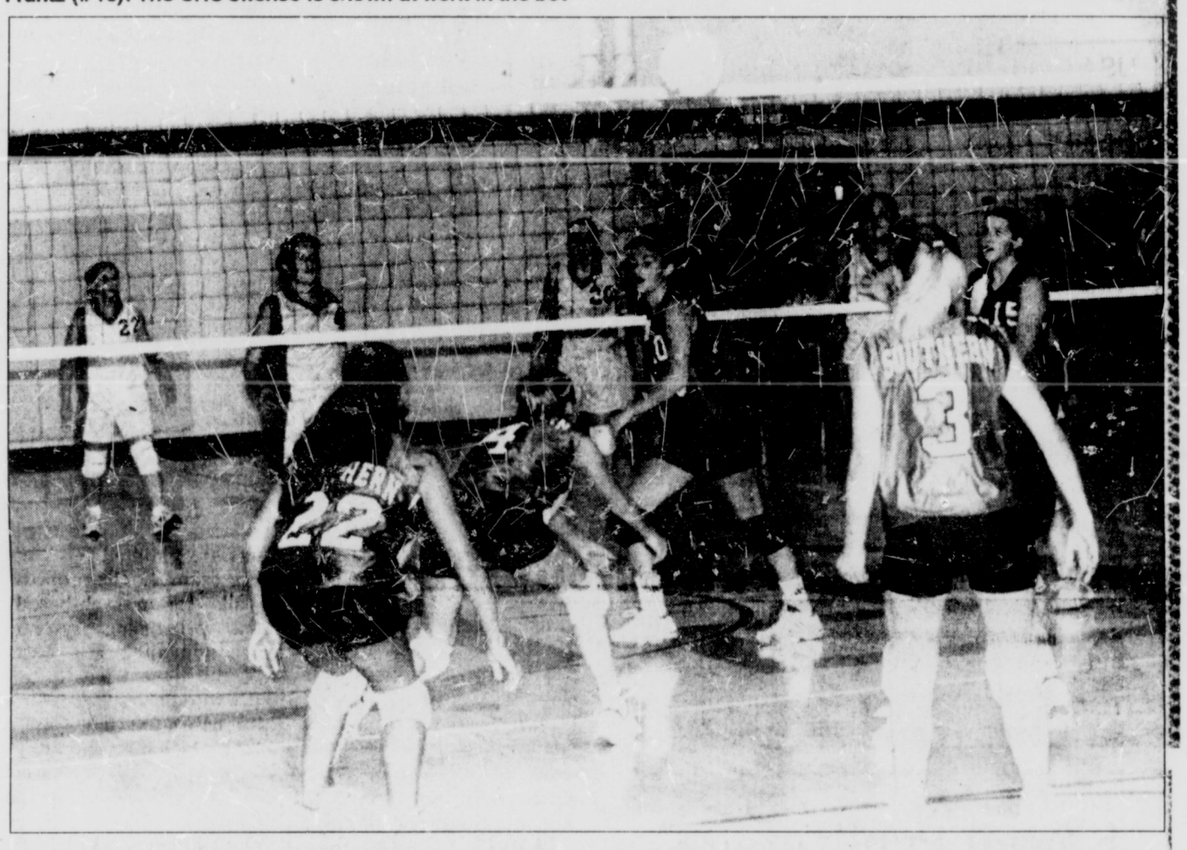
SHS recorded a 176 to best host Beall's 178 in the first outing at the Maplehurst Country Club. Westmar brought up the rear with a 182. The Wildcats' Ryan Bateson took low-medalist tourney honors with a 37, and Aaron Stevens of Beall carded second-best with a 39. Southern's individual scores were not reported. Beall's record dropped to 4-3.

Yesterday's match on the Rocky Gap course resulted in a three-stroke SHS win, as the Rams tallied a 182, host Fort Hill carded a 185, Moorefield shot a 194, and North Marion recorded a 218. Southern's Matt Skidmore led all golfers with a low-medalist 38, while Nathan Swartzentruber shot a 44 and Travis Friend carded a 46. Second-lowest individual score on the day went to FH's Joe Deter with a 40.

The Rams are slated to host a 4 p.m. quad match today at the Oakland Golf Club, with Union, Moorefield, and arch-rival Northern paying a visit. The same course will be the scene of Monday's WMIL Tournament, which tees off at 1 p.m. The Rams visit Moorefield on Tuesday.



HUSKIES TAKE SHS IN FIVE — Northern High School's varsity volleyball squad squared off with arch-rival Southern last night in Oakland, and came away with a hard-fought 3-2 win. Some of the action on the NHS side of the net is captured above as, from the left, Husky Christie Flockhart (#3) follows teammate Heather Lander (#4) as Lander readies a set. Lined up on the Southern defensive side is Kristen Rollman (#15), Holli Harris (#5), and Erin Frantz (#10). The SHS offense is shown at work in the bottom photo, as Alexis Storey (#22), Jessica Sharon (#4), Frantz (#10), Erika Steyer (#3), and Rollman (#15) work the ball. The Huskies' defenders are Molly Wolf (#22), Lander (#4), Amanda Frantz (#20), and Flockhart (#3). NHS's record improved to 2-0, via a pair of five-game wins, while SHS's fell to 0-2, via two five-game losses. Southern visits Bishop Walsh tonight, and Northern visits Westmar on Monday.



Husky Netters Open By Downing Alco, Southern

Northern High School's varsity volleyball team is off to a 2-0 start this season after defeating Allegany Monday and Southern yesterday, with both victories coming by 3-2 margins. Northern's Huskies showed some gritty determination by pulling out both of their wins over a full five-game distance.

Monday's debut against the Campers was one of the wildest matches Igloo fans have seen in years. After the Huskies dropped the first two games 15-10 and 20-18, they circled the wagons and rewarded the home crowd with three nail-biting thriller wins, 15-13, 15-12, and 16-14. The teams were so evenly matched that each squad totaled 74 points over the course of the marathon battle.

Nicole Sisler led NHS with 23 service points and three aces, while Christie Flockhart added 13 service points and Molly Wolf tallied 11 service points. Jasmine Gilbert led Alco with 17 service points.

Northern's junior varsity squad also triumphed by game scores of 15-7 and 15-11.

Last night's five-game triumph at SHS (the host Rams' only action of the week) went the full distance as well, but the Huskies were much more dominant in their three victories. NHS opened with a 15-10 win, fell in Game 2 by a 15-4 margin, won the third game 15-10, dropped the fourth 15-8, but stormed the net to take the fifth and final game 15-1.

Leading the way for Northern were Jolene Brenneman and Heather Lander, each of whom tallied 15 service points. Brenneman accounted for two aces and Lander had one ace. Wolf recorded 11 service points, and Flockhart accounted for three kills.

NHS's junior varsity remained unbeaten by taking a 2-1 victory. The jayvees got started with a 15-5 win, dropped a hard-fought Game 2 by a 15-12 tally, then took the nightcap 15-7. Valene Snyder recorded 11 service points, and Tiffany Swiger tallied eight service points.

Northern (2-0) visits Westmar Monday and Preston Wednesday. Southern (0-2) is slated to visit Bishop Walsh this afternoon and Fort Hill on Wednesday.

Reform Group Proposes First Step Toward Universal Health Coverage

by Nora Achrati
Capital News Service

ANNAPOLIS - It's up to the state to create competitive and affordable insurance programs if all Maryland residents — especially the working poor — are to have adequate health care coverage, said a prominent health care reform advocacy group.

That's why a state-run insurance program is the keystone of the Maryland Citizens' Health Initiative plan to establish universal health care coverage in Maryland. The coalition of health care advocates was to unveil its plan yesterday at the Bloomberg School for Public Health at Johns Hopkins University.

The proposal is the result of several years of preparation and consultation coordinated by the initiative. The group has been meeting with academic and professional advisers from Johns Hopkins University, the University of Maryland, and Georgetown University, among others.

Alfred Sommer, Bloomberg School dean, calls the initiative's plan "the most comprehensive and complete proposal for universal health reform ever developed in Maryland history."

Parts of the proposal are designed to mirror health care reforms advocated by the Bush administration. These include the proposed expansion of the Maryland Children's Health Insurance Program and the creation of a pool of funds to help seniors defray prescription drug costs.

But the centerpiece of the proposal is the "Maryland Healthcare Trust," a state-run insurance program that initiative officials say would establish public accountability for plans statewide and dramatically rework the way insurance claims are handled.

For example, the proposal calls for a web-based claims processing system that would allow the trust to make immediate payments to doctors and other health care providers. Commercial plans now take days or even months to make payments.

The trust also would cover mental health care, drug-addiction treatment, preventative dental care, and prescription drug costs. The group proposes increasing the tobacco tax as part of the plan to finance these changes.

Initiative spokesman Vincent DeMarco says the plan has been criticized as "a stalking-horse for a single-payer approach" to providing health care coverage for all Marylanders. In a single-payer system, all residents would be members of a state-run insurance program without being able to choose another health plan.

"Many people don't want to be forced into one insurance entity, and we need to build the strongest coalition possible," DeMarco said.

Instead, the initiative proposal would give employers the ability to select their own employee coverage program as long as the benefits were comparable to those offered by the proposed trust.

The employee coverage, said Pat Schoeni, National Coalition on Health Care spokeswoman, is already in jeopardy.

Part-time and temporary employees could still be left uncovered, she said, under the portion of the plan dealing with self-insured employers.

In addition, Schoeni says the group probably greatly underestimates the cost of coverage for each person.

"What's going to happen to that trust is, the people who'll end up being in that trust are all the people who can't get insurance anywhere else, so they're probably sicker (than most people)," Schoeni says. "Even if they've estimated the cost at around $3,000, it's probably going to be more than that."

Other states successfully expanded Medicaid and CHIP coverage, Schoeni said. But states have fallen short in mandating coverage, running up against federal laws exempting certain employers from state universal insurance laws.

The proposal released Friday does not include a recommendation to require health care coverage for all residents. Such a mandate will be included in the second phase, initiative President Peter Beilenson said.

The Maryland General Assembly would likely see the plan in 2003. Officials see next year's election as an opportunity to attract public attention and make universal health coverage a major campaign issue.

The inititative is one of the largest independent health care reform organizations in state history, with more than 2,100 grass-roots member organizations statewide.

The governor's office did not return calls requesting comment.

Oral Cancer Awareness Week Is Announced

September 16-22 has been proclaimed as Oral Cancer Awareness Week in an effort to increase public awareness of oral cancer and promote prevention efforts.

"The good news is that oral cancer is easy to prevent. Ninety percent of people who get oral cancer use tobacco products such as cigarettes, cigars, pipes, and chewing tobacco. Not using tobacco in the first place, or quitting if you do, can greatly reduce the risk of developing this disease," said Cindy Kutchman of the Garrett County Health Department.

Maryland has one of the highest death rates in the country from oral or mouth cancer, Kutchman said. Half of all people diagnosed with oral or mouth cancer do not live longer than five years.

"More startling is that despite the availability of a short and easily performed oral cancer examination, the overall survival rate for oral cancer in the U.S. has not improved during the past 16 years, unlike the survival rates for breast, prostate, and colo-rectal cancers. More Americans die from oral cancer than from cervical cancer or melanoma of the skin," Kutchman said.

After tobacco products, alcohol use is the greatest risk factor for oral cancer. At least 75% of those with oral cancer are heavy drinkers, and the disease is six times more common in drinkers than in non-drinkers.

Prolonged exposure to sunlight also is a serious risk factor. More than 30% of patients with cancers of the lip have outdoor occupations associated with increased exposure to sunlight. While anyone can get oral cancer, men are twice as likely as women to develop the disease, since they are more likely than women to use tobacco and alcohol.

Most signs and symptoms of oral cancer can also be signs of other health problems. A head and neck exam should be a routine part of all dental or physical examinations. Persons should ask their dentists or other health care providers to do the exam every six months to once a year. People should not wait for a suspicious area in their mouths to hurt because pain is not an early sign of oral cancer, but rather a symptom of advanced cancer.

A PAINLESS ORAL CANCER EXAM, which can be performed by dental hygienists or dentists, may be a life-saver for persons in the early stages of the dangerous illness of oral cancer. September 16-22 is Oral Cancer Awareness Week, and all citizens are encouraged to get checked for oral cancer, and to practice preventive measures by avoiding the use of tobacco products and/or overindulgence of alcoholic beverages. Cindy Bowman, a registered dental hygienist with the Garrett County Health Department, is pictured as she checks Amanda Cassidy for signs of oral cancer. Maryland has a high death rate from oral or mouth cancer, according to Cindy Kutchman, also of the health department. See story.

Persons should see their doctor if they have any of the following signs or symptoms for more than two weeks: a white or red patch in the mouth; a sore, irritation, lump, or thickening in the mouth; hoarseness or a feeling that something is caught in the throat; difficulty chewing or swallowing; difficulty moving the jaw or tongue; numbness of the tongue or other area of the mouth; or swelling of the jaw that causes dentures to fit poorly or become uncomfortable.

A thorough oral exam involves a check for lumps or other abnormal spots on the entire face, neck, ears, and lips. The jaw and both sides of the neck will also be checked for lumps. The examiner will feel the insides of both the lips and cheeks checking for red or white patches of lumps. The tongue will be examined and gently pulled from side to side with a gauze so as to examine the top, sides, and bottom. The floor of the mouth should be felt, and the hard palate (roof of the mouth) and the back of the throat and tonsils should then be examined. Dentures or partial plates should be removed prior to an exam.

The chances of getting oral cancer can be greatly reduced by avoiding the use of tobacco products such as cigarettes, cigars, pipes, or chewing tobacco. Persons who need help to quit using these products should ask their physicians about smoking cessation programs or medications that might help.

Alcohol should be used only in moderation, and one's exposure to sunlight should be limited, especially during the hours of 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Sunscreen and protective clothing should be worn.

Persons should eat a healthful diet rich in fruits and vegetables to help minimize the risk of developing cancer, Kutchman said.

For more information about oral cancer and prevention activities, persons may visit the Maryland Office of Oral Health's web site at www.maryland-oralcancer.org or call the Garrett County Health Department at 301-334-8111.

Memory, Aging, And Alzheimer's Workshop Slated

A free community workshop on memory loss, aging, and Alzheimer's disease will be held on Monday, Sept. 24, from 7:30 to 9 p.m. at the Mountain Glade Adult Day Care, 375 Pythian Avenue, Oakland. Donna McClintock, LCSW-C, of the Garrett County Health Department Adult Evaluation and Review Services will conduct the workshop. The workshop, which is open to the public, is designed for older adults, care givers, family members, and friends. For more information, persons may contact Donna McClintock at 301-334-8253.

Garrett County Men Encouraged To Get Screened For Prostate Cancer

Nearly 180,000 Americans, mostly men over 50, are expected to develop prostate cancer this year, according to statistics of the American Cancer Society. In the same period, 37,000 men are expected to die of the disease. Most of those men could have been saved by a simple, annual screening exam that takes minutes to complete.

Prostate cancer, although the second leading cause of cancer death among men, is a highly curable disease if detected early, according to the report. Evidence accumulated over the past few years strongly suggests that prostate cancer screenings are a factor in lowering the rate of prostate cancer deaths.

For this reason, Garrett County Memorial Hospital, in cooperation with the American Cancer Society, Garrett County Health Department, local physicians, and the University of Maryland Statewide Health Network, is offering low cost prostate cancer screening to men in Garrett County ages 50 and older who have not had a screening in the past 12 months.

Men 40 and older who are African American or who have a family history of prostate cancer are considered high risk and are also encouraged to take part in the screening.

The screening will be held at two locations in the county, and will be performed by Drs. Ihor Zakaluzny (lead physician), Charles Walch, and Robert Coughlin, all who are volunteering their time for this project.

The first screening is scheduled for Sept. 25, and will be held at the Garrett County Health Department's Community Outreach Building along Hershberger Lane in Grantsville, and the second screening is scheduled for Sept. 28 at the Mtn. Lake Park health department office at 2008 Maryland Highway. Both will take place from 5 to 7 p.m.

"The screening is being offered to reach men who are not currently being screened and don't have access to the screening," said Deana Clester, Garrett Memorial Hospital Wellness coordinator. "The screening includes a prostate specific antigen blood test (PSA) and a digital rectal exam (DRE) performed by a physician. We are fortunate in Garrett County that our physicians and community have come together to provide such a wonderful screening."

Men who meet the following criteria are eligible for the screening: those age 50 and older, those age 40 and older if they have a family history of prostate cancer or are African American, and those who have not had a PSA blood test or digital rectal exam in the past 12 months. Persons who have never had prostate cancer or prostate problems are also eligible.

The screening does have limited availability and will be offered on a first-come, first-served basis. The cost of the screening will be $5 to cover the administrative fees associated with the project.

For more information or to make an appointment, persons may call Garrett Memorial Hospital for the Mtn. Lake Park screening at 301-533-4295. For the Grantsville screening, persons are to call the University of Maryland Statewide Health Network at 301-724-7890.

Health Depart. Starts New Exercise Program

The Community Health and Outreach program of the Garrett County Health Department will be moving into a new exercise program called "Just Move It" on Oct. 1.

Persons may sign up for the free program at the office along Route 219. After participants accumulate 100 miles, each will receive a sweatshirt with the "Just Move It" logo on it. There will be door prize drawings quarterly (December, March, June, and September) for those participants who have submitted 100 miles or more for each particular quarter.

Incentives will be given for 250 and 750 miles, while special recognition patches will be awarded for 500 miles, 1,000 miles, 1,500 miles, and for every 500 miles thereafter. The health department wants to encourage people to get outdoors and walk or run and record the distance in miles. On bad weather days, participants may do aerobic exercise indoors; keeping in mind that 20 minutes of aerobic activity is equivalent to one mile.

As the Walk-A-Weigh program comes to an end, any persons who have walking miles to turn in to receive incentives should do so before Sept. 30.

SUMMER PROGRAM DEEMED SUCCESS — Kids 'n' Corporated, a summer activity program for youngsters in the northern part of Garrett County, was a great success, organizers have reported, with 50 local youths participating in the eight-week program. The kids, many of them pictured above, went on field trips, visited senior citizens, and learned how to swim. The program is sponsored by Garrett County Community Action and other state and local agencies. See story.

Awards Ceremony Held Following Summer Program

Grantsville Kids 'n' Corporated, a summer youth program sponsored by Garrett County Community Action, the Department of Juvenile Justice, the Governor's Office on Crime Control and Prevention, and the Garrett County Health Department's "A Star" AmeriCorps Program, was deemed successful for another year. A ceremony citing the workers and participants of the program was held last month.

About 50 students were enrolled in Kids 'n' Corporated, which offered participants field trips and special activities. Staffing the program this year were Karen Wood, coordinator; Denise Fazenbaker and Jeanette Bland, program aides; Melissa Green, AmeriCorps member; and Tom Menges, youth employment program aide.

Throughout the summer, enrolled students attended an eight-week junior ranger program at New Germany State Park instructed by Eric Savage and Wanda Reynolds. Some of the topics covered were flowers, reptiles, stars, and conservation. Activities included boating, hiking, and team building activities.

The Garrett County Health Department presented classes on abstinence and drugs. The game "Who Wants to be a Millionaire" was played to ascertain the participants' knowledge of drugs. A new aspect of the program this year was an inter-generational luncheon with the students sharing a meal with the senior citizens who attend the Grantsville Senior Center.

Dee Fazenbaker, a program aide, stated that she was impressed with how well the seniors and youth interacted. One senior, Connell Chaney, discovered that one of the young people with whom he shared lunch was a student of his daughter.

The participants visited Deep Creek Lake State Park, Rocky Gap State Park, and New Germany State Park. A session of summer camp was held for the students at the Grantsville Park. The camp, a cooperative effort between the Garrett County Health Department and GCCAC's Summer Youth Initiative Program, allowed the students to interact with other youth from the area. A day of various activities was coordinated by members of the Garrett County Health Department staff.

The program also offered a family-oriented activity for the students and their families. Over 80 people attended this activity, which was held at Western Trails and involved horseback riding and a hayride. A bonfire and hot dog roast were also part of the evening.

The highlight of the program was the reading portion. This year the students read a total of 27,717 pages within the eight weeks of the program. They were rewarded for their efforts with a trip to Fun-Land in McHenry.

The ten top readers were Miranda Lottig, CJ. Fazenbaker, Katrina Durst, Lena Durst, Alyson McKenzie, Heather Singell, Brianna Singell, Stephanie Fazenbaker, Nathan Singell, and Amanda Beitzel.

Swimming lessons were offered to the participants as part of the eight-week program. They were held at the Cumberland YMCA.

There were 15 students recognized for perfect attendance. They were Josh Beitzel, Lara Beitzel, CJ. Fazenbaker, Levi Fazenbaker, Stephanie Fazenbaker, Vanessa Fazenbaker, Vincent Fazenbaker, Kara House, Steven House, Miranda Lottig, Cristy Orner, Jenni Orner, Alyssia Rounds, Jessica Warnick, and Miriam Wilt.

Service Learning students honored by the Garrett County Board of Education and Garrett County Community Action were Miranda Lottig, 115 hours; Katrina Durst, Wayne Menges and Jeff Yommer, each with 110 hours; and Bruce Dierden with 30 hours. At the awards ceremony, Linda Green, program director, presented each with a plaque and a pen with their names inscribed.

Eric Savage and Wanda Reynolds presented the junior rangers with pins, and Wood recognized the parent volunteers who assisted with the program. Robert and Lisa Singell were recognized for chaperoning all field trips. Others thanked for their help on the trips were Patty Durst, Steve and Jenny Beitzel, John and Cristy Miller, Tammy Warnick, Lolly Yommer, Tina McKenzie, Kathy Wilburn, Jeff and Virginia Beitzel, Clay Fazenbaker, and Matt and Susie Durst.

Wood recognized Bertha and Arden Green for providing another safe year of transporting the students on field trips.

FRIENDSVILLE

The council meeting was held on September 11.

- Sealed bids were opened for the sale of the old Allis-Chalmers tractor. Jim Spear was the high bidder at $1,875. Council approved Mr. Spear's purchase.
- Several local residents appeared before council to question the need for a zoning permit for their swimming pools. They were informed that the town's zoning ordinance requires that property owners secure an approved town zoning permit prior to the construction or placement of swimming pools as well as most additions, fences, and auxiliary structures on local properties. The mayor and council concurred that the zoning ordinance is a technically complicated document, and referred anyone with questions to the town's zoning administrator at the county planning and zoning office at 301-334-1920. It was also noted that next year, the ordinance will be reviewed for any needed revisions and updates. At that time, public input will be requested.
- Mayor Spencer Schlosnagle signed the application for the governor's parks and recreation grant request for $122,000 in further development and upgrades to the community park.
- Two commercial-type outdoor lights will be installed near the community center in the near future.
- The final walk-through of the state highway's streetscape project is scheduled for later this week.
- Ordinance 2001-3, Sale of Public Property, had its second reading and was adopted.

The next meeting of the Friendsville Mayor and Town Council is scheduled for Thursday, Sept. 20 at 7:30 p.m.

The August meeting of the Red House 4-H Club was called to order by club president Aliza Green, and the pledges were led by Cody Friend. The members voted that hamburgers and hotdogs would be served at the club dinner. Demonstrations were presented on the topics of a fishing tournament, by Jordan Skipper; Fair signs, by Sarah Brenneman; a market hog, by Travis Sanders; and a market lamb, by Sarah Holler.

The September meeting was called to order by Stephanie Brenneman, who also took roll, and the treasurer's report was delivered by Levi Green. Club members played a Fair trivia game, with gift certificates for ice cream cone awarded to those who answered correctly. Everyone received a gift certificate. Ben Knepp presented a demonstration program on his lamb General, while Steve Knepp spoke about his lamb Pete. The Cloverbuds, with Deleta Friend's assistance, made "I Love Fall" magnets. The meeting was adjourned by Levi Green.

The next meeting of the Red House 4-H Club is set for 7 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 3, at the Aurora fire hall.

ROCK STAR

Rated R - Running Time: 1:45 - Released 9/7/01

For many teen boys, the idea of being a rock star is a cherished fantasy; playing or singing in front of thousands of screaming fans, and being loved by virtually every one of them, would be a fairy tale come true. And that's exactly how Stephen Herek's Rock Star comes off: a fantasy, a fairy tale. Not grounded in reality. Though the film is filled with impressive scenes of huge arena concerts, John Stockwell's script paints its characters as flat as pictures on an album cover; even the leading man (played by ex-rapper "Marky" Mark Wahlberg) is undeveloped beyond what is required of the most traditional perceptions. If director Herek, whose most notable output has been 1995's Mr. Holland's Opus, had a better actor to play the part, perhaps it could have been a more important, or at least more engaging, film. But Wahlberg, who starred most recently in Tim Burton's remake of Planet of the Apes, doesn't have the technique to correct the problems in Stockwell's simplistic text. A veteran of arena stage concerts, Wahlberg's obviously got the moves and the attitude, but in offstage moments where more complex characterization is needed, he flounders.

Wahlberg's co-star, Jennifer Aniston, is another story. Although her part, the faithful girlfriend squeezed out of her man's life by the pressures and temptations of fame that are heaped upon him, is as trite as all the others, Aniston is able to give her character life. She seems the only actor in this movie capable of doing that.

In an early scene of Rock Star, Wahlberg compares himself to a cardboard cutout. How apropos. His character, Chris Coles, is the lead singer of a Pittsburgh tribute band patterned after the British metal group "Steel Dragon." Learning that the real lead singer, a frothy-haired babe magnet and sex symbol (who is really a mincing, balding homosexual in a wig played by Jason Flemyng) is retiring, Chris auditions and wins the coveted spot as the band's new front man. Though his girlfriend Emily (Aniston) initially shares in the excitement, his instantaneous injection-molding into the rock 'n roll image has a devastating effect on their relationship. After watching him be surrounded by fabulous babes and various other hangers-on, and not even being allowed to travel on the band bus with him, Emily decides to move to Seattle and start her own life. Chris, who now fakes an English accent and goes by the moniker "Izzy," is forced to choose between the reality of her love and the fantasy of his new occupation.

That this film has a relatively large cast of seemingly important characters makes it all the more surprising how few of those characters are developed. For instance, though the Steel Dragon band has five members, only one of them (Dominic West) has any significant speaking scenes. This may be because the rest of the band is made up of real rock musicians (Jason Bonham, son of late Zeppelin drummer John Bonham; Dokken bassist Jeff Pilson; and Ozzy Osbourne guitarist Zakk Wylde) who can't act their way out of a wet paper bag, but still one would expect to learn a little more about them than where they stand on the stage. In addition to Aniston, reasonably credible performances are given by West and Timothy Spall (as the band's stage manager), but their short footage can't save this film from the inadequacies of its creative team.

Cameron Crowe's Almost Famous gave us a fascinating backstage peek at American rock concerts, filled with interesting and believable characters. Rock Star is a fable with the imagination of a teenybopper and the sensibilities of an after-school special. Like a favorite selection from a box of old albums, it looks and sounds good but is flat and flimsy in substance. ★★★½

MLP Man Gets Six Months In Jail For CDS

A Mountain Lake Park man was sentenced in Garrett County Circuit Court by Judge James Sherbin last Thursday, Sept. 6, to six months in the Garrett County jail for possession of marijuana.

Justin Russell Rinker, 19, was arrested in April by officers with the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force for possession with intent to distribute marijuana, possession of marijuana, and possession of CDS paraphernalia. The task force officers were called by Garrett County Sheriff's deputies, who began the investigation when they encountered Rinker at a Deer Park-area trailer while they were conducting an unrelated investigation.

Rinker pleaded guilty to the possession of marijuana charge, and the other charges were dismissed upon his plea.

"The evidence concerning Rinker's intent to distribute was lacking," explained State's Attorney Lisa Thayer Welch in a press release issued by her office, "and I was satisfied that Judge Sherbin would impose a harsh sentence against the defendant for the possession charge, since he was convicted of the same offense in February."

Benefit Dinner Scheduled At Bittinger VFD

A fund-raising chicken barbecue dinner is set for this Saturday, Sept. 15, from noon to 7 p.m. at the Bittinger fire hall to help defray medical expenses incurred by local resident Jim Bittinger as he battles cancer. Brenneman is a volunteer firefighter who responds on calls with fellow volunteers from both the Bittinger and Grantsville fire stations.

A $7 donation for a meal ticket will entitle diners to a meal of half of a barbecued chicken, baked beans, cole slaw, a roll, dessert, and a beverage. Take-outs will be available. In order to assure that a sufficient quantity of food will be prepared, persons interested in the dinner are asked to call Thelma Emory at 301-245-4478; however, walk-in diners will be welcomed.

CROWE RECEIVES ROTARY AWARD — Oakland Rotarian John Crowe, left, is shown as district governor Carol Walsh of Rotary District 7350 presents the Paul Harris Fellow Award. The honor recognizes Crowe's work in organizing and managing the Rotary's french fry booth at the Garrett County Fair over the past two years, which resulted in a $1,000 contribution to the Rotary Foundation. Crowe's father, Ross Crowe, is a past recipient of the Harris Award. Walsh's official visit to the Oakland Rotary Club also included her salute to the club's many activities, including the annual Christmas Project and contributions to other service organizations and scholarships for students in need. She told the Rotary gathering that Rotary International is mounting a campaign to focus on world hunger with the same commitment it has given to its successful Polio Plus Project. Oakland Rotarians presented Walsh with a Simon Pearce glass vase as a token of her visit.

Fall Meeting Of Retired School Personnel Slated

The fall meeting of the Garrett County retired school personnel will be held Thursday, Sept. 27, at 12:30 p.m. in the fellowship hall of Zion Lutheran Church, Accident.

Prior to the meeting a social hour will held between 11:30 and 12:30. Rev. Dr. Wilfred Karsten will present a program showing slides of trips to Sri Lanka. The luncheon will be followed by a short business meeting and door prizes.

Newly retired teachers/personnel are encouraged to attend and join the organization. All other retired school personnel may make a reservation by calling Eleanor Teats at 301-746-5467.

In other circuit court news, John Frank Sarver, 23, formerly of Cumberland, appeared in circuit court Thursday and pleaded guilty to violation of parole. Judge Sherbin then revoked Sarver's probation and reimposed the balance of his sentence.

Sarver had pleaded guilty in August of 1999 to felony theft. Judge Fred Thayer then sentenced him in October of 1999 to 18 months in the Department of Corrections, credited him for 181 days already served by sentencing, and suspended the balance of this sentence. He was placed on three years of supervised probation upon his release.

Sarver violated his probation by not contacting or reporting to his probation agent upon his release from his jail sentence, by not getting permission before changing his address, by not paying restitution as ordered, and by not completing the Teen Challenge program.

The Garrett County sentence is to run consecutively to sentences imposed against Sarver for violating his probation in Allegany County that total over 15 months.

Weight No More

With increasing emphasis on strength and physical fitness, more of us are training with weights to increase our endurance. Yet, were we to lift weights to excess with no time to recover, our muscles would wear out and lose their strength.

Worry is a weight on our body and our spirit. When we practice worry throughout the day, we weaken and are not as effective in our jobs or our personal lives. The Bible instructs us not to worry. Instead, in 1 Peter 5:7, the Lord tells us that we should be "Casting all your cares upon Him, for He cares for you." Even when you feel that no one cares, your Heavenly father cares.

Begin this week to visit your local house of worship. It will change your life. What's your "weight"?

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

WHAT MAKES JESUS ANGRY?

September 16, 2001

Background Scripture:
Mark 3:1-16; John 9:1-12.
Devotional Reading:
John 4:46-54.

"And he looked around him at them with anger; grieved at their hardness of heart..."
(Mark 3:5).

Although we might conclude that Jesus was angry when he drove the money-changers out of the temple (Mt. 21;12; Mk 11:15; Jn. 2:14,15), the only place in the gospels that specifically stated he was angry is Mark 3:5. I imagine there were, in fact, other times when Jesus was angry, but the evangelists do not tell us about them.

Some people we know have the capacity to get angry over almost anything. To try to avoid angering them is virtually impossible. But there are others whose anger shows only on rare occasions and we cannot help but note what it is that moves them to anger. In relating to these people it is helpful to know how to keep them from becoming angry.

So, what was it that made Jesus angry? Mark 3 indicates that it was the hardness of heart of some of the people who witnessed his healing of the man with "a withered hand." Without needing to hear his detractors say so, Jesus knew that "they watched him, to see whether he would heal on the sabbath, so that they might accuse him" (8:2). The Jewish faith was the most compassionate religion in the world at the time, so, if these men were faithful Jews, they would be focusing with compassion and joy on this man whose withered hand was being healed by Jesus. But they did not care about the plight of this man; their minds were set only upon accusing Jesus of wrongdoing in healing on the sabbath. But Jesus put it to them in a way they couldn't answer: "'Is it lawful on the sabbath to do good or to do harm; to save life or to kill?' But they were silent'" (3:4).

Instead of Rejoicing

This may seem an incredible situation today, but I think this attitude is still much with us. Some Christians, instead of rejoicing when other name-brand Christians do something good and worthwhile, get "bent out of shape" and look for something they can criticize or even condemn. They may overlook a good result because, according to them, it wasn't done the "right way"—"right," of course, as they define it.

We find a similar situation in John 9 and even some of the disciples run the risk of incurring Jesus' righteous anger. Seeing the man who was blind from birth, they ask, "Rabbi, who sinned, this man or his parents, that he was born blind?" (9:2). What audacity! Because of their theology they assume the his blindness is the result of sin and they want to know whose sin it was. Job's "friends" had asked him a similar question and for their impudence they earned God's censure. People are still likely to ask a downtrodden "friend," What did you do to get yourself into all this trouble?

Many of those who saw Jesus heal the man born blind, instead of rejoicing that at long last he could see, were more concerned just how his sight had been restored. They seemed to suspect that Jesus had done something wrong, not something right: "Then how were your eyes opened?" they asked the healed man. But, most odious of all, were the Pharisees: "This man is not from God, for he does not keep the sabbath" (v.16).

Hell's Temperture

Someone once said, "Beware of those who think they know the furniture of heaven and the temperature of hell!" The same may be said of those who are too sure they know what is "of God" and what is not. That is an attitude of arrogance, not humility and it leads some people to substitute their own judgment for the judgment of God.

Even though the evangelists record only one clear incident of Jesus' anger, they also suggest other occasions in which his response was anything but benign. There are 21 times in the gospels of Mark, Matthew and Luke in which Jesus refers to "hypocrite," "hypocrites" and "hypocrisy." Each of these suggest an angry response to that which could make Jesus angry: hypocritical hardness of heart.

So, knowing what angers Jesus—do we?

Crystal Bernard

Q: Did Wings star Crystal Bernard play Terry Brock back in the '80s on General Hospital? If not, the resemblance was remarkable. –Diane V. via e-mail.

A: That's because Robyn Bernard, Crystal's older sister, played the role.

Q: A couple of years ago, I used to watch a TV show about a family that saved animals. It featured a young actress who played the oldest son's girlfriend, and I'm betting she was Renee Zellweger. Am I right? –Wanda Riley, Olympia, Wash.

A: I'm afraid not, because Zellweger has never been a regular on a TV series. I believe you are thinking of Second Noah, in which Joey Lauren Adams (Chasing Amy) played Darby, the girlfriend of Ricky (James Marsden), a young single father.

Q: I have enjoyed Orson Bean over the years and recently saw him on a talk show on which he indicated he was dating an actress from The Wonder Years. What happened to his first wife, Carolyn? –Lu in Peotone, Ill.

A: A few points of clarification: Bean, 73, has been married to 50-year-old Wonder Years mom Alley Mills since 1993. Carolyn Maxwell actually was Bean's second wife, whom he married in 1965. They divorced in 1981.

The former Dr. Quinn, Medicine Woman co-star has a daughter from his first marriage to Jacqueline deSibour.

Q: Please help me identify the opera aria played over the intercom in The Shawshank Redemption. –S. Warren, Baxter, Tenn.

A: It's a duet called "Sull' Aria" from Mozart's Le Nozze di Figaro (The Marriage of Figaro), sung by the characters of Susannah and the Countess Almaviva. It's part of the Shawshank soundtrack album, but also readily available in dozens of CD vocal collections.

Q: What happened to Jonathan Frid after Dark Shadows? –P.B. in Indiana.

A: The classically trained stage actor cashed in on his gothic pigeonholing from Shadows when he appeared in an '80s Broadway revival of Arsenic and Old Lace with Jean Stapleton and Marion Ross. He subsequently toured North America in a series of one-man "reader's theater" shows to raise money for various charities. Now 77, Frid lives quietly in Canada apart from occasional charity appearances.

Q: Am I correct that Jessica Walter got her start in an old (1950s) soap opera called Love of Life? –C. Lotter, Cape Cod, Mass.

A: You sure are! Walter, now 61, scored one of her first high-profile jobs playing Julie Murano from 1962-65 on that soap.

IN FOCUS

Breckin Meyer stars as a sportscaster who thinks of dating more as a sport than a game in Inside Schwartz, premiering Thursday, Sept. 20, on NBC.

Newly single Adam Schwartz (Meyer) loves sports to the point that they invade his every thought. As he traverses the dating landscape, viewers get a glimpse at what's going on in his head, from sports analogies to coaching courtesy of some famous faces.

Miriam Shor, Bryan Callen, Jennifer Irwin, Dondre T. Whitfield and Richard Kline also star.

FRIDAY

Grace (Julia Whelan) is called upon to help her soon-to-be stepbrother with a legal problem in the season premiere of Once and Again Friday on ABC.

Long & Foster Will Again Award 100 Scholarships

Long & Foster Real Estate once again announces the Long & Foster $100,000 Scholarship Program for well-rounded graduating high school seniors entering an accredited four-year college or university. The program will award $1,000 to each of 100 recipients throughout the five-state region for the 2002-2003 academic year. The monetary scholarship award will be made payable directly to the college or university in the student's name. The deadline for applying is March 1, 2002, and the scholarships will be awarded beginning May 1, 2002. More than 1,000 applicants vied for the 100 scholarships in 2001.

Wes Foster, president and founder of Long & Foster, conceived of the scholarship as a way to give something significant back to the communities that have made his real estate company one of the most successful in America. Without the aid of a scholarship, Foster said he would not have had the opportunity to attend Virginia Military Institute (VMI).

"I never had very much growing up so the VMI scholarship gave me the chance I needed," Foster said. "As a result, I feel very committed to helping students get to college. Many times, well-rounded students have special financial needs, and we want to help them."

Eligible high school seniors must have at least a 3.0 GPA on a 4.0 scale, demonstrate financial need, indicate positions of leadership they held while a student, and describe in which school groups they have been involved, community organizations in which they have served, and whether they have held a part-time job while in school to be considered well-rounded applicants. Applicants will also be asked to write a short essay on either their most significant high school experience or their expectations for college.

Applications for the Long & Foster Scholarship Program can be obtained from any of Long & Foster's more than 170 residential sales offices located throughout the Mid-Atlantic region, from high school guidance counselors, or via Long & Foster's web site at www.longandfoster.com/scholarship.

WAL-MART EMPLOYEES SUPPORT COMMUNITY SERVICES — The employees of the local Wal-Mart store were responsible for several donations to nonprofit organizations that supply a wide range of needs throughout the community. Shown from the left are Dove Center program coordinator Heather Hanline and Salem Children's Trust executive director Louise Richards, each holding $500 donation checks, and Garrett County Community Action Committee After-School Program director Linda Green and After-School Program coordinator Karen Wood, both holding a $300 check, and Wal-Mart Community Involvement Program leader Carol Bonds.

First Stage Of State's Redistricting Process Handled Behind Closed Doors

by Christopher Sherman
Capital News Service

ANNAPOLIS - The complex and controversial process of redrawing the state's legislative and congressional districts moved behind closed doors after Thursday's final public meeting before the Governor's Redistricting Advisory Committee drafts recommendations.

More than 1,000 citizens had their say in 12 public meetings (held across the state since late June), e-mails, and letters, said Secretary of State and committee chairman John Willis after Wednesday's meeting in Prince George's County. The last meeting was Thursday in Rockville.

The committee staff will spend the next several weeks compiling information gathered since the committee's inception May 31. Third-party plans — those submitted by individuals or groups other than elected officials — will be public record, Willis said.

But the committee, charged with drafting an every-10-years redrawing of Maryland's political boundaries, will deliberate in secret. The panel, appointed by the governor in May, is not covered by Maryland open meetings law because it does not qualify as a "public body," said Nicki Trella, legal officer for the Office of the Secretary of State.

"If that's the way the process works, then that's the way it works," said Raquel Guillory, spokesperson for Gov. Parris N. Glendening.

There will be a second round of public meetings later this fall at sites around the state, Willis said. Dates and times will be announced later.

Senate President Thomas V. Mike Miller Jr., D-Calvert, and Speaker Casper Taylor Jr., D-Allegany, both redistricting committee members, predicted cooperation with Glendening rather than the division that characterized the 1991 redistricting.

"I think that this legislative cycle the governor and I are going to be on the exact same wavelength," Miller said.

The only deadline for the process is Jan. 9, the first day of the 2002 legislative session, when the governor must present his redistricting plan to the General Assembly, Willis said.

A lot is at stake in redistricting — everything from the political survival of incumbents to the unity of small towns occasionally split down the middle by district lines.

In Maryland, where all the state's top offices are held by Democrats, the process is not likely to favor Republicans.

At the Prince George's meeting, state GOP chairman Michael Steele characterized redistricting as a "reverse election" where "representatives choose their voters." He pushed his single-member legislative district plan that would break 47 legislative districts into 141.

"We're trying to empower the community," Steele said. "Government is best when closest to the people."

Steele's plan would carve the state into districts of about 37,000 people and one-third the size of the current three-member districts. What Maryland has now, Steele said, is an "archaic, good-old-boy network" and an "incumbent insurance program."

The advantages of his plan, Steele said, are more districts where minority populations would have the advantage, closer ties between delegates and voters, and cheaper campaigns.

Delegate Talmadge Branch, D-Baltimore, chairman of the Maryland Legislative Black Caucus, said his group does not support single-member districts and will submit its own plan to the committee.

"I like the cross-section of representation," Branch said. "I like representing some whites and Hispanics. . . . I see that (carving up districts) as being divisive."

Committee member Isaiah Leggett, Montgomery County council member, asked Steele what the Republicans stand to gain under his plan. "I'm in the business of electing Republicans," admitted Steele. "Yes, that's part of the plan."

Miller scoffed at the GOP idea. "The Republican plan is to disempower minority communities," he said after the meeting, "to neuter the African-American population in Maryland."

Population is what dictates these districts, Miller said. In situations where it can empower a minority community, he said, the committee will consider adopting a single-member district.

Sometimes remapping districts means sacrificing one of many goals: equalizing representation by population, following natural boundaries, and reinforcing the doctrine of "one person, one vote."

The town of Cheverly is an example. Calling the town of 6,400 residents a "jewel," Mayor Larry Beyna asked that Cheverly, a municipality divided by district lines since its incorporation in 1931, finally be united.

"It's our belief that our ability to garner state grants through the legislative process is diluted because we're divided into two districts," Beyna said.

Unity was a theme at the final meeting, too. Maryland's congressional delegation is evenly split four and four between Democrats and Republicans, a surprising fact considering the Democrats' dominance in the state Legislature.

U.S. Rep. Constance Morella, R-Bethesda, tried to preempt any attempt to significantly alter her district at the final public meeting Thursday.

"It is my profound belief that the state must be sensitive to the uniqueness of our county and recognize our desire to remain whole and intact," said Morella, the only member of Maryland's congressional delegation to speak at one of the 12 public meetings.

Splitting Montgomery County in two so that Sen. Chris Van Hollen, D-Montgomery, and Delegate Mark K. Shriver, D-Montgomery, would not have to run against each other could jeopardize Morella's incumbency as well as that of neighboring U.S Rep. Albert Wynn, D-Largo, depending on where the lines are drawn.

The process is far from over. After the governor submits a plan to the General Assembly, the Legislature has 45 days to adopt another plan or the governor's becomes law. Any legal challenges could mean another delay. Steele and others said court action is an option.

"We will look closely at the governor's map," Steele said. "I've heard that some are planning to sue before they see the map."

Willis seemed prepared for a legal battle. "I don't know one of these processes that hasn't had a court challenge."

GCMH MEMBER IN NATIONAL RECALL ALERT CENTER — To promote the goal of patient safety, Garrett County Memorial Hospital continues its network membership with the National Recall Alert Center. The National Recall Alert Center (NRAC) is a nonprofit service agency whose purpose is to disseminate important notices on products being recalled which may necessitate immediate removal from hospitals. "Our membership in the National Recall Alert Center is a vital part of GCMH's commitment to offer the highest quality of patient care possible," said Donald P. Battista, hospital president and CEO. As members of this network, GCMH is promptly notified of any recalls of medication or equipment that is used in the facility. "The NRAC alerts us to recall warnings that may affect our patients, staff, and visitors. This enables us to quickly remove any potentially unsafe items," stated Josie Fletcher, GCMH director of clinical support services, who is pictured above with Lance Rhodes, director of pharmacy at GCMH.

Maryland's Budget Success Used As Model for States In Financial Bind

by Bobby White
Capital News Service

ANNAPOLIS - With Maryland boasting a nearly $1 billion budget surplus at a time when the national economy is slumping, the state is one of the few that has not used temporary fixes and short-term gimmicks to alleviate its money woes, according to a Washington-based nonprofit organization called the Center on Budget and Policy Priorities.

In a report released today, the organization said many states bolster their budgets by dipping into rainy day funds, cutting programs, or raising taxes. In the short term, these actions keep the states' finances intact, but in the long-run, the report says, they could cripple a state.

Because of the cyclical nature of state budgets with surpluses and deficits always recurring, legislator frequently lack the foresight to look beyond the current fiscal year, the report said.

While Maryland is cash rich, Virginia reported a $52 million shortfall for fiscal 2001. The center used Virginia as an example of a state that used budget gimmicks to prop up its economic outlook. As a result of political pressure, the report said, Virginia legislators merely increased revenue estimates to justify tax and budget decisions.

Other states, including South Carolina, Mississippi, and Ohio, used broad, across-the-board spending cuts that risk reducing vital services to low-income citizens.

"If the slowdown continues or deepens, more and more states will face budget shortfalls, and problems in states already affected could intensify," said Kevin Carey, one of the study authors.

The center looked at a diverse group of states, examining the strategy each is using to deal with a faltering national economy. It also focused on whether the responses the states have taken will hold up if economic conditions fail to improve.

"With all these uncertainties, it's important to examine whether states are handling the slowdown in ways that won't cause bigger problems later — especially for low-income and other vulnerable populations, which often are the hardest hit by the weak economy," said Carey.

Not all of the fiscal stress felt by states could be totally attributed to the slow economy, the report said. Some states have structural problems that hinder them from collecting sufficient revenues.

Maryland, along with Minnesota and a few others, was highlighted as able to escape the slumping economy, at least for now.

"The revenue estimates in some states can become a political hassle," said Neil Bergsman, budget director for the Department of Budget Analysis. "In some cases there is the governor's estimate, then the Democrats have one, and the Republicans have one. It can get real tedious."

But Maryland has a long-standing consensus process where the Board of Revenue Estimates comes up with a number and political parties stick with it, Bergsman said.

"That's what we budget to and we don't have any players in the system trying to stretch the numbers," he said.

Maryland's lack of a strong manufacturing presence in the state and considerable government workforce also contributed to the states strong showing, said David Roose, director of Bureau of Revenue Estimates.

But the state's good fortune may be short-lived, Roose said. "Sales tax collection has slowed and money from capital gains has slowed and possibly could decline," Roose said. "Those two factors are things we must deal with now."

Antiques

In America, you sit on a davenport, but in England you write on one. That's because the word has very different meanings in the two countries. The davenport desk is a small writing desk with a slanted lift top and drawers on the side, not in the front.

The Victorian form was often made in small sizes to be used in a lady's bedroom. The many drawers were of varied sizes to hold stationery, stamps, pens and other items used at a desk. Many davenports found today have elaborate veneer and carved decorations. Small desks are very popular. The davenport sells for prices ranging from a few thousand dollars to more than $15,000, depending on history, quality and beauty.

Q. I'm cleaning out my childhood home, and I found all my old Little Golden Books. They are 40 to 50 years old, but I know the books are still being published.

A. Little Golden Books are still on the market, but old ones are very popular with collectors. The books were first published in 1942. Until 1947, they had blue spines with dust jackets. The early books are the most valuable, especially if they're in mint condition with intact dust jackets. A mint first edition of "Three Little Kittens" sells for up to $200. If your books are editions from the 1950s and '60s, most of them would sell for $10 to $30, depending on condition, back cover, spine design and edition number.

Q. My teen-age son's dog, Buddy, a black Lab we adopted when my son was 5 years old, died of cancer three months ago. At first, David said he was glad his dog wouldn't have to suffer any more, but lately, his attitude has taken a turn for the worse. His grades are dropping. When I suggested we get a new dog, David became angry and said no. Why isn't he over Buddy's death yet?

A. Unfortunately, your son might grieve for quite a while. The death of a beloved pet can be just as devastating as the loss of a human friend or loved one, and the emotions experienced are the same.

There really is no timetable for grief. The sadness and anger one experiences can linger for months, or go away briefly, only to return again. Even those who have time to prepare for a pet's death experience grief.

Your son is going through what experts call a cycle of loss. Mourners go through a period of denial, followed by feelings of anger, guilt and depression. It's a difficult experience, but it is a natural process — our way of dealing with the hole that remains in our hearts once a loved one is gone.

Encourage John to talk about his lost friend. You might say, "Remember how Buddy used to slide across the kitchen floor when you called him for supper?" Let your son know that it's OK to talk about how sad or angry he feels about Buddy's death. He might have been putting up a brave front for your sake. Don't suggest that he get another pet — let John decide whether he is ready or not.

You might suggest that you and John create a memorial for Buddy together. It can be a photo album or scrapbook with written memories; you could plant a tree or place a statue in the garden dedicated to Buddy; or, you could make a donation to an animal-related charity in Buddy's name. John might not be receptive to this idea right away, but in time he might want to do something like this.

Talking to a grief counselor can help both you and your son understand and deal with the many emotions surrounding Buddy's loss. Some counselors specialize in pet-related issues; check the listings for your area, or ask your veterinarian if he or she knows of one.

Strange BUT TRUE

By Samantha Weaver

• The parachute was invented more than a hundred years before the airplane. In 1797, Jacques Garnerin jumped out of a balloon 3,000 feet in the air. Louis Lenormand, a Frenchman, designed it in 1783 to save people who had to jump out of burning buildings.

• The modern word "tobacco" comes from the Native American word "tubak." They didn't smoke it the way we do, though; they smoked it through the nose. They used a special pipe with a forked end, and the forks fit into the nostrils. The smoke was inhaled in short, violent snorts.

• Ever wondered how the Navy names its vessels? Destroyers are always named after naval heroes, cruisers after cities, submarines after fish and battleships after states.

• For centuries, people all over the world have been trying to invent a perpetual motion machine. One of these people was Blaise Pascal. He didn't succeed, of course — no one ever has — but his experiments did have an interesting byproduct: the game of roulette.

• John Wilkes Booth went down in history as the man who assassinated President Abraham Lincoln. He was well-known before that, though, as a matinee idol. He was especially popular with women, from whom he received a hundred fan letters a week.

• If you add up the number of letters in the names of the playing cards — ace (3), two (3), three (5), four (4), five (4), six (3), seven (5), eight (5) nine (4), ten (3), jack (4), queen (5), king (4) — you get 52, the exact number of cards in a standard playing deck.

State, County Jobless Rates Fall In July

Reaffirming Maryland's current economic strength and prosperity, Governor Parris N. Glendening announced unemployment in the state declined during July, falling from 3.9 percent in June to 3.7 percent. The number of Marylanders employed rose for the third consecutive month and is at an all-time high.

Garrett County's jobless rate also fell significantly, from 6.6 percent in June to 5.9 percent in July. The July 2000 unemployment rate was 7.3 percent.

"Maryland's economic performance continues to be strong and surpass that of the national economy," said Governor Glendening. "Businesses in the state are continuing to hire as a record number of job seekers take advantage of employment opportunities. We have taken aggressive steps to ensure that the Maryland economy remains robust and diverse. Maryland is again showing the nation that you can have a strong, growing economy without sacrificing the environment. While the state is making prudent fiscal decisions, it is the hard-working men and women of Maryland who are the true drivers of this economy as they fight for the prosperity and better quality of life that we call Smart Growth."

Maryland's unemployment rate was a full percentage point below the national unemployment rate, which held steady over the month at 4.7 percent. Unemployment rates in July either declined or held steady in 21 of the state's 24 local jurisdictions. Rising employment levels contributed to unemployment recorded as low as 2.1 percent in Montgomery County, 2.4 percent in Charles and Talbot counties, and 2.5 percent in Calvert, Frederick, and Howard counties.

The labor force, which normally peaks in July, increased by more than 21,600 people to reach a level of 2,943,785. Employment, expanding at a somewhat higher rate to attain its record-setting level of 2,833,837, helped to accommodate the growing number of job seekers and, at the same time, to remove more than 3,000 people from the unemployment rolls.

During July, job availability increased in a number of business sectors. Services, construction, and retail trade were the primary sources of hiring activity, with upturns, of note, reported in business services, amusements, membership organizations, special trade contracting, and general merchandise stores.

- A grant was submitted for the Community Parks and Playgrounds Initiative for new bathrooms at the Glades Town Park.
- The town purchased a new street sweeper.
- The revisions of the town's comprehensive plan was discussed. A public hearing will be held Sept. 25 at 7 p.m. at the city hall. Copies of the plan can be picked up at the Ruth Enlow Library or the city hall.
- A request was made to start a local access channel on TV. This would be a joint effort between Oakland, Mountain Lake Park, Deer Park, Loch Lynn, and Kitzmiller. The Oakland Town Council voted in favor of this request.
- Trick or Treat night will be held in Oakland on Wednesday, Oct. 31, from 6 until 8 p.m. Residents who would like to participate are asked to turn on their porch lights.
- The Oakland/Mtn. Lake Park Lion's Club Halloween parade will be held Thursday, Oct. 25.

The next public meeting will be Oct. 1 at 7 p.m.

LOCH LYNN

The Mayor & Town Council meeting was held at 7:30 p.m. on Sept. 4.

- The council voted unanimously to hire a seasonal worker to assist with storm water management work, street patching, etc.
- The ball field committee is planning to construct the concession stand and dugouts before winter. Mallow Landscaping did additional seeding last week.
- The council selected a firm to complete the sign at the Community Center. Organizations renting the facility will have the option to purchase an advertisement sign for their respective programs.
- The town hall will receive a much-needed facelift in the next few weeks. A committee has been selected to assist with this project.
- The town is ready for the Garrett County Sanitary District to take over the collection of sewer and trash fees beginning with the October quarter. Susan Parsons, treasurer, will assist with the changeover.
- The community picnic was held on Sept. 8, with approximately 80 residents in attendance. The mayor and council provided corn on the cob, hot dogs, and drinks, and the citizens brought covered dishes. Games for the children were provided by Monaca Hedrick and Mary Ann Friend. The council agreed to do a survey at the picnic to get an idea from those in attendance as to the hours a new clerk could best serve the community and to get an idea of the evening when citizens might prefer council meetings be held. Wendell Keaton, circuit rider, was unable to attend on Monday although the town is paying for his service. The council will determine these issues in October.
- Resolution 2001-02, appointing a representative as resident agent for the Town of Loch Lynn, was adopted.
- A new Zoning Board of Appeals was appointed and confirmed by the council. According to the 1997 Zoning Ordinance these members are to be appointed every three years. The previous board has been in office since prior to 1995. The council approved the hiring of a new town clerk, who will begin her duties on September 17. Office hours will be announced in a couple of weeks. Ruth Foley, clerk since September 2000, has resigned.
- Loch Lynn will host, for the first time, the Allegany/Garrett Maryland Municipal League dinner meeting on Sept. 19 at the Pleasant Valley Community Center. These meetings are held throughout the two counties every other month.
- Anyone wishing to file for the two upcoming council seats must file with the clerk on or before Oct. 1. Election judges for the election were appointed and confirmed at the council meeting.

TEACHERS WERE BUSY THIS SUMMER — Fourteen different professional development activities took place over the summer months in Garrett County and included more than 450 participants. In addition, a number of teachers participated in professional activities outside the county, such as workshops sponsored by the Maryland State Department of Education. Local activities focused on student achievement and strategies to increase student understanding of content and processes. The activities were facilitated by a number of board of education personnel, as well as local and national consultants. Workshops included High School Assessment, Resiliency Training, Understanding MSPAP Writing Demands, Differentiated Instruction, and Content Mentoring. In the above photo middle school teachers work with Dr. Susan Baum on a project during the Content Mentoring workshop. Pictured from the left are Connie Upole, Kathy Newman, Gayle Farrar, Polly English-Ramsay, and Dr. Baum.

Eastern Star Meeting Noted

Oakland Chapter No. 67, Order of the Eastern Star, met at the Paul B. Naylor Masonic Temple recently. Worthy Matron Bette L. Welch and Worthy Patron David L. Hall presided at the meeting.

After opening the meeting with a thought on "God's Picture," Welch welcomed guests Margaret Poling, Past Matron and Grand Inspector for West Virginia, and E. Ray Poling, Worthy Patron of Belington Chapter No. 68 of Belington, W.Va.

Welch led the gathering in a toast marking the 77th anniversary of the founding of the Oakland chapter, and presented a Recognition program highlighting the service of the chapter's five Past Matrons and three Past Patrons who were on hand for the meeting. A recognition dinner underscoring the same theme had preceded the meeting, during which the Past Matrons and Past Patrons shared stories about their respective terms in office. A memorial service noted the passing of Denzil Hile, who died on July 11. Past Matron Betty Foy's August birthday was noted with greetings and a gift, and Past Matron Deborah Raynovich, chairperson of the Mettiki picnic committee, and all who helped make the picnic a success were recognized.

Past Patron Theodore Raynovich answered the Eastern Star question and won the door prize. Welch extended the chapter's thanks to Past Matron Lillian Reckner for providing music during the meeting, and to substitutes Phyllis Winkelvoss and Helene MacCauley for providing birthday cake and refreshments that marked the chapter's birthday. Flag bearer Helene McCauley presented and retired the flag. Welch's closing thought was "Remember to Forget."

The next meeting of Oakland Chapter No. 67 will take place Tuesday, Sept. 18, with the theme "Sideliners' and Substitutes' Night." An autumn program will be presented during the meeting.

Music, Cake Auction, Car Show Among Highlights Of Potato Fest

The hills resounded with gospel, country, and bluegrass music this past weekend as the Mt. Grove community and record crowds celebrated the 20th Annual Potato Festival.

Sponsored each year by the Mt. Grove Volunteer Fire Department, festivities during the two-day event also included firemen's activities, arts and crafts sales, free blood pressure readings, raffles, door prizes, and concessions, and festival highlights included a decorated cake contest and auction, and a fourth annual car show sponsored by the Mtn. Top Cruisers Car Club.

The decorated cake contest, a popular potato festival attraction, featured cakes baked with either fire department or potato festival themes. The top three prize-winning cakes were awarded to the following: first place, Robin Roth, who received $100; second place, Hannah Jones, who was awarded $50; and third place, Helen Roth, whose prize was $25. The prize money for the annual contest was again donated by Brad Stewart of Stewart Funeral Home, Oakland.

Following the contest, auctioneers Carl Blizzard and Rodger Ware offered their services to allow bidders to buy the prize-winning cakes, as well as several others. In what has become tradition during the auction, many of the cakes were donated back to the fire department to be resold.

The first place cake, initially purchased for $350 by Miners and Merchants Bank, finally brought a total of $1,125. The second place cake, bought by Coastal Lumber for $200, netted a total of $550 before its final sale. The third place cake was bought for $150 by J&J Ford. These cakes and several others, along with two coconut creme pies, brought a total of $2,610 for the VFD's largest fundraiser of the year.

Other bidder/buyers on hand during the afternoon included representatives from local businesses and organizations like R.H. Armstrong, Massey Construction, The Terra Alta Bank, Nelson Construction, Eglon Farm Service, the Mtn. Lions Club, John Harsh Trucking, and the Maple Spring Youth Group. Members of this group, according to a VFD spokesperson, have provided parking directions to festival visitors, as a way to raise money for their activities. This year, the group decided to donate its money back to the fire department by buying a cake.

This year's Mt. Top Cruisers Car Show featured 47 antique, classic, and unique cars and trucks from Pennsylvania, Maryland, and West Virginia. Trophies were awarded in the various categories, with the "Best of Show" trophy going to Sherry Bolion who showed her 1973 Ford Mustang.

Proceeds from the annual Mt. Grove Potato Festival, the VFD's largest fund raiser of the year, are used to fund its operating expenses during the year.

A GROWING TRADITION during the Mt. Grove VFD's annual Potato Festival is a decorated cake contest, with cakes decorated with potato or fire department themes. The cakes are first judged and prizes are then awarded to the first, second, and third place entries. Then they, along with several others, are sold during a lively auction, to aid in this small volunteer fire department's largest fund raiser of the year. The two cakes shown above were not contest winners, but both added interest to those present for the day's activities. An especially popular cake was the one shown at the right, which depicted two MGVFD firefighters, Chief Richard Helmick, and Assistant Chief Jeff Harsh, with muscular physiques.

TA Development Group Conducting Ideas Contest

New ideas for economic development are being sought by the Terra Alta Economic Development Corporation, and cash awards for the best ideas are being offered by the corporation via an "ideas contest."

"Sometimes the very best ideas come from unexpected places when it comes to economic development," stated Rich Hopkins, president of the newly formed organization. "So our group is sponsoring a contest and will give a cash award to the person who comes up with the best idea."

Hopkins, owner of Pioneer Press of West Virginia, said that corporation members believe that they should "start at home" in seeking ways to help the community, and that someone who resides in or near Terra Alta may well have the best idea to generate local jobs and economic growth.

He explained that there are two goals for the contest: to encourage citizens of all ages to focus on the need for economic development in the Terra Alta area by encouraging them to submit ideas, and to build an awareness that the TAEDC exists and is serious about economic growth.

A cash award of $300 will be presented to the person with the idea or proposal deemed by the corporation directors as the best, and a "runner-up" award of $200 will also be given. They will be presented at the Terra Alta community tree-lighting celebration on December 7.

All ideas must be submitted in writing to the Terra Alta Economic Development Corp., P.O. Box 295, Terra Alta, WV 26764. The deadline is November 16. The TAEDC board of directors will review all submissions and reserves the right to accept or reject any and all ideas submitted. Only those submissions that focus directly on the issue of generating jobs and income within the area will be considered.

Ideas Contest

"We also emphasize that persons should use a 'reality check' when submitting their ideas," Hopkins said. "A suggestion to build a four-lane road into Terra Alta and open a 100,000-square-foot industrial site, or 'getting General Motors to build an auto plant here' would both fail the reality check. Ideas submitted should take into account the limitations of geography, finances, real estate, and personnel resources we have in Terra Alta."

Hopkins said the directors are particularly appealing to the younger residents of the area. "Sometimes entire communities have been turned around by the ideas generated by teenagers, and we would be delighted to see this happen in Terra Alta," he said. "Whether it's making a new product, providing a new service, or providing a newer level of support to existing industries, all ideas are encouraged and welcome."

He added that the contest is open to all persons, and not limited to residents of Terra Alta.

FALL FEST SET NEAR BRUCETON MILLS — The North Preston Farmers Club Fall Festival is scheduled for Friday, Sept. 14, from noon to 9 p.m., and Saturday, Sept. 15, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., on the club's grounds located just north of Bruceton Mills. The Fall Festival is a family-oriented event celebrating the agricultural heritage of Preston County with demonstrations, friendly competitions, and food. The original definition of the word "horsepower" will be brought to life by draft horses, as the one shown above, while musclepower will be displayed by crosscut sawing competition contestants of all ages, pictured below. There will also be an ATV/garden tractor pull, and a "pet" woolly worm race. The festival will take place on the grounds of the nonprofit North Preston Farmers Club, located just off Route 26, 4.2 miles north of the Bruceton Mills exit off Interstate 68. Additional information is available on the Internet at www.northprestonfarmersclub.homestead.com.

Aurora Quilt Exhibition To Cover All Facets Of Artistry

An exhibition, "With Our Hands: Quilts from 1850-1950," will open with a public reception set for Sunday, Sept. 30, from 3 to 5 p.m. in the Aurora Community Building, located along Route 50 in Aurora. The exhibition will be open Fridays through Sundays, noon to 6 p.m., through Oct. 28, and by appointment, and is sponsored by Aurora Community Education and Outreach Services, in partnership with the Aurora Area Historical Society (AAHS).

The exhibition will highlight "the artistic wealth and domestic history of our mountain community," an AAHS spokesperson said. "Aurora has an incredible collection of quilts, covering our beds, keeping us warm during our long mountain winters, used for generations or hidden in trunks, boxes, hope chests, and bureau drawers. These quilts reflect not only the history of those who have always lived here and those who came from other places; they also provide a glimpse into the domestic, artistically expressive skills of their makers."

In addition to the opening reception, two other special events have been scheduled in conjunction with the quilt display. A quilt conservation workshop is set for Saturday, Oct. 20, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Union Ambulance building. Noted quilt expert Fawn Valentine, author of the book West Virginia Quilts and Quiltmakers: Echoes From the Hills, will present a history of quilts, quiltmaking, conservation practices, and documentation.

Registration for the workshop is limited to 30 participants at a cost of $5 per person and must be made by Friday, Oct. 12. Participants are asked to bring their own quilts (although there can be no guarantee that all quilts will be evaluated) and a bag lunch, for which the Aurora CEOS will provide a beverage and dessert. Registration can be made by sending a check payable to the Aurora CEOS to RR1, Box 66, Aurora, WV 26705. The registrant's name, address and phone number must be included. Further information may be obtained by calling 304-735-3819.

Valentine will also present a free gallery talk and slide presentation on Sunday, Oct. 21, at 3 p.m. The program will focus on the significance of American and Appalachian quiltmaking, on quilts as historical documents, and how to interpret those documents. A discussion and interpretation of the quilts displayed in the exhibition will follow. Persons attending are asked not to bring any quilts to the gallery talk.

The workshop, gallery talk, and an accompanying exhibition catalog have been funded in part by the West Virginia Humanities Council.

TEXAS SING SEPT. 23

An annual sing will be held on Sunday, Sept. 23, at the Texas Bethel United Methodist Church, Horse Shoe Run. The service will begin at 1 p.m., with various groups bringing a Christian message in song. All are welcome.

VFD BREAKFAST

An all-you-can-eat breakfast-brunch will be served at the Aurora fire hall from 8 a.m. until 1 p.m., on Sunday, Sept. 16. The menu will include buckwheat and pancakes, sausage, scrambled eggs, sausage gravy, home fries, and biscuits. All this, served along with beverages, will cost $6 for adults, and $3 for children 12 and under.

FARM SERVICE MEETING HELD

At the annual meeting of the Eglon Southern States Farm Service, Charles Moyers of Bruceton Farm Service gave a report of local business and introduced L. J. Smluse, local manager, and his staff. David Watkins presented reports on business and noted the changes caused by the many smaller farms going out of business. The Southern States Cooperative merged with Agway Cooperative, taking over its supply distribution centers, and creating further delays prior to schedule adjusting.

Local elections resulted in David Moran and Joe Viola being elected to the advisory board, and Stanley Harsh being elector for District E. Melissa Mullenax and Connie Fint were named to replace outgoing members Hazel Durst and Jean Winters on the Farm Home Advisory Committee.

The meeting began with a roast beef and ham dinner served by the youth of the Maple Spring Church of the Brethren, where it was held on Sept. 6. It concluded with door prizes being awarded.

ROBERSON EARNS MARY KAY CAREER CAR -- Mary Kay Independent Beauty Consultant Sue Roberson, Aurora, was recently recognized for her "outstanding business performance" by earning the use of a new Pontiac Gran Am. "Our automobile incentive program has been an important feature at Mary Kay for years," said Tom Whatley, president, U.S. sales. "It seems only fitting that, as we continue to modernize our image and offer exciting, innovative sales incentives and products for our sales force, that the career car program would evolve as well." Roberson was assisted in delivery of her new vehicle by Bob Stuck at Oakview Motors, Oakland. She is pictured above, far left, with members of her sales team, who she credits for helping her achieve her goal.

UNION SENIORS HAVE OUTING

A county bus took Union District Seniors to Reckart's Mill at Cranesville on Friday, Sept. 7, where they toured the three-story mill and were told of the progress that grain would make from one place to another as it was being ground. While at the mill, they ate their sack lunches before leaving for a visit to the Cranesville Swamp. There they walked the trails and boardwalk, noting the fall flowering plants and that cranberries are just beginning to ripen.

CLASSES '41-'42 REUNION

The classes of 1941-42 who graduated from Aurora High School met for a social hour preceding their annual class reunion on Aug. 25. Punch and snacks were provided by Mildred Teets for the visiting hours and a short business session preceded the dinner, which was served by the Amboy Sewing Circle at the Roy Durst Fellowship Hall of the Amboy United Methodist Church. Bob Wotring delivered the grace for the meal. Mary Jackson sat in the rocking chair as she read her secretary's report, this honor bestowed because she had the most grandchildren and great-grandchildren, combined. Also asked to rest in the rocking chair for a time was Hancell Teets, the eldest man present.

Those who attended were Gay and Ruby Gnegy Rembold of Cumberland; Ray Rembold, his daughter and son-in-law, Jackie and Kirby Spice of Ohio; Virginia Helmick McCabe, Kingwood; Eldred Wotring and son Bob of Fairmont; Judy Travis and daughter of Oakland; George Ervin and Margaret Schrock of Charleston; Ralph and Barbara Lee, Oakland; Mary Stemple Jackson and friend, Vesta Anderson, of Ohio; Mary Virginia Lewis Benson and friend, Walt, Stanely and Arva Wotring Baker of Mtn. Lake Park, James and Jean Arnett, Clarksburg; and Kathy Hardesty, and Hancell (Jake) and Mildred Donham Teets, Aurora.

FRANTZ BIRTH

Melvin and Melissa Frantz of Japan announce the birth of their second child and daughter on Sept. 3. Born at the air force base hospital, the baby weighed six pounds, 14 ounces. Her name is Violet Louise and she has an 18-month-old sister, Dakota.

Don and Neva Frantz of Eglon are the paternal grandparents. Dick and Beatrice Ford of Gormania and Paul Dixon of Terra Alta are the maternal grandparents. Hilda Frantz and Rose Ina Harsh of Eglon are the local great-grandmothers.

PERSONAL MENTION

Gary and Robin Feather of Eglon returned last week from a 10-day trip to Hawaii in celebration of their 25th wedding anniversary.

Returning to the home of her mother, Kathy Stemple, Horse Shoe Run, on Saturday night was Rebecca Stemple who had spent several weeks visiting her aunt and uncle in Arizona.

The family of the late Lester and Mildred (Harsh) Wilt met Sunday at Cathedral State Park for a reunion.

There were about 65 in attendance Sunday for the celebration of the 75th year since the formation of the Aurora Farm Women's Club. They looked at photos and articles made by present and former members and honored those who had been charter members.

A celebration of her 85th birthday on Sunday, Sept. 9, was enjoyed by Marie Martin in the decorated fellowship hall at St. Paul's Lutheran Church. Present were her children, Patricia and Ronald Stemple, and Carol Ann and Jack Everly, and their families, along with numerous guests.

St. Matthew's Episcopal Church, Oakland, will host free evening meals for persons in need on the third Thursday of each month from 5 to 7 p.m. beginning Sept. 20 and continuing through Dec. 27. One exception to that schedule is that the November meal will take place on Tuesday, Nov. 20.

The volunteer meals program is co-sponsored by the parishioners of St. Matthew's and St. John's Episcopal Church of Deer Park. "We hope that this program will be extended indefinitely depending upon community participation and volunteer support," a church spokesperson said, noting that St. Matthew's has a chair lift for the use of those who may need it. The church is located at the corner of Second and Liberty streets.

Volunteers are sought from the community to assist in meal preparation, serving, and cleanup. Persons may volunteer by contacting Debbie Strubin at St. Matthew's at 301-334-2510, or Marilyn Regentin at 301-334-0622. Monetary donations to help fund the meals program may be sent to St. Matthew's Episcopal Church, P.O. Box 303, Oakland, MD 21550.

Bible Series Program Set At Oak Park Church

The first seven-week session of the two-year Bethel Bible Series study program will begin at the Oak Park Church of the Brethren, Oakland, at 7 p.m. tonight, Thursday, Sept. 13, and continue each Thursday through Nov. 1 (with the exception of Sept. 27). The program is open to the public, and persons who miss tonight's class will still be able to attend next Thursday or at any point during the series. Each class is one hour in length.

The Bethel Bible Series is a comprehensive examination of the Bible in chronological order from Genesis through Revelation. It has been utilized by over 11,000 congregations worldwide over its 30-year history and is considered to be the most successful Bible study program in the world.

"The Bethel Series is different because most Bible study courses are short term or fragmented," Oak Park pastor Mel Menker said. "The Bethel Series is an intensive, long term program that examines the Bible as a whole book through themes and supporting concepts, giving participants an understanding of the Biblical concepts as they related to the entire book."

The fee for the first seven-week session is $10 per person to cover the cost of materials. Participants are asked to bring a Bible and writing material should they wish to take notes.

The Oak Park Church of the Brethren is located at 110 Church Lane. For further information, persons may call the church office at 301-334-2243.

Oak Park Church Slates Series By Biblical Scholar

The Oak Park Church of the Brethren has slated "Amazing Insights From Familiar Biblical Stories," a series by noted biblical scholar Dr. Larry Selig, for Sunday through Thursday, Sept. 23-27. The series will get under way at Sunday's 8:15 and 10:45 a.m. services, and will continue that and each following evening at 7 p.m.

The series' topics, each of which will be illustrated through specific biblical incidents, include the meaning of forgiveness, Jesus' ministry, and the Bible as it relates to contemporary culture.

An ordained Presbyterian minister, Selig is a graduate of Dartmouth College and Princeton Theological Seminary, and earned a doctor of ministry degree from Luther Theological Seminary. He has served at churches in four states, and for the past six years he and his wife Ida have been working in an overseas ministry that has taken them to a number of foreign countries, including Israel. Selig has traveled to the Holy Land many times, where he has lectured and conducted extensive research.

State Welfare Rolls Continue To Drop, But Decline Rate Slowing

By Robyn Lamb
Capital News Service

WASHINGTON - The number of Maryland residents receiving temporary welfare assistance continued to decline, according to statistics released this week, but experts say the downward trend appears to be leveling off.

The U.S. Department of Health and Human Services said recipients of Temporary Assistance for Needy Families (TANF) fell 3.7 percent in Maryland, from 71,146 people to 68,489 between September 2000 and March 2001. Nationally, welfare rolls fell by 4.4 percent.

During the same period, the number of Maryland families getting TANF dropped 3.6 percent, slightly more than the national drop of 3 percent. Welfare rolls have fallen by 64.7 percent in Maryland since 1996, when the federal welfare reform bill was passed. But some experts say the downward trend is beginning to slow.

"The trend is continuing, but leveling off because those left have more barriers to independence," said Richard Larson, a policy and research director at Maryland's Department of Human Resources.

He said the slowing national and regional economies may be a factor, but that more important are a whole host of personal and family barriers that make leaving welfare more difficult for many of those who remain.

Education level, number of children, transportation and child care problems, and issues of substance abuse are just a few of the variables that could make it harder for the remaining welfare recipients to get off the rolls. But there have been successes. Larson said that about half of the people who left welfare in Maryland found work in the quarter in which their case was closed. For those with prior work experience, the same number jumped to 62 percent.

"The fear that people were going to come back just did not happen," he said.

But some welfare advocates are hesitant to declare a complete success. Lynda Meade, director of social concerns for Catholic Charities, said that many former recipients are working inconsistently and often at jobs with very low salaries.

Welfare Advocates, a 500-member statewide coalition, has reported that most people leaving welfare do not work full-time and that, on average, they earn $6.50 per hour. A recent survey of 100 current and former TANF recipients by the Center for Poverty Solutions reported that most that most former recipients were not making enough to cover their basic needs, and relied on some form of emergency food source assistance. Of those surveyed, about 57 percent were at or below the federal poverty level for a mother and two children, if they were working full time.

"Anybody who is out there living should have enough to live in decency," said Meade. "People who work at low-income jobs should have easy access to benefits that will help them."

GC DRESSAGE TEAM STANDS OUT AT STATE — The Garrett County 4-H dressage team made quite a name for itself at the Maryland state competition held recently in Westminster. The eight young local equestrians brought home two individual state championships, 11 first place accolades, and one second place honor. The team is shown above, as from the left are Kristen Skeweris, Jaclyn Skeweris, Paige Wotring, Brittaney Wotring, Michael McConnell, Lauren Jolles, Heather Shultzaberger, and Beth Sweitzer. Perhaps best exemplified through the shows performed across the globe by the famous Lippizaner stallions of the Spanish Riding School in Vienna, Austria, dressage was described in practical but most elegant terms nearly 300 years ago by a French nobleman as a "noble and useful art, [used] solely to make horses supple, relaxed, flexible, compliant and obedient, and to lower the quarters, without all of which a horse—whether he be a mount for military services, hunting or dressage—will be neither comfortable in his movements nor pleasurable to ride."

Local 4-H Dressage Team Earns Numerous Honors At State Event

A team of eight young Garrett County equestrians earned two individual championships and a number of additional honors in the Maryland 4-H State Dressage Competition held in Westminster earlier this month. This was the first year that the local team competed for the state championship in dressage, which is the art and method of training a horse in obedience and in precision of movement.

Two Garrett riders, Heather Shultzaberger and Brittaney Wotring, took championship accolades in the Training Level and Young Horse divisions, respectively. Both riders also received first place honors in their respective classes. Jaclyn Skeweris earned two first places each in the Training Level division, and Kristen Skeweris and Paige Wotring received two first places in the Young Rider division. Lauren Jolles was awarded a first and second place in the Young Horse division, and Michael McConnell received two second place honors in the Training Level.

The local team was coached by Brenda Ackerman, Joy Jackson, Jeri Jones, Heather Sherbin, Sue Skeweris, Mandie Upole, Cissy Vansickle, and Sandra Zakaluzny. Holly Huxford was the team photographer, Mandie Upole provided her dressage ring for training practices, and the Garrett County Fairgrounds facility allowed the team members to obtain practical showing experience. The local riders were hosted during their stay in Westminster by Sharon Dawson.

"To prepare for a competition such as this, both the horse and rider must be schooled as athletes," one of the coaches said. "Garrett County competitors and their trusty steeds do have a competitive edge over many of the other participants. In Garrett County, the strong agricultural roots, healthy environmental pastures, excellent coaching and local support by family and friends allow these kids to meet the challenge."

An international sport, dressage is a highly competitive equestrian discipline. Tests range from a preliminary level to the ultimate Grand Prix, which is ridden at the Olympic Games, and a variety of other international competitions. The Freestyle competitions, which are performed to music, have a great appeal with audiences around the world.

Farming On The Mountaintop

Farm Bureau Not Happy With Plan To Alter Crop Subsidy Distribution

by Marie Beaudette
Capital News Service

WASHINGTON - A Maryland farm group is wary of legislation that would shift $2 billion from traditional crop subsidy payments into voluntary conservation programs.

Rep. Wayne Gilchrest, R-Kennedyville, insists his proposal would not hurt the small farmers who make up the majority of Maryland farms, but would give them a chance to be rewarded for conservation efforts.

But the Maryland Farm Bureau said it is opposed to the shift, which they fear could jeopardize the safety nets that have helped farmers through difficult years.

"It would have a detrimental impact on the farmers of Maryland if they were to decrease that (subsidy) portion of the farm bill," said Valerie Connelly, the bureau's director of government relations.

The proposal by Gilchrest and Rep. Ron Kind, D-Wis., could come to the floor of the House as early as this week, when the farm bill is reported out by the House Agriculture Committee. The two hope to replace the farm bill's conservation section with legislation based on Kind's Working Lands Stewardship Act. That bill has garnered 132 co-sponsors since its introduction in June, including Reps. Benjamin Cardin, D-Baltimore, Robert Ehrlich, R-Timonium, Steny Hoyer, D-Mechanicsville, and Connie Morella, R-Bethesda.

In a New York Times column, Gilchrest and Kind said increasing funds for voluntary conservation projects would benefit small and mid-size farmers by giving them incentives to practice conservation and environmentally friendly farming in high-risk areas.

"This lets us assist the family farmers who have lost ground under the current system, while we use taxpayer dollars more sensibly to protect natural resources and environmental quality," they said in the column.

Gilchrest said the amendment would give Maryland farmers an opportunity they do not always have now.

"Maryland farmers year after year after year are on a waiting list for conservation funds because we just run out of money," Gilchrest said. At the same time, he said, farmers here do not have to fear a loss of crop subsidy payments.

"Eighty percent of the farmers across the country will not be affected," Gilchrest said. "The average farm in Maryland is a small, family-owned operation, and this is not going to affect them."

But Connelly said stringent requirements for getting assistance would do more economic harm than good to farmers, including those in Maryland.

"It's those kind of safety payments that have really kept the farmers afloat throughout the past few years," she said. "They'll have to jump through hoops in order to get (conservation money)."

The farm bill currently includes an 80 percent increase in conservation incentive funds, but Gilchrest said this is not enough to preserve fragile ecosystems. He and Kind would roughly double that amount with their amendment.

Environmental groups say the incentives in the Gilchrest-Kind plan should keep Maryland farms economically viable, which in turn keeps farmers from having to sell their land to developers. Groups like the Chesapeake Bay Foundation say conservation and proper management of farmland in Maryland is important because the biggest source of pollution to the bay is nutrient runoff from farmland.

"The farm bill has become a very important part of conservation and the effort to restore the bay," said Bill Street, the bay foundation's director of watershed restoration. The amendment would "really devote the resources necessary to address these issues," he said.

Agriculture Committee staffers, pointing to the 80 percent increase in conservation funding already included in the bill, said it has a "broad base of support . . . among producers, who are interested in continued flexibility and a safety net, and conservationists."

But Gilchrest is optimistic about the chances for his amendment. "We have a better than 50-50 chance to get it passed if it comes up this week," he said. "If it comes up a week later, our chances go up quite a bit" because supporters will have more time to garner additional support.

Dry Weather Allows Harvest To Continue

Last week's weather continued this month's dry trend as Maryland farmers had an average of 6.5 days on fieldwork. In fact, all areas of the state are at below average amounts of precipitation for September thus far. Nevertheless, farmers took advantage of the weather, working on activities such as harvesting fourth cuttings of hay. Sixty-three percent of fourth cutting alfalfa hay has been harvested, 19 percent ahead of last year, and 23 percent ahead of the five-year average. All other hay, fourth cutting, is 32 percent harvested, 11 percent ahead of last year, and 14 percent ahead of average. Hay supplies are currently rated 9 percent surplus, 82 percent adequate, 6 percent short, and 1 percent very short.

Fruit harvest continues with 25 percent of the apples harvested, 1 percent behind last year and matching the five-year average. Apples are rated 73 percent in good condition, 25 percent fair, and 2 percent poor. The peach harvest is winding down with 94 percent harvested, 3 percent behind both last year and the five-year average.

Subsoil moisture surpluses depleted last week due to the dry weather. Topsoil moisture is rated 1 percent surplus, 65 percent adequate, 28 percent short, and 6 percent very short. Subsoil moisture is now 69 percent adequate, 22 percent short, and 9 percent very short.

Advantage Dairy Group Partners Discontinue Merger Discussions

by Stephanie Meyers

Land O' Lakes Inc., Maryland and Virginia Milk Producers Cooperative Association Inc., Lone Star Milk Producers Inc., and Arkansas Dairy Cooperative Association announced this week that they have discontinued merger discussions. In August, the boards of the four cooperatives approved the signing of letters of intent to develop a merger plan.

"While it is essential that cooperatives develop ways to work together to remain competitive in today's rapidly consolidating dairy industry, those expanding relationships must be developed cautiously and with an intense focus on member concerns," Land O' Lakes president and chief executive officer John E. Gherty said. "The feedback we were receiving from Maryland and Virginia members indicated it would be counterproductive to continue merger discussions."

"The meetings we have held with our Maryland and Virginia members indicate there is a significant level of member concern regarding a full merger," Maryland and Virginia general manager Robert Shore said. "With that in mind, we agreed that it would be appropriate to discontinue merger discussions. We will, however, continue to explore ways our cooperatives can work together to benefit members."

Gherty said the initial merger discussions, and continuing discussions regarding future business relationships, are based on shared cooperative commitments and the increasing importance of size, scale, and geographic reach to dairy industry success.

"All four cooperatives involved in these discussions share a commitment to preserving and expanding market access for members'

Plans For First Md. Ethanol Plant Gains Momentum

After months of study, results are showing that the economic feasibility of Maryland having its own ethanol plant is very favorable, according to a report from the Maryland Grain Producers Utilization Board.

This board, along with Maryland Center for Agro-Ecology Inc., funded a feasibility study earlier this year for construction of an ethanol plant in Maryland. This study was awarded to Voudrie Business Development Inc. of Elk River, Minn. Voudrie was selected because of its strong track record of having successfully completed five other projects of this nature. The company had also teamed with Katzen International, an engineering company with experience building small grains ethanol plants.

The final phase results are to be released at the Ethanol Workshop sponsored by the U.S. Department of Energy, the Maryland Energy Office, the Department of Agriculture, and the Maryland Department of the Environment. It will take place on September 13 at the BWI Airport Marriott.

Robert Hutchison, a member of the Maryland Grain Producers Association board of directors, said he believes now is the time for ethanol to "make its move."

"Consumers are realizing the constraints of our fuel market and are looking for a better solution. Ethanol is the answer," Hutchison said. "The sheer facts that ethanol is a renewable resource, burns cleaner, can help a lagging agricultural economy, and can be produced right here in Maryland are just a few of the reasons we need to keep up the charge for ethanol."

The ethanol feasibility study has been analyzing the potential to use barley and other small grains, including wheat, as the primary feedstock. The approximate cost for constructing a 15-million-gallons-per-year ethanol plant would be $30 million. A plant of this size would require 7 million bushels of grain.

Members of the MGPUB are quite certain Maryland farmers would produce more barley to respond to this new market. Barley and other small grains serve as very effective cover crops, which prevent nutrients and sediment from getting into the Chesapeake Bay, so a Maryland-based ethanol plant will do more for the environment than just improve air quality; it will also improve water quality, according to the report.

Following the Ethanol Workshop, members of the MGPUB will meet experts in the field to determine how to proceed with this project.

"This is a massive project — one the Maryland Grain Producers Utilization Board can't handle alone," Hutchison said. "We feel it is important to get the expertise needed to make this a successful operation. There is obviously much work to be done, but we are confident ethanol has a place in Maryland."

For more information on the Maryland Ethanol Workshop, persons may contact the organizers at BBI, 1-800-567-6411.

milk, adding value to that milk and generating positive returns for members," Gherty said. "We will continue to explore ways that we can work together to achieve those goals. Our focus will be to develop business relationships that generate new efficiencies and enhanced market strength, putting our farmer-owned cooperatives in a better position to compete effectively and deliver maximum value to members and customers."

Officials of the four cooperatives voiced a commitment to continuing the work of Advantage Dairy Group, an East Coast milk-marketing joint venture established in January 2000 and currently involving Maryland and Virginia, Land O' Lakes, Lone Star, Arkansas Dairy, and Southeast Milk Inc. (which was not involved in the merger discussions).

Lone Star Milk Producers general manager Jim Baird added that Advantage Dairy Group is a "prime example" of cooperatives working together to compete more effectively, and it was a common desire to expand on that successful relationship that spurred interest in a merger plan.

"We have a proven record of working together," Baird said, "and we will continue the successful efforts of Advantage Dairy Group."

Land O' Lakes is a national, farmer-owned food and agricultural cooperative, with sales approaching $6 billion. Land O' Lakes does business in all 50 states and more than 50 countries. It is a leading marketer of a full line of dairy-based consumer, food service, and food ingredient products across the U.S.; serves its international customers with a variety of food and animal feed ingredients; and provides farmers and local cooperatives with an extensive line of agricultural supplies (feed, seed, crop nutrients, and crop protection products) and services.

Maryland and Virginia Milk Producers Cooperative Association (www.mdvamilk.com) is a milk marketing and processing cooperative which markets milk for nearly 1,600 dairy farmers in 10 states, from Pennsylvania to Alabama. Headquartered in Reston, Va., the cooperative includes a fluid milk processing plant in Newport News, Va.; two manufacturing plants in Laurel, Md., and Strasburg, Va.; and an equipment warehouse in Frederick.

Lone Star Milk Producers, Windthorst, Texas, markets 700 million pounds of milk for 130 dairy farmers in Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas, Missouri, Arkansas, Louisiana, Mississippi, and Alabama.

Arkansas Dairy Cooperative Association, Damascus, Ark., represents 300 million pounds of milk and 185 producers in Arkansas, Missouri, Kansas, and Oklahoma.

Notes from Bittinger

by Joan Sussman

The Bittinger Fire Department will sponsor a chicken barbecue this Saturday, Sept. 15, beginning at noon and concluding at 7 p.m., as a fund-raiser for Jim Brenneman, who is suffering from cancer. For tickets or reservations, persons may call Thelma Emory at 301-245-4478.

James Glotfelty continues to recuperate at his home after being a patient for several days in Mon General Hospital, Morgantown, for treatment of a heart condition. He will return there in about a month for further related procedures. Lisa, Adam, and Amanda Platter of Smithsburg were weekend guests of the Glotfeltys.

Tom Glotfelty and son Tim spent a few days last week fishing at Caribou Lake in Ontario, Canada.

Monday afternoon this week began in a rush. The girls rushed in the house after the school bus dropped them off, with homework and papers flying around on the couches and the floor. Meanwhile, Mere won the race for the computer when the phone line was not tied up. Claire and Caitlin fought for a chance to use the phone, too. Then we had to get ready for a birthday party! If their school outfit did not suit them, then we had a blizzard of flying clothes. I managed to get the present into a gift bag and get the card ready.

We were on a tight time schedule because we had to go to Rodney and Marci Glotfelty's for Blakely's birthday dinner. The kids had a 4-H meeting at 7, so we had the meeting in between dinner and birthday cake and ice cream. I was so stressed out and worn out that, instead of socializing with the older members of our extensive family, I lay down to watch the evening news. Before I knew it, the house was filled with children's voices, teasing each other. Then everyone rushed to stuff themselves with delicious devil's food cake and two kinds of ice cream. We then had to rush home to finish homework and get organized for another school day.

The middleschoolers have picture-taking on Tuesday. You couldn't want a more beautiful, sweet, birthday girl than Blakely. She looked cute last night, but not as cute as when she was a baby, with all those dark curls and bright dark eyes.

Unlike my girls, I used to dress up for my school picture. But this morning Caitlin wore an old pair of blue jeans and a plain light blue shirt. Even though they did not scramble to find the perfect outfit, they still scattered enough clothes around the living room to dress half of the Bittinger kids. I thought to myself that this room looks like a bomb went off in it. But then the bad news hit on television.

Except for the school shooting in Colorado, no news shook me up as bad as today. Every minute it just gets worse. Then all at once our electricity went off. It was not just at my house, but spread all the way to Grantsville and around Bittinger. That is what I got from panic phone consultations with a few neighbor girlfriends, from Sally Poholsky, to Marci Glotfelty, to myself, and to Patty Diehlman. All were very sure that we were in a war.

I found out that Accident had power. It was a little hard to believe that a terrorist could attack the Bittinger power grid. But my living room is in pretty good shape compared to family in Bittinger, as David Whittemore was supposed to go to New York City this week for a real estate closing. Luckily he did not go today and is, in fact, safe and sound in Bittinger.

I am glad I do not still live in New York or in the D.C. area, even though I do not feel safe even in Bittinger. Nowhere is really safe anymore. Too many madmen scattered across the globe. As Patty said, the hijacked plane that crashed in Somerset County could just as well have crashed here, especially since we are under a major airline route.

Now it is a major relief that I got my electric power back on. It would be a very long night here without electricity.

No one can control life and no one knows that better than I. In April 1994 I was totally in control with a very complex life until a blood vessel in my brain blew out, and in one second I lost all control. I couldn't make my left arm or leg move. Then just as I almost regained control of at least my home life, disaster hit again without any warning. Is it any wonder that I am in a real panic attack when America is out of control.

I know what it did to my generation when we grew up under the shadow of a threatened mushroom atom bomb cloud. Even when Khrushchev pounded his shoe on a table and said, "We will bury you." it seems to me now we were lucky that we just had Russia as our enemy. Now they seem pretty rational and possible to work with. The only thing we can do is just pray, "Lord have mercy on us."

A favorite book of mine is by J.D. Salinger, in which when the main character felt her life was out of control, she "prayed without ceasing" and said over and over again, "God have mercy on me." It covers just about anything that is wrong.

But it was good to be with my family last evening, including Pappy Dale, who still has another week home before he has to go back to the hospital for another round of treatment. That means that we can enjoy Aunt Helen Englar for lower Manhattan if it is true that both towers of the World Trade Center have collapsed. Two hundred stories worth of debris is a really big mess.

It was good news for one another week since she plans to stay and nurse him until he has to go back to Morgantown next Monday.

Hopefully, Pastor Pat will soon be home from vacation, as I need some spiritual guidance.

Majority Of BOE Personnel From Garrett

Dr. Wendell Teets, superintendent of the Garrett County Board of Education, updated the commissioners Tuesday on personnel and student population issues.

Teets presented the commissioners with a report he compiled indicating that a majority of board of education personnel have been hired from within the county.

Teets listed the percentages of staff who have been hired during the past five years from within the county, within the rest of the state, and from outside of the state. The report showed that 64% of teachers, 72% of administrative personnel, and 96% of support staff have been Garrett Countians.

The superintendent pointed out that while his figures show that 14% of the teachers hired were listed as Marylanders from other counties, almost half were actually Garrett Countians who returned to the area after teaching elsewhere for many years, which raises the percentage of county residents being hired as teachers to almost 71%.

"I always look at what's best for the kids," Teets said, "and what is best for a situation," regardless of where potential personnel are from. He also pointed out that committees actually hire personnel. According to Teets, he only has the final vote, and then he usually agrees with the committees' recommendations.

The data were compiled, he added, to show that, contrary to what some believe, the board does hire local people.

Commissioner Fred Holliday told Teets that he appreciated the time he put into compiling the study, and noted that now the commissioners had hard data to present to citizens who were concerned that too many out-of-county personnel were being hired.

Commissioner Wendell Beitzel asked Teets what the status of the student

HONORING AND ASSISTING brother and sister firefighters in New York City this week are numerous volunteer firefighters in and around Garrett County. There was a special observance held along U.S. Rt. 219 beside the Garrett County Fairgrounds in McHenry on Saturday, organized by the Deep Creek Volunteer Fire Company, at which the ladders of trucks from both the Oakland and Piedmont, W.Va., fire departments were extended above the highway, with American flags at the tips. The local volunteers have also been collecting money to aid the NYC fire departments and the families of those lost in last Tuesday's terrorist attack on the World Trade Center. A total of $12,000 has already been collected, just by the Deep Creek VFC. A number of churches and other organizations are similarly raising funds for the cause, details of which can be found on pages A-8 and A-9. Photos courtesy of Todd Hetrick.

Town & Country Printer Now Part Of Sincell Publishing Co.

Robert B. Sincell, president of the Sincell Publishing Co. (publisher of The Republican newspaper), has announced that Paul Wampler, owner and operator of Town & Country Printer, is now a member of the Sincell Publishing commercial printing staff. Sincell Publishing has purchased Town & Country, with the joining finalized late last month, and Wamper has relocated his equipment to the Oakland establishment, located along Second Street.

"We are pleased and fortunate to have a man of Paul's caliber, both as a printer and a person, join our staff," stated Don Sincell, editor-in-chief of The Republican, and secretary-treasurer of the company. "He and his wife Doris have a large customer base for two reasons: the quality of his work is outstanding, and they are such fine people."

Sincell Publishing has operated its print shop since the late 19th century. The "job shop," as it is known in the printing field, was initiated in about 1890 by the newspaper's second owner,

Oakland Area Up For National Reg. Inclusion

The Water Street district of Oakland is being considered for nomination to the National Register of Historic Places, according to Glenn Tolbert, Main Street Program manager for the town. The designation can make property owners in the neighborhood eligible for state and federal tax credits for improvements done to their buildings.

The nomination follows a grant received by Main Street to hire a consultant to study the feasibility of the neighborhood receiving the designation. Property owners in the area have received letters from the Maryland Historical Trust announcing the expected nomination, Tolbert said. The governor's consulting committee, which makes the final decisions, is to meet on Oct. 2 in Crownsville to decide on the local nomination.

Much of Oakland is already on the National Register of Historic Places, Tolbert said. The addition of the Water Street area was sought by the Main Street staff at the request of property owners who hope to obtain tax credits for building improvements.

"It's ironic that the Water Street neighborhood is not on the register as is much of the rest of Oakland, because it's actually the oldest part of the town," Tolbert said.

GBI Seeks Leads In Burglary At Dollar General

Garrett Bureau of Investigation is seeking any information in regard to a break-in sometime Thursday night to early Friday morning at the Dollar General Store, located at the Brodak Plaza in Oakland.

According to GBI, unknown suspects broke in and stole a small safe containing several thousand dollars in cash and checks.

Persons with information regarding this crime are asked to contact the sheriff's office at 301-334-1911 or GBI at 301-334-1909.

Two Indicted By Grand Jury Are Arrested

A 17-year-old male from Prince George's County was arrested on an indictment issued by the September term Grand Jury last week. Andrew Elverton McLean appeared before Judge Fred Thayer (ret.) in Circuit Court for arraignment, and bond was set at $100,000.

McLean was charged with first degree assault, first degree burglary, conspiracy to commit burglary, second degree burglary, attempted car-jacking, second degree assault, reckless endangerment, attempted motor vehicle theft, two counts of attempted felony theft, misdemeanor theft, destruction of property, and escape. These charges are alleged to relate to events on April 26 of this year, following the reported escape by three juveniles from the Backbone Mtn. Youth Facility.

Although already charged with these crimes, State's Attorney Lisa Thayer Welch explained the indictment as "necessary to avoid any potential appeal issues, as McLean was recently served with copy of a Circuit Court charging document that did not have all of the pages, and, therefore, all of the counts included."

In another unrelated case, Charles Howard Burgess III, 19, Mtn. Lake Park, was arrested last week for charges brought by indictment of the Grand Jury. The theft-related charges included two counts of theft over $300, one count of theft under $300, and one count of transferring a regulated firearm without waiting the prescribed period of time. Burgess is alleged to have stolen money and two handguns from a residence in which he was a guest in May 2000, and then traded one of the guns to a minor for a tractor.

After an arraignment, Burgess was released on a $20,000 property bond. A trial date will be set in the near future.

Holiday Work Now Under Way For Local Santa

Christmas Day is still over three months away, but the delivery of holiday gifts by Lou Stouffer, known as the area's "real" Santa Claus, began this week.

Stouffer made nearly 900 deliveries to Preston and Garrett Countyh families in need during last year's holiday season, and with his "advancing age," he said he has to start earlier and earlier every year.

"I recently observed my 79th birthday, and I just can't move quite as quickly as I used to," said Stouffer, who was named President George W. Bush's 70th Point of Light during his administration. Stouffer has served in this capacity for over 25 years, spending much of his own money for gifts and gasoline, and also depending upon the generosity of others to make donations of gift items and money.

Commissioners To Host Event With MDOT Officials

The annual visit by officials from the Maryland Department of Transportation and State Highway Administration to present information on current and upcoming transportation projects is set for 9 a.m. tomorrow, Friday, Sept. 21, in the meeting room of the Garrett County Board of Commissioners. The meeting is open to the public, and will be followed by a question and answer period.

Known as the DOT's "Tour" meeting, the local gathering is one of 24 such informational meetings facilitated by state transportation officials in each Maryland county and Baltimore City. DOT secretary John D. Pocari, SHA administrator Parker Williams, and transportation officials responsible for projects within the county will be on hand to present DOT's draft six-year capital program.

Among the expected highlights of the DOT presentation, which will detail how the state intends to allocate $12.6 million on already approved transportation improvements in Garrett County over the coming fiscal year and into FY 2003, along with total project cost estimates, are: construction of a truck climbing lane and a truck stop/brake check area along Friendsville Road at Elder Hill, $2.24 million; intersection reconstruction at Bittinger and North Park roads at the Northern Garrett Industrial Park, $1.34 million; resurfacing of Gorman Road from Bethlehem Road north to Maryland Highway, $1.26 million; completion of the deck replacement of the Bloomington Road bridge over the CSX railroad tracks in Bloomington, $1.24 million; intersection improvements along National Highway at the intersections with Bittinger and Springs roads in Grantsville, $1.44 million; and resurfacing of all traffic lanes of I-68 between the West Virginia state line and Friendsville Road, $3.32 million.

In addition to the normal agenda, the Garrett, Allegany, and Washington county meetings will include a short briefing on the recently completed feasibility study for the Appalachian North-South interstate highway corridor. That study recommends a new interstate highway route following Route 219 from the Pennsylvania state line south to Interstate 68 at Grantsville. The new route would then share existing I-68 east into western Allegany County, then swing south to eventually join with

Financial Services Report County Has Over $3.5 Millon In Surplus

The Garrett County commissioners in their weekly public meeting on Tuesday heard a monthly update report from the Garrett County Department of Financial Services' staff members.

Director Wendy Yoder gave the commissioners an overview of the county's financial status. She told the commissioners that a final audit was needed, but the county had a surplus of between $3.5 to $3.8 million, as of September. Commissioner Wendell Beitzel asked Yoder what the primary source was for the excess revenue. Yoder indicated that a variety of factors led to the windfall, such as revenue from real estate taxes and over budgeting for 2001.

Scott Weeks also reported to the commissioners that in March the department was able to purchase a two-year CD with a 5.6% fixed rate. Weeks pointed out that the department was fortunate to lock into such a good rate at the time, since most CDs now offer only a 3% return. Another advantage of the offer, Weeks told the commissioners, was that the county can make an unlimited number of deposits to the CD within the two-year period, yet still receive the same 5.6% rate.

The finance department is now considering deposit-

Rabies Clinics Scheduled By Health Dept.

The Garrett County Health Department has slated its third series of low cost rabies clinics for the vaccination of cats, dogs, and ferrets from Monday, Sept. 24, through Saturday, Sept. 28. The clinics will be offered according to the following schedule: Monday at Grantsville Elementary School; Tuesday at the Swanton Community Center; Wednesday at Crellin Elementary School; Thursday at Friendsville Elementary School; Friday at the Kitzmiller Community Building; and Saturday at Broad Ford Elementary School. The clinics are set from 5 to 6 p.m., each evening, except for Saturday's clinic at the Broad Ford School, which will be held from 10 a.m. to noon.

The vaccination cost is $5 per animal, and county dog licenses will be available at each clinic. Dogs should be on a leash and under the control of a responsible individual. Cats and ferrets should be brought to the clinic in a cage or a tightly secured box with air holes.

Although Maryland law requires dogs, cats and ferrets to be vaccinated against rabies at 4 months of age, vaccinations may be safely and effectively administered at 3 months of age. Dogs and cats need to be revaccinated at least once every three years after the initial one-year vaccination. Ferrets need to be revaccinated every year.

Failure to vaccinate pets against rabies in Maryland may be punishable by a fine of up to $500 per animal. Last year Garrett County experienced 12 laboratory-confirmed positive rabies cases, and three cases have been confirmed so far this year.

Commissioners Condemn Attacks, Pass Resolution

The Garrett County Commissioners issued a resolution Tuesday condemning the terrorist attacks exactly one week ago. The commissioners also resolved to support President Bush's efforts to defend the nation against additional attacks and "find the perpetrators to bring them to justice."

The commissioners recognized, in their resolution, that not only were thousands of innocent Americans killed in the attacks, but that the entire nation has been affected as well.

The resolution stated, however, "It is important that we carry on with the regular activities of our lives. Terrorism cannot be allowed to break the spirit of the American people, and the best way to show these cowards that they have truly failed is for the people of the United States and their counties to stand tall and proud."

It was further resolved by the commissioners to recommend that citizens support relief efforts by giving blood at the nearest available blood donation center.

The three commissioners each wore red, white, and blue ribbons on Tuesday to symbolically show their support.

INDESCRIBABLE HORROR was captured on film by Garrett County native Matthew Sincell a week ago Tuesday as he, like many others, stood helplessly across the Hudson River from the island of Manhattan and watched the murderous, terrorist assault upon America. Sincell had moved to Weehawken, N.J., just two days prior to begin pursuit of an acting career. He stepped out of his apartment on the morning of September 11 to go into the city, and glanced across the Hudson to see smoke billowing from the World Trade Center Twin Towers. A written report of his experience was published in last week's issue of The Republican, and contained in this week's issue are his photos. See them, as well as a number of other eyewitness accounts, on pages A-8 and A-9.

Band Instruments Needed For Local Elementary Youth

There are many local elementary school youngsters who are interested in learning to play a band instrument and participate in their school band, but many of them are unable to afford an instrument, according to Duane Salisbury, acting band director at Yough Glades and Kitzmiller elementary schools. So Salisbury is asking persons who may have used band instruments sitting in their attics, closets, or basements to consider donating them to one of the schools.

"The interest level is really high, but a number of these kids' families just don't have the extra money to buy an instrument," said Salisbury, who is also the assistant director of the Southern High School band. "We're sure that there are many used instruments in people's homes that aren't being used. Donating them for this purpose would be a wonderful gift for a child who wants to learn to play."

Needed are most brass and woodwind instruments, he said, adding that such donations are tax-deductible. "I can appraise the instruments and provide a letter stating their value to the donor," he said.

He added that monetary donations to purchase instruments would also be welcome.

Persons who have an instrument or money to donate, or who desire more information, may telephone the school at 301-334-3334 and leave a message for Salisbury, who will return the calls.

ARC HONORS GRANTSVILLE VOLUNTEER — Grantsville resident Lela Bender was recognized by the American Red Cross Greater Alleghenies Region office recently with a certificate for her four decades of volunteer service with blood drives in her town. Bender served as a donor recruiter for her first 10 years of service, and for the last 30 years she has been coordinating the regular (every 56 days) blood drives at the Grantsville fire hall by arranging for volunteers, publicity, supplies, and canteen items. "I got involved in Red Cross volunteering because my son Kenneth suffered from hemophilia until he died in 1972 at the age of 23," Bender said. "My husband Philip and I know how important blood donation is, and we encourage everyone to donate if able. The success of the Grantsville bloodmobiles is because of the donors and our volunteers, some of whom drive over 15 miles to serve." Pictured in the foreground, from the left, are Bender and ARC Western Potomac Chapter blood services director Shannon Watkins. In the background are ARC Garrett County chapter volunteer coordinator and board member Elizabeth Huxford, and ARC Greater Alleghenies Region representatives Suzan Clemens, Leslie Nicholson, and Chris Manges. Not pictured is Grantsville VFD Ladies Auxiliary president Jenny Swauger, who also received a volunteer recognition certificate. The next Red Cross bloodmobile visit to the Grantsville fire hall is set for Monday, Oct. 22.

Deputies Arrest Several People On Assault Charges

Garrett County sheriff's deputies made numerous separate arrests this week on various assault charges.

David Frances Moon, Mtn. Lake Park, was arrested for allegedly assaulting his daughter on Friday afternoon, according to sheriff's deputies.

Deputies discovered after investigating numerous hang-up calls to 911 from a Mtn. Lake Park residence that Jessica Lynn Moon, 19, had been allegedly assaulted by her 45-year-old father.

According to the deputies' report, she sustained injuries to her lips.

David Moon was charged with second degree assault and was released after posting $1,000 bond.

In a separate incident, Christopher Lee Guthrie, 23, Oakland, was arrested by deputies and charged with first and second degree assault.

Deputies along with officers from the Maryland State Police and Oakland City Police responded to Crellin Mine Road in reference to a complaint concerning a man pointing a gun at several individuals at that location.

According to the report, Guthrie had just left that location, but investigation revealed that he had been there and had been pointing the gun at several individuals, threatening to shoot them. Police searched the area, but were unable to locate him.

Guthrie was arrested on Tuesday by deputies, and is currently incarcerated in the Garrett County Detention Center on $50,000 bond.

Two individuals of an Oakland residence were also arrested by deputies and charged with second degree assault on Tuesday.

Dfc. Corley responded to a report of a domestic altercation between Jessica Renee Lyons, 19, and David Shillingburg, 24. According to the report, Lyons hit Shillingburg three times in the face and was arrested and charged with second degree assault.

Shillingburg was also arrested on a warrant for second degree assault.

Lyons was released on her own recognizance, and Shillingburg was released from jail after posting $500 bond.

Marching Bands Begin Season At Martinsburg

The Northern and Southern high school marching bands opened their 2001 seasons of field show competition Saturday by competing in the Martinsburg (W.Va.) Band Spectacular.

The Northern band, under the direction of Bill Robinson, captured first place in Group I competition with a score of 70.95, while the Southern band, directed by Richard Clever, placed fourth in the Group II division with a score of 73.65.

Northern was also awarded the Best Marching and Maneuvering, and the Best Field Commander (Amanda Bell) specialty trophies.

The Westmar High School band placed second in Group I. Winning the Group II division was Allegany, followed by Greencastle and Musselman. Southern missed third place by 5/100's (.05) of a point.

"I felt that we had a good first performance," stated Clever. "We are very young, but we have solid senior leadership, and we hope to improve each week."

Both bands will be in competition this Saturday at Preston High School in Kingwood.

CONDUCTING HER WAY to garnering the Best Field Marshal award in a band competition at Martinsburg, W.Va., on Saturday was Northern High School drum major Amanda Bell. It was the season-opener for both the Northern and Southern bands, with Northern winning first place in Group I and Southern earning fourth place in Group II competition. Both bands will compete again this Saturday at Preston High School in Kingwood.

September Grand Jury Convenes, Tours Various County Facilities

The September Term Grand Jury of Garrett County convened last week for two days and toured the animal shelter, the landfill, the administrative offices of the Board of Education, the Ruth Enlow Library, the courthouse and the jail. The jurors heard presentations from P. R. Sanders, sheriff; Wendy K. Yoder, director of finance; Patty L. Glover, supervisor of tax collections; and Lamont Pagenhardt, county administrator.

Two indictments were also returned by the jury. The report of these cases can be found in today's issue.

Animal Shelter

Employee Candy Virts showed the grand jurors the facility. The grand jury reported that the shelter appears to be "very clean and efficiently operated." It was noted that most animals in the shelter are strays that are picked up by shelter personnel. Publicity in local papers has had a positive impact, with 8 of 10 animals featured being adopted. This effort is being expanded by the development of a web site for the animal shelter, the jury reported. Virts noted that the shelter has not had to purchase dog food for the last six months, since Wal-Mart donates all product that cannot be sold in the store due to damaged packaging.

Landfill

Solid Waste director Gary Love and his assistant, Randy DiSimone, gave a tour of the landfill facility. The jury report states that the landfill is well maintained and highly organized, and the staff continues to strive for improvements at the landfill and with services to the community. Additionally, there seems to be a plan for the safe disposal of all materials.

The jury noted that the staff is replacing equipment that was purchased when Round Glade opened. The current life of the open cell is projected to be 30 years. The grand jurors commended the staff and encouraged citizens to view the site and its operations.

Board of Education

The grand jurors toured the new offices of the Board of Education with Mike Sines, director of maintenance. The space is being entirely utilized at this time. "The employees and the offices project a very positive, happy attitude," the jury's report stated. They noted that further expansion may occur if and when the bank vacates additional areas of the old building.

The jury thanked prior grand juries for their recommendations and concerns, which kept the issue of the need for new administrative office space in the public view and led to officials selecting the new building when it became available.

Ruth Enlow Library

Library director Cathy Ashby gave a tour of the Oakland Branch. She discussed her concerns that the library is technologically lagging behind the school system and the community. Ashby noted that the cost of accessing electronic communication systems is rising, and the existing library staff lacks the technical skills necessary to support electronic services in the community and to maintain the library's network system.

Materials funding and personnel issues were also concerns of Ashby. She told the jurors that with 225,000 items circulated each year, there should be a materials budget that provides for $.50 for each of those items, or at least $100,000 for materials. According to Ashby, this is the national benchmark for adequate materials funding in public libraries. The current year's budget is $50,000.

Citing a lack of funding, she explained that the hours of operation of some branches are limited, and all duties at branches such as Friendsville and Kitzmiller are handled by one person. She explained current circumstances with an employee about to take leave under the FMLA and the limited budget of $2,200 for substitutes.

While discussing these needs, Ashby also credited the county commissioners for increases in county funding and the community for its involvement, as demonstrated by the fund-raising accomplishments in Grantsville.

Ashby discussed with the grand jury the apparent confusion over the library's status in county government, state government, private organization, etc, and how it is funded through those entities.

The grand jury recommended that the library's board of trustees: establish goals that are in line with similarly-sized communities, develop a long-range strategic plan to achieve those goals, make those goals known to and desired by the community, and recruit volunteers and/or employees with business and technology skills. Additionally, the jurors asked the commissioners to consider that a strong public library system is important to economic development and is part of the county's educational and cultural systems.

Courthouse, Jail

The jurors toured the courthouse and jail and noted the lack of security for the entire building. They also reported that, overall, the courthouse seemed to be in good repair.

Captain Larry Gnegy of the Garrett County Sheriff's Office gave the tour of the detention center. The inmate census was discussed, and the panel determined, as have prior juries, the need for a larger facility. The control room was noted to lack air circulation. The panel also observed the limited space for the kitchen and kitchen storage. "The facility appears well maintained and efficiently operated," the jury reported, however.

They said that they were pleased to see the county planning for a larger facility by appointing a study committee and including a new facility in the current five-year capital plan, as was recommended by a prior grand jury.

Sheriff Sanders met with the grand jury and explained the operations of his agency. Officers do road patrol, criminal investigations, drug task force investigations, paper service, courtroom security, accident investigations, and other duties as assigned. The jury said that they were pleased to see that the officers also participate in community programs such as the SALT, DARE, and Reality.

The jury discussed the value of the School Resource Officer program and the costs versus benefits of this program. They recommended that the commissioners re-evaluate their this program. They recommended that the commissioners re-evaluate their prior decision if another request is made by the Board of Education for these officers. Sanders reported a need for two additional deputies and three additional correctional officers. With the existing staff, there have been incidents where officers have had to make arrests of potentially dangerous individuals without backup from other deputies or state police. The jury reported that they were pleased the commissioners had approved two additional correctional positions for this fiscal year, as recommended by prior jury panels.

Members of the grand jury also discussed their experiences in and information from the community about law enforcement issues. They concurred that removing drugs from the community and drunk drivers from the roads are priorities.

Finance Office

Wendy Yoder, director of finance, explained the legislation that eliminated the position of elected treasurer and the decision process that led to this change. She noted that the decision was made to assure that well-qualified persons were always handling the finances of the county and that it was made with Patty Glover's full participation and agreement. Yoder reported that only eight Maryland counties continue to have elected treasurers.

Yoder provided a chart that showed the revenue sources and categories of expenses for the county. The grand jury noted with approval the large share that goes to education. Yoder described the duties of the finance office and the procedures used to track the income and expenses of the county and various offices and agencies. Rodeheaver & Associates is the current outside auditor. A contract is awarded by bidding process every three years.

Patty Glover, supervisor of tax collections, also spoke to the grand jury, explaining the procedures in her office. In addition to collecting all county and state real estate taxes, the office collects current taxes for Mtn. Lake Park, delinquent taxes for all municipalities, trailer park taxes, personal property taxes, and sanitary district taxes. Glover noted the difficulty of holding the delinquent tax sale late in June and preparing all of the tax bills for mailing by July 1 each year. She noted that delinquent tax sale day may be moved to mid-May.

The jurors also learned that District 18 around Deep Creek Lake continues to account for 50% of the County's assessable base.

County Administrator

Lamont Pagenhardt, county administrator, appeared before the grand jury. He provided a chart showing all of the departments, agencies, and offices that are accountable to the county commissioners or that are funded, in part or entirely, by county revenues.

Pagenhardt noted that the largest percentage increase in recent years in the county budget was for economic development, which has had a positive impact with a number of new employers coming to the county and the state participating in developing facilities and incentive packages. He added that the expansion of the airport would also assist economic development efforts, with the county paying only 5% of the cost.

No Room For Prejudice...

When it was discovered that Timothy McVeigh and Terry Nichols, and not foreign terrorists, were responsible for the bombing of the Alfred Murrow building in Tulsa, there was, to our knowledge, not a single personal attack by outraged citizens against white, Anglo-Saxon protestants. After all, McVeigh was white, born in the U.S.A., and at least claimed to be a protestant Christian. Yet there was not a peep about lashing out at other white, Christian citizens immediately following his dastardly act.

Isn't it odd, then, that there is a sudden fear, a sudden resentment, and in some cases, outright personal, physical attacks being made against American citizens who happen to be of the Islamic faith, or who wear the clothing of one from the Middle East, or whose speech may contain a Middle Eastern accent? The reaction was similar immediately following the bombing of Pearl Harbor in 1941, when innocent Japanese Americans were literally rounded up like cattle and placed behind bars.

Total outrage by all U.S. citizens following last week's horrendous terrorist attack is understandable and certainly warranted. The urge to strike back hard and strike back fast is unavoidable. But prejudice and ignorance should have no part in this nation's retaliation, and certainly aggression against fellow citizens, or even visitors to this nation who happen to be from the Middle East, is not only inappropriate, but also illegal. Some of these people who are natives of other countries but now citizens of this country actually have a deeper appreciation of their citizenship than many of us who were born here, primarily because of terrible conditions that exist in their native lands. One of the most decorated fighting units in World War II was one that consisted of Japanese Americans.

Should we be cautious? Obviously. Should the authorities ask questions and, in some cases, conduct investigations of these visitors? Absolutely. Many of these persons would appreciate being so questioned, because it gives them the opportunity to prove their innocence.

We are pleased that the Bush administration is going out of its way to make a similar statement about these citizens/visitors, and is also being patient about employing whatever retaliation is being planned. As we noted in this column last week, there are many innocent people (just like our own innocent victims of last week's attack) in the nation of Afghanistan, for example, who do not deserve to die just to satisfy our desire for vengeance.

We were also sickened and outraged by the statements of alleged religious leaders Jerry Falwell and Pat Robertson, who said that this attack was "probably what we deserve," and that pagans, abortionists, feminists, homosexuals, the American Civil Liberties Union, and the People for the American Way are all to blame for this attack. Further, they said that "America has insulted God and thus lost divine protection."

This attack on America was in no way "God's will" or a demonstration of his vengeance, and we wish that these smug, self-righteous, self-proclaimed judges of humanity who evidently believe that the U.S.A. was at one time God's "favorite" nation would just shut up.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

I'm writing this in regard to someone poisoning my little dog on Monday morning, Sept. 10. I hope whoever put out beef with poison in it can live with himself knowing what kind of death this would be for a little dog.

Yes, he did go in our neighbor's yard from time to time, but couldn't these people come and tell me to my face to keep him off their property? If you did this to hurt me, your task was a success. I hope nothing that you love is ever taken away from you.

To the Editor:

I would like to commend the Deep Creek volunteer firefighters for their patriotic demonstration and fundraising this past Saturday and Sunday for the victims of the recent senseless terrorist attack.

As I encountered their display of uniformed volunteers and trucks, I was indeed proud to have past involvement and be a charter member of the Deep Creek VFC. How impressed so many were on the professionalism of our local firefighters!

In closing, I would like to extend a huge note of gratitude to the Deep Creek VFC for going beyond their call of duty, and let them know, you are a first-class act!

Sincerely,
Skip Bernard

To the Editor:

In the Aug. 30 Republican, a thought or two:

A) "View From My Window" by Rev. Jeffrey Wilson... "Bees and Theology."

I am a Catholic, and I have read about your contact with the Benedictines and other in my church. I am almost finished reading Stonewall Jackson by James I. Robertson Jr. Thomas Jackson was a member of the Presbyterian Church. His struggle with his strong belief in God vs. his dedication to his belief in the Southern cause is present throughout this work. Many years ago, the Jesuit giving a retreat used Jackson as a person who merited study: by his love of God and his love of duty... a man who was capable of loving and being quite "hard-boiled."

B) Mary Sincell McEwen, "Reunions."

This past Sunday (9/9/01), I attended my 60th reunion — the 8th grade of the parochial school that I went through in Baltimore. Our class of 60 now numbers 44, and 27 of that group were able to join together, along with 15 spouses and others. The old photos helped to bring back memories of East Baltimore and school days.

Since 1941, we have gathered, perhaps a dozen times, at various times. Two couples came from California and two others traveled from Florida. We are planning another reunion in 2003.

Sincerely,
Joseph F. Kovlich

To the Editor:

September 11th and almost a week of remembrance. Today, September 17th, and a day forgotten. Is it good that we remember? Is it good that we forget? September 11th, a day that we are told, like December 7th, will "live in infamy." Yes, "Remember Pearl Harbor." Yes, I remember that day. Sitting in my 6th grade class the next morning, listening on the radio to the president speak those words so often quoted last week. But do we remember? Remember February 15th? Remember February 23rd to March 6th? Remember the carnage and blood letting of September 17th?

Maybe it is good that we forget. Last Friday the Queen of England in remembrance ordered the playing of the American national anthem at the changing of the guard. It is good the English remembered the melody of that old English ballad. It is good they have forgotten the hatred implied in the words. It is good that we Marylanders do not know the words to "Maryland, My Maryland."

There is a time to remember. There is a time to forget. June 28th (pick your year, 1914 or 1389), should we remember or forget? How many have died because of this date in the 20th century? How many will die in the 21st century because of this date? Let those who do not know this date remember and those who remember forget. Let the hatred be forgotten and the lessons remembered.

Sharpsburg and Shanksville, two nearby villages. "Where have all the flowers gone? Long time passing." September 17th; Sharpsburg: withered, dried up, gone, and forgotten. September 11th; Shanksville: blooming, bright, vivid, and remembered. But they too will go as the dead of Sharpsburg. "Long time passing." "When will we ever learn?"

Our fellow Marylanders:

In the wake of this week's horrific terrorist attacks, the people of Maryland and the nation have demonstrated why America is a beacon of hope and humanity throughout the world. We have emerged from one of the most tragic events in our country's history stronger and more determined to embrace our diversity and build unity. As we continue to grieve, our thoughts and prayers are with the families and friends who have suffered profound losses this week. We are also united in our support for our national leaders as they seek justice for these acts of cowardice.

The people of Maryland have once again come together and rallied to help their fellow Americans in times of tragedy. We extend our heartfelt thanks to the firefighters, police, public safety and rescue workers, and medical personnel who have courageously responded to the scene of these tragedies in New York, Virginia, and Pennsylvania. We also express our gratitude to the Marylanders who have given blood, volunteered, and donated vital resources.

Throughout the hour following these tragic events, Marylanders responded with compassion and courage, prayers and support, exemplifying what is best about our state and our nation. In the next days and months, we will face the challenges of heightened security in our public buildings and places. We also anticipate difficult delays at BWI Airport. We ask that all Marylanders continue to respond calmly, follow the directions of public safety officials, and continue to demonstrate the outpouring of support for our fellow Americans in need.

Marylanders stand resolute behind the president and our national leaders as they help our nation heal and pursue justice. Together we will emerge from this tragedy stronger, more determined, and more united in the beliefs and values that symbolize America to all of the world.

To the Editor:

Our common enemy has quietly and methodically crossed our borders and set up camps in our colleges and universities, attended our flight training schools of which some were on military installations. These terrorists have easily rented houses and cars with little suspicion as they blend into our communities. Our clerks and instructors are expected to possess the expertise of an FBI agent while making minimum wage.

To send thousands of young men and women to the deserts again to fight hand-to-hand combat with those who have no value of life itself is ludicrous.

Our War Room thinkers sound like the 20th century. This is the 21st century. It is a world effort. Terrorists have invaded Mother America. Make no mistake about it, "If it walks like a duck and quacks like a duck, chances are it is a duck and if the duck wears a turban, chances are it is a duck wearing a turban... "We want action, but we need to first be able to identify the perpetrators.

Harry Truman was heavily criticized for killing hundreds of thousands of civilians by leveling two major cities in World War II. The action taken probably saved lives.

I only hope for all of us that our new president will not only root Osama bin

View From My Window

by Jeffrey Wilson

IF

In my kitchen, while a bushel of apples made their way to sauce, I heard an account of a sermon preached the day before. It was a cousin who rendered the account as she helped me with apples.

The preacher had driven from his home to the church on the Lord's Day morning, and had passed various people who were engaged in activities that suggested they would not be in God's house anywhere that day. Their activities were not illegal or immoral, only an indication that they would use the first day of the week for a purpose other than worshipping God.

A breach existed between the people in the church listening to a sermon and the people engaged in recreation. A problem for the church people was that they did not really have a framework to comprehend the attitude of the non-churchgoers. For the church-goers, going to church was something that you just did. Going to church was, what one writer had called, "a habit of the heart."

Those roller-blading or bicycling on the Lord's Day morning were engaged in a habit of the heart too, but of a different kind. The preacher said that neither of these two different kinds of activity had to be that way. There was a kind of balance in society which might swing one way or the other at any time. The preacher pondered whether the church-goers would take the kind of decisive action which might turn the tide of our culture toward God through Christ.

What I got from my cousin's recounting of the sermon was that circumstances do not necessarily have to be what they are; it is just possible, at least some of the time, that they can be what we make of them. Processing applesauce became the metaphor for that possibility. Apples that were partly spoiled or about to spoil became delicious food, 20 quarts of delicious food, for present and future eating.

On one small word hung the difference between apples thrown on the compost pile and applesauce: "if." If I spent the day processing apples, there could be 20 quarts of sauce. If I didn't there would be a little more compost. The destiny of that church, and every church for that matter, hangs on the same two-letter word. If Christians take decisive action, then the course of events may turn one way. If they do not, then the course of events will surely turn in the other direction.

That was fully a fortnight before last week's tragedy. Who has not played out the many questions of "if" in relation to those singular events? Destiny now hangs on "if" again: if President Bush makes the right decisions, if Americans maintain their resolve, if the free world stands together, and on and on.

My sixth grade teacher introduced me to a poem by Rudyard Kipling, titled "If," which speaks to just such a time and circumstance as ours today. The poem is a long series of conditional clauses (each beginning with "If") with two final concluding clauses. Here are parts of the poem which are especially appropriate for Americans at this time. "If you can keep your head when all about you/ Are losing theirs..., Or being hated don't give way to hating,..., Or watch the things you gave your life to, broken,/ And stoop and build them up with worn-out tools;/ If you can force your heart and nerve and sinew/ To serve your turn long after they are gone,/ And so hold on when there is nothing in you/ Except the Will which says to them: 'Hold on!'/... If you can fill the unforgiving minute/ With sixty seconds' worth of distance run,/ Yours is the Earth and everything that's in it,..."

There is an admixture of determination, skill, and discernment in the course of action outlined and advocated by Kipling. What he does not quite say but which I think is implicit in his poem is that getting the big items of life plumb and square is not enough. The final outcome probably depends just as much on getting the small things of life plumb and square.

Canning 20 quarts of applesauce may turn out to be of more consequence than it appears. That is partly because of the conversations that take place while working on such domestic projects, but it also has to do with orienting our lives by the compass discovered in the pursuit of small, good things.

As the preacher said, circumstances do not have to be as they are. There exist other possibilities in what we may make of them. Those possibilities hang on the scales of history carefully balanced on the pivot of "if."

QUESTIONABLE FUTURE
The Outsider
(Tim Kepple)

A nation
rudely awakened one morning to questions upon questions too stunned to ask.
An act of terror
in a world gone mad; movie dream images become reality:
Towers that reached the sky fallen to the ground,
Planes flown straight to hell
by their demon pilots.
Fiction become too strange reality
In a questionable future.
No one to give us answers.
No where to feel safe.
No one to blame.
No one to ask for sanity's statements.
No answers.
No answers, no more.
Televised images seeming less than real,
Unknown faces,
Bodies, caught between fire & fall, leaping hand in hand from certain death to certain death, finding one last moment
of love in their lives.
Too many lives.
A level of death
so great numbers are unable to measure its enormity.
Minds unable to embrace the horror,
the destruction,
the impossibility,
unable to accept hatred can exist to such a level, unable to comprehend fanaticism seen as justice
from one point of view, seen as evil
from another.
We cry tears for friends.
We cry tears for family.
We cry tears for strangers.
We cry tears,
Questioning
how easily
it could have been us, or we,
or you,
or I.
Questioning now
if the people we love would know for sure how deeply if we were to leave suddenly and never have been able to say.
Questioning
our own vision of the world.
Questioning
if an act of terror will bring us fear or bring us together.
Questioning
the answers we receive.
Questioning
if we will find one last moment of love in life when faced with a questionable future.

THE DISH

Rated PG-13 - Running Time: 1:44 - Released 3/14/01
(Local Release: 9/14/01)

The Dish, originally released in Canada and Australia in the fall of 2000, is one of those quiet little foreign independent films that eventually, unobtrusively filters its way to American theaters with a minimum of hoopla. These are often the best films we ever see, being unburdened by the pressures and predictabilites of big-budget, star-studded Hollowwood spectacles, free to focus instead on what indie films do best: presenting interesting stories and likeable, believable characters. The sophomore effort of Australian writer/producer/director Rob Sitch, whose first film, 1997's The Castle, didn't make it to U.S. theaters until 1999, The Dish tells the story of the Parkes radio telescope in southeastern Australia, which, during the 1969 Apollo 11 moon landing, was one of the world's only links to the goings on of the space mission. Written by Sitch and his longtime radio/TV partners Santo Cilauro (who also served as second unit director), Tom Gleisner, and Jane Kennedy, it blends a small cast of quirky characters with authentic TV footage and radio recordings of the globally significant event, highlighting the irony of how, for a short time, the entire world was focused on the signal received and relayed by a handful of regular guys from Down Under. It is truly a joy to watch this recounting of the moon landing, with its worldwide "feelgood" appeal, especially during this most uncertain of times. Perhaps the coincidence of timing provides some sort of wistful contrast to the unfortunate events of last week.

The Dish focuses on two aspects of the story of the Parkes radio telescope and its significant role in one of the greatest events of the 20th century. The first follows the guys who run the dish, headed by Cliff Buxton (Sam Neill). His staff includes wisecracking technician Ross 'Mitch' Mitchell (Kevin Harrington) and shy maintenance engineer Glenn Latham (Tom Long), joined by American NASA man Al Burnett (Patrick Warburton), whose by-the-book sensibilities offend Mitch and intimidate Glenn. Also on the site is locally appointed watchman Rudi Kellerman (Tayler Kane), who takes his NASA-sanctioned job with comic seriousness. The second prong of the story is that of Parkes mayor Bob McIntyre (Roy Billing), who wavers between fretting over the awesome responsibility of hosting such a monumental event and savoring the beneficial press he gets from it, with visits from the American ambassador (John McMartin) and even the Australian prime minister (Bille Brown).

While we follow the telescope crew through various moments of friction, confusion, and occasional major crises leading up to the big event, not to mention Glenn's painfully hesitant flirtation with local beauty Janine (Eliza Szonert), who brings them sandwiches, we also are privy to the mayor's preparation for the visiting dignitaries. Aided by his faithful, proud wife May (Genevieve Mooy), educated on spaceflight by his young son Billy (Carl Snell), and defied by his socially conscious, budding feminist daughter Marie (Lenka Kripac), Mayor Bob undergoes several victories and embarrassments, but always with an eye on making a good showing to the Australian government, NASA, and the world. The one event that touches both sides of the story is the power outage that cuts off the electricity to both the town (during a prestigious dinner party) and the dish (causing them to lose contact with the spacecraft). What results is a kind of comic terror—a perfect contrast of snide wisecracking by those unaware of the situation's disasterous potential and tense re-calculations by those who do. Finally, we are treated to the unifying thrill, shared by all, of the world's first walk on the moon, with stock footage of people all over the globe witnessing possibly the greatest scientific achievement of their lifetimes. It is still thrilling.

Besides being based on an always-interesting story and being released (at least locally) at a time when such a story is desperately needed, The Dish is also just a fine piece of cinema in its own right, with a pleasing blend of character and plot, at once comic and introspective, probing some deeply personal psychological issues at the same time as delivering standard comedy and thrilling history. Neill is charming and admirable as the recently widowed team leader, and he is complemented by a talented cast. And besides, the film's got a great soundtrack of not-often-heard period pop classics. Be warned, though: if you want to see this film on the big screen at your local Garrett County theater, you'd better do it tonight (Thursday). After a meager one-week run, it's scheduled for replacement. ★★★★★

I hate to keep harping about Keanu Reeves. It's not that I'm prejudiced against the guy—just the movies he's in. You see, they all suck, and it's his fault. It seems that the industry is finally coming to realize his considerable limitations, so the only films he gets are second-rate schlockfests that don't require any semblance of recognizable technique. Brian Robbins's Hardball is a classic Keanu movie: it features a host of stereotyped characters, a plot basically ripped off from The Bad News Bears, and a boring, stunted romance between a handsome but brain-dead leading man and his pretty but underdeveloped female counterpart. I have no idea of the race or background of freshman screenwriter John Gatins or novelist Daniel Coyle, but this film strikes me as a story about black people written by white people.

Reeves plays Conor O'Neill, an alcoholic gambling addict from Chicago who owes thousands of dollars to various thugs around town and hopes to pay them back by making more huge bets with money he doesn't have. He is gleefully joined in this pursuit by his brother "Ticky" (John Hawkes, who adds to the impressive list of supporting character names he's had over the years, such as Schnucki, Crazy, Flick, Stucky, Bugsy, T-Bone, and Pizza Boy). When Conor approaches a banker friend for a loan, he is given a job instead. What a buzzkill. In return for coaching the "Kekambas" little league team in the projects, he'll get $500 a week plus the warm feeling one gets for "returning something to the community."

The Kekambas, a kind of Cosby Kids for the new millennium whose members are all justifiably suspicious of why the lily-white Keanu is coaching their team (let alone setting foot in their neighborhood), is made up of several easily pidgeonholed character types, so as not to burden us white folks with trying to understand realistically rendered black children. For instance, there's the angry one (Michael Perkins), the sickly one (Julian Griffith), the little one (DeWayne Warren), the nice one (Michael B. Jordan), and the one with the headphones (Alan Ellis Jr.), among others. Names are unnecessary, as they all adhere strictly and dutifully to their types, but one thing they all have in common is the foul-mouthed street talk of the ghetto, which we white folks should know is a product of their environment. Predictably, they start off as a bunch of squabbling misfits who can't catch, throw, or bat, and evolve into a winning machine through Keanu's insightful coaching, all of which apparently takes place offscreen. Meanwhile, he continues to make bets he can't afford and hit on the boys' teacher (Diane Lane), whose excruciating attempt to be coy is hindered greatly by her obvious disinterest in her leading man.

All of this would have given me enough reason to decry the producers' ever having given the green light to this project, but the film tops itself by getting "serious" toward the end. A lamely executed tear-jerking episode, designed to show us white folks the dangers of life in the 'hood, is followed by an inexplicable return to emotional status quo and a "feel good" resolution, betraying the sanctity of what has come before. I mean, if you're gonna play hardball, play hardball. Robbins's direction features unnecessarily shaky handheld camera work, and Gatins's script is replete with sanctimonious ghetto-kid philosophies delivered over weepy violin music.

The last "major" film starring Keanu was 1999's The Matrix. He's scheduled to star in at least two sequels to that film, the first planned for release in 2003. We'll see if he can get some acting lessons by then. Let's hope. ★½

A MESSAGE TO THE COMMUNITY

In this moment of national sorrow, Garrett Community College extends its sympathy to all who have suffered losses, and we join hands with all Americans as we try together to cope with the dimensions of this tragedy and with the changes it implies for our lives. GCC is here for our community. If we can in any way help groups or individuals to come to grips with our collective grief and loss, please tell us how. I also want to apologize to those whose classes at the Oakland National Guard Armory had to be cancelled due to the general lock down of military installations in Maryland and elsewhere. Access will be restored soon.

I hope that all of us will do our best to face our fears for the future and to continue to lead our lives as normally as conditions will allow. I am confident that the perpetrators of these heinous crimes against humanity will be found and punished, but until then the greatest rebuff and defeat we can give them is to show them that Americans are united and resolute. We will not be afraid, and we will not allow our enemies to dictate the quality and meaning of our lives. America will persevere. They will not.

Dr. Steve Herman

population in the county was this year. Teets indicated that the figures were about even with last year's, but over the last few years, the student population has been declining.

Commissioner Ernest Gregg noted that despite a 10% gain in the county's overall population, Southern High now has the lowest student enrollment ever. He said the gain in the county's population was due, in part, to the county becoming a "bedroom community," where many residents own homes here, but work and raise their families outside of the county.

Holliday noted, however, that with the opening of ClosetMaid in Granstville and a new prison in Preston County, an influx of new residents working at those facilities could increase the county's student population as well. Holliday asked Teets that should this happened, could the schools accommodate the increase.

Teets said that there was adequate "growth potential" in the system, and that an increased student body was a very positive problem that he "would like to have to deal with."

ing the county's surplus of $3.5 million into the CD to garner even more revenue. Weeks noted that in doing so, the county could gain as much as $42,000 in interest after two years. He pointed out, though, that the county could withdraw from the fund two times during that time, if needed, without penalty.

AVILTON ROAD BRIDGE OPEN — The new bridge on Avilton Road recently opened for traffic. Attending the ribbon-cutting ceremony were Asa and Leonard Wilhelm, the county roads department crew who worked on the bridge, and county commissioners. The Wilhelms are brothers who have lived most of their lives in an area near the bridge known as Wilhelm Flats. Leonard, 99, helped with the construction of the original bridge in 1909 by carrying water to the work crew. Asa, 90, is a former Garrett County Roads Department superintendent. According to Dwight Emory, county roads engineer, the Wilhelms were pleased to see the new, wider bridge constructed. The plaque from the old bridge, which reads "Manufactured by the Luke Bridge Company for the Garrett County Commissioners in 1909," may soon be displayed in a prominent location somewhere in the county. Shown above, left to right, in the first row are Commissioner Wendell Beitzel, Leonard Wilhelm, Asa Wilhelm, and Commissioner Fred Holliday. Pictured in the second row is the bridge crew: Kevin Beachy, Rick Nugent, Mike Smith, Ed Carr, and Alan Fike. Rick Wagner also worked on the bridge but is not pictured. The total cost of the new bridge was $196,231 and took eight weeks to complete, according to Superintendent Fred Polce.

Lawsuit Abuse Awareness Week Proclaimed

The Garrett County Commissioners on Tuesday proclaimed September 17-21 Lawsuit Abuse Awareness Week.

In their official proclamation, the commissioners asked citizens "to recognize the work of MDCALA."

DO YOU REMEMBER THE LAST TIME YOU SLEPT . . .

LIKE A BABY.

Trouble sleeping drastically diminishes your quality of life. A Gallup survey reported that one out of eight people sleep poorly at least four nights a week. Improper support to the neck, back and knees causes discomfort, which can result in fragmented sleep. Fragmented sleep can cause: loss of memory, irritability, auto accidents, slower reaction time, stress and high blood pressure contributing to loss of life.

Rest more soundly with a low-pressure Kingsdown sleep system. A Kingsdown sleep system can help you relax and go to sleep more quickly just like you did when you were a baby.

Garrett County Responds, Reacts To Attacks On America

Garrett Countians Relay Their Experiences Of Sept. 11, 2001

The world was stunned last Tuesday, Sept. 11, when terrorists attacked the United States by flying airliners directly into the World Trade Center and the Pentagon, killing thousands, destroying buildings, and disrupting the lives of all. A fourth plane was downed in Somerset County, Pa., crashing to the ground only 30 miles, or five minutes flying time, north of the Garrett County border.

A number of Garrett Countians were directly involved in the events, either in New York or at the Pentagon, and some have responded to The Republican newspaper's request for their accounts of the day.

BARBARA ROSTOSKY BRYGIDER, a 1981 graduate of Southern High School, works in the Pentagon as a policy analyst for the secretary of defense in the Office of Acquisition Initiatives. She is the daughter of Michael Rostosky, Deer Park, and the late Helen Rostosky. Her husband, Paul Brygider, also works in the building. A lieutenant colonel in the United States Marine Corps, he is the military assistant to the assistant secretary of the Navy for installations and environment.

"I still keep thinking this is a bad dream and we will soon wake up," Brygider wrote. "I was in the building and felt the shake, but still didn't get it. We were all watching in horror the coverage of the World Trade Center and remarking that at least we were in the safest building in America. Even when the building shook and someone ran through shouting that there was a bomb in the Pentagon, I still didn't get it. I thought some jerk was calling in a bomb threat.

"When I got outside and saw the smoke billowing from the building, someone told me a helicopter had crashed. That is where the heliport is, and I was still thinking 'How awful. First the World Trade Center and now one of our helicopters has crashed.' I still just didn't get it!

"I was trying to get through on my cell phone to find Paul because I knew he had been out of the building in a breakfast meeting and I didn't know where he was. I couldn't get a cell line, but then my sister got through and told me a plane had hit the Pentagon. My mind just couldn't process that this could happen. Still can't.

"Paul had just dropped off one of the secretaries of the Navy and was parking the car around the corner from the side that was hit. He was walking into the building and saw the fire ball. He could feel the heat and see debris falling all over. Just to tell you the difference in training – once I contacted Paul on the cell, I was out of there and running away from the Pentagon, but Paul, my beloved husband, ran toward the fire and was helping put people on stretchers. He was in some news clips that I saw on TV, but of course I wanted him home!"

Brygider has since found out that she of course knew some of the victims in the attack. Going back to work has been difficult, but she and her husband have joined the rest of the Pentagon staff, united and resilient.

"I keep hoping something good will come out of this," Brygider wrote, "that maybe we will have less violence in this country, less materialism, less rudeness . . . maybe."

NANCY C. HARVEY is a native of Garrett County, the daughter of the late Mrs. Hazel Harvey, who resided at Sand Flat. She chronicled her day and e-mailed the story to The Republican, of which she is a subscriber.

"Next month I will have 38 years of government service. Thirty-six of these years have been in the Pentagon. However, I have never faced the experience I had at 9:40 a.m., Tuesday, Sept. 11, 2001.

"My boss was getting ready to leave the Pentagon for the Capitol. In fact, I had a staff car scheduled for 9:20 a.m. We were busy getting ready for the hearing he was scheduled to attend. I was in his office, and he asked me to check to see if he had received a fax he was expecting, which was in an office two doors down the hall. As I entered the office of the fax, I wasn't listening to news on the TV. An employee of that office mentioned that a plane had just flown into the World Trade Center in New York. I rushed back to his office and told my boss. He immediately turned on the TV in his office. A few minutes later the second plane hit the second World Trade Center building. He looked at me and said, 'Nancy, this is no accident. This is a terrorist attack.'

"He left to accompany the Army lieutenant general to the staff car. I sat down at my desk and the Spirit of the Lord reminded me that the Pentagon is always a target. I felt uncomfortable for a few minutes and the phone rang. It was my boss's wife, who asked if we were aware of the events taking place in New York. I said he, her husband, and I had both watched it on CNN just before he left, and also mentioned what he had said to me.

"We were talking on the phone when I heard a loud explosion. I looked at the executive officer in my office, who yelled to me: 'Nancy, quick, get under your desk.' I immediately went under my desk, still on the phone with my boss's wife. I told her something had happened, I didn't know what, but I was under my desk. Then another loud explosion. I couldn't believe what I heard. It was like the building was crumbling. Little did I know, it was.

"I heard people screaming and crying. 'I don't know what has happened, but something bad,' I said. I stood up from my desk and realized I was the only person in my office. Smoke was coming through the door. The executive officer came running, his hair messed up, which it never is. He turned to see me standing at my desk and yelled, 'Quick, Nancy, run! Get out of here!' I ran from my desk, leaving my purse behind, and rushed into the hallway. It was filled with hurrying people. However, it was very orderly — nobody was running. In fact, I was very surprised to see my chief coming back to the office — not leaving. He had a very serious expression but said nothing. I haven't asked him but I am sure he returned to the office to make sure everybody was out and OK. He probably locked the office before leaving.

"An emergency exit was opened at the end of my hallway and we were encouraged by security police to hurry out of the Pentagon and get as far away from the building as possible. I helped a friend of mine down the steps. She said her legs felt like jelly. We got to the bottom of the steps and looked back over the building to see black smoke billowing over the roof of the Pentagon. I looked to the left of the building, where the plane had entered, not knowing what had happened, and saw flames and black smoke. Three of us stopped and prayed.

"Lots of helicopters were overhead, fire trucks were coming, police were everywhere, and the traffic was terrific. We were told to hurry and get as far away from the building as possible. The only place to go was along the highway, which leads to Memorial Bridge. It was a narrow walkway and hard to hurry with hundreds of people trying to do the same thing. We were walking fast when a policeman on a motorcycle came along and said 'Run, people! A second plane is coming!' I had no idea what he was talking about, but we tried to walk faster. There was no room to run and it was too dangerous since space was so limited. I walked alone for some time, occasionally slowing to look back at the Pentagon. A lot of black smoke was still coming from the building. After walking for what seemed like a long way, I met up with the friend whom I had helped down the steps. She suggested we stay together. I thought it was a great idea."

Harvey and most of her co-workers did reunite, she said, all of them hugging one another and marveling at the events of the day. Having left her purse in the Pentagon, she was without her keys or money or wallet, but received help from friends and neighbors to re-enter her home. The following day, Harvey heard that the Pentagon was open, and so she and a co-worker planned to go back to assess the damages.

"We both were anxious to get back to the Pentagon — she needed her driving glasses she had left on her desk, and I sure was anxious to get my purse. Upon our arrival at the Pentagon, we were shocked to see soldiers standing on each side of the River Entrance door holding machine guns. I had never seen this before. It was comforting, but also chilling. Security guards asked if we were essential employees. We said yes, today we were because my friend needed her driving glasses and I certainly needed my purse. They smiled and let us enter after checking our Pentagon passes.

"Getting to our office was another story, however. The smoke was still pouring from the Pentagon. The smell was very, very strong, but we were determined to get back to our office. We got within view of it, but were still 2-1/2 corridors away when we noticed a soldier standing in front of a police tape. He informed us this was as far as we

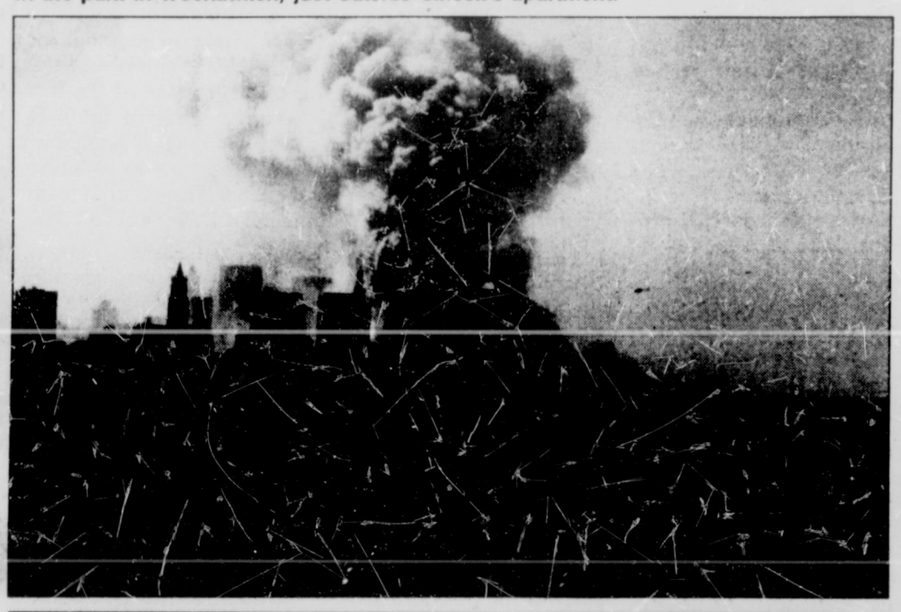
AN ERUPTION OF HATRED - Thousands of stunned U.S. citizens in and around New York City watched in horror last Tuesday morning after terrorists flew two passenger jets into the World Trade Center Twin Towers. Among them was Matthew Sincell, son of Don and Suzie Sincell, Mtn. Lake Park, who had moved to Weehawken, N.J., just two days before the attack. His series of photos, from top to bottom, shows the collapse of the world's tallest buildings after the intense heat from the fires on the upper floors caused the steel structure to give way, killing over 5,000 people. The above right photo shows the many emergency vehicles that quickly responded to the Jersey shore of the Hudson to attend to injured persons from the attack who were transported across the river via ferries. The half-mast flag in the photo below right sits in the park in Weehawken, just outside Sincell's apartment.



Support Available To Help Deal With Terrorism

The Garrett County Mental Health providers in the area are available to support the community in dealing with the traumatic experience of the recent terrorist attacks, a spokesperson for the mental health providers said.

People can have varied experiences when dealing with traumatic events, and the health providers are available to help individual and family needs. According to mental health professionals, it is important to ask questions rather than wonder whether or not the individual's experience is normal. Individuals may also have varied response time reacting to terrorism and trauma.

Persons may contact the Garrett County Mental Health Center, 301-334-1216 or 301-746-8123; Garrett County Lighthouse, 301-334-9126; and Garrett County Memorial Hospital, 911 emergency or after hours.

Persons wanting a referral or to obtain information only may contact the Mountain Top Mental Health Associates at 301-334-8144. The Mental Hygiene Administration of the state of Maryland offers a toll-free crisis hotline number, which young people or their families may call at any hour to speak to a counselor. The number is 1-800-422-0009.

United Way Sets Up Fund To Help Attack Victims

In response to last Tuesday's attacks on America, the United Way, in collaboration with the New York Community Trust and the Council of Foundations, has established a single philanthropic fund, "The September 11th Fund," as a collective national effort. The purpose of the fund is to mobilize financial resources to respond to the pressing needs of victims and their families, as well as those affected by the tragedies.

"Like all Americans, people in Garrett County are asking, 'What can I do?' In fact, they are already," said Dave Thomas, chairman, United Way of Garrett County. "Through our annual campaign, which is currently under way, donors make possible the programs and services that strengthen lives, families, and communities year-round. Now, these same services will help heal the lives shattered by the recent tragedies."

United Way is identifying urgent needs and gaps, as well as the most appropriate resources with which to address them, according to a press release from the organization. Every day, and even more so in the wake of this national tragedy, the release notes, United Ways leverage the helping potential of health and human service agencies, businesses, governmental entities, institutions, and individuals to help meet immediate needs. At the same time, United Ways are addressing long-term solutions to strengthen communities across America.

"In times of crisis, the pressures on existing services are enormous. To respond to the specific needs caused by the attacks, the September 11th Fund gives everyone a chance to contribute above and beyond their current local charitable support," said Harry King, executive director Contributions may be mailed payable to: The September 11th Fund in care of United Way of Garrett County, P.O. Box 394, Oakland, MD 21550-0394.

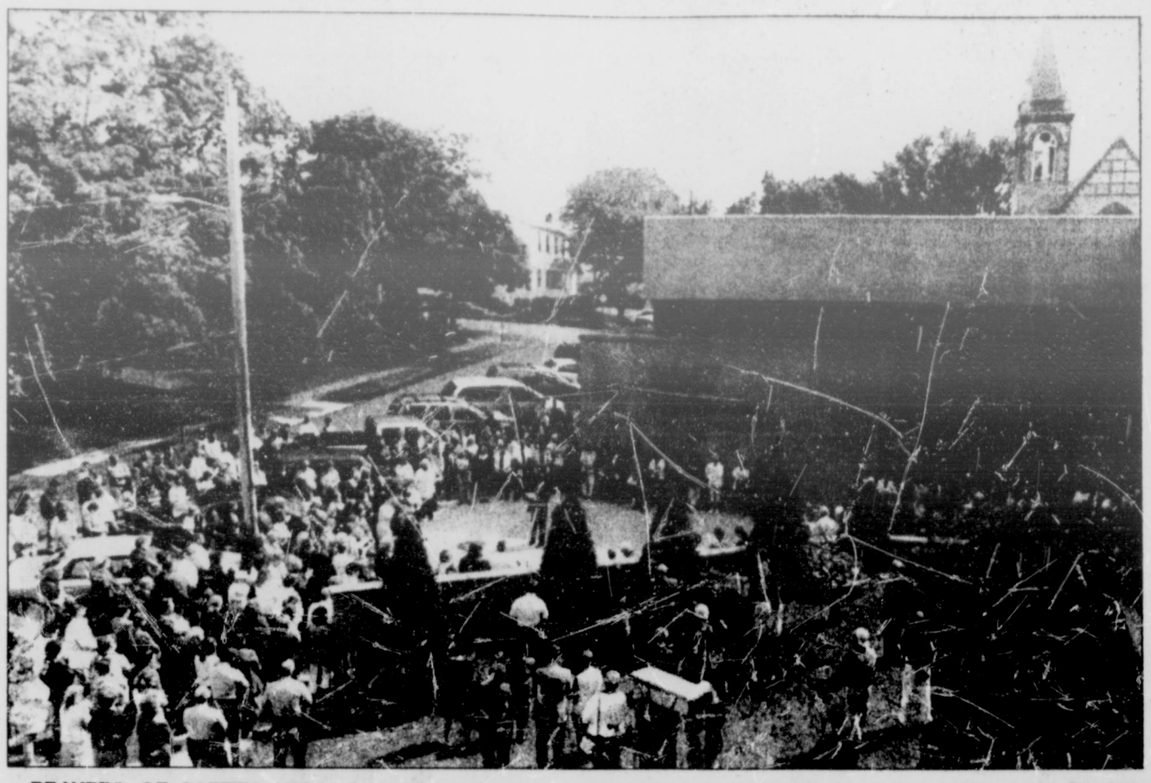
SHOWING THEIR SUPPORT — Grantsville Elementary School students showed their support for the country as they took part in Friday's national five minutes of silence by forming a circle in the halls and passing an American flag down the line. The children "reflected on our nation and felt the patriotism that has emerged from our national crisis," a school staffer said. Seeing an American flag in these small hands reminds us adults that their future hopes of living in a free and safe society are in our hands this and every day.



PRAYERS OF SAFETY AND OF HOPE were among those offered last Friday, Sept. 14, at the Garrett County Courthouse, where a prayer service was held at noon to coincide with similar services across the country. The ceremony was opened with the reading of President George Bush's proclamation asking for a national day of prayer and remembrance of the victims of Tuesday's violence, and condemning terrorism in the world. Prayers and scripture readings followed, led by Mark Watkins and presented by several other pastors. The group of about 200 then sang "America, the Beautiful." Red, white, and blue ribbons were distributed and worn by those in attendance. The national anthem was then played on a nearby church organ. Photo by John McEwen

SHS STUDENTS, FACULTY PAY HOMAGE — Southern Garrett High School students and staff joined the nation in observing five minutes of silence around the flag pole on Friday, Sept. 14, at noon. They reflected upon lives lost and families impacted by the Sept. 11 attacks in New York City and Washington, D.C. Prior to the moments of silence, four students, pictured below, sang the "Star Spangled Banner." They are, from left, Eileen Mouyard, Lyndsie Rush, Kimberly Rush, and Miriam Sincell. Principal Lynn Bell addressed the student body, speaking about the loss of life and the serious nature of the national events. The ceremony concluded with the gathering singing together "God Bless America."

Veterans Encourage Proper Etiquette, But Are Happy To See U.S. Flag Fly

by Penny Riordan
Capital News Service

ANNAPOLIS — Americans are responding to the terrorist tragedies in New York and Washington by displaying the flag in great numbers. Veterans' groups are generally pleased by this consequence, but would like to see Old Glory properly flown.

"I'm just happy to see them flying," said Frank Burchill, Maryland state commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars. "All this sucker did was make this country angry. And that wasn't a good idea."

Displaying a flag is a symbol of hope for everyone, said Lou Koerber, president of the National Flag Day Foundation, based in Baltimore.

"The most important thing we can do now is fly our flags," he said. "Our flag has always been a symbol of our nation."

While flag advocates are glad to say "long may it wave," they want to remind people there are certain guidelines to keep in mind when displaying the Stars and Stripes.

- The flag may be displayed after dark if properly illuminated by a single light shining on it or by a fixture such as a porch light. Without illumination, the flag should be taken down at dusk.
- An older flag that was once the official design is acceptable for display, even if it has fewer than 50 stars.
- When the flag is suspended from a wall or building, the flag union (blue field of stars) should be on the upper left and it should lie flat.

"Obviously, you'd like to see them hung appropriately, but it's the thought that counts," said Thomas Davis, Maryland adjutant of the American Legion.

Folks displaying the flag incorrectly, said Legion Americanism director Michael Buss, are well intentioned.

"Once they find out and realize that, they correct it," he said. "People want to be patriotic and fly their flag, and that's great."

Dinner Set To Benefit Victims Of Terror Events

A fund-raising dinner to benefit the survivors of victims killed in the recent terrorist attacks on the United States will take place Sunday, Sept. 23, beginning at 11 a.m. at the Salisbury (Pa.) fire hall. The proceeds will be evenly divided, with half going to New York City Fire Department families who lost a firefighter, and the other half being distributed among the other families who lost a member in the attacks on New York and Washington, D.C.

Donation amounts for the all-you-can-eat roast beef dinner are set at $6 for adults, $3 for children under 12, and no charge for children under 5. The menu will also include mashed potatoes, noodles, gravy, corn, coleslaw, bread, cake, and beverages.

Several area organizations, including the Salisbury Volunteer Fire Department, are sponsoring the fund-raiser. Over 800 pounds of roast beef have been ordered for the meal, and a minimum target of $5,000 has been set by the Salisbury VFD.

"Support Our Troops," Legion Asks Employers

The leader of the American Legion, the nation's largest veterans organization, has called on American business and industry to help ease financial burdens on National Guard and Reserve troops that may be activated in response to last week's terrorist attacks.

"Many employees are members of the National Guard and Reserve units that may he called into active service," Legion national commander Richard J. Santos said. "I ask American businesses and industry to join the American Legion in offering salary continuation to offset military pay for any employees who may be called to active duty in response to the attack on America," Santos said.

Santos re-activated the American Legion's nationwide Family Support Network after the attacks to assist families of troops expected to be called to active duty. During the Persian Gulf War, the Family Support Network handled more than 34,000 telephone calls and provided a variety of services for family members.

Families of deployed military troops—active duty, Guard and Reserve—that find themselves in need of assistance with everyday needs such as cutting the grass, childcare, or minor home repairs may call a toll-free Legion number at 1-800-504-4098, and their request will be referred to a nearby American Legion Post for assistance.

were going without a security escort."

After waiting for some time, Harvey and her friend were allowed to enter the office.

"We were shocked at what we saw. No electricity. Water was in the hallway and was pouring from the ceiling. Part of the ceiling had already fallen. I felt sick as I looked at my desk. Plaster and water had ruined everything. I quickly put my waste can on top of my desk to try to catch some of the water. It was little use. I put several things on a bookcase behind my desk to dry. I thought I would get them later, but little did I know within two hours the entire area would be closed, with no exceptions to enter."

After gathering personal belongings and some food out of the refrigerator, Harvey was told by the escorting officer that it was too dangerous to stay any longer. She did not find her purse. She was assigned to temporary quarters, where she will stay for some time.

"Another department is sharing this office with us, which means not everybody has a desk and definitely not a computer. However, we are all thankful to be safe and OK. A lot of our friends are missing and some are dead. The Pentagon chaplain stopped by Monday and prayed for us. He left his phone number.

"We will never be the same. In fact, this nation will never be the same. We are here sharing and caring for one another. We are also preparing for war. This is a chilling thought, but it will probably be a reality. President Bush has visited, however I did not see him. I have never had so many hugs, and my phone has not stopped ringing. Even my mailman hugged me. He was aware I had not picked up my mail last Tuesday. I had no keys, but he didn't know that.

"I am very thankful for each and every day, and for the privilege of being a Christian. I have never been more proud to be an American citizen. I have a flag fastened to my balcony railing, and I brought a small flag to my — our — desk today. My boss and I are now sharing a desk and phone."

One former Garrett County resident wrote to express her amazement at the timing of the disaster. LEONA FRAZEE DRONSHELD, daughter of Verna Frazee, Accident, and the late Carl Frazee, said she retired from the Pentagon just in time.

"I grew up in Accident and graduated from Northern High School in June 1957. The day after graduation, I left Accident and went to Washington, D.C., to apply for a civilian job with the United States Air Force at the Pentagon. I retired on Sept. 3, 2001, after 44 years of working for the Department of the Air Force as a program analyst. I worked for 41 years in the Pentagon and three years in Wiesbaden, Germany, in the 1960s.

"My first day of retirement was Sept. 4. Exactly one week later, the people I worked with at the Pentagon had to evacuate their offices on the fifth floor, Corridor 3, which was next to the crash site of Corridors 4 and 5. This office was in the new wedge, and in February, we were the first people to move into this space from the fifth floor, Corridor D — the site of the crash. The people in my old office are being given temporary office space at another location.

"Today, I'm enjoying my home in Nokesville, Va., and am glad I was 38 miles from the Pentagon on Sept. 11. It's also good not being faced with the trauma of seeing the extensive damage to the Pentagon."

HILLARY GARRIS, the daughter of Barry and Linda Garris, Oakland, and a 1996 graduate of Southern High School, is employed by ING, an investment banking company with an office on Madison Avenue, several blocks north of the World Trade Center area in New York City. To get to work, Garris travels from her New Jersey home onto Manhattan Island every day. As it happened last Tuesday, she had decided to take a personal day to work on some things at home and was not in the city at the time of the attack. Her parents were not aware that she was home, however, and were highly concerned for her safety as the events unfolded.

"My legs felt weak," Mrs. Garris said. "I tried to call her cell phone and her home phone, but I couldn't get through. After about an hour, she was able to e-mail us to tell us she was safe."

After the reopening of the stock market Monday, Hillary e-mailed her parents again. She reported that the mood around the city was less panicky and more positive, characterizing it as "very hopeful and very patriotic."

"I've seen enough flashing lights and heard enough sirens to last me a lifetime," Garris wrote, adding that when she passed by 8th Street fire company building, she choked up as she viewed the massive memorial to the hundreds of firefighters now lost underneath the rubble, along with the thousands of WTC employees, visitors, and guests.

Local people received information and sad tales from friends across the nation, mostly by e-mail. JUDY FINKEL, Deep Creek Lake, who has several friends in New York City who suffered affects from the attack, sent an item she received from Eddie Frierson. He is the man whom she said many people in Garrett County will remember as "the wonderful actor who came to Our Town Theatre a year ago for his one-man-show, Matty." His e-mail was as follows:

Subject: PRAY FOR BRAD
Date: Thu, Sep 13, 2001, 1:55 PM
Dear friends,

The one degree of separation is here . . . my dear friend, Brad Burlingame, with whom I had a 6-month run years ago of a wonderful baseball play Bullpen that we eventually took to Boston (a Red Sox comedy) — his brother was the captain of Flight 77 that went into the Pentagon.

Please pray specifically for him and his family to help deal with the grief, healing, and recovery from this awful thing.

Thanks,
Eddie

MARILYN REGENTIN, Oakland, submitted the following essay in response to The Republican's request.

"Our own family footnote in the national tragedy serves in context to remind us of how fragile life is, how uncertain, how golden it can be when people come together, and how bright is the light on a September Sunday afternoon.

"Our drive on Sunday from Somerset, Pa., back to Oakland followed a visit with our federal-agent son working the crash site. His fiance, just returned from a stranded stay in Dallas, went along. Aloft and working as a flight attendant for American Airlines that dreadful day, she had received only unfiltered bits of information, while he, not able to reach for a cell phone for hours, knew only

ASHBY FIRE EXTENDS HELP TO NYC, DC — The Ashby Fire Equipment Company, in Oakland offered its help to the firefighters now working in the cities of New York and Washington by donating air masks and cylinders to the rescue personnel. The local company is also lending the use of two thermal imaging cameras, which detect any sources of heat, such as body heat. "We know this is a drop in the bucket, but we hope to do whatever we can," said Randy Ashby, pictured above with Josephine Ashby, founder and owner of the company. "We all need to stick together in times of need like this," Ashby said. The Ashby Fire Equipment Company is a family-owned business that has operated for over 40 years.

INTO THE NET for a goal goes the ball, shot by Southern High School's Megan Burner against the Northern High Huskies Saturday night on the Rams' field. It was the first of two goals scored with two minutes by the Rams, who were held scoreless for the remaining 78 minutes of action by the upset-minded Huskies. The pair of goals was just enough, as the undefeated Rams held on for a 2-1 victory. Identifiable in the above photo, from left, are: Kayla Kamp of Northern (#11), Southern's Gina Reeves (#11), Carrie Friend of NHS (#15), Husky goalkeeper Randi Beiler, Megan Burner (#10), and Karie Kamp, Kara Kenner (#6), and Lyndsi Butler, all of Northern. Southern Girls Record Four Victories To Remain Unbeaten

The members of the girls' soccer team of Southern High School continue to prove their pre-season selection as one of the area's top squads, as the Rams won four more matches this week to up their overall record to 6-0 and their Western Maryland Interscholastic League mark to 3-0.

Coach Ron Petrella's team blanked Fort Hill on Friday in Oakland, 4-0, in an opening round of the Western Maryland Classic, and then got by county rival Northern on Saturday, 2-1, also at Southern, in the second round of the classic. Then they shut out visiting Beall on Monday, 4-0, and whipped host Fort Hill again last night, 4-0. The Rams have won 17 straight regular season matches.

Jenny Hickman scored the first two goals last Friday evening against Fort Hill, the first off an assist by Robbin Gregg with 27:34 remaining in the first half, and the second at the 20:04 mark off a feed by Brittany Naylor.

Naylor then tacked on an insurance goal off an assist by Jadyn Swerbinsky with 8:52 to play in the match.

The Rams dominated play and finished with a commanding 21-8 lead in shots on goal and a 6-1 advantage in corner shots. Ram keeper Alasha Rush stopped all eight of the Sentinels' shots, while Becky Beeman had 17 stops

Southern Boys Blank Vikings For Second Win

A victory this past week upped the season record of the Southern High School boys' varsity soccer team to 2-1, as the Rams shut out visiting Petersburg, 4-0, Saturday evening. They were scheduled to play another match at Keyser on Tuesday, but no report was received from that match.

A hat trick by junior striker Adam Miller highlighted the Rams' second win of the season over the Vikings. He scored his first of three at the 34:17 mark of the first half off an assist by Don Parsons. He combined with Parsons again just over a minute later (33:04) to make it 2-0.

Miller's third strike came about four minutes into the second half, this time off an assist by Karl Hillen. Parsons concluded the Rams' scoring for the evening with an unassisted goal at the 8:43 mark.

The Rams finished with a 10-9 edge in shots on goal and a 2-0 advantage in corner kicks. Chris Menker was credited with nine saves in goal for Southern, while Ben Fout stopped seven of the Rams' shots.

The loss dropped Petersburg to 5-3.

Southern is scheduled to play at Allegany this Saturday, host Beall on Monday, and entertain Fort Hill next Thursday.

Northern Girls Defeated By Spartans, Rams; Whip Raiders

It was a tough start to the 2001 season for the Northern High School girls' soccer team and the squad's new coach, Lynn Lais, but things began to turn around this week, as the Huskies nearly upset the area's top-ranked team and cross-county rival Southern Saturday night in Oakland (see other story) in the Western Maryland Classic, and then rolled to their first victory of the campaign yesterday over visiting Meyersdale, 4-1.

The Huskies dropped a 4-0 decision to Bishop Walsh on Friday night in an opening match of the classic, played at Southern, and were edged 2-1 by the Rams Saturday night.

Karen Knight scored three goals for the Bishop Walsh Spartans and against the Huskies on Friday. Her first came with just 2:27 to play in the first half off an assist by Caitlin Owens to give her team a 1-0 halftime advantage.

She scored again just over two minutes into the second half, this time off a feed by Jennifer Tola. Rachel Carpenter made it 3-0 with an unassisted goal at the 24:20 mark, and Knight completed her hat trick at the 18:30 mark when she scored off an assist by Shera Rowan.

The Huskies trailed in shots on goal by a 27-16 margin and in corner kicks, 5-0.

Randi Beiler was credited for 11 saves in goal for the Huskies. Kelli Amoroso turned away 13 shots for BW, which upped its record to 4-2.

In last night's win over Meyersdale, Lyndsi Butler put a pair of goals on the board for the Huskies, while her sister Brooke and Tiffany Yoder each record-

Northern Boys Crush Westmar For First Win

The boys' varsity soccer team of Northern High School recorded its first win of the 2001 campaign Tuesday night by crushing visiting Westmar, 6-0, in a Western Maryland Interscholastic League clash and behind a four-goal, one-assist effort by Eric Durst.

Durst earned a hat trick in the first half of action, as he scored off assists by Guy Beitzel at the 32:32 mark, Aaron Rawe with 26:18 left, and Justin Fontaine with 15:33 remaining before halftime.

Beitzel then made it 4-0 with a goal off a feed by Durst at the 34:06 mark of the second half. Durst followed with an unassisted score with 15:50 remaining, and freshman Torrey Poholsky tacked on goal number six, unassisted, at the 12:43 mark.

The Huskies finished with a lopsided 30-13 lead in shots on goal, and held a 5-4 edge in corner kicks.

Greg Bender and Geoff Newman combined for 10 saves in goal for the Huskies, while Brandon Kimble turned away 15 shots for the Wildcats, who dropped to 1-4 with the defeat.

The Huskies are scheduled to play again this evening when they host Beall. The junior varsity match will kick off at 6 p.m., and the varsity will get under way at 7:30 p.m.

The Red Raiders knotted the score at 1-1 three minutes into the second half when Nicole Sanner scored an unassisted goal.

Lyndsi Butler responded with an unassisted goals at about the 34:00 mark to put the Huskies on top for good. Brooke Butler followed with an unassisted goal at the 16:00 mark to make it 3-0, and Yoder added an insurance goal with 12 minutes to play off an assist by Kara Kenner.

The Huskies dominated play throughout and finished with a huge 24-3 advantage in shots on goal. They also led in corner kicks, 6-2.

Randi Beiler and Ashley Warnick combined for two saves in goal for Northern, while a much busier Kolb stopped 20 of the Huskies' shots.

The Northern girls, now 1-4, will return to action next Monday with another match at Southern.

After over 42 minutes of scoreless ball, Megan Burner finally broke the ice for the Rams when she scored off an assist by Naylor at the 37:23 mark of the second half. Gina Reeves then scored an unassisted goal less than two minutes later (35:49) to make it 2-0.

Tiffany Yoder cut the Rams' lead in half when she scored an unassisted goal with 28:33 to play in the match. She nearly tied it about seven minutes later with a strong blast that careened off the crossbar.

The Rams finished with a 16-6 lead in shots on goal, but the pesky Husky defense was impervious throughout all but two minutes of the match. Southern also held a 4-1 advantage in corner kicks.

Rush was credited with five saves for the Rams, while Randi Beiler recorded 14 stops for the Huskies, who dropped to 0-4 with the loss. The Huskies had lost their opening round match in the classic to Bishop Walsh, 4-0, Friday night (see other story).

Brittany Naylor scored half of the Rams' goals Monday night against Beall, while Gina Reeves and Megan Burner recorded the other two to hand the Mountaineers their first loss in three starts this season. All four goals were scored in the first half.

Naylor's first goal came at the 32:00 mark off an assist by Jenny Hickman. Reeves followed with a goal off a feed by Kristen Oxford with 19:43 remaining in the half. Burner then scored at the 11:09 mark off another assist by Hickman to make it 3-0. Naylor the concluded the scoring for the evening with a goal off an assist by Burner with 5:37 left in the half.

The second half of the concert was all defense, with neither team able to get many shots on goal. The Rams finished with a 10-3 advantage in that statistic, and also held a 4-3 edge in corner kicks.

Rush was credited with three saves in goal for Southern, while Krista Blank turned away six of the Rams' shots.

Last night's 4-0 victory over Fort Hill was the fourth shutout of the season for the Rams, who have allowed a total of only three goals in six matches. Brittany Naylor accounted for half the Southern's goals against the Sentinels, sandwiched between goals by Becky Martin and Gina Reeves.

Martin's goal came less than four minutes into the match, as she scored off an assist by Naylor at the 36:49 mark. Naylor doubled the Rams' score with an unassisted goal with 20:45 left in the first half.

The second half of action was all defense until approximately the final eight minutes. Naylor made it 3-0 with a goal off a feed by Jenny Hickman with 8:15 left on the clock. Less than three minutes later, Reeves concluded the Rams' scoring with a goal off an assist by Burner.

The Rams finished with an 18-11 advantage in shots on goal and a 9-3 lead in corner kicks.

Alasha Rush recorded her fourth shutout of the year by turning away eight of the Sentinels' shots. Becky Beeman stopped 14 of the Rams' attempts.

The loss dropped Fort Hill to 1-4 overall and 0-2 in WMIL play.

After playing four matches in six days, the Rams will get a break from competition until Monday when they are slated to host the Northern Huskies.

Rams Hang On For 17-16 Win Over Mountaineers

After coming within one minute of upsetting a talented Keyser team in their season opener, most area football fans believed that the Southern High School Rams would have little difficulty last Friday night in Frostburg disposing of the Beall Mountaineers, a team that had lost their opener to a usually modest Berkeley Springs squad. But the Rams barely held on for a 17-16 victory and were dominated in the stats by the Mountaineers.

Coach Fred Gregg was concerned about his team's level of emotion and attitude going into Friday's game after playing so well against Keyser, and then losing the game with just 34 seconds remaining.

"It was tough to convince our team that Beall had the talent to beat us, and that Berkeley Springs is a much improved team," Gregg said. "It was difficult to play with a lot of emotion, also because of the tragedy that struck our nation last week. But the Beall players had the same situation, and I give them all the credit in the world. They played extremely well. They literally controlled the line on both sides of the football all evening. If it weren't for a couple of big plays, we would have lost the game for sure."

One of those big plays was a 27-yard touchdown pass from Tobi Stoner to tight end Bryson Meyers with 2:46 to play in the first quarter. Chad Panther's successful conversion kick gave the Rams a 7-0 lead.

The Mountaineers, who were led all evening in their rushing game and scoring by quarterback Nick Durst, responded with a touchdown at the 10:36 mark of the second quarter, as Durst broke loose on a 45-yard scoring run. Durst also ran for the two-point conversion to give Beall an 8-7 halftime advantage.

Beall's starting running back, Ryan Harper, missed the game because of injury, but Durst more than picked up the slack, as he amassed 159 yards on 20 carries.

A 27-yard field goal by Panther with 9:15 remaining in the third quarter put the Rams back on top, 10-8.

The second big play for Southern was a 70-yard scoring strike from Stoner to Panther, who crossed the goal line with 4:08 remaining in the third period. Panther also booted the extra point to put the Rams up by a 17-8 advantage.

The Mountaineers continued to control the line of scrimmage and, with 5:53 left in the game, Durst capped a drive with a one-yard scoring plunge, and then scored his 16th point of the evening by successfully running for the conversion.

After a Ram punt following the ensuing kickoff, Beall initiated yet another effective drive that seemed destined to result in a touchdown and a victory, but Stoner came up with the biggest defensive play of the evening when he intercepted Durst deep in Ram territory to stop the drive. Southern ran three straight quarterback sneaks to try to use up the clock, but then had to punt the ball back to the Mountaineers one more time with just 29 seconds remaining. A final Beall drive could get no farther than the Ram 30 as time expired.

Steve Skipper paced Southern's rushing effort, as he finished with 117 yards on 20 carries.

Beall (0-2) finished with 15 first downs, compared to only five for Southern, and also had a 333-248 advantage in total yards of offense.

Mistakes Hamper Huskies As NHS Falls To Mapletown, 35-7

"We got beat, that's all there is to it," Northern High School head coach Phil Carr said of the 35-7 defeat his varsity football squad sustained Saturday at Mapletown. "We were beat by a bigger and better team that was loaded with experienced seniors, and we helped them with some mistakes of our own. They were better than us, we'll admit, but not by 28 points."

Up until the very end of the first half, such sentiments would have been the furthest thing from the Huskies' minds, as Northern had shown it was a dog ready for a fight from the outset. NHS jumped out to an early lead after a crushing hit by Andrew Frantz on the opening kickoff had jarred the ball loose from the Maple returner, and Greg Whittemore alertly dove on it to make the recovery in good field position.

Northern then embarked on a methodical scoring drive capped by quarterback Aaron Mitchell's eight-yard keeper touchdown run at the 9:26 mark. Trey Brenneman's extra point kick made the score 7-0.

Five minutes later, Mapletown pulled to within one, 7-6, on an eight-yard run by Joe Kavlic. The extra point kick attempt failed, however, and NHS retained a slim lead.

Mapletown scored again with 4:34 remaining in the second quarter on a four-yard touchdown pass from Drew Denham to Jayce Donelly, and a successful two-point conversion pass gave the hosts a 14-7 lead. The Huskies were still far from intimidated by the bigger team, and with only one touchdown spelling the difference, were well in the thick of the hunt. A dark cloud descended temporarily when a Mapletown interception in Maple territory quashed a possible Husky scoring drive, but it seemed to pass.

The tide turned just before the half, however. With 45 seconds remaining, the Huskies were forced to punt, and Maple returner Kavlic fielded the ball at his own 24 yard line. His run didn't end until he had crossed into the NHS endzone. A successful conversion pass made the score 21-7 going into the halftime locker room, a crucial psychological blow to the Huskies.

"They got in some good blocks initially," said Carr, describing how the special team coverage broke down on the play. "Then our contain guys got sucked into the middle of the field, which freed up the corners and let the returner get to the sideline. Once he got around us he was gone. We had hung in there for the first half, [but] that punt return put a dagger in us."

Northern helped the Maples twist the dagger itself, Carr added, for two good NHS offensive drives self-destructed in the third quarter on Husky fumbles. Both miscues came in Mapletown territory. With 7:32 remaining, the hosts' offense struck again, as Jim Ruffo scored on a 28-yard run to put his team up by 21 points. Kavlic put the final nail in the coffin with a 10-yard run early in the fourth quarter. A successful point-after kick gave the Maples their 35-7 win.

"They moved the ball on our defense," the Huskies' skipper remarked. "They seemed to be able to move at four to five yards a clip, and recorded 14 rushing first downs and 305 yards of total offense, 298 of those on the ground. When you put numbers like that together with their big plays, you're in trouble. The turnover bug hit our offense just like last week, and one of those turnovers led to a Mapletown score." Northern was also flagged for nine penalties that cost a total of 95 yards, miscues attributed to a lack of concentration by the NHS helmsman.

Carr singled out defensive tackle Joe Garlitz for his outstanding play in his first varsity start. The big junior (5-11, 280) led the Huskies in tackles. Mitchell, performing his double-duty at safety, picked off one of his counterpart's pass attempts to record Northern's lone interception.

On offense, Northern fullback Cheston Bachtel led the Huskies in rushing with a 63-yard tally on 15 carries. Mitchell completed six of his 11 pass attempts for 74 yards.

"We have to put this one behind us and get ready to face a hot Berkeley Springs team tomorrow night," Carr stated. "They've won their last three straight after losing the opener, and they're very confident and improved."

Northern's defense will be tested on the ground again, as senior Indian tailback Mike Swink (5-11, 170) is an excellent runner who has been getting as many as 30 carries per outing so far. "They like to run off-tackle out of a pro-set I-formation. Junior quarterback Luke Truax (5-9, 172) likes to roll out and throw, but because he's fairly short we hope we can keep him in the pocket and make it hard for him to see over the line." The job of containing the corners, and therefore the running quarterback, will fall mainly to NHS defensive ends Josh Swandol and Bachtel. The Huskies' secondary will have to keep close tabs on Truax's favorite target, sophomore receiver Matt Rockwell (6-0, 150).

Berkeley Springs will line up in a 4-3 defense that is prone to pressure the opposition quarterback through heavy blitzing. NHS's offensive guard Tommy Menges and an as-yet to be named replacement for injured guard Chris Knox, will have to pick up the inside blitzes. The Indian defensive mainstay is junior linebacker Ed Parsell (5-10, 198), who makes approximately 50 percent of his team's tackles.

Tomorrow night's kickoff in Berkeley Springs is slated for 7:30 p.m. Northern fans can reach Indian Stadium by taking Interstate 68 east to the Hancock exit, and from there following Rt. 522 across the Potomac River to Berkeley Springs, located at the intersection of Rts. 522 and 9.

SHS Freshmen Lose To Keyser; To Host Alco

The freshman football team of Southern High School was walloped by host Keyser last Thursday evening, 32-6.

Derek Stephen scored a pair of touchdowns and recorded 135 yards of rushing on 13 carries for the Golden Tornados, while teammate Keith Johnson rolled up 130 yards on 11 attempts and scored one touchdown. Dustin Holman added 85 yards on seven carries and also scored on touchdown.

Stephen's scores were on a two-yard touchdown run in the first quarter and a 25-yard TD run in the second stanza. Holman had a seven-yard touchdown carry in the second period, and Keith Johnson scored on an 11-yard carry in the third period. Holman ran for two two-point conversions, and Stephen ran successfully for another.

Keyser also recorded a safety in the fourth quarter on a tackle by Aaron Amtower.

The Rams averted a shutout when Mike Schmidl scored a touchdown on a one-yard run with just one second left in the game.

A change in the SHS freshman schedule was announced yesterday. Instead of traveling to Allegany for a game this afternoon, the freshman Rams will host Allegany this evening. The kickoff is scheduled for 7 p.m.

Youth Football Players Invited To Ram Game

Southern High School will be sponsoring Youth Football League Night this Friday evening when the Southern Rams challenge Grafton in a home football game. All youth football league athletes are asked to wear their team jersey, and will be admitted to the game free. The annual SHS Football Hall of Fame induction ceremony will also take place during pre-game activities.

The Southern Garrett Athletic Association is continuing its membership drive for the 2001-2002 school year. Memberships are $5 and can be purchased at home athletic activities from an SGAA officer. All fall athletes will also be receiving 10 raffle tickets to sell at $1 per ticket for the annual fall fund-raiser. The raffle for ½ beef will be held during halftime of the Southern/Martinsburg football game on Friday, Oct. 12.

Friday will be the SHS Football Hall of Fame induction night, with several former outstanding Rams being inducted during ceremonies held about 20 minutes prior to the kickoff. He added that it will also be Oakland Youth Football League Night, and all members of the league who are wearing their team shirts will be admitted to the game free of charge (see separate story).

Friday's kickoff is set for 7:30 p.m.

Grafton's pro-I offense is anchored by junior quarterback Josh Trickett (5-9, 152). "He is similar to Nick Durst, in that running the option is his forte," Gregg said.

A key ball carrier is junior fullback Chad Green (5-10, 183), who is the team's leading rusher.

"Grafton always seems to have a good quarterback and a good fullback," Gregg said.

The Grafton line, on both sides of the ball, is led by senior lineman Kenny Hollenbach (5-10, 217) and junior Steve Barrett (6-4, 250).

"They run from the shotgun a lot," Gregg said, "and they throw the ball well. Mike Skinner (coach) has been there a long time, and his teams are always well coached and well prepared."

Defensively, Grafton utilizes a 5-2 formation, led by Hollenbach, Barrett, and junior linebacker Tim Mewshaw (5-11, 185).

"They are very well drilled along their line," Gregg said. "They consistently change their fronts, which makes them hard to read and tough to call plays against."

Gregg believes Grafton's team speed is "a little better" than that of the Rams, and their kicking game is average.

"The key for us is whether or not we can really execute on the line of scrimmage," he said. "If we can do that at least as well as we did against Keyser, then we will definitely be in the game. If we can't, it could be a long night."

Gregg said that his team is "generally healthy," with the exception of Chris Bennett and Billy Schmidl, who will remain out of the lineup again this week because of injuries sustained before the season opener.

On paper it would appear again this week that the Rams should be the favorite when they entertain an 0-3 Grafton team, but Gregg is quick to point out how misleading those numbers are.

"Grafton plays an absolutely murderous schedule," he said. "We have scouted them and we have their films. They are a solid team, and we are going to have to play much better football than we did last week if we hope to beat them."

Maddawgs Split As A/B Squads Take Huge Win

The Northern Maddawgs Pee-Wee Football League team played to a split against Cumberland's West Side Hunters Saturday at Allegany High School. The Maddawgs' "A/B" squads combined to upset the Hunters in a 53-13 blowout, although the Maddawgs' "C" team suffered a 12-6 loss in a pitched battle.

Northern's A/B squads got off to an impressive start as the B team scored on a first-quarter Josh Duckworth run, followed by a successful Trevor Tombley extra point carry. The Hunters struck back with a touchdown of their own, but the Maddawgs answered with a 27 yard touchdown run by Nick Graham, with Duckworth providing the extra-point run. Shortly before the quarter ended, Duckworth rumbled 31 yards for his second touchdown.

The Maddawgs A team looked a little shaky at the onset of the second quarter, as the Hunters drove down the field to the Maddawgs' 20 yard line. Northern's defense stiffened at that point to force the hosts into relinquishing the ball without a score.

With the Maddawgs' punishing blockers leading the way, Northern's Jared Lapp embarked on several carries that brought the offense into scoring position. Blair Silbaugh eventually carried the ball into the endzone, and Lapp punched it in for the extra point.

The Hunters could not move the ball against the Maddawgs' defense, and they were forced to give the ball up. Northern took full advantage of opportunity as Lapp scored his second touchdown on the ground and carried in the extra point as well. The strong Maddawg defense stopped the Hunters again, and it was seemingly only a matter of time before Andy Ganoe rushed for a touchdown, which was followed by Lapp's extra-point carry.

Forced to run its second string offense because of its 21-point lead, the Maddawgs B teams failed to score during the third quarter. The goose-egg was not too worrisome, however, as the defense held the hosts scoreless until the Hunters scored a touchdown late in the quarter.

The A team defense came out stronger than ever for its fourth-quarter showing, completely shutting the Hunters down and forcing a fumble to boot. The second string A squad offense pounded the ball up and down the field behind its strong offensive line. After Ryan Winebrenner and Justin Rosenberger both gained some fine yardage on their carries, Zach Rogers scored on a rushing touchdown. Ben Diehl and Steven Taylor sparked another Northern drive, capped by Rogers' second touchdown that gave the A&B squads a whooping 40-point win. The victory upped the combined units' record to 3-2.

The evening's other contest was a hard-fought affair between the respective C squads. The lone touchdown for Northern's C team came in the first half, but the lead failed to hold as the hosts reeled off two touchdowns to go up by six. The Hunters switched to a ball-control offense in second half that left the score unchanged, as their defense stymied the Maddawgs' offense by forcing a pair of "fours and outs." With less than a minute left, the Maddawgs got the ball with enough time to run one play, but the desperation pass attempt failed, and the unit's record fell to 3-2.

The Maddawgs travels to Warm Springs Saturday evening to challenge the unbeaten Wolves (5-0).

Oakland Youth Football League Results Noted

Two weeks of results of games in the Oakland Youth Football League were announced this week.

In NFL Division (full contact) games played on September 9, the undefeated Ravens rolled over the Raiders, 32-7, and the Redskins blanked the Jets, 23-0.

Winners in the NCAA Division (flag) were: the First United Buckeyes over the Rinker Construction Nittany Lions, 33-6; the Gregg's Pharmacy Mountaineers edging the Pro-Fit Insulation Bears, 33-32; the Gonder Insurance Tigers topping the TCI Cougars, 31-6; and the F.O.P. Fighting Irish rolling over the Team One Terps, 39-6.

In contests played this past Sunday, the Ravens stopped the Redskins, 19-7, and the Raiders were victorious over the Jets, 27-13, in the NFL Division.

The Ravens lead the division with a 4-0 record, followed by the Raiders and Redskins tied with 2-2 marks, and the Jets, who are 0-4.

In the NCAA Division games Sunday, the Buckeyes defeated the Terps, 40-19; the Mountaineers whipped the Cougars, 46-26; the Bears edged the Tigers, 28-24; and the Fighting Irish controlled the Nittany Lions, 41-20.

The Mountaineers and the Buckeyes are tied for first place in the division with 3-0-1 records. The Irish and Bears are both 3-1, followed by the Tigers, Terps, and Lions each at 1-3, and the Cougars with an 0-4 mark.

CAYFL Steeler Units Split With Keyser Guests

The two Northern Steeler squads split a pair of Cumberland Area Youth Football League contests with visiting Keyser Saturday at Northern High School. The Division II Northern team nipped the guests by a 7-0 margin, while the Steelers' Division I unit stumbled in a 24-0 defeat.

Casey Kamp sparked the Division II squad to its win by reeling off a 27-yard third-quarter touchdown run to break a scoreless deadlock. Jeff Wiland connected with Justin Orndorf for a successful extra-point pass. Other Northern highlights were provided by a fine defensive team effort, led by John Wiland, Shane Broadwater, and Corey Diehl. The win upped the Steelers' squad record to 2-1.

Northern's Division I unit ran into trouble from the outset and never recovered. A 45-yard Keyser touchdown run and extra-point kick gave the visitors an early 8-0 lead, which they padded with second- and fourth-quarter touchdown scores. After the contest, Northern's coaching staff singled out Chris Spiker, Tyler Warn, and Eric Diehl for their fine performances.

The Steelers will host Braddock Saturday at NHS.

Women Golfers Have Flight Play, Scramble

Six members of the Women's Golf Association met September 6 for Flight Play, with Annis Colaw winning low gross in the championship flight, carding 91. Jessie Stowell claimed low net with 87.

In the first flight, Bonnie DeWaters' 99 was good for low gross, while Kazuko Hamill won low net, scoring 77. Karon Schnably and Rita Humberson tied for low gross in the second flight, carding 111, and Betsy Polce's 87 took low net honors. In the third flight, winners were Helen Nordeck, low gross 120, and Jane Frawley, low net 76. Vickie Regner had low gross honors in fourth flight with 128, while Peg Farano won low net with 81.

A scramble was played September 13, with the team of J. Bray, S. Bello, K. Schnably, and C. Wotherspoon taking first-place honors, carding 74. F. Bell, B. Seward, M. Boehmer, and H. Nordeck won second place with 75, while A. Colaw, C. Deverse, R. Humberson, and P. Farano placed third with 81. Fourth place was awarded to the team of M. Naylor, M. Moran, B. Polce, and D. Weissgerber, scoring 82.

Husky Golfers Down Rams In Pitched Battle

Northern High School's golf team had an up-and-down feeling this week, as the Huskies won one tournament and placed off the leaders' marks in two other appearances.

NHS got in a sweet win during last Thursday's NHS-SHS battle at the Oakland Golf Club, as the Huskies downed their cross-county rivals by one stroke on Southern's home greens. Northern stumbled a bit in Monday's Western Maryland Interscholastic Tournament, though, and turned in a 380 to take fourth place behind winner Southern, Fort Hill, and Beall. NHS's Mark Bergstrom shared third place in the tourney with an 85. (See Southern golf account for WMIL details.) Yesterday the Huskies finished second in a home quadrangular at the Wisp.

Last Thursday's showdown was all Ram coach Jeff Friend and Husky skipper Harv Speicher expected and then some, as the contest went down to the wire with the Huskies prevailing 180-181. Given the nip-and-tuck antics of the cross-county schools, it was hard to remember that the match was a quadrangular, with Moorefield's 190 and Union's 256 rounding out the field.

Mark and Michael Bergstrom both carded 42s to spark NHS's one-stroke victory. Southern's Nathan Swartzentruber shot a 41 to claim low-medalist honors, and his teammate, Matt Skidmore, turned in a 43.

Yesterday's home tournament was taken by Keyser's 167, as NHS carded a second-place 182, Allegany was third at 203, and Union brought up the rear with a 269. Individual scores were not reported.

Northern's only scheduled play of the coming week will be its Tuesday appearance in the Class 1A West Region Tournament at the Black Rock Country Club.

SHS Takes WMIL Golf Tourney At Home; Just Misses Week Sweep

It was a good week to be a Southern High School golfer, as the Ram duffers took the Western Maryland Interscholastic League crown on their home links, and just missed taking three straight tournaments of the week by only two strokes. Monday's WMIL win was bracketed by a one-stroke loss to Northern's Huskies this past Thursday, Sept. 13, and a 10-stroke romp Tuesday in Moorefield, W.Va. Southern's superb WMIL performance was highlighted at the top of the card, as the Rams held down three of the top four spots, each separated by just one stroke, with Matt Skidmore taking the individual championship.

Last Thursday's quadrangular at the Oakland Golf Club went the distance, with NHS carding 180, SHS tallying a 181, and Moorefield and Union rounding out the field at 190 and 256, respectively. The Rams' Nathan Swartzentruber was low medalist with a 41. (See Northern golf account for more details.)

A superb team effort sparked Southern to its WMIL triumph Monday at Oakland, as the Rams shot a 342 to best Fort Hill's 374 by a whopping 32 strokes. The rest of the field's tally was Beall, 379; NHS, 380; Westmar, 394; and Allegany, 412. Skidmore's match-low 83 was just ahead of teammate Swartzentruber's 84, which tied Westmar's Ryan Bateson for runner-up. Ram Travis Friend and NHS's Mark Bergstrom locked horns for third place as each shot an 85, and SHS's Natalie Winner's 90 was good for sixth place. Northern golfer Jason Rice placed seventh with a 92.

Skidmore led the way again Tuesday at Moorefield, as his 37 paced Southern to a 175 tally that came in 10 shots below the host's 185. Petersburg was 20 strokes off the leaders with a 195. Swartzentruber recorded a 43.

Garrett Netters Gain Campaign's First Win Over Prince George's

A week of frustration came to an end Tuesday for the Garrett Community College volleyball team, as the Lakers downed visiting Prince George's Community College on the McHenry court for their first win of the season. The triumph turned the corner on what had been a tough run for the Lakers, as they had opened the season last Wednesday, Sept. 12, with straight-game losses to Allegany College of Maryland and Penn State Mt. Alto, which were followed by a 3-0 sweep Friday at the hands of the College of Southern Maryland and Saturday's defeats by Penn State Fayette, 3-0, and Essex, 3-1.

Last Wednesday's triangular at Allegany got off on the wrong note, as GCC fell to hosts 2-0 by scores of 30-25 and 30-12. Garrett's Lauren Stillwagon, a former Allegany High Camper playing before a hometown crowd, had 8 points and 13 assists, while Northern High alumni Mimi Harvey and Southern graduate Marianne Unger had 6 points each. Former SHS Ram Laura Johnson accumulated 13 assists.

GCC's hopes for redemption were foiled in the nightcap by 30-19, 30-17 losses to Penn State Mt. Alto. Johnson tallied 6 points and 5 kills, while Stillwagon provided 13 assists.

Friday's home debut was foiled by visiting College of Southern Maryland, 30-17, 30-8, and 30-20. Johnson recorded four points and an ace, Unger had 4 points and went a perfect 8-for-8 from the service line, and Harvey had 2 kills, a 9-for-9 spike tally, and 12 digs.

Penn State Fayette took a very narrow 2-1 victory over host Garrett in Saturday's opener, 30-19, 26-30, and 16-14. Stillwagon recorded a Laker-high 14 points, including 6 aces, and accounted for 8 assists. Her serving performance was perfect, as she connected on all 20 of her attempts from the line. Johnson added 8 kills, Harvey had 6 points, 10 digs, and 3 kills, and former fellow Husky Jessica DeWitt scored 6 points and had 5 assists.

The Lakers just missed taking their first win in their second outing of the day by a 3-1 tally, falling to Essex by close scores of 30-28 and 30-19 before rallying to take a 30-22 win in Game 3. Essex took the final contest 30-28. Stillwagon had 10 points and 7 assists, Johnson scored 10 points while recording 8 aces and 10 kills, and Harvey added 11 points and 12 digs. DeWitt tallied four aces.

Garrett rode the Stillwagon bandwagon to victory Tuesday over visiting Prince George's, as the sophomore setter paced the Lakers to handy 30-10, 30-10 wins before they stumbled in the third game, a 30-23 loss. GCC roared back in Game 4 with a convincing 30-7 victory to claim the match.

Stillwagon took scoring honors on the night with 21 points, a performance that included 9 aces. Johnson pitched in 12 points and 8 kills, Harvey had 11 points, Unger recorded 10 points and 8 aces, and DeWitt tallied a Garrett-high 9 assists.

The Lakers hope the winning ways continue through a busy week that gets under way at home tonight as Frederick Community College pays a 6 p.m. visit. GCC travels to the Community College of Beaver Saturday and Potomac State College Monday, before returning home Wednesday to host Hagerstown Community College in a 7 p.m. match.

LAKERS PUMMEL PGCC AT HOME — Garrett Community College's volleyball team took no prisoners Tuesday night in McHenry, as the Lakers downed Prince George's Community College 3-1. Former Southern High standout Laura Johnson (#25, in air) is shown going high on the right side of the net as she prepares to return a PG player's two-handed volley. GCC teammate Lauren Stillwagon (#7, partially obstructed) paced Garrett to victory with a match-high 21-point tally, while Marianne Unger (#4) had 10 points and 8 aces. The 1-5 Lakers will host the Frederick Community College Cougars tonight in a 6 p.m. match-up.

Husky Netters Roll Over 'Cats, Knights To Remain Undefeated

Northern High School's volleyball program has gotten off to a flawless start this season, as both the varsity and junior varsity units hold perfect 4-0 records so far. The winning streak continued this week as the varsity unit opened a 3-1 win in the hostile confines of Westmar's gym Monday, and recorded a 3-1 last night at Preston. The accomplishments of the Husky athletes, and coaches Linda Wengerd, Gale Keller, and Donna Hoffman, are underscored by the fact that if NHS's varsity triumphs tomorrow night over Hyndman it will equal the number of victories recorded over the course of the entire 2000 campaign.

Monday's contest in Lonaconing was close to a blowout, as NHS took the first game 15-2, fell in Game 2 by a 15-10 score, then cruised to 15-8, 15-9 wins to take the match. Heather Lander tallied 12 service points and Nicole Sisler added 8 service points. Tessa Farrell's 14 service points paced the host Wildcats.

Northern's JV swept its match in convincing fashion, 15-0, 15-11. Valerie Snyder's 8 points from the service line led the Huskies, while Westmar's Erin Titus recorded 5 service points.

The Huskies seemed ready to stumble last night at Preston, dropping the opener by a 15-11 margin, but they pulled together to take three straight wins, 15-2, 15-11, and 15-9. Christie Flockhart led the way with 13 service points, and NHS teammate Jolene Brenneman tallied 12 points, including a pair of aces.

The NHS jayvees took their match, as Kristi Garliz recorded 13 points and Snyder added 7.

Northern returns to the Igloo tonight to host a three-game homestand over the coming week. Tonight the Huskies play Hyndman, Monday night they host Bishop Walsh, and Wednesday Beall will pay a visit. Varsity matches are slated for 7 p.m., one hour after junior varsity play commences.

How can we help? By being vigilant.

This generation can take great comfort in knowing that in our classrooms are the patriots we only have read about in books. They are the Nathan Hales, Patrick Henrys, Betsy Rosses, Clara Bartons and Harriett Tubmans. You know who you are, and this nation is grateful. Seize this moment in history and once and forever, end the racial slurs, bigotry and hatred that have only weakened our beloved America. We look to you for leadership. God bless you.

And lastly, Mr. President, when we hit one out of the ballpark, make sure the bases are loaded.

To the Editor:

Your concern for killing the innocent should have been directed to the killing of over 4,000 babies by abortion (daily) in the USA rather than the enemies who want to eliminate us. All the men, women, and children were celebrating the killing of the Americans and the destruction they caused us. "Rights," "compromise," and "tolerance" will not deter those who want to impose their will on all. Like Tim McVeigh, they must be eliminated and will be in order to create the one-world government foretold in the Bible.

God destroyed one tower (Babel) in order to disperse the people and now has destroyed another (World Trade Center) as a catalyst to unite them. Even the former enemies of America are united in this effort (Russia, Iran, Pakistan, etc.). The outcome will be a temporary, man-made Utopia, then 3½ years of Hell on Earth. Non-believing people of America and the earth better reshuffle their priorities concerning a Creator and Savior or spend eternity regretting it.

We wish to thank our family, friends, and neighbors for their love, prayers, and support during the illness and after the passing of our loved one, Raymond Schlosnagle, on September 1, 2001. Thank you for your cards, flowers, memorials, food and other expressions of sympathy.

We want to express our gratitude to Pastor Nairn and Pastor Schmuck and the various organizations who provided support for our family during this time of sorrow. Also, our sincere gratitude to Newman Funeral Home for its excellent service.

God Bless You,
The Raymond Schlosnagle Family

THANK YOU!

Our family would like to thank everyone for what they have done to make our loss a little more bearable following the loss of our little man, Jaron Michael Fulmer. The cards, calls and food were (and still are) so much appreciated. Now, following a softball tournament held on Sat., Sept. 8, we have more special people to thank.

To all the businesses and individuals who donated money, food, drinks or other gifts, we thank you. To Patti Chapman, who organized it, and anyone who may have helped her, we say thanks! To the teams who played, we say, God Bless You. I have been told Jaron's death has affected everyone in our community in one way or another and I believe that. I wish it were possible to have a huge party to show our thanks, but unfortunately, that isn't possible. Therefore, I will go one better - I will pray that God will bless each and every person who in some way has been there for us. Please accept out thanks and remember your true blessing will be when you get to Heaven and meet your Savior and then He in turn introduces you to our special little man!

Thank You! The Fulmer Family

In memory of our Precious Little Man,

We Never Got To Say Good-Bye

Dear Lord, we want to ask a favor,
It would mean so much to us.
Things happened so quickly,
There was no time to make a fuss.

You didn't give us a warning,
We didn't have time to question why.
When the angels came and took Jaron,
We never got to say good-bye.

We had dreams of years together, Lord,
And he was only 5 years old.
This special boy you loaned to us,
Close to our hearts we'll hold.

Could You hug him like we used to?
Would you brush his hair with your hand?
Would you tickle him and remind him,
That he'll always be our little man?

Would You tell him we'll always love him,
And we'll always question why,
You took him so fast, Lord,
We never got to say good-bye.

We didn't get to hug him
Before we took that ride.
We didn't know the angels were waiting,
To take him to the other side.

The pain is so hard, Lord,
The hardest test you gave.
Our hearts were torn to pieces
That day beside his grave.

Tell him we are waiting,
We try to be strong and not cry.
But it's so hard to remember,
We never got to say good-bye.

Remind him he has a sister,
And a brother who looks like him.
Tell him they will never forget him,
Because of the memories we share with them.

Tell him we look at his pictures,
And some days we just sigh.
It wasn't fair to any of us, God,
We never got to say good-bys.

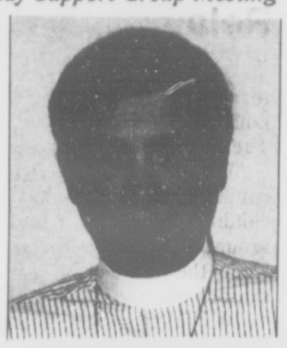
Early Detection Gives Odds-On Edge In Prostate Cancer Battle

Lee To Share Story At Tuesday Support Group Meeting

What Cancer Cannot Do
Cancer is so limited
...it can't cripple love;
...it can't shatter hope;
...it can't corrode faith;
...it can't destroy peace;
...it can't kill friendships;
...it can't suppress memories;
...it can't silence courage;
...it can't invade the soul;
...it can't steal eternal life;
...it can't conquer the Spirit.
—Ann Landers column



REV. CHIP LEE

by David Foster

A huge number of men are living with a bomb ticking away in their bodies, a weapon that, given time, could possibly kill them. Each year, nearly 200,000 men will be diagnosed with prostate cancer, and approximately 35,000 men — husbands, fathers, uncles, brothers, and sons, more than the number of all men, women, and children living in Garrett County — will die from the disease and the complications it can create. However, a battle with prostate cancer, if detected early, can most often end with the disease beaten and a healthy man ready to live a cancer-free life for many years.

Rev. Chip Lee, pastor of Oakland's St. Matthew's and Deer Park's St. John's Episcopal churches, has faced prostate cancer head-on, and the local priest appears to be winning his battle with the most common type of cancer, other than skin cancer, to strike American men. Lee shared his personal story with The Republican recently, and will share his experiences Tuesday, Sept. 25, at 7 p.m. during a meeting of the Garrett County Cancer Support Group in the Community Services building adjacent to Garrett County Memorial Hospital. (See other story.)

"Prostate cancer is nothing to be scared of; early detection is the key," Lee said recently during an interview in his book-lined St. Matthew's study, "however, it will kill you if you let it. Therefore you have to be proactive, and more aggressive than it will try to be." Lee's words of warning need to be taken to heart in a special way in Maryland, for this state has the tenth-highest mortality rate from the disease among all 50 states. As with the vast majority of cancers though, prostate cancer can be beaten with early detection and a patient who educates himself about his illness, and with family and friends who step forward to offer a foundation of prayers, listening, and support.

The size of a walnut, the prostate is situated between the penis and rectum, and rests against the base of the bladder. It surrounds the upper part of the urethra, the tube that carries urine and sperm out of the penis. The prostate itself does not play a part in forming an erection or in the production of sperm, but it does produce seminal fluid that the sperm is transported, or "swims," in as it leaves the body.

The first step to taking control of prostate cancer, as with any disease, is before it actually appears by maintaining a vigilant attitude. Modern medicine has made this easier than ever with the combined one-two diagnostic tool of the prostate-specific antigen (PSA) blood test and the digital rectal exam (DRE), during which a doctor inserts a gloved finger into the rectum to manually probe the gland. Experts urge all men 50 and older to have both tests every year, while those with a father or a brother who have had prostate cancer should begin annual testing at 45 or even younger, depending on their medical circumstances.

In his case, 53-year-old Lee knew that the old adage of "the best offense is a good defense" was especially apt, as his own father had lived with the disease. The elder Lee's diagnosis came when he was 75 years old, and although his radiation therapy appeared to have eradicated the cancer, he eventually succumbed to kidney failure (unrelated to the cancer) in 1983.

"We didn't find out about dad's cancer for a couple of years because he didn't want to tell us, but as soon as I found out the red flags went up," the priest recalled. Knowing that his family history put him in a higher risk category, Lee began a regimen of regular DRE exams just after he turned 40, and added an annual PSA test to his line of defense 10 years ago, when doctors determined that he had an enlarged prostate.

"You can have an enlarged prostate without having cancer," remarked Lee. "My PSA test results always came back very low at 1.3 to 1.6; results under 4 are usually normal, 4-10 are borderline, and over 10 are high, and the higher the PSA level the more likely you have cancer. You have to get the DRE test in conjunction with the PSA test, however, because some men can have a reading of 2 or lower and still be in the early stages of cancer. The DRE can tell the doctor if something funny is going on."

Like most men his age, Lee's prostate became larger as he moved through his late 40s and into his early 50s. An enlarged prostate is a relatively harmless occurrence that can lead to an extra nighttime visit or two to the bathroom, but is not an indication of cancer. However, just this past Christmas, Lee noticed that he was having to visit the bathroom almost every hour during the night, and his mental alarm bells sounded.

"I scheduled another PSA test, and the result came back at a 6, which is in the gray area. It was the highest reading I've ever had though, so just as a precaution my doctor set up a biopsy for February at Johns Hopkins University Hospital. It was done under local anesthetic, which was a pain in the butt (if you get my drift), but nothing anyone can't handle. Two days later he called to say they had found several cancer cells."

Once the disease made its presence known, Lee and his doctors shifted gears, as the "best defense became the best offense," and Lee and his doctor went on the attack after the invader. "The doctor said if I was 15 years older we wouldn't be considering surgery; that's the 'beauty,' if that word can be used, of prostate cancer — it's so slow-moving that if you're up in years it probably won't kill you. If you're fairly young, however, you need to get at it before it spreads from the prostate to the surrounding nerve canals. From there it can spread into the pelvic region and into the bones and beyond. If any of that happens you can be in trouble."

After discussion and consultation, Lee and his doctor decided to remove his prostate gland entirely during a March operation at Johns Hopkins. As they knew that the cancer cells were still encapsulated within the gland, and had not yet begun an inexorable march through his body, taking the prostrate was likely to take the cancer.

"The pre-operation work and surgery weren't bad at all. I had expected the hospital to operate in a 'factory-fashion,' but was pleased to find the staff was very informative and compassionate, and made a point of working one-on-one. Of the surgery itself, I just went to sleep and woke up later with a pain in my gut. I spent the next four days recuperating at the hospital, and on the fourth day got a call from my doctor saying, 'It was the best result possible,' and that he felt they got all the cancer. I was so relieved, to put it mildly, and my June PSA bore out his words when it came back at a 0.1, by far the lowest reading I've ever had."

Lee's prognosis is "great," and the priest said he can tell a marked difference in his bathroom visits, which have returned to normal—"like a 16-year-old," is how he put it. Side effects at this point include very slight incontinence and impotence, but he and his doctor both have high hopes. "Today's surgical techniques greatly reduce the possibility of any lasting problems," he said.

"I've talked to guys who've had their prostates removed in the past couple of years, and they say all aspects of their lives are now better than ever. Most guys are much more in tune with their bodies than they give themselves credit for, but they have a higher state of denial than is healthy," Lee said. One reason men have historically tended to avoid taking a proactive approach to battling prostate cancer, much as with women and breast cancer, is sensitivity about the general location of the prostate within the body.

"Let's face it, when you're dealing with this particular part of the body you get into the whole male ego and pride issue," Lee said. "Hey, I don't have the biggest male ego in the world, but other guys do have trouble with anything they think might effect their sex life. Those worries are exaggerated, and, quite frankly, minuscule when it comes to risking your life. There's a book with a rather silly title that kind of sums it up — You Can't Make Love if You're Dead."

With all Lee has been through, he is an apt spokesman to encourage men to take responsibility for their own health; still, he's run into a wall of denial with his two brothers, one 52 and the other 47. "Despite knowing their risks of getting prostate cancer are real high, they don't take me seriously when I tell them to get checked regularly. 'Well yeah, I'll get around to it,' they tell me.

"There is no 'getting around to it,'" Lee warns his brothers, and all men. "Prostate cancer will kill you if you let it. The choice is in your hands."

Thank You

We would like to thank everyone for the cards, gifts and prayers that we have received over the past few months. Your prayers have not been in vain. God has done a mighty work in the past 4 weeks. Mom's brain cancer is completely gone, and her kidneys are functioning normally again. She still has some cancer in her lung, but we are looking for a complete healing. We would like to have continued prayer for God's will and strength in our lives. Thank you once again for all the love and support that you have shown.

Medicines Used to Manage Psoriasis

Psoriasis is a chronic disease that affects the growth and turnover of skin cells and causes scaling. This condition often begins in persons aged 10 to 40, but all age groups are susceptible. The problem usually starts as a few small skin patches or plaques that become excessively flaky. The plaques may remain thumbnail size or grow as ring-shaped or spiral patterns to encompass large areas of the body.

For mild cases of psoriasis, use of a well-formulated skin lotion can help provide needed moisture as healing occurs. Steroid ointments or creams may be prescribed by physicians. Their effectiveness may be increased by wrapping the affected area with plastic wrap after applying the medicine. Moderate psoriasis may require ointments, creams, or shampoos containing coal tar or salicylic acid. Exposure to ultraviolet light - sometimes in conjunction with a sensitizing agent - helps sufferers of extensive psoriasis. Widespread plaques may require stronger medicines.

Judge Burnett Encourages Men To Be Screened For Prostate Cancer

Submitted by Judge Ralph Burnett and Cindy Kutchman

September has been proclaimed Prostate Cancer Awareness month as a result of the efforts of the National Prostate Cancer Coalition which, under the leadership of Chairman Judge Ralph M. Burnett, successfully lobbied Congress to pass the resolution.

Judge Burnett, who has served as chairman of the coalition since 1999, reported that the purpose of the proclamation is to bring more awareness to prostate cancer in terms of increased research dollars, education, improved treatment options, and an increased number of men seeking screening for early detection and better outcomes.

Prostate cancer is a highly curable disease if detected early, but remains the second leading cause of cancer death among men. One in every 10 men will develop it in his lifetime, yet most men cannot identify even one of the risk factors. They're reluctant to discuss medical issues in public, especially one that can have such devastating side effects, but 32,000 men will die each year from prostate cancer.

Beginning at age 50, men should have an annual PSA blood test and digital rectal exam. This should be started even earlier for African-American men and also for men who have a brother or father with prostate cancer at a young age.

Most prostate cancers begin in the part of the prostate gland that can be reached by a digital rectal exam. This exam also helps to detect early rectal tumors. If either the PSA blood test or the digital rectal exam has an abnormal finding, further medical evaluation is needed.

When prostate cancer is in its earliest stages (still confined to the prostate gland), it usually causes no pain or other symptoms. Occasionally, men with early prostate cancer experience difficulty when urinating.

The earlier prostate cancer is discovered, the better the chances are that it can be treated effectively. If the tumor has not spread outside of the prostate gland to other areas of the body, the chances are good for a long-term survival. Once the tumor has begun to spread, it is more difficult to treat.

Prostate cancer screenings can reduce death from this dreaded disease, and these screenings are being offered in Garrett County this month. All men 50 years or older who have not had a screening in the past 12 months, or men 40 and older who are African-American or who have a family history of prostate cancer are high risk and are encouraged to take part in the screening, which will take place Tuesday, Sept. 25, at the Grantsville Community Outreach Building (health department office) from 5 to 7 p.m.; and on Friday, Sept. 28, from 5 to 7 p.m., at the Garrett County Health Department along Route 135 in Mtn. Lake Park.

Drs. Ihor Zakaluzny, Charles Walch, and Robert Coughlin will be performing the physical exams for the screenings.

If any man needs to know the value of prostate cancer screening, he should ask Judge Burnett or these other prostate cancer survivors: Marshall Stacy, Jim Cuppett, Dr. Bill Savage, Jim Flanigan, Ben Ridder, or Reverend Chip Lee.

For more information or to make an appointment, persons may call Garrett County Memorial Hospital at 301-533-4295 for the Mtn. Lake Park screenings, or 301-724-7890 for the Grantsville screenings.

The best prevention is early detection.

Rudy's Taking Part in "Pink Ribbon Days"

Close to 900 independent women's specialty stores and boutiques throughout Canada and the United States are making a difference in the lives of women this October. For every woman who tries on a pair of French Dressing Jeanswear and signs the "Try the Fit, Help the Cause" poster, French Dressing will donate $1 to breast cancer awareness.

All of the money collected during this month-long event will go to breast cancer awareness and research organizations in Canada and the U.S. Each store can collect up to 100 signatures. Rudy's Clothing in Oakland is participating in the fund-raiser.

"We are proud that Rudy's will be participating in this event," said Len Miller, the president of French Dressing Jeanswear.

French Dressing Jeanswear has actively supported breast cancer causes. In three years, the company has donated $387,000 (Canadian) to organizations that raise awareness and help find a cure for the disease.

In addition to store posters and counter cards, bookmarks, pink ribbons, mints, and emery boards with the French Dressing logo, and a pink ribbon (the universal symbol of breast cancer awareness) will be available at Rudy's now through Oct. 31. This is to help customers "spread the word" about breast cancer awareness, a store representative said.

Prostate Cancer Survivors Invited To Group Meeting

All prostate cancer survivors and their families are invited to attend the next meeting of the Garrett County Cancer Support Group, set for Tuesday, Sept. 25, in the Community Services building between Garrett County Memorial Hospital and the Garrett Medical Group.

The bride-elect is a 1999 homeschool graduate and is employed at Bolinger Chiropractic Center in Oakland. The prospective bridegroom, a 1995 graduate of Allegany High School, is employed by the U.S. Postal Service in Oakland.

Love Letters To Be Performed In Cumberland

Leonard and Jane Schwab will return to the Cumberland Theatre stage October 6 and 7 to reprise their roles as Andrew Makepiece Ladd III and Melissa Gardner in A.R. Gurney's bitter-sweet epistolary two-character play Love Letters. Both performances, which will begin at 8 p.m., are benefits for the theatre.

The Schwabs, veterans of local community theater and major benefactors of the Cumberland Theatre, first appeared in Gurney's popular piece two years ago, returned to the Johnson Street stage the following spring, and have now established themselves as the area's Andrew and Melissa in roles they say they have come to relish.

The Cumberland Theatre is a nonprofit institution that depends upon city and county budgetary contributions, grants from the Allegany and Maryland State arts councils, and the generosity of corporate and private donors to supplement the proceeds from ticket sales.

Tickets for Love Letters are $12 each and may be purchased at the door. There is no reserved seating. For further information, persons may call the box office at 301-759-4990.

Grand Jury

Funding for education continues to be a priority, as shown by the commissioners' full funding of the Board of Education's operating budget request for this year, the jury noted.

The county currently holds a triple-A bond rating, mostly due to the decrease in the debt of the county. Payments for outstanding debts of the county will be only 6.79% of this year's budget, including the debt for the new health department building. The reduction in debt service over the last 5 years is largely attributable to "getting our house in order," Pagenhardt said. He added that re-alignment of some departments and staff positions, holding tight in many line-item expenses, and the ongoing efforts of good employees as the means of paying down much of the debt.

Pagenhardt reported to the jury that preliminary figures from the finance office and the auditors show a substantial excess in revenue over expenditures for the last fiscal year.

Additional comments were exchanged concerning education, economic development, the decreased debt service, the "Truth in Taxation" law that causes property assessments to now be reported at full cash value, and the process of balancing increased funding requests with revenues.

The grand jury expressed thanks to Judge James L. Sherbin; Lisa Thayer Welch, state's attorney; Bill Graham, court bailiff; David Martin, circuit court clerk; Brian Schlossnagle, deputy clerk; Ruth M. Warnick, jury commissioner; Kim Becker, secretary to Welch; David M. Higdon, foreperson; Mary Lynn Bosley, clerk; Sandra L. Flockhart, clerk; Ronald D. Bowers, doorman; and all other officials for their cooperation.

that her most frequent work assignment had been the Dulles Airport to Los Angeles run. Their reunion after a Tuesday thinking the unthinkable was a gift.

"What could be better than a Sunday drive in the country, memory of much recent talk with our other two children and extended family, messages of good will from around the world? Could we hold this moment longer? Keep the TV dark? Has technology induced a case of sensory overload?

"We came home and turned on the TV and later found this e-mail from a German friend: 'This indescribable act of terror against Amerika [sic] forces me to tell you how shocked we all are! The whole world — except some people captured in hate — is mourning with the Americans. In Germany there is a very special attachment and several voices remind us that 50 years ago the Americans helped Germany and especially Berlin to survive. We hope very much that none of the people you know in Washington were victims.'"

Storyteller To Present Library Lap Sit Programs

KIT BLOOM

The Ruth Enlow Library in Oakland will kick off its fall Lap Sit program with two 30-minute presentations by Baltimore area story-teller Kit Bloom on Monday, Oct. 1. The first program will take place at the library's Friendsville Branch at 9:30 a.m., and will be followed by a 10:45 a.m. presentation at the Oakland library. Both events are free to the public.

Bloom has given over 150 performances at schools, PTA meetings, recreational councils, camps, and retirement centers throughout the state since she began storytelling in 1992. Her programs incorporate props from around the world.

Pre-registration for both of Bloom's programs is encouraged, and may be made by calling the Ruth Enlow Library in Oakland at 301-334-3996.

Bloom's Oakland visit kicks off that library's autumn Lap Sit program schedule, slated for each Monday morning and evening at 10:45 a.m. and 6:30 p.m. (Bloom is not scheduled to appear during the evening program of Oct. 1.) Each of the Oakland library's Lap Sit programs are 30 minutes in length, and the program will run through November.

"This is a unique program for the very young," Oakland reference librarian Dorene Rogers said. "Being read to is one of the greatest gifts we can give our children. The library is an important community resource for promoting a positive attitude toward reading, which is a powerful tool when children reach school age.

"Lap Sit participants are introduced to the written word through a variety of learning styles, including listening and touch. Music and socialization also play a major role in the program."

Program participants must be accompanied by a parent, caregiver, or another responsible adult. For further information on the Lap Sit program, persons may call Rogers at 301-334-3996.

Local Students Become Finalists For Scholarships

Three students from Garrett County were recently recognized as finalists in the academic achievement category for Maryland's Distinguished Scholar Awards.

Mark H. Roberts was named a finalist and Todd W. Foley was named a semifinalist, both from Northern High School. Laura G. Hollingsworth was a finalist from Southern High School.

Each year, the MHEC honors Maryland's best and brightest high school seniors who have met the stringent requirements of the program. The Distinguished Scholar Program offers $3,000 a year for four years to the state's top high school students as an incentive for them to go to college in Maryland.

Application for the scholarship is made during the student's junior year in high school. Applicants in the achievement category who must have an unweighted grade point average (GPA) of at least 3.7 on a 4.0 scale are ranked on the basis of GPA and SAT/PSAT/ACT test scores. Students nominated in the talent category (vocal and instrumental music, dance, drama, and visual arts) must audition before a panel of professionals.

National Merit and National Achievement finalists, identified in their senior year, are automatically eligible for the scholarship. The $4.2 million program provides 350 new scholarships each year plus continuing awards to students who maintain a 3.0 GPA in college. The scholarship can be used for any college-related expense at any degree-granting institution in Maryland.

Numerous local students were named as honorable mention. From Northern High for academic achievement, those named were Rachel S. Bruch, Karla R. Buckel, Micah B. Plevyak, Emily C. Rawe, and Nicole L. Sisler. Holly E. Hare received with honorable mention for talent in vocal music.

The honorable mention achievement recipients from Southern High were Chase W. Ashby, Jennifer B. Bosley, Brian C. Fike, Ashley D. Hershman, Jennifer R. Hickman, Jonathan V. Neville, Kathryn E. Richter, and Marianne A. Unger. Those honored for talent were Suzanne R. Gilbert, instrumental music; Carrie L. Johnston, drama; and Brett E. Lambert and Kathryn E. Richter, both for instrumental music.

The State Scholarship Administration of MHEC received 4,096 achievement applications, and 665 students auditioned in the talent competition. The average GPA for achievement finalists is 3.96, and the average SAT score, 1,498.

Sheriff Warns Public Of Illicit Solicitations

Garrett County Sheriff Dick Sanders warns the public of two illegitimate organizations currently attempting to solicit funds for the sheriff's office and other law enforcement agencies by telephone.

The organizations are the National Law Enforcement Officers Inc. and the National Law Enforcement Memorial Inc.

According to Sheriff Sanders, there is a National Law Enforcement Officers Memorial Fund, but it does not make telephone solicitations.

DAR's Yough Chapter Meets

The Youghiogheny Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution held its August meeting at Proctor Kildow American Legion Post 71 in Oakland last month. Regent Phyllis Trickett conducted the meeting, introducing new members and noting that Garrett County natives Rachael and Stephenie Gosnell had both graduated from the U.S. Naval Academy. The twin sisters had spoken at a previous DAR meeting.

Guest speaker Mary Jones, chairperson of the Indian Committee, was introduced by Leona Hardesty. Jones's presentation focused on the plight of Indians living on reservations, and she used charts and Indian artifacts during the program. Following her talk, DAR members made donations to the Chemawa Indian High School.

Sue Webster informed the club of her efforts in transcribing the 1880 Garrett County Census, and she submitted a sample copy. Martha Kahl and Dorothy Cathell reported on the update of the Revolutionary War booklet.

In addition to those previously mentioned, other members on hand for the meeting were Sue Weber, Mollie Zeller, Marlene Bolyard, Joycelyn Ayersman, Barbara Lee, Marianne Naylor, Pauline Parrack, Faye Taylor, Joyce Brennan, Dolores Hayden, June Thomas, Alice Penzo, Virginia Martin, Doris Adams, Katie Burke, Lillian Reckner, Sallie Gonder, and prospective member Betty Sereno.

EVERY PRESCRIPTION IS A "MIRACLE" MEDICINE

When your physician writes a prescription for you, he has selected, from the many thousands of different medicines in our prescription department, the exact one that will help you most. That is why a prescription is usually more beneficial than any over-the-counter medicine.

For, the most important part of any treatment is your physician's ability to diagnose the cause of the trouble. That diagnosis is an extra ingredient which makes each prescription a "Miracle" medicine.

The Jubilant Face of Faith

What have you heard about those who worship God? Have you heard adjectives like "do-gooders" or "boring" from those who do not know God? Hopefully not, but if you have, you need to visit His House and see for yourself. This is why...

Those who truly live by faith are happier and more peaceful than most...even and especially when the going gets rough. This is because the power of faith is greater than the sadness of our circumstances.

Sure, we are all human and feel sadness, but with faith we realize God's greater plan for our lives; with faith our spirit can soar and sadness can pass.

Psalm 68:3 proclaims... "May the righteous be glad and rejoice before God; may they be happy and joyful." Bring a friend and visit your chosen house of worship this week. Come to know those who live by faith. Discover the jubilant face of faith.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS
BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

WITH NOTHING BUT FAITH

Sept. 23, 2001

Background Scripture:
Matthew 15:21-31.
Devotional Reading:
Luke 4:16-21.

Going from Israel to the district of Tyre and Sidon was not like going from Texas to Oklahoma or from Pennsylvania to New Jersey. Israel was the home of monotheistic Judaism, while Tyre and Sidon were cities of a polyglot pagan population, including some Canaanites. So, Jesus was journeying from one world to another. So, appalled as the disciples were when they found him conversing with a Samaritan woman (John 4), they were even more shocked when Jesus was approached by a Canaanite woman.

This nameless woman had no background in Judaism; she knew nothing about the preaching and teaching of Jesus. All she knew was that this man was purported to be the Jewish Messiah and a gifted healer. So she came to Jesus, saying: "Have mercy on me, O Lord, Son of David; my daughter is severely possessed by a demon" (15:21). She had nothing to offer but her love for her daughter and a dogged persistence.

The first few times I read the following dialogue with Jesus, I was puzzled. The replies that Jesus made to her seemed totally out of keeping with the compassionate Jesus of Nazareth I had encountered up to this point. Then it occurred to me that what Jesus was voicing were not his own thoughts, but those of his disciples and others. In a sense, Jesus was putting on the Canaanite woman, fencing verbally with her so as to prod the prejudices of his disciples.

The Silent Response

To her initial plea Jesus "did not answer her a word". From time to time, Jesus responded with silence as he was silent when he bent to write with his finger in the earth before the woman taken in adultery, as he stood silent before both Herod and Pilate and on other occasions. His silence triggered an urgent request from his disciples—and perhaps that was his intention: "Send her away, for she is crying after us." They were embarrassed lest anyone should think she was one of their band. As if to support this request, Jesus finally answers the woman: "I was sent only to the lost sheep of the house of Israel."

That probably would have chased away most others, but not this persistent woman. Instead of being repulsed by his words, she came even closer to him and knelt before him saying, "Lord, help me." Notice that she does not reply to his argument about being sent only to the "lost sheep of the house of Israel." Her focus is much more simple than that: "Lord, help me." This is not theological but personal.

Jesus responds with a bit of reasoning that may have reflected the thinking of his disciples: "It is not fair to take the children's bread and throw it to the dogs." That's what Jews called the Canaanites, "dogs." That must have been what his disciples were thinking, so Jesus brought it out into the open. As the disciples probably saw it, this woman did not deserve to make any requests of their Master. But they had forgotten that no one is deserving of God's grace.

Oz returns for fifth season in 2002

By Taylor Michaels

Terry Kinney

Q: What has become of my favorite TV show, Oz? –David Garrity, West Palm Beach, Fla.

A: According to HBO, Terry Kinney, Ernie Hudson, Lee Tergesen, Rita Moreno and the rest of the cast return for a fifth eight-episode season of the violent prison drama in early 2002.

Q: Whatever happened to Barbara Bain of Mission: Impossible? –R. Stevens, Pahrump, Nev.

A: Now 66, the first actress to win three consecutive Emmys (for Mission) is a familiar face on the Los Angeles theater scene and also works for various charities, including BookPals, a Screen Actors Guild program she founded to work with L.A. students. More information is available online at www.barbarabain.net. Juliet Landau, Bain's daughter with ex-husband Martin Landau, has had a recurring role on Buffy the Vampire Slayer and Angel.

Q: I noticed an actor named Sam Rockwell in The Green Mile and the Charlie's Angels movie. What can you tell me about him? Is he a "new face," or have I just noticed him now? –D. Eakes, Galena, Kan.

A: The versatile Rockwell, 32, has been honing his craft for more than a decade, but he really broke out with critics in a little-seen 1996 movie called Box of Moon Light, followed by an award-winning performance in the independent film Lawn Dogs.

Now, Rockwell is attracting the attention of mainstream moviegoers in the two hits you mentioned, as well as his hilarious turn as oily Guy Fleegman in the comedy Galaxy Quest. The stage-trained actor spent several days this past summer at Williamstown in two one-act plays, and currently is featured in the dark Vince Vaughn-Jon Favreau movie comedy Made.

Rockwell has four other films lined up for future release: Heist, Pretzel, 13 Moons and Welcome to Collinwood.

Q: What was the name of the theme song to Silver Spoons? –Bob Saums, Village of Palm Springs, Fla.

A: "Together" by Bob Wirth and Rik Howard opened like this: "Here we are, face to face, a couple of silver spoons, hoping to find we're two of a kind, making it go, making it grow."

Q: Was that the actor who used to play Pee-wee Herman hosting the show You Don't Know Jack? My daughter says it was. –Joanne C. Miller, Suring, Wisc.

A: Yes, "Troy Stevens," the smarmy host of Jack, was another alter ego of Paul Reubens, the actor best known for playing Pee-wee Herman in movies and on television.
